Guard Your Horses.

This is the season, says M. H. Reynolds, of the veterinary division at University Farm, when the careful farmer should take precautions against Azoturia. This takes horses in good condition that have been working rather regularly on full feed and then on account of storm or for other reasons are laid off, even for a day. The horses seems to get stiff or lame in one, then perhaps in both hind legs, loses control of affected limbs and is unable to stand He goes down, the legs appearing to be more or less paralyzed and the muscles of the hind quarter and loin may seem to swell and be very hard. Most cases sweat profusely. The urine is dark. Such a case should be gotten on to a stone boat and hauled to shelter. Competent veterinarian should then be sent for. Such cases are not for home treatment. Prevent azoturia by exercising idle horses and reducing feed.

Back from Overseas.

Alfred J Anderson arrived home last Saturday from Camp Dodge, Iowa, having been discharged from furthur military service. Alfred left with the Kandiyohi county delegation, June 24th, 1918 and about a month later arrived overseas. Alfred was in the infantry of the 86th Division and later was transferred to the 37th Division. Mr. Anderson did not see any active service but was on his way to the Front when he was taken ill with influenza.—Belgrade Tribune.

OBSERVATIONS

(By a Cornfield Philosopher).

XXXV—LEGISLATIVE LETTER
Final Review.

The Legislature has adjourned and its doings are now a matter of history. A majority of its members were elected on the "fake" issue of loyalty, mislead of the real issues that concern the people of this great State. Why do I call it a "fake" issue? Simply because the "issue" was dropped the moment the election was over, and "loyalty" was not mentioned duing the entire session.

But when the Legislature convened and commenced business, the real issues could no longer be ignored. In order to "head off" the Nonpartisan League and minimize the influence of its two dozen representatives in the House, the reactionary leaders led by Adams and Warner, held a meeting very soon after the result of the election was ascertained, and elected a Speaker from their own ranks in the person of W. I. Nolan, representating a Silk Stocking district of Minneapolis—a man entirely acceptable to the Steel Trust, and other big business interests.

Having about one-fifth of the members, the League was justly entitled to a like proportional representation on all of the important Committees. But this consideration was entirely ignored, indeed many of the Committees appear to have even been "packed" for a special purpose. The Committee on Judiciary which is composed of all the lawyers, had but one League member, Mr. Berve.

The great Committee on Appropriations which spends the people's money by the tens of millions had not a single Leaguer among its 31 members. The 15 members of the Committee on Banks and Banking, the 19 on Elections, the 16 on Military Affairs, the 7 on Rules, were all minus League membership. But scant representation was allowed on other Committees. For instance, the Committee on Taxes had but one Leaguer among its 21 members. The Committee on Civil Administration had three of its 15 members who belonged to the League. These Committees not only had the power to shape legislation but they could report back Bills that the plunderbund wanted passed for early action, and pigeon hole and delay bills in the interest of the people.

As an example, The Fittenger bill to abolish the Safety Commission was introduced on the second day of the Session, lay in this Committee more than sixty days, in fact never was reported out, but was finally called up under a rule of the House. Yet this bill passed when it was reached by a vote of 108 to 11, but not in time to receive due consideration in the Senate,

The Best Bill.

Probably the best Act of the Legislature is the passage of the Constitutional Amendment introduced by Mr. Lanquist in the Senate and by Mr. Wicklund in the House, and which reads as follows, after striking out the present $200 exemption on personal property "And there may be exempted from taxation household goods, wearing apparel, agricultural products in the possession of the possessor thereof and tools, implements and machinery to such an extent and in such manner as the Legislature may determine. Taxes may be imposed on incomes, privileges and occupations, which taxes may be graduated and progressive, and the exemption of a reasonable amount of income from taxation may be provided for. Such taxes may be in lieu of taxes on any class or classes of personal property as the Legislature may determine." Put this provision in the Constitution and then elect a fearless Nonpartisan Legislature and the burdens of Government may be placed on the fellows drawing big incomes, greatly to the relief of the common people—especially farmers.

Some Good Laws.

Several acts of real merit got passed along with many that are more or less questionable. Among them are the following: A law requiring the Stock Yards to furnish sanitary feed and watering troughs for stock. A law requiring railroads to furnish sanitary individual drinking cups free of charge on all passenger trains.

