Saint Mary's Beacon. COUNTY NEWS.

St. Mary's Academy.

The Eighth Annual Commencement of St. Mary's Academy, Leonardtown, took place Wednesday, June 21, 1899, and was largely attended from every section of the county.

The Academy is situated on the old Blakstone estate near Leonardtown—one of the healthiest and prettiest locations in the State—and is under the management of the Sisters of Charity, of Nazareth, Ky., than whom there are no better qualified or more successful teachers in the Union. The Academy has on its roll 64 pupils. The exercises of Commencement day demonstrated to all who attended how well the good Sisters know how to train their pupils, and their knowledge extends not only to literature, but to what is of special importance—domestic economy. The needle work of the pupils must be seen to be appreciated, and to the splendid rendition of the Commencement programme it is impossible to do justice in the brief space of a newspaper report. Neither have we time nor space to mention all the pupils who won the right of drawing for the medals or achieved distinction in their studies. This and other interesting information is contained in the Catalogue of the Academy, a pamphlet which we hope those of our readers, who have daughters to school, will obtain and carefully read.

[Reported for the Beacon]

Heiger-Bean.—A beautiful wedding took place at Poplar Hill Church, Thursday last, at 3 o'clock, p. m., the contracting parties being Mr. Luther Heiger, of Baltimore, and Miss Carrie Bean, of St. George's section. Rev. M. H. Vaughan performed the ceremony. Mr. Jack Bean, brother of the bride, was best man. The maids of honor were Miss Lucille Milburn and Olive Guyther, two pretty little brown-eyed maidens. They were attired in lovely white costumes and each carried a basket of choice flowers. They preceded the happy-looking bride and groom to the altar where, under a magnificent floral arch from which was suspended an immense wedding bell, the ceremony took place. The bride, one of St. Mary's most beautiful daughters, was attired in a handsome travelling costume with hat and gloves to match. The groom wore the conventional black suit with white tie. After receiving the congratulations of their many friends they left, per Steamer Sue, for Baltimore, where they will reside. H.

Farmers' Club.—Brittan's Neck Farmers' Club met at the residence of J. J. Alvey's, with seven members present. Mr. James T. Abell was called to the chair in the absence of the president. The roll was called and the proceedings of the last meeting read and approved. The examining committee made the following report: We, the examining committee, have looked over Mr. Alvey's farm and find the crop of wheat looking very well; corn crop the same; tobacco in barns neatly baled; 6000 farm fencing nicely and conveniently arranged; a nice lot of corn in the crib; stock in good condition; farm implements well cared for; dwelling neat and comfortable.

J. CLYDE ABELL, W. GOUGH, J. C. CRYER, Committee. On motion of Mr. Davis, Messrs. John and Robert Reeder were elected honorary members. On motion of Mr. Gough, an order was passed authorizing the treasurer to pay J. T. Abell thirty dollars to buy necessary repairs for wheat thrasher, and to be returned to same by the treasurer of stock company at the end of the threshing season.

The subject—Kitchen Garden—was then taken up and discussed. The paper read by J. C. Cryer at the last meeting was requested to be published with today's proceedings. The paper read as follows: Kitchen Garden.—This subject is of great importance, but the practice is too little cared for comparatively when we know so well the many advantages we have when we have plenty of nice vegetables. I mean when I say too little attention, that this branch should always be looked after first, and not so as many I know, only plant and work them when we have nothing else to do. We are not farmers when we have to buy what we can raise on our farms, or be deprived of them as many of us are. Too little attention is paid to the preparing and planting. I can safely say if we farmers would stop and listen to the one who has to prepare the food for us (the wife) we would seldom neglect this important feature of our passing summer. I will now proceed to give you a few methods of my twelve years' practice, with good results. I broadcast my garden with stable manure very thick and plow it in in the fall. Leave it stand until the early spring, and when it is in condition I prepare it and lay off my pea rows in 8 inch double rows 2½ feet apart, so they very thick. Onions 2½ feet in drills 8 inches apart. Lettuce and radishes also in drills 3 feet apart. It is always best to have your garden so arranged as to be able to work it with cart-wagon and horse, and by putting small hoek on cultivator you can commence to work the vegetables when 1 inch high. Always sprinkle a little commercial fertilizer in drills. Stick etten dwarf peas, as the wind will throw them about and cause them to yellow sooner. Cucumbers and pumpkins should be planted about 4 feet apart, as they need shade to keep them green. Lima beans can be planted so one pole will support four hills. Stick the pole in the centre of the four hills and stick a small slab at each hill, tie a cord to same, and extend it to top of pole, which should be about seven feet. All small seeds sown in dry weather should be trod by foot or rolled with a heavy roller to keep the moisture within the soil. Beets and parsnips should not be thinned while wet. Early potatoes should never be dug and put away in summer. Leave them in the ground until the fall if you do not need them. They will not take the second growth.

