Mail Schedule Changed.—The mail schedule from Beavue to Leonardtown has been changed as follows: Leave Beavue daily except Sunday 5 P. M., arrive Leonardtown at 8:30 P. M.; leave Leonardtown daily except Sunday 7 A. M., arrive Beavue by 8:30 A. M.

Knock Him Down.—One of our exchanges gives the following bit of advice: "When a man playfully points a pistol or gun at you, knock him down; don't stop to inquire whether it is loaded or not; knock him down. Don't be particular what you do it with, only see that he is thoroughly knocked down. If the coroner's inquest must be held, let it be held on the other fellow—he won't be missed."

The Telephone.—The public are invited to meet at the Register of Wills office in Leonardtown, Saturday morning, the 18th instant, to inaugurate a movement to secure subscribers to erect a telephone line from this place to Brandywine to connect at the latter point with the telegraph on B. & P. R. R. The people of the 7th and 4th election districts are particularly interested. Shares, $10; estimated cost of the entire line 30 miles, $1,500 to $1,800. Already $500 have been subscribed in and around Mechanicsville.

Hymenial.—George C. Thompson and Mary Agnes White were married at St. Albans Church Leonardtown, Monday, November 13 1893, Rev. Father Mandarini, S. J. officiating. Many friends of the young couple were present and witnessed the ceremony and all united in wishing them happiness and prosperity. The bride was becomingly dressed in white silk with hat and gloves to match, and the groom wore the conventional black suit. Miss White sister of the bride was first lady and Mr. Robert Loker was best man. In the evening a pleasant company assembled at the bride's father's and partook of an elegant and sumptuous supper. One of the features of the wedding was the presence of the bride's grandfather, who, though a patriarch in years, is still hale and hearty and was as lively as the liveliest of a merry and happy gathering.

On November 8, by Rev. E. S. Gwynn, at St. Martin's Church, John F. Tobin and Carrie E. Taylor, both of Baltimore city.

Personal.—In its issue of November 11, 1893, the Maryland Journal prints an excellent picture of Dr. Henry J. Hebb, Register of Wills elect for Baltimore County. Dr. Hebb is a native of St. Mary's county, and was born in 1842 on the old family estate, "Town Hill," on the Potomac River, about 9 miles from Leonardtown, the county seat, and is 51 years old. He was educated at Charlotte Hall Academy, St. Mary's county, and graduated in medicine in 1873 at old Washington College, now the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Baltimore. He settled at Randallstown, where he has ever since been in active practice. He was elected Treasurer and Collector of Taxes for Baltimore County in 1888, and administered the duties of that important office with the very highest credit to his county, as well as to himself. He has been Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee of Baltimore County upon two different occasions, and at present holds that important position. He was Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Election in the election of 1892. Dr. Hebb married a daughter of Mr. J. A. S. Hays, of the 12th District, Baltimore county, in 1881. They have two children, a boy 10 and a girl 4.

The following letter was received Tuesday night last by Mr. James F. Neale, of Leonardtown. It was dated the 14th, and had no signature.
You say that you can spell, sir, then be good enough to tell, sir, how you spell me parallel, sir! Synthesis, and semichore. And perhaps you'll try ecstasie, And syncategorematic, Homiletic and hepatic. With an extra dzen more. Can you spell chrysephantine, Porphastic, and Levantine, Or the simple adamantine, And the polysyndeton. Can you tacked anchylosis, Can you spell anaplois, Euthymic hypotyposis! If you can, you're getting on Such little words as grieving, Gallimaufry, and deceiving. Oh! there's really no believing, What mistakes you sometimes see. Pycnology, paroxysmal, Caryatives, and charismal; Words like these, really dismal, When they're misapplied at a bee, S' you'd better learn ecclitic. Can you conquer analytic, With terebic and mephitic, And a pantheric, pause, And there's prestidigitiation, Homocercal, cichniation. Oh, its quite an education, To learn orthographic laws. Some long words anatomical, Have a sound that's rather comie, And for verses palindromic, Would be simply most absurd. There's the shorter peronous, And potios—pharyngous, Serno, cichlo, mastoidonic, Could you chary a simple word, Hydratic, iridescent, Aromatic, adolescent, Emigmatie, evanescent, These are easy words you see, Maudication, macropone, Perovation, zeponic, Ananation, aniphonic, There's a merry spelling too.