A law to regulate and encourage the formation of Co-operative associations of every description. This is an excellent measure designed to help boost farmers stores, shipping associations, creameries and other like enterprises.

To Improve the Highways.

The Constitutional Amendment to put the location of some 9,000 miles of designated highways in the Constitution, and authorizing a bond issue of $100,000,000, one hundred million of dollars, passed both houses and will be voted on by the people at the next regular election.

It is no secret that this peculiar plan was adopted to head off the program of the Nonpartisan League. An amendment of a few words merely empowering the Legislature to enter upon a comprehensive system of road improvement would have been amply sufficient, but the re-actionary leaders feared that this provision might be taken advantage of by the League to establish State owned Warehouses and Terminal elevators, to which they are very much opposed. In addition to this a law was enacted authorizing the County Boards to issue $250,000 by a unanimous vote and the half of this sum by a four-fifths vote to anticipate this scheme of road building to be reimbursed if the Amendment carries.

Couldn't Agree.

The State wide primary law is still alive and doing business greatly to the disgust of stuffpat politicians. This is mainly due from the "Folks at home" who read the unbought newspapers and were therefore fully informed as to what was taking place at the seat of government.

The House passed the Bill to emasculate though not entirely destroy the law, but the Senate held back till late in the Session and then decided to let the law alone but to provide for a party convention to precede the primaries at which party nominees for Congress and State officials would be made to go on the primary ballot, names to be followed by the words "endorsed by the party Convention." Of course, under this system the primary would be merely a sort of a ratification arrangement. The House members got stubborn and the scheme fell through.

A Potent Force in Good Government.

It cannot be denied that the militant organization farmers were the power behind the throne in promoting the good legislation that got by, and in the defeat of the efforts to destroy the Direct Primary, to pass the notorious Warner Street Car, the Motor Corps, and Free Railroad pass bills and measures of this character. Not only did the boys in the trenches put up a stiff fight but the Home Guards back on the farms who were reading of the doings at the Capitol in honest, fearless and truthful newspapers, exerted a powerful influence in shaping legislation. The politicians in the Legislature are scared at the League and hedged against the impending day of wrath by supporting some good measures.

The Senate, A Graveyard.

The Senate was a graveyard for Nonpartisan bills that got by the House. For instance, Mr. Burdorf (League) got a bill past the House "with 97 yeas and no nays" early in the Session, providing for township ditches and local assessments to pay for the same, designed to drain the marsh lands of a local nature, in which many farmers are interested, but it received no consideration from the Drainage Committee in the House.

A Love Feast.

The "wets" and the "drys" got together and held a sort of love feast over the bone dry prohibitions or law enforcement bill. They threshed out their differences and harmonized so well that the Conference Committee went through the Senate unanimously and practically so in the House. The law will not go into effect if the National dry Amendment is set aside by the Supreme Court. So much was conceded to the Wets; but the Drys knocked out the two percent beer clause and had their way pretty much in everything else.

The Increase in Salaries.

In spite of the best efforts of League members and others who made an effort to keep down taxes and the expenses of government there has been an almost universal increase in the salaries of public officials, largely through the instrumentality of special bills.

It is apparently very difficult for us ordinary members to resist the request of a friend holding a public office to introduce a bill to boost his salary a trifle "to meet the high cost of living." Having introduced the measure the accommodating Representative or Senator feels that his reputation as a "live wire" or "valuable legislator" depends on his getting the bill through and he begins to trade votes. District Court judges had their salaries raised from $4,200 to $4,800, some lawyers saying that they did not dare to actively oppose the scheme because they might displease the judges before whom they had to practice.

The State University.

The University gets about a half million a year special tax extending over a period of ten years for building purposes.

Soldiers' and Sailors' scholarships.

Every honorably discharged soldier and sailor gets a $200 scholarship for his own use in any school or college which has the approval of the State Board of Education. It was originally intended that this should only apply to State institutions, but was finally modified as noted, so that the beneficiary may attend the school of his choice.

The Newman Drainage Bill.

The Newman Drainage Bill providing for a State Drainage Commissioner passed at the last moment in spite of the opposition of Theo. Christianson. Everybody got an increase in their pay, except members themselves.

Notes.

