WILSON READY TO FIGHT FOR CAUSE

But There Has Nothing Happened in His Administration to Justify It, He Tells Audience.

PEACE AND PROSPERITY REIGNS

Reiterates His Advocacy of a League of Nations to Prevent Bloodshed in Future Years.

Long Branch, N. J., Oct. 16.—In a speech before a large delegation of Pennsylvania democrats who came here with bands playing and banners flying, President Wilson declared Saturday that while he is for peace "America is always ready to fight for things that are American." He summed up his ideas of the issues of the present campaign in the words: "America knows that it is faced with this choice: Peace, the continuation of the development of business along the lines which it has established and developed and the maintenance of well known progressive ideas of action, or, on the other hand, or, in the other, a disturbance of peace all along the line, new conditions, new adjustments, undetermined alternatives of policy, and back of it all forbidden government."

The president discussed what he declared was the attitude toward war and peace of different elements of the republican party.

"I understand from the leaders of the republican party that nothing has been done right," he said. "They do not say that the thing done was always wrong but the way in which it was done was always wrong. They do not venture to say, that is, the private counsel does not venture to say, that we wanted anything but peace, but they would have preferred some other way, not discussed, of obtaining peace. The usual part says 'We want war.' The albeit part intimates that we wanted peace, but wanted another kind of peace. They can never get over that fundamental uneasiness, sentiment, that America is in charge of somebody else than themselves. But America knows that the things that were done did obtain peace, and it does not know that the things that might have been done would have obtained peace."

Would Keep Americans Off Seas.

Continuing his discussion of the foreign affairs of the nation, Mr. Wilson declared that although the leaders of the republican party demand that the rights of Americans be protected everywhere, on one occasion the republican machine was able to compel a majority of its members in the house of representatives to vote that American citizens had no right to travel on the high seas.

Mr. Wilson reiterated his advocacy of a league of nations to preserve the peace of the world and attacked the leaders of the progressive party who, he said, had betrayed the rank and file. He also declared that the selection of a congress is just as important as the election of a president because the "real source of action and the real machinery of obstruction is in congress."

He asserted that the forces of reaction are in control of the republicans in congress.

Vance C. McCormick, chairman of the democratic national committee, presided at the meeting and A. Mitchell Palmer, democratic national committeeman from Pennsylvania, introduced Mr. Wilson. The delegation, which came here on eight special trains, constituted the largest audience which has heard the president speak at Shadow Lawn.

ACHES AND PAINS

Don't neglect a pain anywhere, but find out what causes it and conquer the cause. A pain in the kidney region may put you on your back tomorrow. Don't blame the weather for swollen feet, it may be an advance warning of Bright's disease. A pain in the stomach may be the first symptom of appendicitis. A creak in a joint may be the forerunner of rheumatism. Chronic headaches more than likely warn you of serious stomach trouble. The best way is to keep in good condition day in and day out by regularly taking GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL Capsules. Sold by reliable druggists. Money refunded if they do not help you. Beware of substitutes. The only pure imported Haarlem Oil Capsules are the GOLD MEDAL.—(Adv.)

WOMEN ARE FOR WILSON

New York, Oct. 16.—Following the announcement Saturday at Chicago by Jane Addams, the greatest settlement worker in the world and once declared by Roosevelt to be the country's greatest citizen, of her intention to vote for the reelection of President Wilson, Miss Henrietta Rodman of New York has announced herself a supporter of President Wilson. Miss Rodman and her husband, Herman de Frong, organized the Civic club of New York. She is well known for her work about recreational lines in the public school movement and for equal rights for married women in public services. She says:

"Abolition of poverty and special privilege are questions of the moment now, as was that of slavery in Lincoln's time. I am a Wilson progressive just as my father was a Lincoln republican.

"President Wilson a year ago, when the federal reserve and child labor laws were on his mind, his more edge like social legislation that any president has achieved in a single term within a generation.

"The greatest interests called in the world are the welfare of the children and of the poor. I feel that the most exploited classes in America today are industrial workers, farmers, and from my viewpoint the child. It is explained to it worse for women to be.

"Today there is, however, something more vital even than the relief of children and the poor. That is the rescue of civilization from our autocratic institutions. Each nation is coming its own way with pugnacious belligerency and failing elementary to recognize that it rules on a world stage and to recognize their responsibilities for the world welfare. There is no end to the terrible possibilities of war.

"Well, I am not saying, one is Hughes' leader. He has nothing of alienation or remedy to offer. I am a democratic and my people have always been democrats in union is strength and that applied we feel applies as strongly to the states of the world now as it did to the United States originally.

"President Wilson has a consistent, the international policy, and if he has domestic policy he has failed as miserably as he has succeeded. I should think here too is the date of some clear-sighted man and working for support him alongside because of his international policy."

