

Saint Mary's Beacon.

Local Dottings.

Base Ball at Charlotte Hall. The game between the Charlotte Hall Cadets and the Choptico boys was played Saturday, May 9th. The result was a decisive victory for the Cadets.

Table with columns: CHAPTICO, R.P.O., CADETS, R.P.O. Lists names and scores for various players.

A Cure for Twenty Cents.

Any remedy sold at one dollar a bottle which claims to cure Rheumatism, is simply an imposition, for when all expenses are deducted it leaves not more than twenty cents to represent the medicine.

Notes of Our Club.

The ball is on the roll. The meeting alluded to in an issue of the BEACON a few weeks back, to be held for the purpose of a reorganization of the Leonardtown Baseball Club, was held with very satisfactory results.

Death of Dr. Carroll Morgan.

Dr. E. Carroll Morgan, son of the late Dr. James E. Morgan, died at his residence, 918 E. Street, at 10 o'clock last night.

Lowtown Local.

True, the sudden changes of the atmosphere have a very unpleasant effect upon fruit, but we do not think that much damage has been done to same.

Fully up to the Times.

Robertson & Carr, successors to Henry Allnut, 10 E. Pratt St., Balto., offer leading styles and best wearing shoes, hats and umbrellas, at lowest possible city prices.

Localwise and Otherwise

The Orphans' and Commissioners' Courts were in session Tuesday.

The cold spell has broken and we are now enjoying summer weather. From every section of the County come complaints of the ravages of the tobacco fly.

There are now two Express offices in St. Mary's

There will be a religious meeting at the Oak Store, May 17, 1891. Preaching and Sunday School at 2 p. m. Rev. M. Bender will officiate.

Last week, a beautiful colt, belonging to Mr. Hayden M. H. Yates

The baseball fever is again epidemic. It affects all ages alike and is certainly a "catching" thing. Don't fear it. It will do you no harm.

Mr. A. F. Fenwick, of Valley Lee, is in Baltimore

Under date of May 11, 1891, Prof. Thos. N. Conrad writes that canvas covering is an absolute preventive of injury to tobacco plants from fly or other insects.

The Sue will leave Leonardtown wharf at 8 a. m.

Monday next, May 18th, J. Walter Carpenter, mortgagee, will sell the farm known as "Dandbury," located in this district, and containing 150 acres.

The last Enterprise reports the burning of the residence of Henry Butler

The party at Shank's Hotel will be on Whit Monday night, the 18th instant, and not on Tuesday, the 19th, as before stated.

Jeremiah Jordan, colored, proprietor of the Hotel for colored people in Leonardtown

The death of Mrs. S. Chapman Thompson is a matter of sincere regret to all who knew her. Wherever she was known she was beloved.

That "Death loves a shining mark," is exemplified in the demise of Dr. Carroll Morgan

With these exceptions the composition of the team will be similar to last season. It will be made up thus: Messrs. James Greenwell, Charles Loker, Harry Fenwick, Roger Combs, Charles Cough, George Cryer, Philip H. Dorsey and Manning Combs.

You will find the greatest bargains ever offered in Leonardtown at W. A. Loker's store.

The schooner, Mattie F. Dean, Captain Sol Foxwell, has gone to Norfolk for the lumber for Mr. Loker's proposed store.

Mr. James F. Wathen, died at his residence, near this village, Monday, May 11.

True, the sudden changes of the atmosphere have a very unpleasant effect upon fruit, but we do not think that much damage has been done to same.

Be wise in time. You have too many gray hairs for one so young looking.

Notice of Dissolution.

MORGANZA, April 28, 1891. THE co-partnership heretofore existing between J. H. Drury & Bro. in the mercantile business at Morganza is this day dissolved by mutual consent.

ESTABLISHED 1873.

BULLEN & MCKEEVER

OLD RELIABLE COMMISSION MEN, 939 LA. AVENUE, WASHINGTON, D. C. Particular attention given to the sale of Cattle, Sheep, Lams, Veal, Hogs, Eggs, Poultry, Horses, and all kinds of country produce.

UNDERTAKING.

HAVING rented the property of F. D. Adams at Mechanicsville, St. Mary's County, I am now prepared to furnish caskets, coffins and all burial goods, and to attend funerals at the shortest notice and at prices never before offered in St. Mary's.