The legislature has finally adjourned on the last day and the last hour it could legally remain in session. Lots of bills got through in the final rush with little or no consideration. The people will be in great luck if it is not found later that some of them contained "jokers" in the interest of the privileged classes.

The Governor could not stand to have one little bill introduced by a Nonpartisan League member to get by and become a law. So he vetoed the Watch Bill forbidding the use of oleo on the tables in state institutions as a substitute for butter. All of the creameries and butter producers in the state were naturally interested in this measure. Mr. Welch made a brave effort to pass it over his veto and only failed by a single vote. The members from dairy districts who voted to sustain the Governor incidentally to "protect" oleo, are Adams, Baxter, Bouck, Briggs, Enger, Hote, Harrison, Haugland, Hinds, Long, McPartlin, Moen, Parker, Prince, Putnam, Shanks and Oscar Swenson. Any one of them could have saved the bill so far as the House is concerned. See if your member is in this list.

The attempt of a few honest but deluded members to adopt a policy somewhere between the big business interests and the League program was not a wonderful success. As the League members generally voted solid on important measures there was no place for them to stand except with the League or against it. So they "wobbled" first on one side and then on the other.

• • •

Mr. Bendixen of Redwood made the best House record of any one outside of the League. He refused to "take orders," and smoked out the Governor on the tonnage tax, an offense for which he likely will never be forgiven by the Burnquist worshippers. He also with Grant and Hale stood by the Direct Primary Law under powerful pressure from the reactionaries.

The excuse some well-intentioned members of the House made because they did not fight for good bills to the limit was that the Senate would kill them anyway or the Governor veto them. So to push them through the House would be simply wasting time. But this excuse is far-fetched and unreasonable. Each one should do his full duty, according to his best judgment and keep a clear conscience.

When the League members who have been on the firing line return to their homes they should meet a kindly reception, mainly on account of lack of knowledge of methods of procedure they made a few errors but on the whole they acquitted themselves with credit and scarcely without exception they should be returned two years hence.

In my judgment the boys at home in many districts made a very serious mistake which should not be repeated in splitting their tickets on legislators. It is worse than useless to choose League members for the House and the "other fellow" for Senator because of his past good record or his progressive principles Senators Hegnes, Cummings, Wold, Peterson, Baldwin, Cliff, Gandrud Gjerset, Kuntz, Benson, Bonniwell, Blomgren and Hamer, all came from strong League districts and if League members had been elected in thir places a much better record in legislation could have been made, Wilcox would not have been unsealed and the League Senators would have numbered 21, almost one-third of the entire Senate. Some, if not all of the above, voted at times with the League but if their votes were really needed by the reactionaries to defeat progressive measures, they were generally forth-coming.

The single instance of a failure of a super-patriot to land a job is the case of the attempt to put Rock County into a new judicial District and appoint an extra judge. The effort was side tracked by Mr. Jacobson, the representative form Rock aided by the League members.

There were about forty members of the House, most of them serving their first term, who ought to be easily defeated by the League candidates should they file for the same office two years hence. The chances are, however, since they cannot cover up or hide their records that big business will cast them aside and name others of the same caliber to use in attempting to fool the voters.

The League should unite in the support of the Tax Amendment. If it becomes a part of the Constitution, future legislatures will have full power and authority to tax property wherever it is found and to make liberal exemptions for the benefit of the poorer classes. All farm tools, machinery and farm products may be exempted. A graduated income tax on the fat boys may also be assessed. I am persuaded that the plunder-bund were caught "napping" when they allowed this amendment to get by with so little opposition, only one vote—Bouk's of Morrison—being recorded against it in the House.

I do not like to see this legislature called a "do nothing" body. I admit that it failed to knock out the Primary—its blows were too feeble—and it "fell down" in its efforts to secure a perpetual franchise for the use of all city streets in the form of an "undeterminate permit," for the Twin City Rapid Transit Company. But it killed the Workmen's Insurance bill, and made the Steel Trust supremely happy, defeated Welch Bank Guarantee Deposit Bill, and, passed a multitude of new laws for attorneys to quarrel over, along with just a little real progressive legislation that apparently slipped through by accident. Then it stripped the famous Red Flag bill of its worst features, sidetracked the Motor Corps bill to Prussianize the states, prepared to spend a hundred millions in taxes, mainly for the benefit of joy riders and made the success of the Nonpartisan League certain at the next election. I guess the final outcome will show that the legislature really did some thing after all.