W. S. DAVIS, Secretary.

A Favorite in Kentucky.
Mr. W. M. Terry, who has been in the drug business at Elkton, Ky., for the past twenty years, says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other cough medicine I have ever sold." There is good reason for this. No other will cure a cold so quickly, no other is so certain a preventive and cure for croup; no other affords so much relief in cases of whooping cough. For sale by Wm. F. Greenwell & Son, Leonardtown, Md.

Written for the Beacon
De'lection now is ober, and de'publicans has won,
And I ask for your attention, to tell yer how I vote dem,
It wassent by de voters of de'publicans alone,
But, by sneaken varments, who hed betted on dem at home.
Dey called derseives good democrats, six weeks ago or more,
And at de primary election, dey loudly did hurrah,
But because dey did not nominate, some dem dey had in view,
Dey whittled up der little knife, de nomines to slow.
On de Seventh of November, dem men in arrant style,
Came forth to greet de candidates, and on each of dem did smile,
But when dey went to cast de vote, which was on de secret plan,
Dey wid der little blottin pad, stable each and every man.
Yet, 'twill not matter in de least to them, if we judge de future by de past,
Dey'll not be ostracized by democrats, nor will dey be outcast,
But invited to de festive board, (not to a simple stew)
To gather crumbs of comfort, and git de leaves and fishes too.
It 'pears to me as if some folks, take mighty long to see,
De difference between dishonesty, and true democracy.
When de fatted calf is kilt yer know de latter's keys at home,
De fust kind gilds de buttered toast, and de pickings on de bone.

PODOMAC.
Brittan's Neck Farmers' Club.
The Club met, November 4, at the residence of Mr. Yates with nine members present. The proceedings of last meeting were read and adopted and the examining committee reported as follows:

"We have inspected the farm and buildings of Mr. Yates. We find the tobacco nicely sown, Saturday morning, the 18th inst. in barn: blade folder nicely packed in barn; cattle looking well; sheep, fine Cotswold breed; a fine pen of pork hogs; house and surroundings neat and tidy.
Geo. F. TENNISON,
J. CLYDE ABELL,
J. S. ALVEY.

Mr. Charles Davis was elected an honorary member, and J. W. Davis was elected an active member. W. L. J. Mattingly was nominated for active membership. Mr. Hayden Yates read the following paper before the Club:

Gentlemen of the Club the question for today: How can we farm to compete with the times; is or should be the all absorbing subject that should be uppermost in the mind of every farmer, as it is the question that involves the success or failure of the farmer. I am sorry the privilege of opening the subject devolves upon me to-day; I would much rather one more able than I should open the subject. I will however, give my ideas upon the subject to the best of my ability. We should in all things pertaining to the farm management, husband our resources; that is utilize every thing on the farm that can be converted to the use of man or beast. Live as nearly as possible on what we raise and buy as little as possible; use every means possible to increase the manure pile and thus avoid to a great extent the cost of commercial fertilizers, substitute improved machinery where possible for manual labor. Let the farmers unite in local Farmers' Clubs throughout the whole country for mutual protection and help. Unlike other occupations there is no unity with the farmers; on the contrary there seems to be a spirit of jealousy among them that should be overcome. Let us unite as members of one family all seeking one object—(success in our occupation)—let us, as I before said, organize clubs in every neighborhood, and each club send delegates once or twice a year to meet in general convention to discuss or devise the best means for the success of the farmer.