JOSEPH H. MILBURN, BUILDER AND CONTRACTOR

Leonardtown, Md. Estimates furnished and all work done promptly and in workmanlike manner.

Chapel.

Mr. E. Dickerson, the champion baseball player of Baltimore, is visiting friends near the Pine.

Dr. James H. Miles has been ill, but he is better now. Dr. T. Hooper Lynch attends him.

Mr. J. Thomas Miller is building a warehouse adjoining his wharf. The Moseley and Arrowsmith, well known steamers, will stop there in the near future.

The party which came off at the residence of Mr. S. J. Rawleigh recently was an enjoyable affair. So an eye witness informs us.

Messrs. William Yeatman and Austin L. Adams caught thirty thousand (30,000) herrings and alewives at one time and in one net 8th instant. This is the largest catch ever known to be made by our neighbors.

A few soft crabs have been shipped, but we are unable to quote figures per dozen.

The tobacco fly is here and it is doing considerable damage. The Sue and Tygett make regular and punctual trips to Benville's wharf.

Mr. J. Frank Smith, of Scotland post-office, has shipped the finest lambs of the season.

Miss Maria Louday, a very pious and devout Catholic, is extremely ill. Mr. Robert Clarke, who was a member (with us) of Hampton's Legion, and who was present at the surrender of Fort Sumter, is ill in Baltimore.

Rain, so say those that know, is greatly needed.

Not many physicians make great therapeutic discoveries.

Let us keep the ox-carrot off the road. An ox-team is good enough in its place and that place is on the farm. When we send to the mill for a little meal, we send a man with an ox-team. If the mill will be six miles away the man is gone all day and his valuable time is spent on the road.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs., when 4 hogs would weigh the same and not cost anything like as much? I will tell you why we do this: It is simply because we are not progressive; we are too easily satisfied.

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep?

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep? We have received copies of the Journal of Southern Maryland Progress, Bel Alton, Md. It is published under the auspices of the Southern Maryland Development Company and is supplemented by a fine map of our section.

THE TROUBLE WITH FARMERS—BY MR. ABELL.

The trouble with farmers, I think, lies in a great measure with themselves. First—they are not self-reliant enough—they buy too much and sell too little. If they could live like the successful old, with strict economy in all things and strict attention in all matters pertaining to their business and not be bothered by politics or politicians, particularly the little bosses that will flatter you and tell you that you can do great things—meaning for themselves all the time—and when they cannot handle you any longer, foot you with all their might. Have nothing to do with such men, and we will far-revise; take care of all little things, husband all manures that now go to waste; take care of all farm tools; have a place for them, and when not in use have them then under proper shelter, and they will last twice as long by such treatment—and shoot the first agricultural implement man that comes on the farm—also the fertilizer agents and tree peddlars, and all peddlars and agents—for we have to pay these fellows for bothering us at our work, hours at a time, and that the busiest. Let us buy from first hands and we will soon find a great difference in the price. The fertilizer man must have five dollars a ton for coming to see you—the tree man 15 cents on each tree sold—an agricultural implement man gets one-third to one-half the money you pay for the article sold you. Second—Do not try to imitate your city cousin or aunt in dress, diet, etc. It does not suit us; they need different in both from us. Third—Never pay anyone to do a thing you can do yourself; do not sit around the stores and talk politics with the man behind the counter; he has nothing else to do but stay there, and we lose valuable time and a little money, and nothing to get back but disappointment. I think we are looked on by all other trades and professions as legitimate prey and then be laughed at for our own losses.

What is the matter with the farmer?

The above question is a "cooker," and will admit of quite a lengthy discussion, but I will try to be as short as possible, and at the same time tell you a few things I know of his short comings. I have travelled over a great portion of the farming country of Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Delaware and must say that the farmers of Southern Maryland, so far as I can judge, are away behind all the rest.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs., when 4 hogs would weigh the same and not cost anything like as much? I will tell you why we do this: It is simply because we are not progressive; we are too easily satisfied.

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep?

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep? We have received copies of the Journal of Southern Maryland Progress, Bel Alton, Md. It is published under the auspices of the Southern Maryland Development Company and is supplemented by a fine map of our section.

THE TROUBLE WITH FARMERS—BY MR. ABELL.

