Quaker RANGES

The Range of Strength

Quaker Ranges are built for service—not for show. The castings are heavy and flawless, fitting together as though moulded in one piece.

There are no useless or complicated devices used only for advertising "talking points," but the simple and scientific construction steadily developed for more than half a century has nearly reached perfection in the new Quaker Models which we are proud to show you on our floor today.

MR. PROUTY AND LABOR.

Explains Conditions at Bradford and Newport Electric Plants.

White River Junction, Oct. 30.—Candidate Charles A. Prouty closed the Prouty canvass here to-night before an audience of some 250 people. He devoted much of his speech to explaining the labor conditions in his plants at Bradford and Newport. He said in part:

"Since morning my attention has been called to another advertisement headed 'Prouty and Labor,' in which reference is made to the treatment of its employes by the Bradford Electric Light company, which I control. While these facts might have been stated at any time, the subject is brought before the public at the last moment, when it is too late to present my side to more than a limited number. The facts are these:

"The Bradford plant is a very small concern. Before I bought it some half dozen years ago it gave only an all-night service and one man did the work at all times. I remodelled the plant and put in a 24-hour service.

"This plant is operated by water power and is equipped with modern appliances. When everything goes right the station runs itself. I have sat on the lawn in front of the station talking with the station man an entire evening, and he did not find it necessary to go inside once. There is, under ordinary conditions, nothing to do, and no machine or instrument to watch; it is only necessary to remain in hearing and seeing distance:

"I employ in the operation of this plant three men, not two as stated. The two stationmen are ordinary laborers, although one of the present men has developed into an expert. The third man is in general charge of the plant and must be of a higher grade. The wages of the cheapest man is $10 a week, of the second man $12. I do not remember the exact weekly stipend of the third man; it is materially more, and he receives in addition a percentage of the gross receipts above a certain amount, which is also substantial. The above amounts are base salaries, and to them is added 25 cents per week for each year of service, that is, if a man has been in service four years his compensation has been increased by $1 a week.

"These men have a vacation of two weeks with pay. In case of sickness my instructions are to pay them for two weeks and then call the matter to my attention. I am confident that the Bradford company paid each of these men between July 1, 1913, and July 1, 1914, more money than he had ever received for his services during any year of his whole life.

"My instructions to the head man are that he shall run the station himself and give the station men time off as they may desire and as he may be able to give it, equivalent to one day a week.

"So far as I know the men are contented. One of them has been there five years, another four and one-half years. The boy who filled the $10 place recently left to enter a business school and we received numerous applications for the place, all from residents of Bradford, who knew the duties of the position and the compensation.

"Since my opponents have made this issue I may properly add the following statement:

"Seven or eight years ago I had occasion to employ at Newport a gang of unskilled laborers. The 10-hour day was then universally applied with labor of that class in that vicinity. When work began I went onto the job myself for three or four days. At the end of that time I told my foreman that in my opinion when those men had actually worked for nine hours they had done enough for one day and that he might knock off at 5 o'clock. This was done and that gang worked all summer on a nine-hour schedule while all other laborers of the same class in that vicinity worked 10 hours.

"I may still further add that I paid those men 25 cents a day more than the going price for similar labor in that section and that other employers of labor remonstrated with me both as to the day and the price."

News has been received of the death of D. D. Moulton, and the body was brought from Boston Thursday for burial at East Randolph. Mr. Moulton had been a resident here for many years but had recently spent the winters with his son in Boston. He spent the summer here in his usual health and returned to the home of his son about a month ago.

WHY GOOD BLOOD IS RED

Why are we continually being told that good blood must be bright red? What has color to do with the quality?

Just this. The oxygen in the air is the great supporter of animal life. One business of the blood is to take oxygen from the air (which it meets in the lungs) and deliver it to the tissues of the body. When the blood, filled with life-sustaining oxygen, is sent out by the heart it is bright red. When it returns, filled with impurities, and deprived of its oxygen, it is dark.

From this it is clear that there are two prime requisites of health, pure air and bright red blood—the pure air to furnish the oxygen, the rich blood to carry it where it is needed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make the blood rich and red because they increase its power to carry oxygen, actually making it so much more able to carry increased life and strength to every organ of the body. Try these tonic pills and note the increased color in cheeks and lips; see how your nerves become steadier, you appetite better, your digestion stronger, your step quicker, your troubles lighter.

