The Theater

In the Movies.

TONIGHT.

Spencer Square—"Submarine Eye;" Burton Holmes' travel pictures.

Majestic—Beatriz Michelena in "The Woman Who Dared."

Black Hawk—Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in "A Million a Minute;" also a comedy.

WEDNESDAY.

Spencer Square—"Submarine Eye;" Burton Holmes' travel pictures.

Majestic—Norma Talmadge in "Panthea."

Black Hawk—Marian Swayne in "Little Miss Fortune;" also a comedy.

At the Majestic.

When the California Motion Picture corporation made "The Unwritten Law" it set for itself a high standard for the productions to follow, but "The Woman Who Dared," to be seen at the Majestic tonight, meets in every respect the anticipations of those who saw the first release. Pure adventure of an exceedingly devious and intricate nature forms the theme, and the fine clarity of its exposition speaks well for the scenarioist and the director. At the same time the principal players have been carefully selected for type, while the acting is consistently good throughout.

At Spencer Square.

The Spencer Square theatre will offer for three days beginning today one of the most interesting, most novel and original picture plays that has been produced for many months. It is called "The Submarine Eye" and is the second picture made under the patent of the Williamson brothers, who made possible submarine photography. The first was "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," which was, as Rock Islanders who saw it know, an intensely interesting play from every standpoint. In "The Submarine Eye," however, the producers have gone themselves one better and have turned out a marvelous drama with scenes above and below water. They have done more. They have secured a star cast headed by Barbara Tennant,and they have woven around her a story of such intense interest, so filled with pulsating incidents and powerful suspense, that you cimply sit and wonder what will happen next. There are no dragging preliminaries in "The Submarine Eye." You get action from the jump-off when there is a weird undersea fight on the screen. From that moment there is something doing every foot of the way. The deep never held a secret away from the Williamson patent. It is a tube sunk far below the surface of the ocean and it even in places goes does right to the floor of the Atlantic.

The Argus Daily Market Quotations By Wire

UNLOADING MOVE IN CORN IS EVIDENCED

Chicago, July 24.—General selling of corn resulted today chiefly from news of the breaking of a two months' drouth in north central Kansas. It was said also that there had been some increase of rural offerings of corn by farmers who have been tempted by high prices to dispose of their live stock. Renewal of poem gossip from Washington tended further in some degree to ease the basis. Opening quotations, which ranged from the same as yesterday's finish to 1c lower, with September at 1.63½, to 1.63½, were followed by a moderate setback all around.

Improved crop conditions in Iowa and Nebraska as reported today through railroad officials led subsequently to increased weakness. The close was heavy at ½c to 2½c net decline, with September at 1.63¾ and December at 1.14½ to 1.14¾.

Wheat gave way with corn. Difficulties hindering the progress of food control legislation seemed to act somewhat as a weight on the market. After opening unchanged at 2.53 for July and 2.51½ for September, prices hardened a trifle, and then underwent a decided sag.

It was gossip that there would be delivery on July contracts here before the end of the week, and that larger receipts were probable. The market closed steady, 3 to 6½c net lower, at 2.54 July and 2.25 September.

Oats were depressed by unloading on the part of a big house which had recently been a conspicuous purchaser. Favorable harvest returns counted against the bulls.

Weakness of grain pulled down provisions. Higher quotations on hogs appeared to be ignored.

STEAMSHIP SHARES FALL UNDER BURDEN

New York, July 24.—Steamship shares yielded 1 to 2 points and some of the motors a point before buying of steels and other industrials caused a general re-adjustment of prices. The harvester issues gained from 3 to 4½ points, Bethlehem Steel a point and United States Steel rebounded from 121¼ to 122⅝. Cuban American Sugar increased its gains to 7½ points and rails threw off their early sluggishness, trans-continentals and grangers showing gaverage advances of a point. Medals were hesitant but minor specialties including fertilizers, Allis Chalmers and enameling were strong. Steadiness ruled in the bond list, the Liberty issue selling at 99.45 to 99.48.

Swat the Critic!

Herbert Brenon, a highbrow director, rises to protest in forceful, indignant and right-from-the-dictionary language, against the reviewing of picture plays by mere newspaper reporters. "Our screen plays are worthy of criticism by dramatic critcs, not by three-for-a-penny reporters who have neither analytical nor critical minds. We need and want criticism, but not the kind that either slops a play over with sentiment or ignores it altogether," he yelps.
