HAVE FUNERAL OF WOMAN SOLDIER

Albert J. D. Cashier, Who Fought During the Civil War as a Man, Is Laid to Rest.

GIVES FULL MILITARY HONORS

Burial Services Held Yesterday Afternoon at Watertown—Interment at Saunemin.

Private Albert D. J. Cashier, the woman who fought during the entire Civil war without her sex becoming known, was given a military funeral yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Gillihrow undertaking parlors, Watertown. The services were conducted by members of Graham post, G. A. R. and the remains sent to Saunemin, Livingston county, Ill., where interment was made in the family lot of her old friends for whom the woman had worked as a coachman and gardener the over twenty years.

The early life of private Cashier's life is less definite. Of her romance she imagine. She was born abroad and came to this country as a stowaway. In order to make the trip she felt it would be necessary to adopt the dress of a man, and this she did, and as she did she like the freedom which she enjoyed as a man, she decided to remain our sex, and for the greater part of her life passed as a man.

Gets Honorable Discharge.

When the Civil war broke out she enlisted in 1861 with the 95th Illinois infantry and served with distinction, being mustered out in 1865 after have been engaged in many battles and fought shoulder to shoulder with the men of her regiment.

After receiving an honorable discharge she did odd jobs and became almost a tramp. She finally drifted to Saunemin, Livingston county, and became quite man about the house for her neighbors. They liked their "hired man" so well they decided to keep him, and for 29 years Albert remained with them.

Later she found it necessary to enter the Soldiers' home at Quincy. About a year ago she was obliged to undergo a slight operation. This led to the discovery of her sex. A fellow soldier who had served in the same company was summoned from Wisconsin and he positively identified the person as the "man" he had fought with during the war.

Her health began to fail and she was sent to Watertown hospital. At the time of the recent state G. A. R. encampment in Moline she created a great deal of interest by appearing in the parade dressed as a union soldier.

Dressed in Uniform.

She passed away Sunday evening at the hospital, being over 70 years of age. All day Monday her body, clothed in the uniform which she had worn during the war, lay in state at the hospital. Members of the G. A. R. made arrangements for her funeral and she was accorded full military honors at the services in recognition of the loyalty she had displayed in fighting for Old Glory. The old friends at Saunemin requested that the body be sent there for burial and the request was complied with.

STEP TOWARD PEACE HAS BEEN EXECUTED

Chicago, Oct. 13.—First steps for peace in the garment workers' strike were taken today when representatives of the combatants agreed to meet with the arbitration investigating committee to consider a plan of arbitration.

The meeting will be held tomorrow. In the event a plan is agreed on, union leaders expected that they will send the strikers back to work.

"MY, HOW LIGHT! Why, it's as Light as Down"

These are the remarks we invariably hear when we offer one of our customers a

Maish Cotton Down Comfort

Yes, the name is quite accurate. No cotton comfort of our acquaintance has a better right to the name "cotton down."

The secret of Maish lightness and fluffiness is the Maish principle by which it is loosened—a special process. This makes Maish Comforts twice as thick and warm as ordinary comforts and much lighter in weight.

A comfort filling warm in this "comfort" way keeps its loft, stays fluffy, lasts long and has its fine soft quality. Not one in a thousand "ill warmed."

Every comfort is sanitary and exclusive patterns make Maish Comforts as good to look at as they are comfortable to sleep under.