"Building Up the Blood" is a handy little book to have. It is free on request from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

A CAMPAIGN LIE NAILED

On the eve of election a long statement has been published in the Brattleboro Reformer, and copied by other papers, stating among other things, that Harland B. Howe is not supporting Hon. Charles A. Prouty, our candidate for United States senator. We wish to inform the public that this statement is not true. The Democratic party never have been more united than in this campaign and we are supporting the whole ticket, including Hon. Charles A. Prouty for senator. It is perfectly apparent where the inspiration for this statement as published in the Reformer came from. During the campaign Senator Dillingham and his supporters have used their utmost endeavors against the Democratic state ticket. We expected this, and we urge all Democrats to support our entire ticket.

MR. PROUTY'S FITNESS

Editor, Barre Times:—The Democratic campaign committee is in receipt of the following letter from Col. W. J. Bryan, as to Mr. Prouty's fitness for U. S. senator:

"The Democrats of Vermont are to be congratulated upon the action taken by the Democratic committee of that state in endorsing the candidacy of Charles A. Prouty for the United States Senate. The withdrawal of the Democratic nominee, Charles D. Watson, in order that Mr. Prouty might have the full progressive strength of all parties in Vermont was a wise and patriotic step. Mr. Prouty has already been nominated by the Progressives and the Prohibitionists. This endorsement of the Democratic committee and the placing of his name on the Democratic ticket will assure him the votes of the real progressives in Vermont, irrespective of political affiliations.

Judge Prouty is the kind of man needed in the United States Senate, particularly at this time, when so many measures of vast importance to the people are coming before that body. As interstate commerce commissioner for 18 years he impressed the country with his aggressive honesty, his great ability and his sense of fairness. He has been on the side of the public against the aggressions of greed at all times and was a progressive when progressive principles were not as popular as they are to-day. He has ever stood as a champion of right against might and by his fights, regardless of consequences to himself, has made the burden of the common man lighter and easier to bear. He has, in his official capacity, used his influence to secure the enactment of transportation laws for the protection of the masses who were not so situated as to properly protect themselves against the avarice of monopoly.

He was the pioneer in the advocacy of governmental regulation of railroad rates, which has proven of such inestimable value to the people of the United States. He has been thoroughly tried and found to be true to the highest ideals of public service. It is, therefore, eminently fitting that he should now be the non-partisan leader, having behind him the united support of those representing these principles in the present campaign in the old Green Mountain state. In this contest there are no partisan entanglements to confuse the issue. Judge Prouty is carrying the banner of truth and justice and his election will mean the triumph of that "righteousness which exalteth a nation."

(Signed) W. J. Bryan.

We have a letter from Mr. Franklin K. Lane, secretary of interior, who served many years on the interstate commerce commission, giving a strong endorsement of Mr. Prouty.

We also have a telegram from ex-Governor of Missouri Joseph W. Folk, expressing a wish for Mr. Prouty's election on the ground of his fitness for the great office of senator. Postmaster Burleson heartily endorses Mr. Prouty as one of the Progressives of the country. If Mr. Prouty is good enough for the Progressives and Prohibitionists and for the above named prominent Democrats, he is surely good enough for Democrats, who devoutly pray that they may see a speedy end of stand-pattism.

RASH ON BABY'S FACE AND NECK

Also Chest. Then on Head. Took Off Great Patches of Hair. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed.

Elm St., Mechanic Falls, Me.—"Our baby's face, neck and chest first broke out with a kind of rash and seemed to be sore for washing hurt her so. Her head was covered with great scabs and when we put ——— on, it lifted the scabs and left her head all raw where they came off. It also took off great patches of hair. She acted as if it smarted terribly and would not stop scratching it only made it worse. It was red and covered with little spots of blood.

"A friend told me how Cuticura Soap and Ointment had cured her little girl who suffered agonies with eczema. We got some and in a short time her face, neck and chest were entirely well of the eczema. Then her head began to have patches like dandruff. She had it before she had the eczema and her hair came out in patches. It itched terribly and the dandruff formed big brown scabs. She would scratch them off and leave her head all raw underneath. We thought perhaps Cuticura Soap and Ointment would cure that, too. They softened the scalp and lifted the scabs and at the same time healed her head underneath. Her hair stopped coming out and grew fast. Now she is completely healed of the trouble."
