

According to a Pittsburg paper Senator Farwell gave the following interview on his way home for the holidays: "I do not think the Federal election bill will be passed. It will be killed by the obstructive tactics of the Democrats and others in spite of the President's entreaties. Little Benny hasn't as much influence around Washington as he might have. He freezes everybody, and people who go to him with respect leave with disgust. The country's opinion of his Administration was shown in the recent election. Mind you, I was a supporter of President Harrison, too, but I supported him because I imagined he had sense enough to fill the position. He is too small mentally and every other way to fill the chair." Senator Farwell thought Senator Callum would be nominated by the Republicans for President, although Blaine, "of course," will be a candidate.

WHAT FARMERS WANT.—An elaborately planned canvass to ascertain the opinions of farmers throughout the country on certain practical questions has been conducted on an extensive scale for the past three months by the Agricultural Press of Springfield, Mass. Liberal responses were interchanged, and caused much discussion in farmers' organizations everywhere and induced a large poll of postal card ballots. Ten questions were asked, but the answers have been fully tabulated only as far as they relate to the question as to who the farmers regard as the best man for the presidency. Nearly 110,000 answers showed 71,787 for Grover Cleveland, 17,118 for David B. Hill, 11,082 for Wm. H. Hatch, of Missouri, 39,209 for James G. Blaine, 31,013 for Benjamin Harrison, 20,746 for Jeremiah Rusk, 5,665 for Reed and 3,029 for McKinley. The rest were scattering.

A REPUBLICAN SENATOR AGAINST THE FORCE BILL.—A STRONG ARGUMENT.—The speech of Senator Stewart, of Nevada, on Friday of last week, against the passage of the force bill, is of special interest as being the first public expression on the part of a republican Senator of opposition to the odious measure. The Senator went straight to the heart of the matter. If the situation in the South was as bad for the colored republican as represented by Mr. Hoar, force, he held, would have to be used to correct it, if corrected at all by federal authority. But if the negro is protected by force, the exercise of that force, to be effective, must go the length of destroying his oppressors. In other words, the whites of the south must be enslaved or exterminated. Resort to force could have no other result than the destruction of one or other race. Has the country made up its mind to the employment of force? Does the republican party actually propose to send troops into the South to put down violence caused by the belief on the part of the whites that colored supremacy at the polls would be ruinous to all their interest? These questions Senator Stewart answers in the negative. His conclusions are, therefore, that the bill ought not to be passed, "because it never would be enforced, because it would consolidate the Southern whites, because it would bring further misery on the Southern blacks and because it would increase sectional animosity and kindle anew the discords of the past." The Senator could not, he said, be a party to a "which might seem to justify the white man in making war upon a defenseless race." The remedy for the alleged injustice to colored voters in the South must come from the "voluntary action of the people of that section." The proposed law could not, Mr. Stewart contended, be enforced. If it could be, then existing law was ample for the suppression of all the frauds complained of. "Instead of protecting the colored man, the new law," said the Senator, "would bring upon him persecution and misery, if not death." The fifty petitioners by whose act the law would become operative would, he said, become "marked men," as would also the federal supervisors. The failure of violent methods under General Grant made it clear that they could not be successful now. A severe blow was administered to Mr. Hoar by quotations from his speech in 1875 against the force bill of that day.

Order of Publication.

In the Circuit Court for St. Mary's county, sitting as a Court of Equity.

CHARLES A. HARDY, EMMA E. HARDY, Leeward J. Smith, Sarah E. Smith, Mary Ann Gilbeau, Benjamin Smith, Thomas E. Anderson, Charles B. Anderson, Edward K. Anderson and James M. Dowling, Plaintiffs.

Chapman M. Smith, Virginia A. Smith, Lizzie A. Smith, Clarence L. Smith, Mary Anderson, Virginia Anderson, H. Bullard Anderson, Lucile Anderson, Anna Dowling, Virginia Dowling, James M. Dowling, Louise Dowling, Eugene Dowling, Florence Dowling, Irene Dowling, Fanny A. Dowling, Ethel M. Dowling and Ophelia O. Ulrich, Defendants.

The object of this Bill is to procure a decree for the sale of the tract or parcel of land lying and being in St. Mary's county, State of Maryland, commonly called and known as

"ROSE CROFT," containing:

378 Acres, more or less and a vision of the proceeds of sale among the parties to this suit in proportion to their respective interests.

The bill alleges that the aforesaid parties, as heirs of Mary E. P. Hardy, deceased, are seized and possessed of the said real estate in the following proportions: That Charles A. Hardy and Emma E. Hardy are each entitled to one-fifth thereof; that Leonard J. Smith, Sarah E. Smith, Mary Ann Gilbeau, Benjamin Smith, Raphael Smith, Lizzie A. Smith and Clarence L. Smith are entitled to one-fifth of said land; that Anna O. Leodonier and Ophelia O. Ulrich are entitled to one-fifth, and that Thomas M. Anderson, Charles B. Anderson, Edward K. Anderson, Mary Anderson, Virginia Anderson, H. Bullard Anderson and Lucile Anderson are each entitled to one-eighth of one-fifth, and Anna Dowling, Virginia Dowling, James M. Dowling, Louise Dowling, Eugene Dowling, Florence Dowling, Irene Dowling, Fanny A. Dowling and Ethel M. Dowling, children of Fanny A. Dowling, deceased, are entitled to one-eighth of one-fifth of said land, subject to a life estate therein of James M. Dowling, surviving husband of the said Fanny A. Dowling, deceased.

The bill further alleges, that said land cannot be divided among the aforesaid parties without loss or injury to them; that all of said defendants are non-residents of the State of Maryland and are infants under the age of twenty-one years, except the said Ophelia O. Ulrich, who is a lunatic.

It is the opinion of the Court, that a new paper published in St. Mary's county, once in each of four successive weeks before the 10th day of DECEMBER, 1890, giving notice of the said defendants, the object and substance of said bill, warning them to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the
