

Saint Mary's Beacon. COUNTY NEWS. EXHIBITION DAYS OF THE Agricultural Fair Association OF Prince George's County, Maryland. September 12, 13, 14, and 15, 1893.

Religious. Christ Church, Chaptico: Saturday, at 5 p. m., Confirmation Class. Sunday, at 10 a. m., Sunday School. at 11 a. m., Service and Sermon. St. Paul's, M. E. Church: Sunday School, every Sunday at 9 a. m. Preaching every Sunday at 8 p. m. All are invited.

A Denial.—Gentlemen.—Please insert in your paper that there was no meeting of colored Republicans held in the 1st District denouncing Mr. Wilkinson or his friends. I presided over no such meeting, nor did I make any speech pro nor con, against Mr. Wilkinson or his friends. The reporter of Lewontown locals was misinformed. Respectfully, JOHN CAJAY.

Orphans' Court.—First account of E. J. and Sam'l. E. Spalding, admrs. of Jno. T. Spalding, filed and dividend declared. Account of sales filed in same estate. First account of E. J. and S. E. Spalding, admrs. John T. Spalding, guardian Willie C. Bowles filed. Petition of Joseph H. Ching and brother filed and letters of administration granted to Jos. H. Ching and William T. Ching as admrs. of John F. Ching. Bond filed and approved. Court adjourned to Tuesday, August 22, 1893.

Thanks.—The St. Mary's BEACON, Leonardtown, Md., has just completed the 53d year of its publication and the 12th under its present management. The editor proposes to begin the 53rd volume with the determination of showing his friends that their confidence in him has not been misplaced, and of introducing further improvements in the paper. The BEACON is one of the "institutions" of Maryland, well conducted, steady, reliable and influential in the field of its circulation. It has the respect of all its readers, and that means a great deal.—Sua.

(Correspondence of the Beacon.) CHAPTICO, Aug. 7, 1892.

Messrs. Editors.—Seasonable weather for the past week has revived much of our gratification, the spirits of our desolate looking hayseed. Here, just as everywhere that they have come under our notice, they seem to be a set of chronic grumblers when the weather and things in general were not made for them after their idea of creation. The winter, the springs, water, the lack of seasons, the worms, the summer's drought and heat, all combine their chances to baronetry in real ownership or mannan's goods to obstruct. We hope that with the breaking up of the present drought, their scowls may be supplanted with bland expressions and pleasant just make them companionable at least until the market volutes begin to desult their profits.

We are glad to note that the wheat harvest was better in this locality than usual. Crops thrashed. We report growing corn in fair condition—tobacco small as yet, stunted by drought.

We notice among the visitors now, the family of Dr. Hammett of Washington and Mrs. Jas. A. Blair and daughter of Baltimore. May we not be wanting in reception to such pleasant visitors.

It is not an encroachment upon your space Messrs. Editors, we'll mention a pleasure, consequent of a little excursion, which it was part of our good fortune to join, on the 2nd instant, aboard of that River Queen in sail craft the Bessie Jones. At 8 a. m., she rounded to at Chaptico wharf, where she lay, until our party had all gathered. At 10 o'clock the stentorian voice of the Captain sounded, all aboard! Baskets, satchels, melons, and all things else necessary to complete the comfort and pleasure of this pleasure bent party followed each in rapid succession over the gunwale and orders given to let go. With swan like grace the Bessie drifted off, until a propitious wind could fill mainsail, foresail, stay sail and jib, when, as if proud of her office, and in sympathy with her charge she answered with quasi delight, and shot onward as if for some coveted goal! For a short two hours all, with merit and delight, abided the journey, when Colonial Beach was reached. Being noon, awning was stretched and the products of our best culinary were spread. Our modesty and space forbid a more complimentary mention of this delightful repast than a confession of the appreciation that our whetted appetites then and there attested. The beach was then sought and our party dispersed, each to enjoy, the drive, the pavilion and the bath as fancy suggested. The departure of the Geo. Leary and waning daylight seemed our first reminder that we too should head for home. Though the wind was bumble and our time in returning must therefore be longer than the upward trip, the party seemed delighted with the prospect of a few additional hours, and merriment ran riot with the free and easy mob! The mellow light of a golden sunset lighted us for supper and seemed to smile a "pleasant evening" as the Captain took his course and the Bessie started. 'Twas midnight when we arrived at the wharf where thanks and toasts were given to Captain, crew and boat, an annoying inability to fill a desire and merit in this particular being felt by all. The Captain, who is always at home among pleasure hunters knew better than any how to make him, and crew and boat was at the service of the party. Out of appreciation to the party from whom our invitation came, let us state that this was a Charles county excursion. God bless you! May St. Mary's not be outdone.

