Ernest Wood, who broke out of the town lock-up in Castleton last summer, was rearrested March 20 and is now held to appear in this term of Rutland county court.

Five immigrant trains passed through Island Pond for the Canadian northwest on Monday and Tuesday of last week. The total of the passengers was in the neighborhood of 2,000.

Alvin Cummings of Montpelier has loaned the historical society of that city a knife used by one of his grandfathers in ripping open a tea chest at the Boston tea party. For many years Mr. Cummings' mother had a quantity of the tea in her possession, but it has been lost.

A resolution presented by Manager Callagher of the Chrysolite Asbestos Co., commending the attitude of the Grand Trunk Railroad company and looking toward the construction of a road from Waterbury to North Troy through the Missisquoi valley, was heartily adopted by the voters of Lowell at the annual town meeting.

From the Jeudeville Memorial and Hathaway free libraries in Hardwick during the past 12 months, 10,341 books have been loaned, a sizeable gain over last year.

Dr. Currier of Newport has an old sermon preached in Washington, Conn., in 1805. This copy was reprinted in Middlebury in 1812. The title page reads as follows: "The Fatal Effects of Ardent Spirits, A Sermon by Ebenezer Porter." It has been stated that no temperance literature was printed in Vermont at such an early date, but the copy owned by Dr. Currier of Newport speaks for itself.

Morgan is the only town in Orleans county which had no fires in 1911 and therefore sustained no losses from this source. Holland, in the same county, had one fire, which entailed a loss of $288. Irasburg had nine fires and led the county in aggregate losses with $22,549.

Mrs. Joseph Gardner of South Hero was taken to the Mary Fletcher hospital in Burlington last week suffering with a broken leg which she sustained by falling down stairs. The broken bone protruded through the flesh. Mrs. Gardner received other injuries and as she is over 60 years old, her condition is considered serious.

"The Green Mountain Flyer," a march written by Bert A. Brehmer of Rutland, was one of the features at a musical given by Mr. Brehmer's students recently.

The death of Congressman David J. Foster brings to mind the fact that only two members of Congress from Vermont have died in office. Jonathan Hunt of Brattleboro, who died in May, 1831, was a lawyer of considerable fame. His death occurred during his third term in Congress. It will be recalled that two of Congressman Hunt's sons attained renown, William M. Hunt, the artist, and Richard M. Hunt, the architect, whose most notable work is the New York state capitol at Albany. Congressman James Meecham of Middlebury, a native of Rutland, and a one-time Congregational minister, died in August, 1856, during his fifth term.