By the formation of local clubs we can be of help to each other with but little cost to us individually. For instance our Club has valuable machinery easily paid for collectively, when it would be almost impossible for either member to pay for it individually. In the matter of household and farm supplies, let us come together and select some honest, reliable dealer from whom to purchase our supplies and my word for it gentlemen, for the sake of securing our united trade he will be willing to sell us goods at a smaller profit than if we were buying as individuals. Let us as members of a Club help each other when a member through misfortune needs pecuniary assistance, let some member who is able, lend him money at a reasonable rate and not let him go to the professional money lender who will charge him such a rate as to be an injury rather than a benefit. Last but not least let us interest our wives and daughters in our operations; give them a chance to earn something for themselves by furnishing them the necessary houses to protect their poultry; give them the means to market the same, and you will find they will realize quite a snug sum from that source, for the best profits are realized from the so called small things. We could also save something in repairs to our farm machinery by giving our united custom to some reliable mechanic.

H. M. H. Yates and J. J. Alvey were appointed a committee to see where the Club can buy cheapest farm and household supplies. Messrs Payne and Tennison were appointed a committee to confer with a mechanic in reference to the Club's work. The next meeting is to be held at Mr. George F. Tennison's J. J. Alvey, G. H. Payne and W. S. Davis, examining committee.
After partaking of refreshments a vote of thanks was tendered the host and hostess for the kind manner in which they entertained the Club. Adjourned to meet the first Saturday in December.
W. S. DAVIS, Secretary.

Considerable impetus has been given to the freight business of the Washington and Potomac Railroad by the demand for popular wood, to be used in the manufacture of paper at Wilmington, Del. At almost every station and siding there are large piles of the wood awaiting shipment, which is moved as rapidly as possible. Passenger traffic is daily increasing. Capitalists are weekly inspecting the road and considering its worth as an investment, and it is thought that at an early day it will be bought and pushed forward from Washington to its terminus at Smith's Creek near Point Lookout. From Smith's Creek a ferry has been suggested to transfer passengers to a point in Northumberland County, Va., to connect with a railroad which as yet is on paper only, to traverse the tide-water counties of the Virginia peninsula between the Potomac and Rappahannock rivers. If this is consummated there will be an immense territory of great value opened to the markets of Baltimore, Washington and the North.

The Charles County Election Muddle.
(From the Baltimore Sun.)
The return judge of the sixth election district of Charles county petitioned Associate Judge Brooke to order a recount of the ballots of that district before the returns were certified today. The petition alleges grave irregularities in that district, and among other things that a number of ballots were counted for the republican candidates that should have been thrown out, that there was great excitement at the time of counting and that it was impossible for the judge to make a correct return.
Judge Brooke ordered a recount of the votes of that district by the judges of election and the correction of the returns by them before the official count of the several districts was made. Mr. Sydney E. Mudd sued out a writ of injunction this morning before Associate Judge J. Parnas Crane restraining the judges from making a recount.

Lowdown Local.
(From our Regular Correspondent.)
It is gratifying to note that there are few weak kneed democrats in St. Inigo's district. The party did its whole duty on the 7th instant, and although, Mr. Wilkinson is elected, we know that he is sorely surprised to see his sanguine hopes fall to the ground. He expected the district to give him at least 100 majority, which it failed to do. Per contra, it gave Mr. King a majority, and we entertain the opinion if democrats had performed their duty throughout the county as we did it here in the Old First, throwing up hats, getting drunk, etc., by members of the opposite party would not have taken place. We trust that those who helped to defeat their party may survive a sufficient time to discern their great error.
Mr. Wm. Yestman, keeper of Point Lookout Light house, had his barn containing 45 barrels of corn, 1500 bundles of fodder, and farming utensils destroyed by a few nights ago. It is supposed to be the work of a incendiary.
Wheat is looking well and a large acreage has been sowed.
Corn is selling for $1.25 per bbl., 'short', and 'long' for $2.50 ditto.
The Irish potato crop is fine, the yield exceeding all expectations.
Wild geese are plentiful, and ducks swarm the creeks.
Oystermen are doing a fair business up to date. From 30 cents to $1.10 per bushel is being paid by buyers.
Merchants are hoping for better times to occur. At present it is dull with them.
A rumor is going the rounds that a marriage or two will take place soon, and sad faces are to be seen in consequence.
Captain W. T. West, salesman for the firm of Powell and West, is traveling North in the interest of his business. They are large buyers and shippers of oysters.
There was Mass at St. Michael's Church last Sunday, and a large congregation, as usual, was present.
Mr. John Smith has rented Bushwood farm, Plowden's wharf, for the ensuing year, and Dr. Mills will move to the Richardson farm near the Confederate Cemetery, at an early day. Geo. Bohanan, Esq., will take charge of the farm to be vacated by the doctor. It belongs to Ignatius McKay, of Park Hall.
Inclement weather more or less prevails. The wind is principally from the North East, and is unpleasant to one's feelings.
No flowers, no birds, and, alas! our girl has—well, she loves another fellow, and we are sad indeed, such is life! We couldn't conjugate love if we tried to do so, so we are to be pitied, do you not think so, Messrs. Editors?