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, who undertook and undertook to raise the funds and campaign fund for use in women's party campaign in behalf of Charles E. Hughes, has received the following letter from Mrs. Louisa Hoby Francis, a suffrage leader of Minneapolis, Minn.:

"I was born a republican, and the tariff question made me favor that party for years. Now that the tariff is to be handled by a commission I must decide for the best man in the issues.

"I can't trust the Hughes people. I feel that his promises to the women is only a hollow promise made with the knowledge that he would not have to act on a suffrage amendment until it had first passed the house and senate, a most unlikely occurrence were the Penrosers and the Simons once more in control.

"President Wilson has made us no promises which he cannot carry out. In other words, he has been perfectly honest with us. I therefore, prefer to help the cause of one who holds out no false hopes.

"The suffrage amendment as desired to be drafted was in congress when Taft and Roosevelt were in power. They were republicans and did nothing; and Hughes in his promises is only playing for the women's vote.

"I will do my campaign work for Wilson, the honest. In this state the majority of the women are standing for Wilson and the suffrage cause has lost many of its best workers because of the foolishness of the Congressional union and the woman's party in trying to throw the Oregon women's vote to Hughes. You are definitely injuring the cause of suffrage among Oregon women. We will never again work together as we did before this split, which you and your followers have forced upon us. You are causing the same split in other states, and, therefore, you have given suffrage the greatest setback that it could be given. It will take at least 10 years of hard work by the suffrage women to overcome the blow you have given suffrage in trying to force your candidate for president upon us by the expenditure of cash. Women, ideal women, want a man to be elected for some better reason than the mere expenditure of cash."

In conclusion Mrs. Francis expresses to Mrs. Belmont the hope "that you and your followers may again return to the real suffrage cause and forget party."

Mrs. Grace Ames Meade of Boston has announced her support of President Wilson for reelection. Mrs. Meade is secretary of the National Woman's Peace Party, former president of the Massachusetts Suffrage association and joint author with Jane Addams and Fannie Fern Andrews of "Overthrow of the War System." In giving her reasons for supporting the president, she says:

"I believe Mr. Wilson has done more than any other president for many administrations to compel special privilege to take its hand out of the people's pocket, and he has helped to rescue democracy, which is today imperiled in every land. Having an international mind, he has kept us from the mistakes of other nations in foreign policy.

"We were not entered in the slaughter in progress of a year, when Lincoln, as General Lopez of Mexico declared, would run up the score of our war debt and would require soldiers before we had finished it. It seems just as also the goodwill and trade of all Latin America.

"He has kept us from war in Europe, which would have inevitably ended all our relief work and have left millions to starve. The amount of personal sacrifice I offered all president and for this he has suffered shameful abuse as did Washington, Jefferson, Adams and Lincoln for similar conduct.

"Mr. Hughes despite his intimacy of good citizens, cannot be considered aloof from the powerful and dangerous influences that are bound into America there are the men who want to force war upon us when the calmer people in the world is a nation which has never yet been attacked since it became a republic and a man who has never asked a government to attitude and been refused."

At this point Miss Jane Addams, the world's greatest woman, spoke up in public affairs, who made a fine speech for President Wilson here last week in behalf of business and professional women. Other speakers were Henry Morgenthau, former ambassador to Turkey, Miss Annette Rosenman, the actress, and Rev. Alice Fletcher. Miss Tarbell said in part:

"Mr. Wilson's record of four years is so packed with achievement that it seems to have left his opponent high and dry. So far he has thought it making to promise to do. In his address he has confined himself to criticising not Mr. Wilson's achievements—he could hardly do that since they are irrefutable—but rather the means by which Mr. Wilson has succeeded in reaching his objects.

"I do not understand that Mr. Hughes objects to the country's legislation, but rather to the means by which it has been kept at power. I do not understand that Mr. Hughes objects to the federal reserve law, but rather to the fact that the law was not left as Mr. Aldrich made it. I do not understand that Mr. Hughes objects to an eight-hour law, but rather to conducting an experiment by which the question could be settled from facts instead of by a strike.

"Mr. Wilson believes in righteous, the use of organized government, and arbitral, in settling international disputes. Mr. Hughes seems to believe in settling them by force. Mr. Wilson believes that a measure like the federal reserve bill should be handled by the people. Mr. Hughes would leave it where Mr. Aldrich put it, in the hands of the few. Mr. Wilson prefers that a dispute like that between the railroad management and railroad labor should be worked out by experiment rather than by strike. Mr. Hughes would let them strike. It is a different way of looking at the world's problems. One is the way of the people, the other, that of the past. One is the way of the people, the other, the way of the few. One is the Americanism of Lincoln—the other that of Mark Hanna. Take your choice."

Miss Kellerman said: "As the ideal exponent of democracy, standing as he does against special privilege, against financial tyranny, against disorder in our Mexican and European relations, President Wilson should be the choice of the American people for their next president."