Literary Note.—A witty writer has said that life would be endurable if it were not for the month of August. Romance provides the best possible means for making one forget the discomforts of the dog-day season, its August issue being a model "Midsummer Number." A feature is made of the remarkable tales of Polish and Hungarian writers, foremost of whom is Maurice Joki. Among these tales is "The Fate of a Nihilist," an original production of great power; "The Attaman," a wonderful story from the Polish; and a Hungarian election comedy. A humorous watercolor sketch by Geraldine Bonner; a charming love story by "The Duchess"; a blood-curdling ghost story by Guy de Maupassant; an ideal rural sketch by Henri Greville; and a very funny incident by Fernand Bessier, are a few of the other attractions. This magazine is issued by Romance Publishing Company, Clinton Hall, Astor Place, New York; at 25 cents a number; $2.50 a year.

AN EXCURSION.

(Reported for the Beacon.) Messrs. Editors.—Among the socials given for the entertainment and recreation of youth, and as a diversion from the daily routine of business life, by those who have already neared life's meridian, the sailing party given by the Capt. O. G. Hayden, of the police boat Bessie Jones, remains yet to be surpassed; and, indeed, the writer feels that he is at liberty to say that it will not be surpassed by any entertainment of its kind in the near future. Of all that is necessary to make up a pleasant time nothing was wanting. A most beautiful day favored the occasion while Aeolus, as if pleased with the company and informed of its point of destination, opened his prison doors and sent a gracious North East breeze to waft the happy crew to Colonial Beach, the predetermined goal. The intermingled gallant youth and still more genteel sex, dressed in seafaring costumes, and all of an extraordinary loquacious kind, made it pleasant for all, while the whole was graced by the presence of the polished and elegant looking Chesterfield captain. August 2nd, was selected for the excursion and at the appointed hour, 8 a. m., the Bessie rounded to the Charles county shore to take off the first section of the company, many of whom unfortunately missed the great feat. If however, the unfortunate ones doubted the efficiency of the officers to man a vessel or the capacity of those giving the entertainment to properly manage it, we, the more fortunate ones, must vindicate all concerned, by saying that in our experience a more skillful complement of sailors we never met, and all will uphold the fact that the management of the affair was a perfect success. After taking aboard the party from Charles, the boat then returned to Chaptico wharf, to the St. Mary's contingent who evidenced their appreciation of their bids, by their presence for the delightful trip. After getting all aboard, the vessel with all sails spread and flags flying, ploughed the rolling billows of the Wicomico, while the roaring sound of the ship's prow, together with the foaming spray, reminded many of the power of the invisible though beneficent agent. Nor was the diversity of scenery which presented itself to the eye wanting in grandeur and beauty. Looking out into space, until vision was lost in infinity, an extensive area of both land and water could be thoroughly scanned and at a glance could be viewed large portions of Charles and St. Mary's counties, covered with the verdant foliage of Nature's design, while far in the distance and across the Potomac could be seen the bold cliffs on the Virginia shore, and the surrounding country covered by a sky colored atmosphere similar to that overhead. The pleasure of the company during the sail is beyond description. At a grand sail of 24 hours the Beach was reached. Dinner was then served aboard the boat. Formality was dispensed with and the top of the cabin was used for a table, and upon it were spread the bountiful supplies, and so many were the luxuries that made up the table and such was the attraction that numbers collected on shore and watched progress aboard, while others more curious still sailed around the boat and eyed the guests as they enjoyed their hearty repast and wondered from whence such a merry party came. When dinner was finished a lively chat was going on when the arrival of the excursion steamer made all seek the shore, there each and every one to enjoy himself in the graceful tip of the fantastic totem in a promenade, or any other amusement that he felt inclined. A pleasant time on shore was the lot of all, and nearly every amusement that the place afforded was participated in by the company. About sunset the party collected and boarded the schooner which a few minutes later embarked for Chaptico wharf carrying the highly gratified company, who with profuse commendations discussed the pleasures and incidents of the past day. A sail no less enjoyable than the morning trip was experienced, the latter part of which was favored by the gentle rays of the silvery moon which half lighted the orb. At 11:30, p. m. the wharf was reached and after a hearty shaking of hands and thanking the generous Captain for his kindness and hospitality and also the officers of the vessel for their attention to the wants and comforts of the party, the whole crowd returned homeward, hoping that in the near future it would be their privilege a second time to be the guests of the Bessie Jones and the recipients of the Captain's hospitality. COMMUNICATED.—The annual festival for the Sacred Heart church came off on Thursday, August 3rd, and the large sum realized is a proof of the growing popularity of this entertainment.

