CURRENT COMMENT

United States Not Alone.

The United States is not the only country that has had trouble with Russia over the admission of Jewish subjects or citizens to the realms of the czar. London newspapers recount the experience of a Jewish officer of the British army who going to his post in the East was refused permission because of his religion to travel on the Trans-Siberian railroad. A remonstrance from the British government was required to move the St. Petersburg authorities from their first determination. After an active correspondence, the Russian government reluctantly consented, as an act of comity, to the officer becoming a passenger on the Trans-Siberian.—Boston Transcript.

An Estimate of "Bob" Evans.

Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans, who died yesterday, had all the qualities that go to make up a first-class fighting man and a popular hero. It has been said of him that he was "full of fight from his toenails to his topknot." It might also have been said that he was full of strange oaths and whimsical expressions that caught the public ear every time he spoke. Withal, he was an excellent commander, a quick thinker, the sturdiest kind of American and a good combination of the old-time seadog and the modern commander. He it was who started the "Sweet Sixteen" around the world. That was one of the finest assignments a naval officer ever received in times of peace, but it was no child's job, and the way in which Evans started his fleet to the corners of the world was enough in itself to fix his place in the history of the navy.—Boston Evening Herald.

The Tennis Fiasco.

There will be no disposition to detract from the victory won by the brilliant tennis players of Australia against our chosen team. The invincible Brookes was not called upon to face Larned; but his victory over the brilliant and plucky McLoughlin in a desperate match was sufficient evidence of his class. The Davis cup rightly stays below the line.

The real regret among tennis players in this country will be over the collapse of our team. Neither of our singles team was able to play on the final day, Larned having a strained tendon and Beals Wright being reported as indisposed. Thus one of the matches was defaulted, and McLoughlin was enable to face Brookes only through the sportsmanship of the opposing team. Of course, these final matches could not have affected the result. But such a quitting of the field does not make pleasant reading and is not in accord with the fighting quality of American sportsmanship.

There was much criticism of the American team when it was chosen, and that criticism has not been removed by the reports from New Zealand.—New York Evening Sun.

Taft's Firm Statement.

The last word from the White House is as definite as could be desired. Will the president withdraw as a candidate for renomination? "Nothing but death can keep me out of the fight now"—are the words reported yesterday as coming from his lips. This is a commendable resolution. The president is at least entitled to the judgment of the party convention upon his administration and the uniform way in the past, with one or two exceptions, like that of President Hayes, has been to deliver the judgment by passing upon the specific question of giving the president a renomination. Mr. Taft, having done his best, simply declares that he will not tamely lie down and eat out of the hand of an ambitious rival. His position is entitled to public respect. If the Republican party does not desire Mr. Taft as its next candidate, its national convention possesses the power to reject him and turn to another.—Springfield Republican.

A Generous Example.

Mrs. Fletcher D. Proctor and the heirs of the late governor have set a splendid example by their proposal to carry out the provisions of an unexecuted codicil of Governor Proctor's will and devote a generous sum of money from his estate to the treasury of a worthy philanthropic institution in Burlington. To be sure it may be said in all truth that they do not need the money, but anybody that knows something of the Proctor household spirits knows full well that that is not the reason why the money is being spent. It was manifestly the late governor's intention to make this bequest—and that is enough for them. Really the only point in this affair for newspaper comment that does not obtrude upon the sacredness of domestic plans and a family sorrow, is the suggestion that all too many people blessed with abundant means would not hesitate to permit the legal technicality of an unexecuted codicil to defeat a good intention and thus retain the money in the family purse.—St. Albans Messenger.

Didn't Make Good.

"The annual report of the Vermont state bank commissioner shows an increase in bank deposits of $5,042,627.56—the largest increase, with one exception, ever known in a single year of Vermont banking. For the past seven or eight years, by the way, Vermont has been a local option state."—Portland Eastern Argus.

Of course, the contemporary would not have the reader gain the impression that this increase in bank deposits was because Vermont was a local option state, but rather that the increase was in spite of it.

When the change in the liquor law was being advocated in 1902, one of the arguments earnestly advanced by the opposition was that the departure from prohibition would result in great losses of popular savings. The results have not borne out this gloomy prophecy. To be sure, the state banks are now operating under a law exempting deposits from taxation to their owners, so that a large part of the increase is properly chargeable to money that has been drawn from hiding by this liberal statute. But even at that, all other indications point to the usual, normally healthy growth in savings bank deposits here, year by year, liquor law or no liquor law.

The point is, simply, that the ante-election arguments against local option, generally speaking, never have proved themselves since we have had local option and tested it.—St. Albans Messenger.

ABOUT THE STATE

Happenings of Interest From Different Sections.

Ernest A. Todd, employed in Brattleboro, went to his home in Fitzwilliam, N. H., to spend Christmas and acted as Santa Claus at a Christmas tree celebration. A set of false whiskers, made from cotton batting, caught fire from a candle on the tree and before he could tear the stuff from his face he was considerably burned.

Mrs. Leon Farr of Proctorsville was badly burned recently when her clothing caught fire while she was starting the fire in the morning. She was about to touch off the fire, when the head of the snap match flew off and onto her clothing. Her husband, who was sleeping in the next room, was awakened by her cries and came to her assistance. The flames were extinguished, but not until her body and lower limbs were badly burned.

