The tariff is a tax, and the people pay it whenever they make a purchase. If they buy imported goods, the tax goes into the Federal treasury. If they buy home-made goods, the tax goes into the pockets of the manufacturers.

THE FARMER'S SIDE IN 1891 AND 1892.—A comparison of our exports of agricultural products in September, 1892, with those of September, 1891, does not show that our tariff on foreign goods promotes the sale of the farmers' products or sustains their price.

and returned as cast; that such laws shall be enacted and enforced as will secure to every citizen, be he rich or poor, native or foreign-born, white or black, this sovereign right guaranteed by the Constitution.

"We denounce the continued inhuman outrages perpetrated upon American citizens for political reasons in certain southern States in the Union."

In this connection it will not be inappropriate to quote here an extract from Ex-Speaker Reed's speech at Albany last Saturday.

Speaking of the Force Bill, he says: "They said we could not coerce a State. We coerced eleven. I wish our republicans had more courage and we should coerce them until liberty prevails all over this land."

"This shows the feeling of the most prominent Republican leader in the land toward the Force Bill and the South. Will Mr. Parran, if elected, have the inclination or the ability to oppose such a magnate as the ex-Speaker? We think not, for if he did he would lose caste as a Republican and his influence with the powers of his party would be less than nothing."

When the Republicans had an opportunity to show what they meant by "the integrity of the ballot and the purity of elections" they did it by an attempt to pass the Force Bill, and if power be given them again they will accomplish their purpose.