AZZANA.
Southern Maryland.—A correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, writing from La Plata, Charles county, has the following to say of our railroad and telephone schemes:
The Washington and Potomac Railroad formerly known as the Southern Maryland which has been surveyed and graded for nearly its entire length, ought to be finished and the indications are that it must attract the attention of capitalists before long. It was built for twenty miles from Brandywine, in Prince George's county, to Mechanicsville, in St. Mary's county, some years ago and has been irregularly operated ever since. When it is finished from Brandywine to Washington, seventeen miles, and from Mechanicsville to Point Lookout, about forty miles, it will pass through a section not only attractive, but containing some of the very finest farming lands in the State.
A telephone line from Brandywine, the junction of the Washington and Potomac Railroad with the Pope's Creek branch of the Baltimore and Potomac to Leonardtown will be built shortly, and then the residents along its route will be in easy communication with the rest of the world. The Washington and Potomac Road is also about to get a contract for carrying the mail, and this, too, will improve matters, for no one who has not spent some time in Southern Maryland can have an idea of what it is to be so near to Washington and Baltimore and yet be so completely shut out, as are residents, by the lack of proper mail service. From parts of St. Mary's it is impossible to get a reply to a letter in less than five days, and the people are looking hopefully for the time when these things will be changed by the building of the road and the telephone line.

The Commissioners' and Orphans' Courts were in session Tuesday and transacted routine business.
Up to 12 m., Wednesday, Circuit Court Clerk Greenwell had issued 892 Licenses to Tong for Oysters.
Mr. Daniel Combs, son of Hon. Robert C. Combs, is quite sick at his father's residence, near this town. We wish him a speedy recovery.
Tuesday last, Jeremiah Jordan, while throwing hay from a loft to his horse slipped and in falling painfully strained his arm. Dr. Combs rendered the necessary attention.
We are in receipt of several favors of correspondents, and of a copy of an interesting and instructive lecture recently delivered at Charlotte Hall Academy. We hope to make room for them in our next paper.
As soon as their commissions are received, we presume our newly elected county officials will qualify. The new Board of County Commissioners will consist of Messrs. Turner and Tennison, democrats, and Arthur C. Combs, republican. Mr. Combs will hold for 2 years, Mr. Tennison for 4; and Mr. Turner for 6.

Are Your Children Subject to Croup?
If so you should never be without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain cure for croup, and has never been known to fail. If given freely as soon as the croupy cough appears it will prevent the attack. It is the sole reliance with thousands of mothers who have croupy children, and never disappoints them. There is no danger in giving this Remedy in large and frequent doses, it contains nothing injurious. 50 cent bottles for sale by Wm. F. Greenwell & Son, Leonardtown, Md.