Mr. Abell thought it best to spread the manure on the land, but not turn it in, and rather favored sowing peas thin. Had had good results from the application of hog hair on potatoes, and thought the only way to make late cabbage was to pick the bugs and worms from same by hand.

Mr. Gough thought the best way to plant celery was to spade out a trench 8x12 inches and put in rich dirt and manure, plant the plants and as they grew work the dirt in around them. Never watered and had good results.

Mr. Clyde Abell thought woodpile screenings the best manure for sweet potatoes and recommended clay soil for same. Mr. J. J. Alvey recommended planting late potatoes deep and brush the land off just before the sprout made its appearance through the land. A motion was made to adjourn, but, before doing so, the chair appointed Mr. J. T. Abell as the next meeting place and Messrs. W. S. Davis, J. J. Alvey and Stephen Alvey as the examining committee. The subject for next meeting—The handling of tobacco on this date.

The club, together with the Messrs Reeder, were invited to an adjoining room, where a nice table of refreshments awaited them, and it was hard to refuse and say enough when we had such pleasant and hospitable young ladies to serve us. A vote of thanks were tendered the host and hostess, and last, but not least, the Misses Page Alvey and May and Blanche Graves.

W. S. DAVIS, Secretary.

Lowtown Local.

Next to the ever-memorable voyage of Columbus (1492) which changed the geography of the world, was the voyage of the illustrious founder of Maryland, Sir George Calvert, Lord Baltimore, a Roman Catholic, who had been Secretary to James I. Columbus gave us America and Calvert 140 years thereafter, displaying an enlightened understanding and a benevolent heart the gifts of Him who doeth all things with consummate wisdom—sought a home in the New World where—universal toleration of religion and a system of equity and humanity could be practiced. Your correspondent, ever desirous of every citizen proffered by a kind friend visited St. Mary's recently with the view of looking at the sacred spot once hallowed by the footsteps of its founders.

Nature seems to have had this spot in view for the glorious purpose for which it was destined, for its natural beauty cannot be excelled. Aye, natural indescribable encircles this Eden of Columbia's fair land, and the monument erected near the site of the old State house is a beautiful and suitable memorial to the great principles which underlies it.

We take the pleasure to reproduce the inscriptions thereon, premising that while our soul is confined in its body of earth we shall not forget our pleasant visit to St. Mary's, and shall endeavor to keep a green spot in our memory and a tender place in our heart for the kind friend who accompanied us there.

INSRIPTIONS. North, Leonard Calvert Second Son of George Calvert, First Baron of Baltimore, and Anne his wife. Led the first Colonists to Maryland Nov. 22nd, 1633—Mar. 3rd, 1634, Founded St. Mary's Mar. 27th, 1634, died June 9th, 1647. East. Erected on the site of the old mulberry tree under which the first Colonial of Maryland assembled to establish a Government where the persecuted and oppressed of every creed—and of every clime might repose in peace and security, adore their common God and enjoy the precious blessings of Civil and religious liberty.

South. By his wisdom, Justice, and fidelity he fostered the infancy of the colony, guided it through great perils and dying left it at peace. The descendants and successors of the men he governed, here record their grateful recognition of his virtues.

West. To the memory of Leonard Calvert, First Governor of Maryland, this Monument is erected by the State of Maryland. The Cost of Arms stand out in bold relief, and is conspicuous to the casual observer. After viewing the monument and site of the Capitol, we took a walk through the burial ground and the same is tolerably well cared for. A few roses and white lilies occasionally greeted the eye and birds sang their sweet notes from the branches of ancient cedars, reminding us of our boyhood days in the far off Sweet Sunny South.

From what we could see in passing along the road, corn and wheat will no doubt yield abundantly. Some of the fields are apparently well surpassed in fertility by the virgin soil of the cleared forest.

The current month is quickly ebbing its life away, and we are told that much preparation is being made by teachers for their respective commencements. Nature arrayed in beauty seems to rejoice with the pupils who are looking for the holiday season as eagerly as the inhabitants of icy lands look for the return of their brief Spring the emblem of the efficacious presence of a gracious Maker.