Mr. Serline denies that he had anything to do with the organization of the House in the interest of big business as was intimated in this column last week. As Mr. Serline voted against the Warner Street Car Bill and in favor of the Tonnage Tax and has been generally progressive he is entitled to the benefit of this denial.

THREE BROTHERS OF ATWATER SERVED COUNTRY IN FRANCE

Sgt. John A. Woken
One of the first volunteers from Atwater, who served two years.

Pvt. Alfred K. Woken
Who was wounded in Argonne Forest.

Pvt. Ingvald B. Woken
A later volunteer who came home first.

Sgt. John A. Woken.

Enlisted April 19, 1917. Left Atwater April 20, 1917, for Minneapolis, and from there to Jefferson Barracks, Mo., and was at that place about a week. Was sent from there to Ft. Barrancas, Pensacola, Fla. Was home on furlough in July 1918 and went back to Ft. Barrancas, was transferred into an overseas unit. He left Florida for Camp Merrit, N. J., about the middle of September. Arrived at Camp the 22nd and stayed there four days so as to be fully equipped for overseas service. They sailed on the 26th day of September. Four days out at sea he met Hugo Holm, formerly of Atwater, but now of San Francisco, Calif., who had enlisted in the navy and had gained the rank of Ensign in the U. S. N. R. F. Everything went fairly good until the sixth day out when at 2:30 o'clock in the morning a British transport steamer rammed our boat. The anchor of the steamer was rammed in upon the sleeping men, six of them were killed and a few hurt. They were on deck from 2:30 until 7 and did not know whether the boat would sink or remain above. Two days later they landed safely at Brest, and stayed there five days. They slept in small shelter tents. It rained every day they were there. From Brest they were sent to Angers, France, stayed there until the 10th of October and then were sent to Angouleme, France, where he took up a two weeks' course driving ammunition trucks. Was at this place at the signing of the armistice. This being signed they were sent back to Angers, and then prepared to go back to the good old U. S. A. Left Salny France February 22nd and had quite a rough voyage back. Landed at Boston, Mass., on the 6th day of March. Got off that boat on the 7th. They were greeted like kings on landing at Boston. Stayed at Camp Devens, Mass., four days. Then were sent to Camp Taylor, Ky., and there received his honorable discharge the 21st day of March, 1919, and arrived home on the 23rd, thus finishing his army carrer. Sgt. Woken served with the 54th C. A. C.

Alfred K. Woken.

Was called March 30th, 1918 from Grand Forks, North Dakota. Arrived at Camp Dodge April 1st and left there April 25 for Mills, Long Island. He arrived at Camp Mills April 29th, and sailed for France shortly after. Arrived in France the 18th of May. Was at the front about two months and was wounded the 26th of September in the Argonne Forest. In this battle the battalion was lost in a heavy fog at Varrences. Alfred was shot thru the body and after the enemy had retreated the Red Cross picked up the wounded. Private Woken was taken to a hospital where he stayed for one month. Left France the forepart of March and landed at Hoboken March 19 and was sent to Camp Merritt and later transferred to Camp Dodge where he received his honorable discharge.

Ingvald B. Woken.

Enlisted the 17th of May, 1918, and left Atwater the 20th of that month for Jefferson Barracks, Mo. He was stationed there for a few weeks, later transferred to Fort Caswell, N. C., from there to Camp Eustice, Va., where he was stationed for four months. Private Woken was a member of the 50th C. A. C. and sailed for France October 7th and landed at Brest, France October 21st. They went to Montior from Brest and were there when the armistice was signed and later returned to Brest and sailed from there January 31st and landed in New York February 14th and sent to Camp Dix. Ingvald received his discharge at Camp Dodge.

MODERN STRATEGY

All life-time is a school of strategy—a game of war upon germs and tendencies which, unless thwarted, weaken the system and invite disease.

Modern health-strategy dictates the use of

as a reliable means of thwarting the enemies of strength. Scott's is Nature's ally and its rich tonic and strength-supporting properties are known, with satisfaction, to millions. Build up your strength with the nourishing qualities of Scott's Emulsion.

Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. 18-6

We had a suspicion in the begining that Theo. Christianson was double crossed in the make up of his committee on appropriations and that suspicion has been verified by later events. Christianson is one of the few prominent Republicans that big business has not yet "tagged," with the label of ownership. He must either come under or be killed off, for he is dangerous to the interests if allowed to run at large. Is that why his committee was packed with liberal spenders?

It is very evident that somebody organized the House and "packed" the leading committees in opposition to the League program and in the interest of big business, but no one cares to assume the responsibility. Mr. Serline flatly denies that he had anything to do with it and we have given him the benefit of the statement. Mr. Adams also asks to be excused, so no one is left but Mr. Warner. As Mr. Warner tried to destroy the Primary and "put over" the Street Railway bill, and opposed the Tonnage Tax—although he voted for it two years ago, and has made a reactionary record generally, I guess he is the guilty man. But he must have done the job all by himself.

• • •

Rep. Nordgren voted to reconsider the vote by which the Tonnage Tax was lost in the House, although the House Journal or record shows to the contrary. I want to give Mr. Nordgren the benefit of this statement, although it was his duty to see that his vote was correctly recorded.

Last week I said I would give the names of some party members of the House who have been weighed in the balance and found wanting as "true progressives." On second thought I have decided to wait and see if they file for the job again. The record will keep.

We have got the plunderbund on the run in Minnesota. They can no longer camouflage the situation and hide behind the cloak of loyalty, but must come out in the open and with the real issue and that is the question whether or not the privileged classes shall continue to rule this state or government be restored to the people. The $16.00 "suckers" are the fellows who have raised the issue. All we have to do is to continue faithful, renew the memberships and hold farmers' picnics everywhere during the summer. The writer hopes to be able to attend a number of these picnics. Let us keep up the agitation and everything will come our way in the near future.

The entire $25,000 for the Sibley State Park on Lake Andrew was allowed by the conference committee largely through the influence of Rep. Wicklund and Senator Gandrud.

The Facilities for Distribution of the The Standard Oil Company (Indiana)

THE service which, at all times, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is prepared to render its patrons, rests securely upon a solid foundation of complete distribution.

To perfect a system which shall make every product manufactured by the Company instantly available to anyone, anywhere, any time, has been the goal toward which this Company has been working since the day of its organization.

As yet this ideal has not been achieved; but the system as it stands is conceded to be the most perfect of its kind in the world.

The present equipment for distribution, including grounds, buildings, storage tanks, motor trucks, wagons, etc., represents an investment of more than $30,000,000.

There are 27 main stations where complete stocks of all products are kept on hand. Supporting these are the bulk stations located at 2881 carefully selected points in 11 states. These stations are equipped with storage tanks having a combined capacity of 86,113,650 gallons of gasoline, 66,115,300 gallons of kerosene, and 4,300,000 gallons of lubricating oils.

It is necessary to carry this tremendous stock—total 156,528,950 gallons—at all times to insure quick, convenient service to the patrons of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) wherever they may be, regardless of transportation difficulties or weather conditions.

To enable the Company to fulfill its obligations to patrons, and deliver to them the products they require, it is necessary to maintain a fleet of 3700 motor trucks and a caravan of 3300 horse-drawn wagons, either active or in reserve. These tank wagons are so organized that they, at regular intervals, can reach 75% of the homes in the territory at present served by this Company.

Supplementing the wagons, an equipment of 530,000 iron barrels, representing an investment of more than $7,000,000, is kept in service to insure the safe delivery of oils and gasoline, even to those remote places where the dark-green tank wagon never has penetrated.

For the convenience of the motoring public, a chain of 1300 service stations has been organized and many others are in the course of construction. These stations are prepared at all times to supply the motorist with his requirements of gasoline and lubricating oils in any quantity and at the lowest prices.

This, in outline, is the distribution system upon which the service of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) rests.

It is the hope of the Company that the time is not far distant when no person in the territory served will be more than five or six miles from a Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service station if he lives in the country, or more than one mile away if he lives in a town or city.

Cash Paid for Junk

HIDES, FURS and POULTRY WANTED

People of Willmar and vicinity always wait for housecleaning time to gather their rags, rubbers and metal. Get them ready, phone me, and I will call for them. I advise the country people to bring in all their junk. I also buy hides, fur and poultry at any time. I have no other buyer.