The trouble with farmers, I think, lies in a great measure with themselves. First—they are not self-reliant enough—they buy too much and sell too little. If they could live like the successful old, with strict economy in all things and strict attention in all matters pertaining to their business and not be bothered by politics or politicians, particularly the little bosses that will flatter you and tell you that you can do great things—meaning for themselves all the time—and when they cannot handle you any longer, foot you with all their might. Have nothing to do with such men, and we will far-revise; take care of all little things, husband all manures that now go to waste; take care of all farm tools; have a place for them, and when not in use have them then under proper shelter, and they will last twice as long by such treatment—and shoot the first agricultural implement man that comes on the farm—also the fertilizer agents and tree peddlars, and all peddlars and agents—for we have to pay these fellows for bothering us at our work, hours at a time, and that the busiest. Let us buy from first hands and we will soon find a great difference in the price. The fertilizer man must have five dollars a ton for coming to see you—the tree man 15 cents on each tree sold—an agricultural implement man gets one-third to one-half the money you pay for the article sold you. Second—Do not try to imitate your city cousin or aunt in dress, diet, etc. It does not suit us; they need different in both from us. Third—Never pay anyone to do a thing you can do yourself; do not sit around the stores and talk politics with the man behind the counter; he has nothing else to do but stay there, and we lose valuable time and a little money, and nothing to get back but disappointment. I think we are looked on by all other trades and professions as legitimate prey and then be laughed at for our own losses.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs., when 4 hogs would weigh the same and not cost anything like as much? I will tell you why we do this: It is simply because we are not progressive; we are too easily satisfied.

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep?

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep? We have received copies of the Journal of Southern Maryland Progress, Bel Alton, Md. It is published under the auspices of the Southern Maryland Development Company and is supplemented by a fine map of our section.

THE TROUBLE WITH FARMERS—BY MR. ABELL.

The trouble with farmers, I think, lies in a great measure with themselves. First—they are not self-reliant enough—they buy too much and sell too little. If they could live like the successful old, with strict economy in all things and strict attention in all matters pertaining to their business and not be bothered by politics or politicians, particularly the little bosses that will flatter you and tell you that you can do great things—meaning for themselves all the time—and when they cannot handle you any longer, foot you with all their might. Have nothing to do with such men, and we will far-revise; take care of all little things, husband all manures that now go to waste; take care of all farm tools; have a place for them, and when not in use have them then under proper shelter, and they will last twice as long by such treatment—and shoot the first agricultural implement man that comes on the farm—also the fertilizer agents and tree peddlars, and all peddlars and agents—for we have to pay these fellows for bothering us at our work, hours at a time, and that the busiest. Let us buy from first hands and we will soon find a great difference in the price. The fertilizer man must have five dollars a ton for coming to see you—the tree man 15 cents on each tree sold—an agricultural implement man gets one-third to one-half the money you pay for the article sold you. Second—Do not try to imitate your city cousin or aunt in dress, diet, etc. It does not suit us; they need different in both from us. Third—Never pay anyone to do a thing you can do yourself; do not sit around the stores and talk politics with the man behind the counter; he has nothing else to do but stay there, and we lose valuable time and a little money, and nothing to get back but disappointment. I think we are looked on by all other trades and professions as legitimate prey and then be laughed at for our own losses.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs., when 4 hogs would weigh the same and not cost anything like as much? I will tell you why we do this: It is simply because we are not progressive; we are too easily satisfied.

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep?

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep? We have received copies of the Journal of Southern Maryland Progress, Bel Alton, Md. It is published under the auspices of the Southern Maryland Development Company and is supplemented by a fine map of our section.

THE TROUBLE WITH FARMERS—BY MR. ABELL.

The trouble with farmers, I think, lies in a great measure with themselves. First—they are not self-reliant enough—they buy too much and sell too little. If they could live like the successful old, with strict economy in all things and strict attention in all matters pertaining to their business and not be bothered by politics or politicians, particularly the little bosses that will flatter you and tell you that you can do great things—meaning for themselves all the time—and when they cannot handle you any longer, foot you with all their might. Have nothing to do with such men, and we will far-revise; take care of all little things, husband all manures that now go to waste; take care of all farm tools; have a place for them, and when not in use have them then under proper shelter, and they will last twice as long by such treatment—and shoot the first agricultural implement man that comes on the farm—also the fertilizer agents and tree peddlars, and all peddlars and agents—for we have to pay these fellows for bothering us at our work, hours at a time, and that the busiest. Let us buy from first hands and we will soon find a great difference in the price. The fertilizer man must have five dollars a ton for coming to see you—the tree man 15 cents on each tree sold—an agricultural implement man gets one-third to one-half the money you pay for the article sold you. Second—Do not try to imitate your city cousin or aunt in dress, diet, etc. It does not suit us; they need different in both from us. Third—Never pay anyone to do a thing you can do yourself; do not sit around the stores and talk politics with the man behind the counter; he has nothing else to do but stay there, and we lose valuable time and a little money, and nothing to get back but disappointment. I think we are looked on by all other trades and professions as legitimate prey and then be laughed at for our own losses.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs., when 4 hogs would weigh the same and not cost anything like as much? I will tell you why we do this: It is simply because we are not progressive; we are too easily satisfied.

