WAR CERTAINTY IN EITHER CASE

Secretary McAdoo Tells What Would Have Followed Course of T. R. or Hughes.

ANSWERS CHALLENGE OF LATTER

Would Have Been In Thick of It Against Germany Had Not Wilson Been President.

Mansfield, Ohio, Oct. 24.—Secretary McAdoo speaking at Mansfield, Ohio, the home of John Sherman, former secretary of the treasury, made reply to Mr. Hughes regarding the Lusitania incident. Said Mr McAdoo: "Mr. Hughes answer to my question about the Lusitania and Mr. Roosevelt's attitude at the same subject at Akron, Ohio, gives the American people no light on the subject as to what Mr. Hughes and Mr. Roosevelt will do in their dealings with foreign relations if they are with the reins of the government. Mr. Hughes evasively at instant questions finally has admitted that he would have proceeded at the time the Lusitania was sunk each would have done the same which inevitably would have brought us into war between Germany and Germany.

"Mr. Hughes stated at Battle Creek that in discussing the Lusitania incident he would have proceed every inch of the way he would have proceed every inch of the way he would have proceed every inch of the way