Miss Dorothy Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bell of this city, is another Cape girl to finish school this year, with high honors. Miss Bell has just graduated from the Curry School of Expression at Boston, and was not only one of the most popular girls of her class, but is considered among the cleverest artists of her work at the institution. During her visit with her parents at Christmas, Miss Bell's many friends had the pleasure of hearing her at several local affairs, and also to enjoy her clever dancing, and they are eagerly looking forward to her return home, where she will be warmly received as a charming addition to the younger society set. Miss Bell is at present in Montreal visiting friends, and will stop for a short time with Captain and Mrs. Alt in Virginia, before returning to the Cape.

Mrs. E. G. Gramling has as her guest Mrs. Milton Haas of Sikeston. Mrs. Haas won fifth place in the "driving race" at the Fair Grounds Friday.

The reception given for the visiting ladies at the Elk's Club Thursday afternoon was a most delightful affair. The rooms were elaborately decorated, and made a pretty setting for the hostesses and their guests in their dainty costumes. Punch and refreshments were served by the younger society girls, whom it must be said were the prettiest set of "Buds" Cape Girardeau has seen together in some time. Misses Rachel Howell and Irene Clopton delighted everyone with beautiful piano solos, and the Victrola furnished by Mr. Clark, made inspiring music for the young folks who wished to dance.

The Ball Thursday evening was largely attended, and with the "perfectly wonderful" music played by Poepping's Orchestra, the Tangoers had the time of their lives in spite of the excessive heat.

Let out of door life at this season claim all one's leisure moments. The house should be but the adjunct to the porch and yard. Lunch, when possible, among the trees or on the porch. Bring from the woods wild flowers and mass them in every possible nook and cranny that they may wood you from the house into the open air.

On June 14, 15, and 16 the Sisters of St. Vincent's Academy will celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of their coming to Cape Girardeau. These religious have founded a school in our city, that has been one of the widest known educational institutions in this part of the state, and one that will continue to grow, as the years roll on, under the splendid training of these competnt teachers. It has graduated many daughters of the Cape, their daughters and granddaughters, who will be present and take part in the exercises planned for this noted occasion. The program for the three days will open Sunday morning at 9 o'clock with a Solemn Mass at St. Vincent's Church, at which Father P. V. Byrne of Perryville will deliver the sermon, this worthy prelate gave the sermon at the celebration of the Golden Jubilee. At 3:30 Sunday afternoon the Alumnae will entertain at the Convent, and everyone interested in this Academy is invited to be present and enjoy the celebration with the nuns and pupils. Monday the day will be opened with a Solemn Mass at the Convent Chapel, at four p. m. the closing exercises for the little girls will take place, and at 6 o'clock the Alumnae Banquet will be held at the Convent. Tuesday morning the celebration will conclude with the graduating exercises. Father Coffee of St. Louis will deliver the graduating address.

The local pupils request that every one join in and show their appreciation of the work of these well beloved teachers, and the good they have accomplished for our city.

The beautiful Stehr home was the center of a most fashionable and attractive assemblage Monday afternoon when Mrs. Charles Stehr and Mrs. H. A. Nussbaum entertained with a Musical Tea, in honor of Mrs. T. W. Osterloh, of Joplin, sister of Mrs. Stehr. One hundred invitations had been issued, including many out of town guests, and the spacious rooms afforded ample room for all those attending. The color scheme of green, white and red were carried out in the artistic decorations of the home, and in the delicious refreshments served during the afternoon. The large table in the dining room held a most original and beautiful centerpiece, a huge basket filled with tempting red cherries, and an outer foliage of dark green leaves, and throughout the other rooms smaller baskets were used in this novel arrangement, making a most charming effect. Assisting the hostesses were Mrs. E. A. Hayden, and Mrs. J. D. Porterfield, who served the tea and ices. In the dining room were Mesdames Wm. Bergman, Fred Naeter, George Waters, Harry Coffman, and Misses Kathryn Himmelberger, Pauline Beckman and Irna Lynxweiler. Serving in the parlor were Mesdames Hal Moore and and A. S. Duckworth. The program could not have been more pleasingly selected or enjoyed by the visitors of the afternoon, than that which was rendered at this delightful affair and with these well known and accomplished musicians, it would be difficult to find a more talented gathering. The following were the selections of the program.

N. C. Goodwin, the famous actor said at the Players' Club in New York.

"There is an evil lad, the old-fashioned, Chesterfield type of man today. Today is the day of the maxine, the slicked shirt and the cigarette. With these the Chesterfield type cannot cope.

"I never heard two girls talk at Sherry's. They were calling one smoking cigarettes in long slender tubes and swinging their slim silken ankles in and out of the slits in their skirts.

"Tired, said the girl and heaved one solemnly on the tenderloin steak I accepted him. Wasn't that funny?

"If a man kissed me on the forehead, said the other girl, I'd call him down. Yes, sir, I'd call him down I tell you."
