VOL. LI. LEONARDTOWN, MD., THURSDAY, AUGUST 20, 1891. NO. 553

HELLO! HELLO! HELLO!

Stranger:
 What does this picture represent?
Merchant:
 The men are testing the strength of the famous ORR PATENT Overall manufactured by Sweet Orr & Co., which is guaranteed by them to be so strongly sewed that three times six men cannot pull them apart.
Stranger:
 This is wonderful! What other merits has the garment?
Merchant:
 Well, I have been selling this Overall and it is the only one I have ever seen which always fits perfectly about the hips and gives plenty of room, so that there is no binding felt by the wearer, no matter what position he may assume.
 You will notice, also, that these Overall are double sewed all through, both on the outside and on the inside leg seams, and this is a point to be particularly noticed. Thus you will see it is impossible for these Overall to rip, and the manufacturers can well guarantee them, which they do, Neur to Rip.
Stranger:
 What further?
Merchant:
 Observe the buttons! You may be sure your wife will never be called upon to sew them on again.
 Also Sweet, Orr & Co. never use any seconds in their goods, but always the first quality, so that a thousand pairs or a hundred thousand all run exactly like any one pair.

Stranger:
 I suppose there are plenty of imitation goods in the market?
Merchant:
 You may be sure of that, so you must always look for the button and see that Sweet Orr & Co is stamped upon it.

Stranger:
 Are there any other kind of goods manufactured by this firm?
Merchant:
 I should say so; why, they make the best cottons pants, jean pants, kersey pants, and working shirts ever offered to the working man. There is no fifteen dollar pair of pants better finished than the cottons and jean pants manufactured by this firm and retailed by the trade at $1.50 and 2.00

BASEBALL.

LEONARDTOWN VS. MARLBORO'.
 The second game of baseball between Marlboro' and Leonardtown resulted in another victory for the home club.

In the first innings, F. Fenwick went to first on balls; B. Green-well struck a slow one, forcing out Fenwick at second and Dickerson fied to first which A. Clegett caught making a double play unassisted.
 The visitors in their half scored two runs on errors by pitcher and short and a hit by W. Brooke.

In the second, the home nine scored two runs on hits by Dorsey, Combs and Greenwell. For the visitors, Brooke went out to first, Belt went to first on Dickerson's second bad throw, the next man up went out on a fly to centre, Roberts struck out and the visitors were unable to score again until the sixth inning when they made their only earned run on a hit by Campbell and a two-bagger by R. Brooke. Leonardtown scored twice in the third, once each in the fifth and sixth and clinched the game in the seventh by tallying six runs. The visitors made one run in their half of the seventh, and, by mutual consent, the game was called, the score standing, Marlboro' 4; Leonardtown, 12.

CHARLOTTE HALL VS. NEWPORT.
 Thursday, August 6, the Newport nine defeated the Charlotte Hall nine in a game played by a score of 6 to 5. Owing to rain the game was not started until late.
 Quite a number witnessed the game.

COASTING ALONG ST. MARY'S.

This is solid comfort sitting here on deck in an easy, high-backed rocker, while a delightfully cool breeze breaks the water into little chop-waves, and sends all sail craft scudding swiftly along. It is Sunday afternoon, and as we pass the Arsenal Grounds the long stretch of lawn and shaded walks are thronged with old and young seeking the fresh river breezes. Envious eyes watch us steam by, for many of those ashore have been carried by the Sae on her weekly trip to Baltimore, and these could not recall their journey with anything but pleasure.

There is comfort aboard the Sae from the time she leaves her moorings, for there is neither overcrowding or jostling. Aboard our steamer we are free from those little annoyances that too frequently make summer travel as irksome as hod-carrying or tight shoes. There is no fussily little woman who is afraid of being carried beyond her station; no sellers of pop-corn or vendors of the latest and greatest novel ever written. The leather-hued Italians with the blood-curdling violin and dyspeptic harp are "not in it," and we are happy in the absence of the white-flanneled dude who sucks the head of his cane and makes love to the simpering miss of fourteen with the pink dress and forty-nine silver bangles. We are spared, too, the presence of the young fellow who thinks he sings baritone, and his favorite ballads, "The Muleteer," "The Three Grenadiers," and "The Old Sexton."

Altogether it is good to be on board our steamer. Especially do we realize this fact when that relic of by-gone ages, the gong, has sounded and we go down to supper. For three short hours we have been taking a tonic. This tonic is advertised in no better style than in colossal letters, nor its merits preached in the yellow-covered almanac, but it has a quiet way of "getting there" and doing more good per square inch than all the advertised patent nostrums in Christendom. Our tonic is the unadulterated atmosphere only found upon the water or in the mountains.
 Where this morning we worried down a cup of coffee, a slice of toast, and an egg, we now call for our fourth mutton chop, a third dish of peas, while a sight of the pile of chicken bones left upon our plates would lay the average boarding house keeper out with heart failure.

