GEN. WEAVER'S BOOMLET.

A Republican Organ Afraid that Certain Railroad Men Are Preparing to Adopt It.

From the Globe-Democrat.

General G. B. Weaver, candidate for president on the people's party ticket, spent yesterday in the city. He was taken in charge by the railway magnates and sumptuously feasted at the Mercantile club rooms. Colonel James F. Home, vice president of the Wabash; Colonel S W Fordice, president of the St. Louis and Southwestern; H. S. Priest, general attorney for the Missouri Pacific; F. W. Lehman, general attorney for the Wabash and Colonel J. E Case, president of the Mercantile club, constituted the dinner party. Here was indeed a novel and touching combination, the lion and the lamb lying down together. It has been said that when such things occur the lamb is invariably inside of the lion, and there is at present much speculation as to whether the rule has a probable or even a possible exception. When it was discovered that the champion of the people, or at least of the people's party, has his unpolished brogan under the same mahogany with the railway magnates, the rumor got afloat—as rumors will in presidential year, when various persons and parties are making frantic efforts to save the country—that the railroads had taken the little boomlet of the great Iowa contortionist under their wing and were determined to see that naught befell it until it was strong enough to make itself felt as well as heard. Just what the railroads want with the political infant of various and uncertain parentage no one seems to exactly know, but, like Ah Sin, they are credited with being adepts in ways that are dark and tricks that are vain, and the political wisacres insisted that there was some kind of a combine afloat. Perhaps the railway owners wanted him elected so they could sell out to the government at a fat profit; perhaps they were going to use him as a club to knock the sawdust out of another boom. Certain it is that the people's party needs campaign funds, and needs them almighty bad. Chairman Taubeneck had said so; the rest of the executive committee had agreed to the proposition. General Weaver had himself intimated that a campaign could not be run exclusively on wind. Now, the railroads have money galore, and are popularly supposed to stand ever ready to put it where it would do the most good. Hence the flutter among the political mind readers, the heart palpitation among those who are "out for de stuff."

A Globe-Democrat reporter heard that General Weaver was anchored at the festive board with a number of representatives of that class whom the orthodox people's party man supposes is doing the vampire act and sucking the blood of the infant republic. He hastened to the scene and found the hope of Ocala and Ohama wiping off his chin. He call him to one side and said, "Can such things be? Hast no regard for thy reputation as a reformer? Hast forgotten the fable of Old Dog Tray and the proverb about pitch?" But the man who once aspired to save the country by the greenback catholicon, and would now inject into its throbbing veins a horse syringe full of bichloride of silver, laid his hand upon his heart and declared that, while circumstantial evidence might be against him, he could honestly plead not guilty. He had come to the city in the morning a pilgrim and a stranger, and F. W. Lehman took him in. He used to know Lehman in Des Moines, Ia., when they practiced at the same bar, lived on the same street and bought fish bait at the same stand. Naturally, when he came to St. Louis with his boom securely packed in his carpetsack he hunted Lehman up and showed it to him. Lehman admired it and suggested that they take it over to the Mercantile club and put it on exhibition. They did so, and that was all. It was simply a social feed and there was nary a deal afoot. Mr. Priest corroborated the story, as did President Case, Mr. Lehman and others. Every man denied that the railroaders had any thought of adopting General Weaver's presidential boomlet or assisting it to expand into a thing of beauty and a joy forever. But politics is a peculiar game and people will talk. The railroaders hoped that General Weaver's sociability would not result in his party casting him overboard and nominating Methodist Jim Davis of Texas. They begged to assure the gentlemen who got together at Omaha and whereased and resolved that General Weaver was all right, so far as they knew, and well worthy of such votes as they saw fit to waste next November. Their anxiety for their guest was something touching, but then terrapin sauce and Veuve Cliquot incline to sentimentality, and this should not be too closely scanned.

Washington, D. C., July 14.—In the house to-day Representative Scott introduced for reference a bill making it unlawful for any railroad steamboat or other transportation company doing an interstate transportation or carry business to transport or permit to be transported over its lines any body of armed men whether assuming to act as a detective or police force or not; provided that this act shall not apply to those engaged in the military service of the United States or any state, territory or the district of Columbia. Furthermore, that any owner, president, manager, officer, or employe of any interstate transportation company, upon a conviction for violation of this act, shall be fined a sum not less than $5,000 imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, in the discretion of court. Any person or corporation violating the provisions of this act shall be liable to the person injured, in person or property, by such organized armed body of men, to be recovered in any court having jurisdiction of similar causes.

Explosion in a Coal Mine.

