IN BOSTON MARKETS.

Receipts of Butter Decreasing—Price of Eggs Continues Well Up.

Boston, July 27.—There is little change in the local market for dairy products from the conditions of last week. Butter is still quiet, but there is more doing than there was last week and the market has a steadier undertone, especially on the better grades. Elgin, Ill., quotes extras 1c lower at 27c, but this cut is in line with the trend of other markets and should have no influence on the local situation. Receipts continue to decrease and the proportion of fine goods also is diminishing. Further declines are noted in primary cheese markets, and the local market is dull and easy on everything but fancy goods, of which the supply is small. Hennery eggs are short and firm, and choice gathered stock is none too plenty and holds up well in price.

Jobbing quotations:—

Butter—Fancy northern creamery, tubs 30½@31½c, boxes 31½@32½c, prints 32@33c; western creamery, spruce tubs 30½@31c, ash tubs 32@33c, fair to good creamery 29@30c, fancy dairy 29@30c.

Cheese—New York fancy 16½@17¼c, Vermont 15½@16c, Young Americas 17½@18c, old sage 17½@18c.

Eggs—Fancy hennery 32@34c, choice eastern 28@30c, fresh western 25@26c.

PRICES GO DOWN.

Process of Forced Liquidation In the Stock Market.

New York, July 27.—A process of forced liquidation was responsible for some very severe declines in prices in the stock market yesterday. The effect was most pronounced in stocks that pay no dividends.

Calls for additional margin and discrimination against collateral loans forced these stocks on a market in which no demand existed.

Some steadying effect was caused in the market leaders by the demand from shots to cover, even while the less prominent stocks were declining precipitately. The break in corn helped to steady prices.

GETS MORE SNAKE SERUM.

Bitten Man Expects Death; Doctors Say He Will Live.

New York, July 27.—Charles Raulck, who was bitten by a rattlesnake and is a patient in Bellevue, is being watched carefully by surgeons of the hospital and of the Rockefeller institute. It is the first time the serum for snake bite has been tried, hence there is great interest in the progress of the case.

Several injections were given to Rauick Monday, the serum being shot into the elbow and shoulder of the now enormously swollen right arm. The man has suffered from hemorrhages and cannot eat.

The physicians feel his recovery is certain, but say it will be several days before he is about. They ascribe many of his symptoms to the serum as much as to the bite. One of the effects has been a mental depression, the patient believing he is going to die.

About the State

Although 82 years old, William Leonard of Hinesburg did all the raking on 62 acres of hay and pitched on one load this year.

The Empire Egg Maker company has leased the Vermont School Seat company building in Rutland and will move there soon from Bristol.

G. F. Burnham, who lives near Dummerston, stepped through a ladder from the scaffold in his barn recently. His foot caught and he hung head down until help reached him. He has been very lame since.

H. A. Harris, who is employed in a blacksmith ship in Springfield, came near losing one eye a few days ago, when hot babbitt metal spattered into it. The injury is very painful, but it is hoped to save the sight of the eye.

Harry and Tracy, the ten and nine-year-old sons of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Teachout of Essex Junction, are seriously ill with spinal trouble. Harry became ill Thursday and Tracy on Friday. They are unable to walk. It is said it is not spinal meningitis.

The Westerly Sun, in an item concerning the large number of automobile tourists in that state, says that Vermont machines are seen the least of any state in that section of the country and are nearly as scarce as those of California or any other western state. Last year there were only two California cars in Westerly and one this year so far, while New York state contributes most of the touring parties in that section.

Harold Reed, aged 16, who was riding a bicycle, collided with an automobile a few days ago in East Dummerston and was badly hurt. He was on the wrong side of the road and did not see the approaching auto in time to avoid the collision. He was thrown off, bruised, cut and badly shaken up, while his bicycle was a total wreck and the auto had a lamp destroyed and was otherwise damaged.

While Mrs. George White of Townshend was helping get in hay recently, she fell a distance of eight feet in the barn, striking on her head and shoulders. It was at first feared that she was injured internally, but she is improving and no complications are expected. Mrs. Carl Johnson of the same place was injured in a similar manner, as she fell from a hay loft while helping in the barn. Her back was injured, but not seriously.

Mrs. Delphina Bassett of Burlington, who celebrated the 88th anniversary of her birth Sunday, has spent her entire life in the house where she now lives, it having been built in 1816. She has grown up with the city and can recall many interesting facts concerning the place. She was the daughter of Charles Parady, the proprietor of one of the first blacksmith shops in Burlington, who sold a piece of his land for the railroad, which ran through the center of the town.