This practically nullified Judge Brooke's order, as the return judges were obliged to make their official returns today. It is claimed that a recount of the votes in the sixth district will be favorable to the democratic candidates, and the contest was to secure a plurality vote on the face of the returns.
When the injunction of Judge Crane was served today upon the return judges, restraining them from making a recount of the ballots of the sixth district, the judges then proceeded to make their official count upon the returns as made. When the fifth district was reached it was found that there was an error in adding up the tally sheets, by which the vote of several candidates on the democratic ticket was made 147 instead of 174 by reversing the figures. This, it was claimed, was a manifest clerical error and was made in adding the split vote to the straight vote, which was first counted. The certificate made out by the judges of that election district followed the same figures, which made a reduction in the vote for the democratic candidates of twenty-seven. The judges proposed to make their official count by giving the correct vote of the fifth district, as shown by the tally list, instead of the certificate returned therewith. Sydney E. Mudd then sued out a writ of mandamus before Judge Crane requiring the judges to make their official count from the certificate as returned without correcting the error. The judges, through legal counsel, demurred to the writ, but Judge Crane again ruled with Mr. Mudd. The return judges then had prepared certificates showing the number of votes received by each candidate, as shown by the certificates from the several districts, and also showing the corrected vote of each candidate, as shown by the tally lists. It should be added here that other errors in the certificates from the several districts were discovered, and the corrected vote elects the whole democratic ticket except the sheriff. The certificates made out by the return judges today are forwarded to the Governor giving him all the facts in the matter developed by the official count, and it remains with him to decide which candidates are legally elected by the returns. Great feeling is being manifested over the developments made today and the legal battle, and it was not till a late hour tonight that the returns were signed. One of the return judges refused to sign the return certificate; and the other eight signed it and it will be forwarded at once to the Governor.

Oakville and Laurel Grove Cleanings.
The echoes of the election are passing away, and all seem to acquiesce in the verdict of the people.
Farmers are well up with their work. Corn-husking are the order now. The yield seems to be as good as expected from the unfavorable season. The large majority of the farmers have seeded their wheat. The low prices have not checked the seeding of a full acre.
Sickness prevails to a considerable extent, and physicians are kept busy. Mr. Philip T. Buckler's family is very unfortunate. About two months ago, his only daughter Marie, aged about 6 years, a very interesting and intelligent child died from typhoid fever. Another of his children, Reidon, was very low at the same time, but has recovered. His oldest son, Chester, is now very ill, and grave doubts are entertained as to his recovery. The warmest sympathies of their large circle of friends are extended them in this hour of trial.
They say that pluck and perseverance must win in the fight of life. If such be true, Messrs. John M. and Joseph Reeder, sons of the late William T. Reeder, of near Morgantza, are deserving a full measure of success. A few years ago, the writer knew them when they were entering upon the struggle of life. Then, they had but little of this world's goods, and commenced to carve their way. John M. remained in the county and was employed as clerk by different merchants, most of the time by Mr. J. W. Latham. By industry and economy he saved considerable. His brother Joseph, left the county about 5 years ago. After roughing it awhile upon the great western plains he struck out for Idaho, and there he found employment that has enabled him, by joining with his brother to open and conduct two first class stores, one at Laurel Grove, and one at Sand Gates. Such energy, industry and economy deserve great commendation. ANOX.

[COMMUNICATED.]
LAUREL GROVE, Nov. 14, 1893.
Mr. J. J. Wise after taking quite a rest, now tells us what a poor opinion he has of one who refuses to apologize when he proves him wrong. Well, I calmly await the proof. The evidence of reliable parties in his own section, what was found in Washington, and his own allegations sensibly on my side of the question, and we have thought but Mr. Wise's assertions (whatever they may be worth, to the contrary. So far as his opinion of me is concerned, I don't worry any.
He has another mail change on the brain. If the good people of his section wish to have their mail delayed by being kept over at Mechanicsville 24 hours, as it certainly must be unless the train brings it to that place. Why, we have no right to complain, unless ours is kept with it. Then, we will, as heretofore, kick. The mail now leaves as soon as the upper mail arrives. Any contemplated changes, to properly deliver the mail, must take this fact in consideration.
To bring Laurel Grove and Oakville mail by way of Morgantza will certainly entail considerable increase of expense to the Department. There must of necessity be an increase of 8 or 9 miles in the distance, 4 or 5 miles would about cover the extra distance, if there was no other postoffice on the Morgantza route. The people of Lovelieve would kick, and very properly too, if any attempt was made to drop that office.
