THE DAILY EMPIRE.

A National Debt a National Blessing.

This dogma has of late been frequently paraded before the people, by the Republican papers and politicians, with a view of reconciling public sentiment to the payment, and consequent removal of this great "blessing," in the shortest time possible. If the advocates of this dogma truly regard it as a "blessing," why do they reject every attempt of the Southern States to return to their old place in the Union, that they may become partakers of this "blessing" Perhaps it is upon the principle that the South has forfeited her right to "blessings" of every kind, whether in the shape of national debts or a free Republican Government.

This Smacks of Treason.

The Secretary of the Treasury made some very Democratic, and, therefore, treasonable assertions in his Report, chief among which we notice the following:

"I am satisfied that no State can be governed under a republican form of government where three-fourths of the people, embracing the largest tax-payers, are disfranchised and denied a voice in making or executing the laws of the State."

This is directly in the teeth of the test-oath system of disfranchisement, adopted by Congress relative to the South. That it is sound doctrine can not be denied, but we are surprised that the well-merited rebuke should come from such a source. It is pretty clear that the Secretary does not affiliate with the radical wing of his party. Let us hope that enough of such outspoken conservatives may yet be found, to thwart the despotic schemes of the fanatics and demagogues of the dominant party.

The Chicago Times of Monday, says: Our Washington advices say that President Johnson insists that the Tennessee delegation shall be admitted to Congress. It is reported that a majority in both houses will accede to his wishes in the matter. It is very right, if the President can not get in all the Southern States, that he should get in as many as he can. After he gets Tennessee in, let him "insist" that another shall be admitted. "Insisting" was the business of Congress not long ago when dealing with the late President, and it proved to be very effective. "Pressure" now seems to come from an opposite direction. It is very desirable, if Congress admits the Tennessee delegation, that it should give a reason for so doing while excluding the others.

Nepotism.—The New York Tribune greatly lauds the conduct of Collector Thomas, of Philadelphia, for paying out of his private fortune the $60,000 embezzled by the late cashier of the Custom House." The Tribune possibly does not know that the embezzlement" was a forcible robbery of the Custom House safe, and that the departed thief was Colonel Thomas' nephew, who was arrested, but allowed to escape. Colonel Thomas was compelled to make good the amount, to save himself, and the "liberality," applauded by the Tribune, virtually resolves itself into the criminality of "compounding a felony."

The Test Oath of Members of Congress.

The following is the test oath of office enacted by Congress in 1862, about which we hear so much now-a-days:

Chapter CXXVIII.—An act to prescribe an Oath of Office and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That hereafter every person elected or appointed to office of honor or profit under the Government of the United States, either in the civil, military, or naval departments of the public service, excepting the President of the United States, shall, before entering upon the duties of such office, and before being entitled to any of the salary or other emoluments thereof, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation:

I, A B, do solemnly swear, (or affirm) that I have never voluntarily borne arms against the United States since I have been a citizen thereof; that I have voluntarily given no aid, countenance, counsel or encouragement to persons engaged in armed hostility thereto; that I have neither sought, nor accepted, nor attempted to exercise the functions of any office whatever, under any authority or pretended authority in hostility to the United States; that I have not yielded a voluntary support to any pretended government, authority, power or Constitution within the United States, hostile or inimical thereto.

And I do further swear (or affirm) that to the best of my knowledge and ability, I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion, that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter, so help me God;" which said oath so taken and signed, shall be preserved among the files of the Court, House of Congress, or department to which the said office may appertain.

And any person who shall falsely take the said oath shall be guilty of perjury, and, on conviction, in addition to the penalties now prescribed for that offense, shall be deprived of his office and rendered incapable forever after of holding any office or place under the United States.

Approved July 2, 1862.

Arrangements have been made in New York by the police telegraph, so that, soon after a fire, its location will be known in all the police stations.

The Highland Democrat.

Our friend of "Auld Lang Syne"—Colonel Sam. Pike—has again mounted the editorial tripod. He has commenced the publication of the Highland Democrat, at Hillsboro', in this State, the first number of which we have received. The Colonel is a sound Democrat, a racy writer, and has the ability to make a good paper. We extract the following from his opening address. It has the ring of the true old-fashioned Democratic doctrine, and we commend it to the careful perusal of our readers:

"Upon the existing state of parties in Ohio, and throughout the country, much might be appropriately said, on this occasion; but it would extend this address beyond the usual limits allotted to such homilies; therefore, let it suffice to say, that the idea which some lily informed political parasites have attempted to promulgate, that the Democratic party is dead, is a mere chimera of the brain that has periodically afflicted that race of sycophants for the past forty years, to say the least of it.

"The same song has been sung on every occasion, when the opposition to the Democracy have either by fraud or accident, happened to elect a President, since the days of the elder Adams. Federalism, in some one of its various guises, have never failed to have the Democratic party dead and buried at every period of time that it has had temporary success, since the days of Jefferson; but the people have never yet failed to resurrect its defunct body, and never will.

"Abolitionism and fanaticism, though triumphant now, are doomed to a speedy and a certain defeat, and an overthrow that will be more humiliating in its results than any calamity that has ever yet come upon the Democracy; because it will not only die, but be buried so deep beneath its own corruption, that the hand of resurrection can never raise it. On the other hand, Democracy, like the solar king of Day emerging from behind a dark cloud, will shine forth with renewed brightness, diffusing its bright rays among the people and sending joy and gladness to the hearts of millions of freemen.

"Democracy is a never-dying principle. It is lasting as time; firm as the everlasting hills; fixed as the laws of the Medes and Persians, and as immutable as the principle of Eternal Truth itself. To talk of a party imbued with such a principle and governed by its unerring dictates, being dead, is but sheer nonsense. It will rise in due season, as in times past, stronger and more potent than before; roll back the tide by which it was submerged for a season, and again stand forth in all its dignity and grandeur, as powerful and unconquerable as it was before the Rebellion.