The retiring state commissioner of fisheries and game, H. G. Thomas, reports the number of deer killed out of season for the past two years as follows: Illegally killed, 381; killed by dogs, 108; wounded and killed by orders of wardens, 60; by railroad trains, 24; killed in wire fence, 6; killed by lynxes, 17; by mowing machine, 1; poisoned, 2; killed by lightning, 1; killed in snare, 1; died a natural death, 3; cause of death unknown, 41; total, 714. Commissioner Thomas has received reports of the following deer killed by dogs in July: one each in the towns of Vergennes and Highgate; shot or otherwise illegally killed, one each in the towns of Windsor, Weston, Johnson and Brunswick; total, six.

Within the last year Windsor has come before the public with a new building which is a model of handiwork and the home of the Windsor Machine company. The entire building, 584 feet long and 86 feet wide, will be used for the manufacture of the Gridley automatic lathe. The ribbed glass of the skylight lets in plenty of light, but prevents the sun's rays from penetrating, while the ventilation is perfect and it is considered that the plant is the finest workroom in the New England states. It took 1,950 barrels of cement for the construction of the main building and 200 for the boiler room, engine room, etc., while in the roof alone were used 35 tons of bolts and 23,500 pounds of spikes. The smokestack is 175 feet high and after it was completed, Mrs. Robert Cleave, wife of the foreman bricklayer, stood upon the cap at its top and was photographed in that position. The building will be well protected from fire, as there are to be ten hydrants around it.

REMARKABLE WAR RECORD.

John A. Sheldon, Rutland's Deceased Postmaster, Active in Civil War.

The war record of John A. Sheldon, postmaster of Rutland, who died Monday, was remarkable. At the outbreak of the Civil war, he was bookkeeper in the store of Sheldon, Morgan & Slason at West Rutland and left there to enlist with the Rutland light guards, which became Company K, 1st Vermont infantry, becoming second sergeant. May 2, 1861, the company was mustered into service for three months and was ordered to Fortress Monroe. In this vicinity and at Newport News he served out his enlistment. He participated in the battle of Big Bethel.

Mr. Sheldon then returned to Rutland, but he soon enlisted again, becoming captain of Company C, 10th Vermont volunteers, which he commanded for two years. He went through the Wilderness campaign, fighting in every battle in which his regiment was engaged, until temporarily disabled and excused from duty the latter part of May. At Spottsylvania he was again disabled and sent to a field hospital. He returned to duty at the crossing of the James river and went up to Bermuda Hundreds, when the 6th army corps was ordered there to the asistance of General Butler, and was with these troops when they were sent to Ream's station. He was also with the troops sent to meet Gen. Early's invasion of Maryland and his attempt to capture Washington. Capt. Sheldon commanded his company in the famous battle of Monocacy, July 9, 1864.

He was appointed captain, A. C. S., U. S. volunteers, June 30, 1864, but did not receive his commission until the latter part of July. Capt. Sheldon began his duties as A. C. S. in the army of the Potomac, where, however, he remained only three months. He was then ordered to City Point, and for a short time was a member of Gen. Grant's staff, but, as he put it, he "had nothing to do" and asked to be relieved. He was assigned to duty in a brigade of the James. He resigned from the service March 18, 1865.

In politics Mr. Sheldon was a Republican. He served for three years as a selectman of the town of Rutland; was a trustee of the village for two years and president of the board for one year. Upon the incorporation of the city of Rutland, he was made a member of the board of aldermen, and after serving in this capacity for two years he was elected mayor of the city for one year. In 1876 Mr. Sheldon represented the town of Rutland in the legislature and was senior aide-de-camp on the staff of Gov. Horace Fairbanks during his term of office, with the rank of colonel.

April 20, 1897, he was appointed postmaster of Rutland, which office he held at the time of his death.

February 20, 1900, he was elected commander of the Vermont department, G. A. R., and he has also served as commander of Roberts post of Rutland.

Hunter and Hunted.

A near-sighted sportsman strolled into a little hotel on the shores of Loch Carron and, complaining, said: "Just seen a seel, shot at it three times and missed it each time."

At dinner an hour later he sat next to a tourist who had a bandage around his head.

"Had an accident?" asked the sportsman.

"Accident," growled the other. "Attempted murder, you mean. I was having a bath about an hour ago, when some lunatic with a gun fired at me three times from the shore and shot part of my ear off. I don't know why such animals are allowed out without a license."

Then silence reigned supreme.—London Telegraph.
