We take pleasure in submitting to you a plain business proposition and ask you candidly, do there be when looked by quality of goods? We shall be fair with you, our competitors and ourselves and submit prices in black and white and ask you how this month's prices compare with prices you paid prior to Sept. 27, 1901, when we first opened our door to the public, and then ask you to come in and see the goods and compare quality. We are a believer in quality, not quality looked of prices look better than we can. We are frank to tell you that no regular concern doing business with old line companies can match us in prices and quality in all our departments. Some may offer some things at our price or less, but here is a SAFE RULE, COMPARE QUALITY, SIZES and long not by the prices on the other 49 articles. I was a general dealer for 9 years previous to coming here, and bought goods from all the large concerns in the principal cities and also for our present house and I am not putting it too strong when I say on the principal things I could sell at the prices I actually had to pay the other houses. Do you wonder that I offer such a fair test that I had to be convincing? And we ask to submit it to you in the same candid light. WE MAKE NO LEADERS but the way we buy and sell makes everything a leader, and you will always find the quality with the price. I do never occur to you that we were frank enough to come here with a small stock and we stocks that can go into the thousands and submit the test every week in people point our CASH CASH PRICES, that must convince you is you are fair minded, that it always PAYS TO GET IT AT

SOUTH SIDE MAIN ST. JASPER, MO.

HALLOWE'ENERS FOILED.

MARSHAL WARD AND DEPUTIES TOO MUCH FOR THEM

Officers Stay With them till 10 o'clock in the Morning and Prevent the Usual Pranks.

The usual evidences of Hallowe'en were conspicuous by their absence when Jasper arouse Tuesday morning. Not a wagon, pile of wood or even a gate could be seen out of its customary place. This was due to the vigilance of Marshal Ward and a corps of deputies sworn in for the occasion, Messrs A. J. Baker, E. I. Lowerbaugh and Mr. Elliott being his assistants.

There were several bands of boys out for a good time but they were kept so busy dodging the officers that they did not have time to do any damage. The crowds tried to outwit the officers for a while but finally came to the conclusion that they had better go home. To be sure that the boys had given it up boys were the officers kept a watch until 10 o'clock in the morning when they were retired.

The only damage that we have heard of is that of the breaking of the tongue of J. B. Schott's wagon, in an effort to pull the engine off. The boys were stopped in this by the officers before they had gone very far.

BOTH SIDES OF THE QUESTION.

M. E. Benton and C. G. Burton Speak in Jasper.

Jasper had the pleasure of hearing a congressman and an congressman last Monday, the Hon M. E. Benton, the present congressman from this district speaking at 1:30 o'clock and Hon. C. G. Burton a former congressman from the district making an address in the evening.

Owing to the time of day only a few school children were present at the afternoon meeting but at the night meeting the house was comfortably filled.

Mr. Benton, of course spoke from a democratic standpoint. He told of the important work he has done for the district during the past terms, relating the coming of the district courts at Lamar and Neosho. He was frequently cheered while indicated that many of his hearers were in full accord with his remarks.

Mr Burton spoke for about two hours touching on Trust, National, State and congressional politics. His speech was able and received most favorable comment by those in sympathy with his views of the questions at issue.

Star Star.

Dust, dust, dust this everlasting dust and who can tell which is the more dust, so much dust, or so much rain.

In Memoriam.

James Wiley Mitchell.—Born in Tennessee, Nov. 27 1821; Died in Seattle Washington, Oct. 16 1901.

The writer has known the deceased and other members of his family for the past 19 years; first of Jasper Mo., where he were active members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, then in Washington state since 1891, and finally as members of the University M. E. Church, Seattle, of which I am now pastor.

During these latter years he has been in feeble health and unable to walk about, yet they were little aware of the fact. He comes to this coast seeks to have prolonged his life, as he often stated and with the loving ministrations of a devoted wife, a son upon whom he leaned with confidence, and a daughter in law and grandchildren who were a daily comfort he passed his last days in earth peacefully and gracefully, and at the end slipped away so quietly and quickly that the instant of his going was not noted though others were in the room.

In his boyhood his parents moved to Missouri, in which state he spent the greater and more active portion of his life,—in Cedar county from 1846 to 1870 and in Jasper county until 1891, except a brief sojourn in Florida. He married Esther Mackey, Feb 25, 1845. To them were born six children. The wife and youngest son Melvaine A survive him. There are brothers and other grandchildren in the Mississippi valley.

He was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church at an early age, 12 years, and continued a consistent member till his promotion to the Church Triumphant. He belongs to a family of Methodist preachers,—his grandfather, father and three brothers being of that calling. A layman himself he knew how to sympathize with the preacher, and for these many years his lonely life has been a challenge and refutation of the reflection frequently made against preachers' sons.

He was a patriotic and industrious citizen, a brotherly neighbor, a loyal husband and considerate father, a staunch Christian, a pillar in the church. We mourn his departure, yet not with out hope. There was victory in his life and triumph in his death. To think of him is to recall pleasant memories, feel a beneficent influence, and be cheered in his eternal reward.

"Life's labor done, as sinks the clay,
"Light from its load the spirit flies,
"While heaven and earth combine to say
"How blest the dead who die in Lord."

WEEKLY MARKET LETTER.

Interesting Stock News From Our Regular Correspondent.

Special to Jasper News.

Kansas City, Mo., Tuesday, Nov 1st, 1901. Cattle receipts amounting 85,200 head last week put a damper on the hopes for better prices that were raised by the promising opening Monday, fed steers sold at $5.25 Wednesday, the low day of the week, but they were extra good. Since then $5.70 is the best price that has been secured, and that was the top both yesterday and today. Last week's market was lower yesterday but is slow and steady today, so that fed steers are 15 to 25 cents under a week ago. Large number of this class came in from the west last week, some off of ranches, the principal cause of the bad week market. The stuff was steady yesterday and today, but is 25 cents lower than a week ago. Lots of cows last week were too poor for canners and cutters, thereby injuring canner market as much as the general cow market. Not many bulls or heifers sold above $4.25 today, and several strings of medium weight cows before sold at $2.50 to $3.50. Kansas grazed Western and Panhandle steers, 1050 to 1200, sold at $3.50 to $4.25, and good 1300 steers around $4.50 to $4.70. Prices for native fed beef steers are almost sure to be good all winter, account of the reduced number of cattle on feed, but this condition does not seem to draw stocking feeders into line as it should, a reason for the slack demand and low prices of stockers and feeders. Very few of these cattle now bring above $3.50 and $2.75 to $3.10 is the favorite price for fair to good stuff.

Packers are not getting enough hog and yet the price goes down every day. Armour and Company state that they have not had a full half day's killing any day for a long time here, and it is the same way with the others. Top at Kansas City have been from 25 to 10 cents above even Chicago and St. Louis for several days past. Best price today is $5.15, bulk of sales $5.10 to $5.15. Supply here today is 22,000 head, largest receipts in a long time.

Sheep and lamb market continues to climb, and $3.75 was paid today for Native lambs, $4.10 for yearlings, both same records for this season. Prospects are encouraging, and stock and feeding sheep are being taken freely at strong prices, $3.35 to $3.65 for yearlings and yearlings, $3.15 to $3.40 for wethers and yearlings, $2.85 to $3.10 for ewes, $2.60 to $2.80 for culls, according to age and quality.