We go upon deck after supper and enjoy three hours of as delightful a sail as was ever taken, and then retire to our stateroom.
 Monday morning, A semi-circular cloud of black smoke floats lazily back over our steamer's wake as we round into Brittan's Bay from the Potomac and head for picturesque Leonardtown. It is but 5 o'clock, yet we are out upon deck after a most rejuvenating slumber.
 The waters of the little bay are as silvery white as a mirror in the early morning light, and reflected in their depths are tall pines, blooming chestnut, and luxuriant vines, as well defined as the foliage itself upon the banks above. Never was the face of nature more fresh and radiant than now. From the depths of the woods come the songs of myriads of birds—the liquid notes of the mocking bird on the hillside and the clear call from our old friend Bob White from the fields and meadows.

We have sailed this bay before, yet its charm are ever new. Under every new condition of atmosphere, every change of light, every turn of the boat the verdure-covered shores of Brittan's Bay exhibit some new attraction, and it is doubtful if anywhere upon this sphere of ours can be found scenery more charmingly restful and satisfying to the eye.

An hour's stay is to be made at Leonardtown, and this hour we are enabled to improve through the courtesy of Mr. Herbert Moore, of Moore's Hotel, whose team of grays are soon whirling us over the magnificent country roads that make Leonardtown and its vicinity a genuine pleasure resort during the summer months. Moore's Hotel, situated on the hill in the centre of the village, is one of those long, home-like, two-story buildings, and the hostelry is as celebrated for its generous table as it is for the old-time comfort to be found within its roomy interior and on its broad verandas. Between the hotel and bay is a grove of magnificent oaks, and beneath the shades of their ancestors the followers of Calvert smoked the pipe of peace with the Indians when negotiating for the site of this historic old town 250 years ago.

Henry, our driver, is a young man of at least an admixture of the genuine Africanus, who handles the reins in a masterly manner. Henry has apparently reached the apex of his ambition in the fact that he "done driv' Mass' Moore to Washington twice behid' dem same hosses," and that he is "de only cullud pusion round hyah who knows de way to Washington by lan'." Having been instructed to point out the "places of interest" to his passengers he proceeds with all diligence to give us the name of the occupant of every house in town, and if the name of any householder was omitted it was an unintentional oversight and no fault of Henry's.

Returning to the wharf we while away the remaining few minutes of our stay in watching the maneuvers of a young hawk, the pet of the landing. His hawkship is under the hallucination that the meat is some sort of game that he himself has run down and captured. This imaginary game now and then tries to escape his talons, but with a scream he pounces down upon it and tears it savagely with his strong beak. Were the meat like some we occasionally see upon our market stalls the struggle for liberty would undoubtedly result in victory for the meat.

We are soon steaming down the bay and enjoying a breakfast made doubly palatable by our morning drive and the well-cooked, well-served manner in which it is placed before us. The passenger who has the good fortune to journey on the Sae will find the source of hospitality and comfort attending the trip in Capt. Geohagan, who has so long guided his boat through these waters. He is ever looking to the welfare of his guests, and, with the assistance of Purser Wiles, the most exacting passenger is soon made to feel himself a favored guest, and the journey is always pleasant.

A great sweeping curve out into the Potomac, a refreshing sail of an hour, and we touch at Piney Point.
 Here are many pretty girls, with jaunty summer costumes strolling along the beach under gay-colored sun shades; others are lounging in easy chairs upon the cottage porches, and others are idly swinging their hammocks under the pines.—Extract Correspondence Washington Post.

A CUTE REMARK.—A well known Alexander street resident recently grew suspicious of the honesty of his ice man and, barrowing scales, weighed the daily supply for several mornings. His little five-year-old daughter watched the operation with interest and when her new baby brother was taken down to be weighed a few days later she startled the nurse by exclaiming: "There, I 'spose Dod's been cheating on the baby."—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

UNNECESSARILY SCARED.—"Is your young man there, Jennie?" her father shouted down stairs in stentorian tones.
 "Y-es, papa," faltered the poor girl, while cold perspiration began to issue from every pore of the lover's body.
 "All right. Ask him for the score, please; I didn't get it before coming up town."—N. Y. Press.

If the ladies would abandon cosmetics and more generally keep their blood pure and vigorous by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, naturally fair complexions would be the rule instead of the exception, as at present. Pure blood is the best beautifier.