The energetic ladies in charge were kept busy from the moment of opening, waiting on the immense crowds which were on the grounds the whole day. One of the great attractions of the festival was an exquisite fancy-table every worthy of a place among the artistic curiosities of the World's Fair. This alone brought in $125. Another striking feature was an elegant Japanese table presided over by one of the many energetic ladies of the parish, who attracted the admiration of all by her lovely Japanese costume. Tea and coffee were sold in elegant little china cups which the purchasers were allowed to retain. There was a supply of lovely every lady presented tried to become the happy owner of one of these useful and fashionable articles. It would be impossible to describe fully the dashing and enthusiastic tournament or the eloquent oration of Prof. Joy. Ten gallant knights entered the lists—and of these, the following were the most successful, viz. Bernard Guy, knight of St. Clement; Ray, who crowned as Queen, Miss Mary Barry; Zach. Pilkerton, who placed the crown of honor on Miss Cassie Bowles as first maid; Marshall Dent, knight of Bowers, who crowned Miss Josie Gardner as 2nd maid; William Leach, the accomplished knight of Leonardtown, who crowned Miss Ceci Gessler, of Annapolis, as 3rd maid of honor. The net proceeds of the festival were $267.31 a convincing proof that the Sacred Heart people have not lost that enterprise which up to this has stamped all their undertakings. Mr. Geo. W. Joy was orator of the Day and Evening. Mr. John C. Cryer, Marshall of the tournament with Mr. W. V. Waters and J. E. Mattingly as aids. Messrs. F. R. King, F. O. Morgan and Billingsly Garner presided as judges.

Localwise and Otherwise.

The Jury list for September court is elsewhere published.

Leonardtown was crowded with people Tuesday last and politics seemed the order of the day.

Wednesday last while engaged in breaking a colt, Mr. James G. Banting had his wrist fractured and several painful cuts inflicted upon his head.

Announcement has been made of a proposed festival for the benefit of St. Aloysius church this village. The date determined on is still to be the 33rd, instant.

St. Joseph's Mission during this week. Morning services at 5:30 and 8:30. Evening 4:30 for children, 7 for adults. Fathers Hayes and Collins conduct the mission.

A colored boy named Milburn was drowned Saturday last, near Long Point, Britan's Bay. He was about 13 years of age and was getting from one boat to another when he slipped into the water.

We have heard many people highly compliment the roads built by Mr. T. Edgar Russell. We have seen the roads and we do not believe that there are better roads in any county. The roads are well made and the cost has been light.

The Ladies of All Saints Parish will have a festival and tournament near Oakley, in the event district on Saturday, 19th, instant, for their Chapel Building fund. Don't fail to attend. It is a worthy object and will be an enjoyable occasion.

Recently the body of a colored man drifted ashore at Mr. Thomas Hayden's on the 8th district. On the body a pawn ticket of Lewyt and Salabas, No. 3205, in the name of H. Brooks was found. The date of the ticket was June 26, 1893. A brass medalion and a bill dated July 24, 1893 were also found.

