Red Saunders

By

HENRY WALLACE PHILLIPS.

Copyright, 1902, by McClure, Phillips & Company.

(Continued from Last Week.)

"I know just how you feel about that," said Red. "My hair used to be [illegible] most of the time when we [illegible] the hay camp at the lake beds. [illegible] The rattlers! We put hair [illegible] them rattlers liked [illegible] hair ropes for exercise. [illegible] I woke up and there was [illegible] chest. For God's [illegible] sake I'm Antelope Pete, [illegible] up out me, 'cometake [illegible] and I didn't holler [illegible] Pete was chain [illegible] and he grabs Mr. [illegible] rattlesnake snips up neck. [illegible] bottle in my bottle till [illegible] You bet! I know just [illegible] exactly. I didn't have a [illegible] while we was [illegible] the country."

[illegible] that the cases [illegible] "A rattlesnake [illegible] Will!" she cried, with [illegible]

Colds and Croup in Children

"My little girl is subject to colds," says Mrs. Wm. H. Serig, No 41, Fifth St., Wheeling, W. Va. "Last winter she had a severe spell and a terrible cough but I cured her with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without the aid of a doctor, and my little boy has been relieved many times from croup by the timely use of this remedy. It is for sale by all druggists.

MR CARMICHAEL'S PROTEST

Ocala, Nov. 26, 1907.

To the Editor Ocala Banner:

Mr. Carmichael, according to his article in the Star of yesterday, is to be slightly worried as to the question of rights, and asks a question. As he has seen fit to name me, I shall try to set at rest as far as I am personally concerned. Now, as to my rights, so far as the rights of others are at issue, I have the rights of any other citizen, no more. If I had position as a person on the jury, for any reason legal, I would not be entitled to more rights as a citizen than the supervisor of registration. I have no legal right, and no official thing and no moral right to do an immoral thing, so far as the restoration list is concerned, or anything else. So much for myself in the matter. Now, just a few words as to what I have done. I have served on every jury of war the grand and petit juries generally on which I have served, and will probably continue to do so. I do not, however, like to be placed in the position of being a mere cipher, or a rubber stamp, or a tool to be used by the other officers of the court. I am not willing