Lieut. Tom. D. Barber, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Barber of Burlington, has been sharing somewhat in the excitement of the revolution in China, according to a letter received by Mr. Barber, written by his son on board the U. S. S. Rainbow, in Shanghai, China, November 29. There are 400 marines aboard the Rainbow and Lieutenant Barber writes that they have been standing by to protect foreign property during the revolution.

Burlington city court during the quarter just closed was not a paying institution, financially, as is sometimes the case, since the costs taxed against the state were $1,342.66 and the fines and costs paid in were $891.67, making a deficit of $450.00. During the quarter preceding the amount collected exceeded the costs by a small margin, but this was due to the fact that an unusual number of prosperous clients was unearthed, several in that quarter paying the $300 fine imposed in liquor selling cases.

Sheriff J. H. Allen has prepared his annual report of the work done by Chittenden county prisoners during the past year. The prisoners during the period have earned a total of $921.72 doing outside work. They worked in all, 919 and 11-15 days and therefore averaged something over $1 a day. The report shows a total of $175.25 for expenses, such as car tickets, tools, shoes, and clothing, which amount will be deducted from the total earned. The report will be submitted to the assistant judges for their approval and to the county supervisor.

At a special city meeting it was voted to bond St. Albans to the amount of $19,500 for the purpose of reimbursing the city council for the money paid for extraordinary expenses during the year brought about by the condition of the well house at the lower reservoir and the necessity for pumping water from St. Albans bay. This amounts to $70,000. The remainder, $12,500, is to pay back to the state treasury the United States deposit fund, called in by the act of 1906. While this fund remains unpaid, the city has to pay state interest on the principle at the rate of five per cent. per annum. These bonds are to be floated at four per cent. and then save the city a considerable sum in the interest charged each year.

What started as a friendly squabble in the blacksmith shop at the Fairbanks scale works, St. Johnsbury, last Friday, between two workmen, may have serious results. George H. Hyde, a small man, was carrying some coal through the shop when Ernest Sivagney, a large fellow, grabbed him and tossed him one side. Hyde was taken by surprise and struck at Sivagney, and the latter, losing his temper, struck Hyde a heavy blow on the jaw, knocking him down. Hyde's lower jaw was broken, and an operation was performed at Brightlook hospital, where he is making good recovery now. When Sivagney found how seriously he had hurt his victim, he notified the authorities, but no legal proceedings have been instituted, as it is hoped the two men can make a satisfactory settlement between themselves.

A party of young men returning from a basketball game in Bellows Falls to Westminster, saw flames bursting from the house of Mrs. Mary Jennison, Tuesday, Dec. 26. When they reached the house, they found it empty, the owner, Mrs. Jennison, being in Massachusetts to spend the winter, and the upstairs tenants, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wright, being in Walpole, N. H. A few articles of furniture belonging to Mrs. Jennison were saved, but nothing was saved from the upper tenement, and the family found themselves destitute of everything except the clothes which they had on. With the regular furniture belonging to the Wrights were burned the gifts they received at the time of their marriage last June and 25 hens. They had no insurance. The fire started in the barn and it is surmised it was started by tramps sleeping in the hay, though no evidence was found to that effect.

MAGNESITE INCREASE.

Opening of Panama Canal Will Bring Pacific Coast Product into Competition.

The value of crude magnesite mined in 1910 ($74,658) is almost twice that of the production in 1909, according to Charles G. Yale in his report on magnesite issued by the United States geological survey as an advance chapter from "Mineral Resources of the United States" for 1910. While the production of the crude ore has materially increased, the rapid rise in value is due to the constantly growing demand for the calcined product. No crude ore is offered for sale, but after being calcined, the output is used mainly in manufacturing paper from wood pulp; it is also used in making artificial stone, fireproof flooring and tiling, and in brick or plaster form for lining furnaces and covering steampipes. The entire front of one large building in San Francisco was recently constructed of molded calcined magnesite in blocks and ornaments. The material was first calcined and then ground to a fine powder and was then made into a plastic cement and molded in the desired forms. The fine waste of the crude ore mined is now being utilized at California chicken ranches as a substitute for oyster shells and other substances fed to fowls for hardening the eggshells.

California the Only Producer.

The only deposits of magnesite in the United States which have been commercially utilized are those situated in the valley and coast countries of California, and the entire output is consumed on the Pacific coast, the cost of transportation to points east of the Rocky mountains being prohibitive. It is for this reason that large quantities of raw and calcined magnesite continue to be imported from Greece, Hungary, and other countries, the imports increasing each year. It is the belief of Frank L. Hess, of the geological survey that the opening of the Panama canal will bring the California magnesite into successful competition in the entire United States with the imported product.

According to Mr. Yale's figures the imports of magnesia and magnesite, both calcined and crude, for 1910, amounted to 356,512.243 pounds, valued at $1,578,683, an increase of 121,072.377 pounds, with a value of $537,265 over the amount imported for 1909. A copy of the report on magnesite can be obtained on application to the director of the geological survey, Washington, D. C.