Recently, while Mr. George Armsworthy, of the Indian Bridge section was working on the road a painful eruption developed about his waist and so seriously effected him that he was barely able to reach a doctor. Mr. A. says that when he got to Dr. Richardson's that gentleman pronounced his complaint "the shingles" and speedily relieved him.

ST. MARY'S COUNTY, AUG. 7, '93.

Messrs. Editors.—On the 3rd, instant it was my unlimited pleasure to attend a picnic, given by Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Posey in honor of their niece and guest Miss Viola Chaney. On a point of land almost surrounded by the waters of Cat Creek on the one side and those of the Patuxent River on the other, the crowd assembled. In this enchanted place, where nature had showered her beauties with a lavish hand, and where the melodious strains of music produced by Neptune's vassals fell upon the enraptured ear, it was the privilege of those present to enjoy themselves to their hearts content.

The crowd, though not so large as was expected, was, nevertheless, large enough for good company, and the perfect beauty of the day, together with the untiring efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Posey, rendered the affair, one of the most enjoyable that it has been the lot of your correspondent to attend.

After basking in the smiles and charms of each other's company for quite a time, we repaired at length to the banquet table where, beauty, as it appeared set with a good many delicacies of the season, was only surpassed by the rusticity of the surroundings.

After we had done full justice to the sumptuous repast, there was an invitation extended to the company, for a sail on the placid bosom of the fair Patuxent, whose beautiful scenery afforded a most pleasing spectacle to the human eye. With a pilot who was thoroughly conversant with his business, and who had a splendid corps of assistants, there was nothing to mar the pleasure of the occasion. When we had disembarked, one couple, we noticed, soon found a sequestered spot a little aloof from the rest of the company, and there with the sound of the "sad sea-waves" coming to them from either side, they presented to us a countenance that suggested the expression: "Thy fatal shafts unerring move, I bow before thine altar, Love."

Thus, was spent the day that proved to be such a halcyon one to those, who were present, and just before the time when "curtains of night should be pinned back by the stars," the party dispersed for their respective homes, with hearts swelling with gratitude for those who spared neither pains nor trouble to make the affair a success.

PERSONALS.

Dr. W. B. Burch and family are in Leonardtown. Mr. A. E. Bowling, of Mechanicsville is quite sick. Miss Lila Smith is visiting the Misses Smiths at Leonardtown.

Mr. Bernard Duke is visiting his father Mr. John F. Duke, this district. Mr. J. T. West and family, of Washington, are guests of Moore's Hotel.

A Kingsley Love, Esq., of Baltimore, is on a visit to his brother at Lovelife. Mr. J. S. Harvey and family, of Washington are visiting friends in our county.

Mr. George Kincaid, of Baltimore, is visiting friends near Leonardtown. Dr. Joseph Heard and wife and Mr. John V. Posey, of Baltimore, are visiting Leonardtown.

Miss Annie May Melton, of Washington, D. C. is visiting Miss Alma Mattingly of Buena Vista. Mrs. Latchford and children, of Annapolis Junction are on a visit to State's Attorney Camaller.

Miss Nellie and Indiana Greenwell, of Washington are visiting their St. Mary's relatives and friends. There will be a tournament at St. Inigo's, for the benefit of St. Inigo's church Thursday next, August 10th.

Rev. John A. Morgan S. J. brother of Joseph F. Morgan Esq., of our town, is on a visit to his old home.

Lewontown Local.

(From our Regular Correspondent.) Several colored boys were arrested recently for throwing watermelon rinds into the yard of James Hopewell (colored), doing some damage and painfully injuring a member of the family. Justice James Roach held several of the party to bail, and the timely security of a kindly disposed individual, kept them on the outside of the precincts of the county jail, and the boys returned to their respective homes wiser if not better creatures.

Frequent showers keep the earth moist and vegetation is looking remarkably well. Roads are in good condition, and traveling is correspondingly pleasant, even in an ox cart or on a McCune Cycle.