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep?

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep? We have received copies of the Journal of Southern Maryland Progress, Bel Alton, Md. It is published under the auspices of the Southern Maryland Development Company and is supplemented by a fine map of our section.

THE TROUBLE WITH FARMERS—BY MR. ABELL.

The trouble with farmers, I think, lies in a great measure with themselves. First—they are not self-reliant enough—they buy too much and sell too little. If they could live like the successful old, with strict economy in all things and strict attention in all matters pertaining to their business and not be bothered by politics or politicians, particularly the little bosses that will flatter you and tell you that you can do great things—meaning for themselves all the time—and when they cannot handle you any longer, foot you with all their might. Have nothing to do with such men, and we will far-revise; take care of all little things, husband all manures that now go to waste; take care of all farm tools; have a place for them, and when not in use have them then under proper shelter, and they will last twice as long by such treatment—and shoot the first agricultural implement man that comes on the farm—also the fertilizer agents and tree peddlars, and all peddlars and agents—for we have to pay these fellows for bothering us at our work, hours at a time, and that the busiest. Let us buy from first hands and we will soon find a great difference in the price. The fertilizer man must have five dollars a ton for coming to see you—the tree man 15 cents on each tree sold—an agricultural implement man gets one-third to one-half the money you pay for the article sold you. Second—Do not try to imitate your city cousin or aunt in dress, diet, etc. It does not suit us; they need different in both from us. Third—Never pay anyone to do a thing you can do yourself; do not sit around the stores and talk politics with the man behind the counter; he has nothing else to do but stay there, and we lose valuable time and a little money, and nothing to get back but disappointment. I think we are looked on by all other trades and professions as legitimate prey and then be laughed at for our own losses.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs., when 4 hogs would weigh the same and not cost anything like as much? I will tell you why we do this: It is simply because we are not progressive; we are too easily satisfied.

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep?

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep? We have received copies of the Journal of Southern Maryland Progress, Bel Alton, Md. It is published under the auspices of the Southern Maryland Development Company and is supplemented by a fine map of our section.

THE TROUBLE WITH FARMERS—BY MR. ABELL.

The trouble with farmers, I think, lies in a great measure with themselves. First—they are not self-reliant enough—they buy too much and sell too little. If they could live like the successful old, with strict economy in all things and strict attention in all matters pertaining to their business and not be bothered by politics or politicians, particularly the little bosses that will flatter you and tell you that you can do great things—meaning for themselves all the time—and when they cannot handle you any longer, foot you with all their might. Have nothing to do with such men, and we will far-revise; take care of all little things, husband all manures that now go to waste; take care of all farm tools; have a place for them, and when not in use have them then under proper shelter, and they will last twice as long by such treatment—and shoot the first agricultural implement man that comes on the farm—also the fertilizer agents and tree peddlars, and all peddlars and agents—for we have to pay these fellows for bothering us at our work, hours at a time, and that the busiest. Let us buy from first hands and we will soon find a great difference in the price. The fertilizer man must have five dollars a ton for coming to see you—the tree man 15 cents on each tree sold—an agricultural implement man gets one-third to one-half the money you pay for the article sold you. Second—Do not try to imitate your city cousin or aunt in dress, diet, etc. It does not suit us; they need different in both from us. Third—Never pay anyone to do a thing you can do yourself; do not sit around the stores and talk politics with the man behind the counter; he has nothing else to do but stay there, and we lose valuable time and a little money, and nothing to get back but disappointment. I think we are looked on by all other trades and professions as legitimate prey and then be laughed at for our own losses.

What is the matter with the farmer?

