Jas Mullin, of A[illegible], [illegible] night with his wife, the latter being convicted [illegible] advise a Denver [illegible] experience, and if favorable the [illegible] fraud will [illegible] Mr. Mullen will return [illegible] and the happy [illegible] here to stay.

Lacking [illegible] one hundred and ten dollars, was the report of the executive committee, who were deputed to look after the unmanageable of the Ferguson's ball of Thanksgiving eve. Notes had gone out by hundreds, mostly, and they will have a long wait for such a day.

Death of L. P. Browne

This well known resident and business man of Las Vegas died yesterday morning. He was a member of the Browne & Manzanares company, and a pioneer in the territory. From the [illegible] he was [illegible] sound [illegible] charity, [illegible] devoted to the community in which he resided. He was a strong supporter of the Methodist church, [illegible] while the optic [illegible] that at one time he was a member of the Odd Fellows' organization. [illegible] connection with [illegible] his life being [illegible] the allurements of sin. [illegible]

The married life of the deceased was blessed with six daughters and two sons, all of whom with their mother survive him. The funeral will take place in Kansas City, but the time and circumstances can not be determined till the children shall arrive, the death of the father having been so unexpected that several members of the family could not be at his bedside. From what the physicians learn there was no [illegible] attack of cholera, but a general failing of vitality, induced, it may be, by an attack of [illegible], from which he was suffering when he left the city, but a few weeks ago. A great man has fallen in New Mexico, and but few if any are left who can fill his place.

Mr. Browne was born in Pontiac, Illinois, in the year 1835, and consequently was in the sixty fourth year of his age, having but barely passed the noon of life and begun the descent of age's evening. Measured, however, by actual events and not days, he was, [illegible] the largest proportion. A [illegible] he came from his native home and began his business career in St. Louis, as a clerk in a wholesale house. From the first he was noted as of modesty and business integrity, commanding the respect of all with whom he was associated. From St. Louis he removed to Kansas City and entered the employ of Walker & Clark, a pioneer firm, in the capacity of bookkeeper and accountant.

In 1866, in connection with W. H. Clark, Mr. Browne established a Kansas City, with a subsequent branch house at Leavenworth, Kansas, the business of which he was the head at the time of his death. In 1867 the parent house was removed to Kansas City, Kas., the terminus of the Kansas Pacific road. With the setting up of the west, other branches followed, to Ellsworth, Kas., in 1868; to Fort Sheridan, Kas., 1869; to Fort Cheyenne, Colo., 1870; to Granada, Colo., 1871; to Los Animas and to Mobeetie, Texas, in 1872; to Denver, New Mexico, 1878, and to Las Vegas in 1879.

It was in the year 1884 that F. A. Manzanares became associated with Mr. Browne as chief of his employes, acquiring an interest in the business in 1887, and the firm name being changed, in 1888, at E. Mora, from Clark & Browne to Browne & Manzanares. In 1892 the firm of Browne & Manzanares was incorporated as the Browne & Manzanares company.

Gentlemen: I take pleasure in [illegible] of the very beneficial results which have [illegible] the use of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine in the case of myself and wife. For a [illegible] I was subject to a distressing pain at the back of the brain and upper portion of the spine. I [illegible] lost flesh and [illegible] troubled with sleeplessness. Your Nervine was [illegible] recommended to me. My case had been of such a nature that I had no confidence in the efficacy of any medicine. Yet as a last resort I [illegible] it a fair trial. Much to my surprise I soon noticed marked benefit, my confidence was increased, my headache was removed, my nervous condition improved, and I soon gained twenty pounds. All this occurred after I consulted and well known physicians had failed. My wife takes the Nervine and finds the effect beneficial. Louis D. Vandervere.

A Hundred Ton Magazine Order

An event in periodical literature, not without its significance to the general public as showing the growth of the reading classes, was the receipt on the 9th of November by the Cosmopolitan Magazine of the order given below. A single order from a news company for one hundred tons of magazines! That is almost an event in the history of the world. A like order has never before been made, and if past rates be maintained it will be considerably more than half a million circulation for the December Cosmopolitan. Yet, when the list of authors and artists in the December number is examined, one is not one bit surprised. It contains the only known unpublished manuscript of De Maupassant, illustrated by Vierge, perhaps the most famous of European illustrators. After the World's Fair, by Paul Bourget, John J. Ingalls, William Dean Howells, Lyman J. Gage, Arthur Sherburne Hardy, Mark Twain, Robert Grant and others nearly as famous, and nearly two hundred illustrations, to which the following artists contribute: Hopkinson Smith, Kemble, Harry Fenn, F. O. Small, Attwood, Hinkle, Dan Beard, Reinhart and Remington. Think of having the World's Fair done by such expensive men as Howells, Mark Twain and Paul Bourget, and sending such artists as Charles S. Reinhart to Chicago for a single number of a magazine to be sold for only 15 cents, or by subscription 12½ cents. A book publisher, preparing such a book would not dare incur these expenses short of $5.00 a copy. Is it not a revolution that is an improvement upon old methods—a revolution of vast importance to the reading public? The order to which reference is made reads as follows:

"Publisher Cosmopolitan. Dear Sir.—Of the 200,000 copies of December number to be sent us, please send us as follows: 172,500 copies regular edition, 27,250 copies R. R. edition. Yours respectfully, The American News Company."

BRADSTREET'S, discussing the new tariff bill from a purely business point of view, declares that, with reference to the business interests of the country, the bill is a disappointment and that it constitutes a very bad beginning for a great party which has practically its first opportunity in 30 years to do constructive work in the matter of national legislation. It is shown that while the decrease in the revenue from customs is about $[illegible], there is no provision for a reduction in the expenses of the government. The deficiency is made up from the internal revenue, which is a direct tax upon the people.

For eleven days, the one at the "Mormon" mine, in the Organ mountains, averaged at the mill $21 per ton, while the tailings are believed to be worth from $40 to $50 a ton more. The little three-stamp mill can only treat from 1,500 to 1,700 pounds every twelve hours.

The Chinese have a custom they call "blinding the gods." Recently the god of sickness sent an epidemic to the country and the people predicated it was New Year's and celebrated the day effusively in the hope of making the god believe that he had made a mistake in the time of the year and that it was not the season for the sickness.

"It is a pleasure to sell Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says Stickney & Doutler, druggists, Republic, Ohio, "because a customer after once using it, is almost certain to call for it when again in need of such a medicine. We sell more of it than of any other cough medicine we handle, and it always gives satisfaction." For coughs, colds and croup, it is without an equal. For sale by T. H. Burgess & Son, druggists.

A PLEASANT condition of affairs exists in the Colorado penitentiary, where the warden has entrenched himself against removal by the governor, and surrounded himself with guards, "who will sacrifice their lives, if necessary, in defense of his interests." A pretty commentary on law and order to set before the prisoners.

Our readers will find Simmons Liver Regulator advertised in these columns. We advertise it, and use it, and we commend it as a safe and excellent medicine. We became acquainted with it in Georgia where it is a standard family medicine. We do not deny the merits of other preparations but simply state that this one commands confidence.—From the "Journal," Lanesboro, Minn.

THE tip is given out that Governor Mitchell will not interfere with the proposed fight at Jacksonville because the fight "will help the state financially." That is an unanswerable argument in Florida, where a great means of livelihood has been always the extraction of money from visitors.

Chicago is to have a new armory to replace the one burned last April. It is to cost $125,000.