It is gratifying to note that the sick of the district are rapidly recovering their normal health. Few cases of bilious fever have occurred to date.

Politicians are beginning to be operative, and their expressions pro and con relative to minor issues are not infrequently amusing.

Cupid takes this occasion to notify Clerk Greenwell to have a sufficient number of marriage certificates on hand, for he intends to make at least a dozen of our young men bow before the shrine of Hymen in the near future.

The elite of certain localities occasionally enjoy themselves in dancing to the sweet strains of violin and harp. They indulge in fancy dances such as Esmeralda, Sicilienne, Gavotte and Minuet quadrilles, five step waltzes, schottisches, etc. We are not in rapport with those who regard such amusement as poison seed cast into the ploughed heart of society, bearing fruit a thousand fold.

The repeal of the Sherman bill is all the talk down here. We do not believe that there are more than a score who, alike the Governor of Colorado, are willing to fight for free silver "though blood should flow to the horses' bridles."

Rev. Fr. Mulry united Mr. Charles Kreuter, No. 17, 15th Street N. E., Washington, D. C., and Miss Lillian G. Dameron, of the Trappe, St. Inigo's district, in the holy bands of wedlock, a few days ago. May the happy couple live long to enjoy him the harmony of the married life.

Misses Bell Ford and Mattie Abell, of Baltimore, are visiting relatives of the district.

5,000 blue (taylor's) fish, weighing from 3 to 7 lbs., were caught at one haul by Captain McGregor Clarke, and his partner, Mr. Potter, of St. George's Island, a few days ago. The catch was carried to Chaptico, Md., barreled, and shipped to Baltimore and Washington. It required about 40 barrels to accommodate the shipment.

Sailing parties take place every day from Raleigh's Summer Resort, and the stay-at-homes content themselves by reading, yawning, and patiently listening for the dinner bell.

The mail is being carried from Wynne to Ridge by Stephen Dennis an ex-Baltimore oyster shucker. He is punctual and accommodating dived.

A Republican-dyed-in-the-wool, white and 21 years of age—informed us of the recent meeting headed by teacher Cajay. We reported the same without the least coloring, as it is immaterial to us whether the colored voting element fraternize or quarrel among themselves relative to their white leaders, be they of the Wilkinson stamp or not.

Jos. W. Richardson, Esq., is respectfully announced as a most suitable candidate for county Commissioner. Mr. R. is a practical farmer and a life long co-worker in the cause of good government, Local, State, and National. Old men and young, give him your support in the ensuing convention, and our word for it, you will never regret so doing.

Mr. W. R. Pembroke lost fourteen (14) fine sheep recently by worthless curs. It is to be regretted that farmers who strive to get along are not protected from the savagery of canines. Place the sheep killed at the minimum figure of $3, and any school going boy of seven may give the loss in round numbers which is considerable these queer and hard times.

Mr. Gail, of Kent county, Md., brother of Miss Mollie T. Gail is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Langly, at their palatial residence near the beautiful and historic Potomac.

Mechanicsville. Messrs. Editors.—I saw a communication from "Spectator" in last week's BEACON concerning a game ball played at "Trent Hall" between the Mechanicsville and Bowensville clubs. I wish to say it was my good fortune to be a spectator of another game played by the same base ballists a week before the one chronicled by "Spectator."

The Calvert boys were first at the bat, cautious and wary, while if my impressions were correct, our boys were too over confident of success. All things considered, it was a pretty well played game, the Mechanicsville nine losing the services of their efficient pitcher, D. Higgs at nearly the beginning of the game. The good playing of W. Garner, otherwise "Shake" of the Bowensville club was one of the noticeable features of the game. "Spectator" ought to have given Bowensville credit in his communication of winning one game, as they were ahead by a score of 21 to 9 at the end of the 9th inning. The St. Mary's players were challenged to try another game, but did not accept it.

"What's the matter with the Bowensville nine? Base ballists of Mechanicsville, why slumberest thou?" Be up and doing or you will surely get left.

Mr. W. B. Herbert, of Chaptico District, inspired the game to the perfect satisfaction of all concerned.