The above question is a "cooker," and will admit of quite a lengthy discussion, but I will try to be as short as possible, and at the same time tell you a few things I know of his short comings. I have travelled over a great portion of the farming country of Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Delaware and must say that the farmers of Southern Maryland, so far as I can judge, are away behind all the rest.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs., when 4 hogs would weigh the same and not cost anything like as much? I will tell you why we do this: It is simply because we are not progressive; we are too easily satisfied.

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep?

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep? We have received copies of the Journal of Southern Maryland Progress, Bel Alton, Md. It is published under the auspices of the Southern Maryland Development Company and is supplemented by a fine map of our section.

THE TROUBLE WITH FARMERS—BY MR. ABELL.

The trouble with farmers, I think, lies in a great measure with themselves. First—they are not self-reliant enough—they buy too much and sell too little. If they could live like the successful old, with strict economy in all things and strict attention in all matters pertaining to their business and not be bothered by politics or politicians, particularly the little bosses that will flatter you and tell you that you can do great things—meaning for themselves all the time—and when they cannot handle you any longer, foot you with all their might. Have nothing to do with such men, and we will far-revise; take care of all little things, husband all manures that now go to waste; take care of all farm tools; have a place for them, and when not in use have them then under proper shelter, and they will last twice as long by such treatment—and shoot the first agricultural implement man that comes on the farm—also the fertilizer agents and tree peddlars, and all peddlars and agents—for we have to pay these fellows for bothering us at our work, hours at a time, and that the busiest. Let us buy from first hands and we will soon find a great difference in the price. The fertilizer man must have five dollars a ton for coming to see you—the tree man 15 cents on each tree sold—an agricultural implement man gets one-third to one-half the money you pay for the article sold you. Second—Do not try to imitate your city cousin or aunt in dress, diet, etc. It does not suit us; they need different in both from us. Third—Never pay anyone to do a thing you can do yourself; do not sit around the stores and talk politics with the man behind the counter; he has nothing else to do but stay there, and we lose valuable time and a little money, and nothing to get back but disappointment. I think we are looked on by all other trades and professions as legitimate prey and then be laughed at for our own losses.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs., when 4 hogs would weigh the same and not cost anything like as much? I will tell you why we do this: It is simply because we are not progressive; we are too easily satisfied.

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep?

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep? We have received copies of the Journal of Southern Maryland Progress, Bel Alton, Md. It is published under the auspices of the Southern Maryland Development Company and is supplemented by a fine map of our section.

THE TROUBLE WITH FARMERS—BY MR. ABELL.

The trouble with farmers, I think, lies in a great measure with themselves. First—they are not self-reliant enough—they buy too much and sell too little. If they could live like the successful old, with strict economy in all things and strict attention in all matters pertaining to their business and not be bothered by politics or politicians, particularly the little bosses that will flatter you and tell you that you can do great things—meaning for themselves all the time—and when they cannot handle you any longer, foot you with all their might. Have nothing to do with such men, and we will far-revise; take care of all little things, husband all manures that now go to waste; take care of all farm tools; have a place for them, and when not in use have them then under proper shelter, and they will last twice as long by such treatment—and shoot the first agricultural implement man that comes on the farm—also the fertilizer agents and tree peddlars, and all peddlars and agents—for we have to pay these fellows for bothering us at our work, hours at a time, and that the busiest. Let us buy from first hands and we will soon find a great difference in the price. The fertilizer man must have five dollars a ton for coming to see you—the tree man 15 cents on each tree sold—an agricultural implement man gets one-third to one-half the money you pay for the article sold you. Second—Do not try to imitate your city cousin or aunt in dress, diet, etc. It does not suit us; they need different in both from us. Third—Never pay anyone to do a thing you can do yourself; do not sit around the stores and talk politics with the man behind the counter; he has nothing else to do but stay there, and we lose valuable time and a little money, and nothing to get back but disappointment. I think we are looked on by all other trades and professions as legitimate prey and then be laughed at for our own losses.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs., when 4 hogs would weigh the same and not cost anything like as much? I will tell you why we do this: It is simply because we are not progressive; we are too easily satisfied.

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep?

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep? We have received copies of the Journal of Southern Maryland Progress, Bel Alton, Md. It is published under the auspices of the Southern Maryland Development Company and is supplemented by a fine map of our section.

THE TROUBLE WITH FARMERS—BY MR. ABELL.