BABE NOT WANTED FOR HOYNE PROBE

Negress Arrested in Rock Island for Conspiracy Says Colored Copper Is Utter "Spreedy."

TRYING TO RAILROAD FRIEND

Before Chicago Detectives Take Her Back She Tells Local Police History of the Trouble.

"There's nothing to this here none about me being connected with any police graft charges in Chicago. There's a colored girl up there trying to get me, that's all." Babe Jackson told Rock Island police officers she was taken back to Chicago yesterday to face the charge of conspiracy upon which she was arrested here Friday night by Detectives Cox and Schmerr.

"They want me as a witness in an old case which is coming up for trial. This here colored copper wants me to lie to send "Spreedy" over the road for pandering. I wouldn't lie for him. Spreedy was tried two years ago and was convicted, but he got a new trial. After the first hearing I blew the town. I blows back there a couple of weeks ago and the colored copper learns I'm in there. Then he gets Spreedy's trial set for and comes around and tries to frame with me to lie so the court will soak Spreedy. But there's nothing doing with Babe on that stuff. I come to Rock Island a couple of days ago in order to get out of trouble. But they crowd me here, I guess."

Road Is Cheapest.

Babe showed folks around the police headquarters here she believes in prevention. Hardly had she been arrested before she had sent a wire to friends in a hoodoo, telling him to call at the central station and arrange for a bond. Bond and there is such a thing as being switched from one police station to another in Chicago and getting "bad" somewhere.

"But it's cheaper to get a bondsman," she added.

The Biggest Sin in the Heating Business

You are the cause of it. You, when you build a house, let the contract for the whole thing, including heating plant, to the lowest bidding contractor.

There is of course a feeble specification that it must heat. Of course any plant will heat some, but what in heaven's name will it EAT and what unexpected things that are not mentioned in the specifications will it do?

Mr. Contractor, being thus favored with your work because he is the lowest bidder, in turn sublets the heating job to the heating contractor who bids lowest. And the result is you get a heating plant that would make an angel weep.

Does this method pay you? Why not give your heating contract separately and direct and get something good.

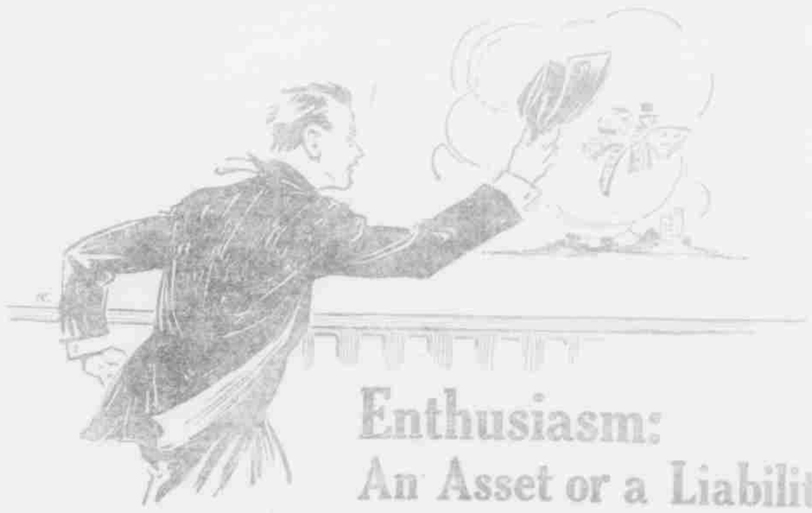
The Business of Getting On in the World

By Harvey Alvord



Enthusiasm: An Asset or a Liability?

Enthusiasm ALONE is the mother of more failures than anything else in the world. Enthusiasm ALONE breeds visions—just visions.

Two things must go with enthusiasm to make it an asset, to make it breed success.

Direction and hard work.

Enthusiasm, undirected, attacks windmills and chases butterflies. It sees glorious advantages just around the corner. When the corner is turned, alack, they are around still another corner. Enthusiasm, undirected, seldom catches up with its quarry. It is blind to the prizes at its feet.

Enthusiasm, without direction, is always starting somewhere and getting nowhere. It scorns to DO the things necessary in order to gain the mastery.

\+ \+ \+

Enthusiasm plus direction and hard work becomes a splendid asset. It doesn't demand that opportunities be laid at the feet. It goes out in quest of opportunities.

In the banks of the country are countless savings accounts, started in bursts of enthusiasm, fostered temporarily by visions of achievement, but now lying dormant and forgotten.

The pilgrims on the road to fortune who own these accounts somehow couldn't direct their enthusiasm or sustain their effort, and so their purpose petered out.

And yet, doubtless, the success which life holds for these people hangs on the fate of their savings accounts.

\+ \+ \+

Your enthusiasm: Is it an asset or a liability?
