FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1905.

A number of Eastern newspapers are discussing the question, why Missouri went Republican at the last election. A more pertinent query would be, why she ever went Democratic.—G. D.

An Opinion of Evans.

The Glasgow Missourian, a Democratic paper, says, in regard to the decision of Judge Evans on the old soldiers, vote: "Judge Evans' decision, that inmates of old soldiers' homes should not be entitled to vote, has given him an unenviable notoriety, and is another evidence of his unfitness for the leadership of the Democratic party in the state. The Governor ought to give Evans a job where his peculiar talents would not serve to make his party unpopular."—Lebanon Republican.

Loyal to Missouri.

A Carthage, Mo., dispatch says: Albert H. Daniels, of Jasper county, is the most loyal of all Missourians, so far as the present record goes. Daniels is getting a divorce from his wife, Clara B. Daniels, because he loves his native state more than his wife. Daniels said he went to Washington last year and married his wife. As soon as they were married he says he told her they would move to Missouri, but she declined. After one week of married life Daniels was forced to come to Missouri alone. He says he would not live anywhere else than in Missouri.

Democrats and Republicans alike must feel a thrill of pride at the proud position of the United States and President Roosevelt in the Peace Conference which has just about reached an agreement at Portsmouth. Kings, presidents and statesmen from all over the world have telegraphed Mr. Roosevelt their congratulations and appreciation of his work in bringing about the treaty soon to be made. Treaties have always been made in Europe with the European states wielding the balance of power. Now the world sees America and Japan, the first comparatively new, the latter a complete stranger among the great nations of the world, occupy commanding parts in the play of international politics.—Fulton Sun.

An observing man asserts that in addition to the other benefits which rural free delivery of mails has conferred upon dwellers in the small country towns, it has exerted a noteworthy influence as a temperance agent. In the old times, he says, when the men folks went down to the store to get the mail, the store usually sold liquor, and they were likely to linger and swap gossip and take a few drinks—or in some cases a great many—before driving back to the farm. Now when the mail is delivered at the farm, the usual practice is to sit down and read the paper the first thing after supper, and when Mr. Farmer has finished that pleasing task he is usually ready to go to bed.

State School Notes.

There is talk of reducing taxation in Missouri. Would it not be wiser to continue the present low rate of 17 cents and distribute more to the dommon schools? The average annual school expenditure per child is about $10. The state furnishes $1.34 of this, about two-fifteenths of the total expenditures. When the state puts $3.00 per child into the common schools, it will exualize the school privileges and the burdens of taxation more nearly as they should be. Instead of reducing taxation, let Missouri spend more for education.

Many teachers seem to fear that troubles may come to them on account of the compulsory attendance law. Lack of knowledge of its provisions and sympathy with its purposes, will make small difficulties seem large. There is nothing more binding now than before to hold an incorrigible child in school. Perhaps a teacher's failure to control and discipline the school properly will attract more attention than formerly. If so, no great harm will result. It will make it more apparent that directors should be more careful in selecting teachers and more willing to pay living wages to good teachers.

Everything points to excellent school work in Missouri this year. September 1905, will be a record breaking month due to a combination of fortunate circumstances. Good crops have encouraged everybody and greater local preparation has been made, new school buildings have been erected or old ones repaired, better libraries and better supplies of all kinds are provided. Teachers have attended summer schools and now enter upon the work better prepared and with more enthusiasm. State Superintendent Carrington has distributed a very comprehensive course of study and plans of work, the most complete and hopeful ever issued by the department in Missouri. The new compulsory attendance law will give more prompt and regular attendence.

Men wear clothes for comfort; women for adornment. Men adjust their clothes to their figures; women adjust their figures to their clothes.

A young man who ran away from home to try his forfune in the far west, spent all his money, was dead broke, and in the hour of hunger stole a chunk of raw meat that he might cook and eat. But the theft was discovered, the young man was arrested and lodged in the county jail. He then wrote home as follows: "Dear father—I find the west to be a great cattle country, but little stirring. Though I was pretty sick when I left home I have picked up some flesh since coming here but am still confined to my room. Please send me fifty dollars."