The Catholic Churches, St. Ignatius and St. Michael's, are receiving a new coat of paint. Messrs. George Rauch and B. M. Dunbar are doing the work. Several hundred priests and scholastics from Woodstock College and elsewhere will enjoy a few weeks of repose from study at St. Inigo's Manor the ensuing month. Extensive preparations are being made there for their accommodation.

The members of Friendship M. E. Church contemplate having an entertainment on a grand scale for the benefit of their church at an early day. The Smith Island band have offered their services to disperse sweet music on the occasion free of charge.

When Longfellow penned, Life is real! Life is earnest! And the grave is not its goal; Dust thou art, to dust returnest, Was not written of the soul.

he indulged an immortal thought and by giving the sacred truth expression in his poetical way, he has immortalized his name; and legalized exponents of what lies beyond the grave echo and the Sunday School teacher endeavor to impress it upon the minds of pupils as they have the capacity to understand, knowing that in after years when they are tossed on life's tumultuous ocean, the recollection that they have an immortal part destined for a better world where God manifests Himself with unspeakable love, lustre and magnificence, will conduce to make them comparatively happy beings in this fleeting habitation.

Could it have been possible for the human family to have remained in a state of primitive simplicity, in which "all things were common to all," the worry of mind in having reapers, threshing machines, etc., repaired and the uncertainty of procuring the necessary labor with which to cultirate and secure the production of the field would have been avoided. The so-called labor saving machines do not save so considerable an amount, for the farmer after all judging from the frequent and expensive repairs required to keep the machinery in proper order.

Harvest is near, as the yellow heads of wheat indicate. The crops for the current year we think will meet the expectations of the most sanguine. May our farmers and truckers realize our predictions to their utmost extent.

It gives us much pleasure to state that Mrs. Walter B. Langley, Mrs. J. Frank Smith, Mrs. W. W. Gray, Mrs. Baker Herbert, Miss Hallie Thurston Gail and Misses Kate and Ella Clarke are contemplating a movement for the purpose of raising a sufficient amount to paint the railings which enclose the Confederate Cemetery. We trust that the ladies may prove successful in their praiseworthy undertaking.

Mrs. Rebecca Hammett while on a visit to Richmond, Va., contracted a severe type of Rubella, which caused her death. A plentiful supply of gasoline and tin have been received by the canning factory company, and the manufacturing of cans will be commenced at an early day. The Pine is on the boom.

Are You Insured? If not, now is the time to provide yourself and family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as an insurance against any serious result from an attack of bowel complaint during the summer months. It is almost certain to be needed and should be procured at once. No other remedy can take its place or do its work. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Wm. F. Greenwell & Son, Leonardtown, Md.

Localwise and Otherwise. Tobacco is bringing a good price and many of our farmers are sending their crops to market. We return thanks for an invitation to 119th Annual Commencement of Charlotte Hall Academy.

Up to 4 p. m., Tuesday, the Court of Appeals had not rendered its decision in the Downs' case. Among the recent arrivals at Leonardtown we note: Mrs. Albert Jones and Miss Mollie Holmes.

St. Mary's Seminary will commence Saturday next and Charlotte Hall Academy, on Thursday, June 29th, instant. The Maryland Agricultural College has made our young friend Mr. Sotheron Key a Major. Our congratulations.

Mr. W. A. Fenwick, representing the Aetna Life Insurance Company, has been visiting his St. Mary's friends. Miss Ruth, daughter of Hon. Robert C. Combs, of Leonardtown, has returned from her visit to Washington and the South.

It is reported here that on Tuesday last while on his way from school the eldest son of Mr. Lewis B. Stone fell and broke his arm. The Democratic State Central Committee meets to-day and will fix the date for holding State Convention to nominate a candidate for Comptroller.

In the quarterly distribution of the school tax made June 15, 1893, St. Mary's county received for white schools, $2,986.83 and for colored schools, $2,112.83.

Mrs. Mary Leiper Thomas, wife of Hon. John H. Thomas died June 15, 1893. Mrs. Thomas was the daughter of Hon. George Gray Leiper, of Delaware county, Penn. J. Thomas Bailey, son of Judge James H. Bailey of the 7th district, and who is in business with G. G. C. Simms, druggist, Washington, D. C., is visiting his father and friends in this county.

Monday last, Milly Gordon, one of the oldest colored women of this neighborhood, died at her residence in Leonardtown. "Ann Milly" was cook at Moore's Hotel for many years and was a faithful servant. Cards are out for the marriage of Mr. P. Reed Willis, of Charles county to Miss Mary Louisa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bowling. The ceremony is to take place in St. Mary's Catholic church, Bryantown, Wednesday, June 28th instant.