The trouble with farmers, I think, lies in a great measure with themselves. First—they are not self-reliant enough—they buy too much and sell too little. If they could live like the successful old, with strict economy in all things and strict attention in all matters pertaining to their business and not be bothered by politics or politicians, particularly the little bosses that will flatter you and tell you that you can do great things—meaning for themselves all the time—and when they cannot handle you any longer, foot you with all their might. Have nothing to do with such men, and we will far-revise; take care of all little things, husband all manures that now go to waste; take care of all farm tools; have a place for them, and when not in use have them then under proper shelter, and they will last twice as long by such treatment—and shoot the first agricultural implement man that comes on the farm—also the fertilizer agents and tree peddlars, and all peddlars and agents—for we have to pay these fellows for bothering us at our work, hours at a time, and that the busiest. Let us buy from first hands and we will soon find a great difference in the price. The fertilizer man must have five dollars a ton for coming to see you—the tree man 15 cents on each tree sold—an agricultural implement man gets one-third to one-half the money you pay for the article sold you. Second—Do not try to imitate your city cousin or aunt in dress, diet, etc. It does not suit us; they need different in both from us. Third—Never pay anyone to do a thing you can do yourself; do not sit around the stores and talk politics with the man behind the counter; he has nothing else to do but stay there, and we lose valuable time and a little money, and nothing to get back but disappointment. I think we are looked on by all other trades and professions as legitimate prey and then be laughed at for our own losses.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs., when 4 hogs would weigh the same and not cost anything like as much? I will tell you why we do this: It is simply because we are not progressive; we are too easily satisfied.

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep?

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep? We have received copies of the Journal of Southern Maryland Progress, Bel Alton, Md. It is published under the auspices of the Southern Maryland Development Company and is supplemented by a fine map of our section.

THE TROUBLE WITH FARMERS—BY MR. ABELL.

The trouble with farmers, I think, lies in a great measure with themselves. First—they are not self-reliant enough—they buy too much and sell too little. If they could live like the successful old, with strict economy in all things and strict attention in all matters pertaining to their business and not be bothered by politics or politicians, particularly the little bosses that will flatter you and tell you that you can do great things—meaning for themselves all the time—and when they cannot handle you any longer, foot you with all their might. Have nothing to do with such men, and we will far-revise; take care of all little things, husband all manures that now go to waste; take care of all farm tools; have a place for them, and when not in use have them then under proper shelter, and they will last twice as long by such treatment—and shoot the first agricultural implement man that comes on the farm—also the fertilizer agents and tree peddlars, and all peddlars and agents—for we have to pay these fellows for bothering us at our work, hours at a time, and that the busiest. Let us buy from first hands and we will soon find a great difference in the price. The fertilizer man must have five dollars a ton for coming to see you—the tree man 15 cents on each tree sold—an agricultural implement man gets one-third to one-half the money you pay for the article sold you. Second—Do not try to imitate your city cousin or aunt in dress, diet, etc. It does not suit us; they need different in both from us. Third—Never pay anyone to do a thing you can do yourself; do not sit around the stores and talk politics with the man behind the counter; he has nothing else to do but stay there, and we lose valuable time and a little money, and nothing to get back but disappointment. I think we are looked on by all other trades and professions as legitimate prey and then be laughed at for our own losses.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs.

Why do we feed 6 hogs, trying to make them weigh 1200 lbs., when 4 hogs would weigh the same and not cost anything like as much? I will tell you why we do this: It is simply because we are not progressive; we are too easily satisfied.

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep?

Why do we plow three small horses when two good sized horses will do the same work and not cost us as much to keep? We have received copies of the Journal of Southern Maryland Progress, Bel Alton, Md. It is published under the auspices of the Southern Maryland Development Company and is supplemented by a fine map of our section.

THE TROUBLE WITH FARMERS—BY MR. ABELL.

The trouble with farmers, I think, lies in a great measure with themselves. First—they are not self-reliant enough—they buy too much and sell too little. If they could live like the successful old, with strict economy in all things and strict attention in all matters pertaining to their business and not be bothered by politics or politicians, particularly the little bosses that will flatter you and tell you that you can do great things—meaning for themselves all the time—and when they cannot handle you any longer, foot you with all their might. Have nothing to do with such men, and we will far-revise; take care of all little things, husband all manures that now go to waste; take care of all farm tools; have a place for them, and when not