"A consciousness of this fact is what so sorely annoys and perplexes certain leaders of the self-styled Union party at present. They see the ominous hand writing upon the wall, and know that their days are numbered. The people know this, and in due season will give all such men to understand that "Democracy carries the flag and keeps step to the music of the Union;" that their services to the Government can be dispensed with, and that the Democracy are as far from being dead now, as they were at the close of the Administration of President Tyler.

"The party in power will end its career in less than four years—perhaps in one. Held together by the love of office and the "cohesive power of public plunder" alone, it cannot, and will not, long survive It will fall to pieces of its own corruption, and the conservative men of the country, the pure, patriotic, and incorruptible Democracy again come into power; the Federalism, in its new guise and all its deformity, will again attempt to hide its hideous head in confusion, sham and despair. This change is as inevitable as the end of time, and no rational man can, for a moment, doubt it. The history of parties in this country fully justifies such a prediction, and nothing short of a total destruction of our form of Government by the party in power, or the interposition of Heaven, can prevent its recurrence again."

Bad Feature of the Times.

A few persons have become suddenly very rich, and can afford, therefore, to be very extravagant, and are so. Others, heretofore the social equals, perhaps superiors of this shoddy aristocracy, and who have not been lucky enough to get Government contracts or positions of great profit, and have been too honest to rob the Treasury, still feel unwilling to fall behind the snobbs in display, and, to keep up with them, spend all they make, or earn, and more too. Yes, it is a fact that many persons, especially young people who have acquired a taste for display and amusements, now spend all and even more than their means. This is a sad mistake. They must have the independence, the moral courage to cease this habit, and act economically and prudently, or in a few months, when times become harder and business becomes dull, and situations can not be had, unless at very low wages, they will go under entirely—Indianapolis Herald.

Negro Question in Washington.

The special Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, says that the negroes of the District of Columbia have sent a petition to Congress for the right of suffrage, signed by twelve thousand names, and that the municipal authorities will resist it, even to the surrender of the city charter if Congress will accept it, thus disfranchising the whites as well as blacks.

Postal Statistics.—During the year ending June 30, 465,000,000 of letters passed through the mails of the United States, at a cost to the writers of $13,983,350 87. As this amount does not include the States lately in rebellion, it makes an average of a little over twenty letters a year for every man, woman and child in the country.

Dayton Empire.—This old and able journal, after a short suspension, has risen, phœnix-like, from its ashes, invigorated by its temporary prostration. It has come forth under the management of Messrs. H. H. Robinson and D. G. Fitch. The paper has gone through various vicissitudes, from the assassination of one editor and the imprisonment of another, to the destruction of the office by a mob. We wish it every success in its resuscitation.—Wabash Valley Times.

The health of Jeff. Davis and Clement C. Clay, at Fortress Monroe, is said to be good.

Generals Longstreet and Loring have arrived at New Orleans. The former thinks of locating there permanently.

Fitz Henry Warren, of Iowa, has accepted the mission to Guatemala, and will soon leave for that country.

We have seldom seen truth more cogently expressed than in the following extract from the Baltimore Sun:

"Vain will be all efforts to restore public confidence; vain all attempts to reduce the national expenditures, or effect a reduction of the army from its present huge proportions, on the part of the Executive; vain all efforts to restore our finances to that order and stability which are essential to protect the commercial interests of the country from sudden collapse; vain all the labors of statesmen and patriots, if Congress shall pursue such a suicidal policy. Anarchy and financial ruin, twin sisters of horror, hardly less fatal than the devastations of the four years' war we have endured, must be the consequence, should Congress hesitate to tread the path of justice and conciliation."

Alexander H. Stephens peremptorily declines an election to the United States Senate.

The Georgia Legislature was at last accounts occupying their time in the discussion of the rights of the negro in all its bearings. No result has been had on the question to allow them the privileges common to whites.

It is rumored that certain British capitalists have offered to loan the United States money on the long six per cent. bonds.

In the House yesterday a resolution to admit the Tennessee members elect to the privileges of the floor was laid on the table by a strict party vote.

RHEUMATISM.

Spring Valley, Green Co., Ohio, October 2, 1865.

MR. B. MISHLER,

Respected Sir: For the benefit of the afflicted, I wish to publicly make known that, I have been wonderfully afflicted, with Rheumatism, so much so, that I was compelled to lay down, and there lay for weeks at a time, and when I did get up; had to go for weeks at a stretch on my crutches, suffering all the time the most excruciating pains that living mortal ever suffered. I am in the Drug and Grocery business at this place, and about four weeks ago my clerk was at Dayton, Ohio, and your agent W. W. Stewart, of that place, gave him a few of your papers and I read them, and, by your liberal offer to refund the money if a cure was not effected, I felt resolved to give it one fair trial, and immediately ordered two dozen, thinking I could use some and sell some, but I only got one dozen and it went right off. I then procured three dozen more, and it is selling very fast.

I wish here to state publicly, that I am now in better health than I have been for the last ten years. I suffer no pain—have a better appetite than for many years before. I am now 67 years of age, and I feel almost as well as I did at the age of 45. Hundreds can testify to my case. I have been in the Drug business in this place for ten years, and am known far and wide. I want my case published, in order that the world may know the healing virtues of your bitters Furthermore, I wish to have the sole Agency of this county, wholesale and retail, provided you grant agencies of that kind. You will oblige me very much by sending me a circular of terms and prices; and if all is satisfactory, I will take an agency—not that I want to make a fortune at the business, but desire it to be the means, as much as lays in my power, of relieving my fellow-man of the suffering that many have to endure.

Yours truly,