Mashall, Mo., July 13.—Late last night an explosion of naphtha in the Tuck coal mine, near Waverly, resulted in the death of Andy Francisco, and the probably fatal injury to Henry Chriman. The mine contains about ten feet of water. Mr. Francisco, the superintendent, and Mr. Chrisman went down the shaft to repair the pump, which had been used in pumping the water out. They carried with them a small oil lamp, and had nearly reached the bottom when the gas coming in contact with the flame caused a terrible explosion. Mr. Chrisman was blown nearly out of the mine and rescued. His arm was broken and his body was badly burned and bruised. Mr. Francisco was blown into the water, but up to to-night his body had not been recovered.

ST. JOHNS AWFUL PLIGHT.

Its Homeless People Dying From Exposure and Others Are Crazed.

St. Johns, Newfoundland, July 12—Every lawyer's office, doctor's residence and office and Protestant clergyman's residence was burned, and every daily newspaper and every printing office destroyed, and there is not type, paper or ink enough remaining in the city for a single poster. Several homeless persons have died since the fire in consequence of the fright and exposure. Most of the people are now temporarily housed in sheds and tents, but provisions and clothing are needed, and the relief should take these forms.

The insurance agents held a meeting to-day. Their reports showed that losses covered by insurance placed in agencies amount to $4,250,000. The estimated total of losses is about $15,000,000. Following are the chief sums held by the different insurance companies: Phœnix of London, $750,000; Manchester, $600,000; Royal, $500,000; Queen, $550,000; London and Lancashire, $500,000; Liverpool, London and Globe, $375,000; Imperial, $250,000; North British and Mercantile, $235,000; Guardian, $200,000; Commercial Union, $200,000; Sun, $150,000; General, $120,000; Atlas, $100,000; Lion, $50,000; London Association, $50,000; City of London, $37,000; Northern, $200,000; Norwich Union, $45,000; Phœnix of Hartford, $35,000; Lancashire, $28,000; Citizens', $20,000.

Several persons have been sent to the lunatic asylum to-day, their minds having been unbalanced owing to their losses by the fire.

Received Forty Bullets.

West Plains, Mo., July 12.—News has just reached here of the killing of W. A. Twiggs, an alleged accomplice of Roper in the killing of Sheriff Byler of Baxter county, Arkansas. He was located with his crowd in a barn in Ozark county, this state, by a posse of Baxter county citizens. While attempting to break through the lines he was killed, 40 bullets being found in his body. His son, Joe, was arrested and taken back to Baxter county to be tried for the killing of Roper, provided he is not previously tried by judge Lynch. The Twiggs were heavily armed but none of the posse were hurt.

Good Looks.

Good looks are more than skin deep, depending upon a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the liver be inactive, you have a billious look, if your stomach be disordered you have a dispeptic look and if your kidneys be affected you have a pinched. Secure good health and you will have good looks. Electric Bitters is the great alterative and tonic and acts directly on these vital organs. Bob Ford's Slayer Sentenced.

Lake City, Col., July 12.—Edward O. Kelly, who killed Bob Ford, the slayer of Jesse James, was to day sentenced to be imprisoned for life at hard labor. He claims that he was convicted because of false swearing of the witnesses.

Crying for Food.

Montgomery, Ala., July 13.—Gov. Jones has received information from Gainesville, Sumter county, that a number of people had been rendered destitute by the overflow, and asks him to appeal to congress for an appropriation for their relief. One of these letters says: "The people are without the means of subsistence for even twenty four hours." Another letter says: "A large population along the creeks and living in the Tombigbee bottoms are now in a destitute condition, and their sufferings will increase with every hour. The merchants would be willing to aid them, but they have not the means."

The Governor telegraphed Hon. Deloach Livingston that application for help from such sources had been denied by Congress in its present session and that the state would have to take care of its destitute. He stated the State law did not allow him to touch one dollar in the treasury for such purposes. He suggested that the county bear the burden if possible, and he would recommend to the next legislature a repayment. A reply came that the destitution in Sumter county was so great that it would bankrupt the county to undertake to relieve the destitute even temporarily. In addition to the overflow of the Tombigbee and Noxubee Rivers, the Sucharnochie River, running diagonally across the county, and other large streams have been higher than ever before known.

The Governor issued a proclamation to day calling on the people of the state to contribute to the relief of the destitute people in Sumpter county. A request is made of the Mayors in the cities in alabama to appoint committees at once to take steps toward receiving and getting contributions. A report from the overflowed region to night pictures the sufferings of the people there in distressing terms.

Joe Jefferson's Friend.

St. Louis Chronicle.

"Joe Jefferson," said an old theater goer, "had taken a lady to a restaurant and when he put his hand in his pocket to pay his bill he didn't find a penny. He explained his position to the cashier, but the cashier didn't know him. The perspiration began to ooze, when a gentleman stepped us, laid a $20 bill on the desk and said: 'I know you, sir; allow me to settle.' Jefferson was profuse in his thanks, and when near the door said: "You must give me your name and address, sir, in order that I may call around to morrow and settle.' 'Never mind that,' said the stranger with a smile, 'that was a counterfeit and I got $17 in change."
