construction of the Santa Fe, Prescott & Phœnix railroad and at the same time furnishing employment for laboring men by undertaking the grading of the road seventy miles out of Phœnix. The estimated cost is placed at $500 per mile and subscribers to the necessary fund are to be reimbursed by first mortgage bonds on the road.

W. W. Bass, owner of the stage line from Williams to the Grand Cañon of the Colorado, has a force of 45 men and 12 teams hauling a wagon road from Ash Fork to the Grand Cañon and proposes to put on a limited stages with three relays and make the trip in 11 hours.

CERRILLOS

The Future of Santa Fe County's Mineral Belt Assured

Cerrillos, Dec. 18, 1893.

Sunday 17, local, was certainly an accommodation to the days, as it offered a two cents start. The regular passenger, the latter being delayed three hours by tardy N. [illegible] from the west. Engine 708 pulled in, [illegible] mainly of "plates" taken to Waldo station to be loaded with coal.

C. Lowenberg, the Pena Blanca merchant and poultry dealer, got on at Bernalillo and got the train at Wallace, taking a coop yard to Pena Blanca, five miles [illegible]. Mr. Lowenberg made a display of turkeys and ducks at the territorial fair and will bring an exhibit of poultry and eggs to the Pet Stock show in January at Albuquerque. He says the native element amuse themselves on Sundays, fighting game cockes, with sharp points attached to the spurs of the birds. The men average a pool of $2.50 to $50 and sight men have to a mining small bets being made on the side.

Six hundred and seventy five sacks of [illegible] silver bearing ore from the Cerrillos mines, seven miles north, lie in the depot at Wallace, and, together with that to be brought in today, a car load will be made up and shipped to Pueblo by Charles Pilkey, who is in charge of the mines. It is estimated that the ore will produce $[illegible] in gold and silver. The Santa Fe company will put up a warehouse for the storage of the ore, convenient for the mining company and railroad alike. A blacksmith shop has been started at the mines, and further improvements will be made. Henry Lockhart, at Albuquerque, is identified with the Cerrillos mines.

PROSPECTING WORK.

The current work and the one to follow promise to be very lively, as a payment to the pick sakers will be made, and it is anticipated. The coal mines promise a resumption about the 27th, and possibly another about the 15th prox. This will have been so long that a pay day is hailed with joy by all classes. Like many others on the railroad the habit of waiting for pay days seems to have grown upon the people. Cerrillos is better situated than most towns, because there are other resources than the coal mines, much yet undeveloped.

SPORTING.

Horse racing seems to have become a fad in Cerrillos. Yesterday was witness to a dash of [illegible] mile between Kangaroo Dick and Ripley's Galiste mare, the latter winning by several inches and a purse of $50. The same animals run on Monday next, Christmas day, same distance and for $50 a side.

On the 19th, Kangaroo Dick will go against McKellar's Goat house, in a dash of 300 yards, $50 a side.

Next Sunday, Broncho Dick and the Barney colt go a [illegible] mile for $100 a side, and on the same day, Blakeley's Daisy and McKellar's Goat house will run 300 yards for $25. The local sports have not made a wailing on recent races and hope to recoup in future.

Edmunds is expected from Las Vegas on Thursday. He is said to be in good trim for the contest on Saturday. Flynn has been working hard near the mines, under careful training.

Work on the amphitheatre will be begun on Friday, and made ready for the fight. The miners hoped to get pay next Saturday and "stow it" in, but they will have to wait a few days longer for cash, though they will be in funds to some extent.

MINES AND MINING.

Sam Dedrick and Tom Wright are both out of town, but I learn that nothing has been done with reference to shipping ore, though more or less is ready at the New Era and Benton.

The O'Mara banks are sending out loads of coal to Santa Fe and Cerrillos almost daily.

At the White Ash and Waldo mines the same activity prevails, fully fifty cars being moved daily except Sundays.

About 100 men are reported in the Dolores placer district, though only a portion of this number are prospecting. Recent sales of dust indicate poor results of late, though there are instances of good finds. Some days scarcely a dollar was picked up, and again anywhere from $2.50 to $4.00, two men usually working together and operating dry washers. The McKinley dry washer, in six hours yesterday, worked out $12.50 in gold dust. This was the first satisfactory test, each time heretofore being taken upon getting the machine in working order. Mr. T. F. Moore and others repose great faith in the Dolores placers, though it is just as well to say that only those who delve for color experience results. After all it is pretty much of a lottery, good fortune smiling on some, while others go on without apparent luck.

THAT REPORTED SALE.

The N. M. [illegible] prints an article from the Denver [illegible] regarding the negotiations for the sale of that paper, and pronounces the story false. The New Mexican says:

The truth of the matter is as follows. Hearing that negotiations for the sale of the New Mexican were [illegible] several prominent republicans, realizing the great value and past successful services of the New Mexican to the republican party, set to work to organize a syndicate for the purpose of being able to purchase the stock of the company to keep the paper in republican hands. Quite a number of the prominent parties interested to sell.

As far as the stockholders of the New Mexican are concerned, the above article is concerned, they are not worth [illegible] as to give personal offence to the Albuquerque Democrat.

The good will of a paper is affected by such [illegible] and again [illegible] Veteran.
