DIDN'T SCARE MR. BUSH.

Highway Tried to Hold Him Up, but Made a Failure of It.

New York, April 3.—When Henry R. Bush was returning to his home, at 717 De Graw avenue, Newark, early Thursday, early Thursday from a trip to a nearby mail box, he was halted by a masked man, who ordered to stop.

"I'm armed and desperate, and I want money," said the man.

"Then go and get someone else," said Mr. Bush. "I'm sleepy and I want to go to bed."

"See here," remarked the highwayman, following Mr. Bush, who had started for his home. "You don't realize the situation. I'm holding you up, and you're likely to get shot if you don't stop."

"I refuse to be held up; I'm going home."

"Well, this is the last warning. Stop or I'll shoot," said the masked man.

"Now, my good man, if you think I'm going to waste good time standing around here all night talking with a second rate sneak thief who thinks he's a highwayman, you're mistaken. If you don't go away I'll take you to the police station."

"You might give me a dime, anyhow, said the masked man, putting away his revolver.

"Not one cent," said Mr. Bush.

"I've been wasting my time with a 'cheap skate,'" said the highwayman, and he went away.

Mr. Bush notified the Newark police that there was a highwayman annoying persons in De Graw avenue.
