Mrs. W. K. Lynch, wife of the foreman of the Gallup switch yards, and sister, Miss Emma Dader, left last night for Gallup, where they will reside in the future. "The Berkshire pig, the chickens and the household effects," remarked Mrs. Lynch at the depot last night, "were shipped to Gallup the day before."

Indians Dissatisfied.

W. B. Kelly, of the Graham County Bulletin, who was in Globe last week, in a letter published in the Bulletin of May 3, referring to incidents of the trip, says:

"While passing through the Indian reservation at 10 o'clock at night, on the stage, we passed an Indian dance. There must have been six or seven hundred bucks, squaws and papooses present, and the noise made would lead one to believe there were thousands on the ground. They had built a large fire in the center and were hopping first on one foot and then on the other, yelling, grunting, beating to tomes, drums, etc., and as we drove on down the river could hear them for miles. I was informed by the driver that such gatherings was of common occurrence and often lasted the entire night."

This is corroborative of what the Belt published last week in regard to the growing dissatisfaction among the Indians, and signs of trouble. Globe, Arizona, Silver Belt.

District Court.

The cases of Mariano S. Otero vs. Louis Zollinoffer, assumpsit; C. Mondoya y Sanchez et al vs. Harper K. Crary et al, ejectment; Mariano S. Otero vs. John W. Miller, ejectment, were continued to the next term of the court upon agreement of the parties.

George C. Browne et al vs. New Mexico Savings Bank & Trust company, so much of the orders entered in this cause on yesterday requiring Joseph E. Saint, late receiver of the trust to turn over to O. N. Marron, clerk and register in chancery, all the property and effects in his hands belonging to the trust, was revoked, and thereupon an order was entered requiring the said Saint to turn over the effects to Neill B. Field.

Case of Mariano S. Otero vs. Joseph Bibo, trover, for the alleged conversion of about 3,000 head of sheep was called for trial this morning, and after the jury was in the box and sworn to answer questions as to their qualifications the plaintiff announced that owing to the absence of an important witness he was not ready for trial and asked for a continuance. The defendant demanding a trial the motion for continuance was overruled and thereupon the plaintiff dismissed his case.

Territory vs. Pantaleon Martinez and Jose M. Clark, on trial all day yesterday and the day before was given to the jury at 6 o'clock last evening. At the dead hour of midnight Judge Collier drove from new town to the court house and called the jury to and asked if they were likely to agree upon a verdict. They unanimously answered that they could not agree. The jury was thereupon discharged from further consideration of the case and a mistrial ordered. This morning the defendants were brought into court and each put under personal recognizance in the sum of $500 to appear on the first day of the next term. This case has been twice tried, each time the jury failing to agree upon a verdict. The evidence against them is wholly circumstantial. It is the opinion of people who heard the trial last October and the one just finished, that the territory failed to make as strong a case this time as they did last October.

Jesus Jaramillo y Jaramillo vs. Jose L. Perea, trespass. This case being set for trial for this day, the defendant being ready, the plaintiff not appearing, the cause was dismissed for want of prosecution.

Case of Lorenzo Baker & Co. vs. Clarence Grange and Chas. Voorhof, replevin, dismissed in the same manner as the prior case.

Case of the South Bend Saddlery Co. vs. John H. Hughes, assumpsit. Default for failure to appear and final judgment entered.

GIRLS (to boy) — GIVES — Ten Rounds and a hard cut to a New York cream.

[illegible]

Kansas City, Mo., May 8.—[illegible] Mand and Ethel respectively.

For the first four rounds neither fair lady gained much advantage, although their arms were awful cutting examples.

In the fifth round Mand received first knock-down, and Ethel followed three rounds later, but to no purpose.

The sixth round was not marked by some clever work in the way of feints, duck and counters, both contestants being pretty well winded at the quitting call of time, from a member who was so excited that she had almost lost her voice.

When the flushed and panting but plucky girls faced each other for the seventh round the first effort made was a spectacular straight arm punch which sent Ethel reeling for a moment. A peck member of tender years quickly fainted in a corner just as Ethel recovered herself quickly in time to duck another twenty ounces for the chin.

Before Mand could get herself back into position Ethel landed twice and her adversary at once became excessively groggy.

Ethel, though puffing like a grampus herself, was quick to see her opportunity, and with a smart uppercut sent poor Mand to the floor in a bunch, fairly knocked out.

The vanquished maid was carried to a dressing room, where she soon recovered. Then all the girls, after having a good cry together, went home satisfied that they had a lovely time and eager for the next bout.

ON BOARD A BURRO.

A Lady Passenger's Experience in Mountain Climbing.

In riding a mule up a mountain, where the trail often runs along the edge of a precipice, the rider is told that it is safer to let the beast have its own way than to attempt to guide it. But even in mountain riding the old adage holds, there is no rule without an exception. Miss Sanborn tells us in her book, A Truthful Woman in South America, that in ascending Mount Wilson she let the reins hang from the pommel of the saddle and humored her mule's whim to nibble the herbage.

At a narrow place, with a sharp declivity below, the beast fixed his jaws upon a small, tough bush on the upper bank. As he started to the work, his hind feet wound around toward the edge of the chasm. The bush began to come out by the roots, which seemed to be without end. As the weight of the mule was thrown heavily backward I looked forward with apprehension to the time when the root should finally give way.

I dared not and could not move. The poor brute was allowing the mule to go backward. One foot slipped over the edge, but three stuck to the path, and the majority prevailed.

After that I saw it was safer to let my faithful beast graze on the outer edge. All went well until he became absorbed in feeding downward the foliage of a bush which grew up from below.

As he stretched his neck farther and farther down, I saw that he was leaning on his forelegs. His shoulders sank more and more. I worked myself back and and was sliding down behind immediately. The bush broke, causing the mule to fall back forcibly against the inner bank, with myself sandwiched between the remaining wall of the mountain and the well-shod heels of the mule.

The mule, being as much scared as we, started up the trail on a gallop. I held onto my life, but lost my nerve. I wanted to push on. At the very first bend he appeared hurrying back with my palfrey.

MIDWAY PLAISANCE.

The Entertainment at the Armory Well Patronized.

WILL BE REPEATED.

Of the many unique and interesting entertainments given by our churches, none has as yet equalled, or even come within speaking distance of the Midway Plaisance, which opened last evening at the Armory hall, under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild of St. John's church and which will be repeated this evening.

There was present last evening a liberal-minded delegation of citizens, and although they could have stopped with the payment of only the general admission price—twenty-five cents—still it was noticed by THE CITIZEN representative that the various booths were generously patronized and the guild must have received, in return, a handsome sum—all of which will be applied to a worthy cause.

The official guide stand was presided over by Mrs. M. C. Nettleton, who stood at the door, dressed in oriental style, and informed visitors that in order to see all the sights you should first purchase a guide, and she did quite well in her sales.

Mrs. W. C. Hazleline stood near by, presiding with dignity at the lemonade stand, or at the stand where all famous mineral waters could be obtained, and her stand was a profitable one.

Mrs. N. B. Field was the chief of the Midway, and her assistants were the following famous people: J. Mirkelian, Missir Missorian and Marius de Andria.

Booth No. 1 was the "International Beauty Show," with Mrs. G. L. Brooks and Mrs. Alfred Grunsfeld as concessionaires. The exhibit of beauties is bewildering, and natives of many countries, attired in national costume, are present. This booth attracted great attention last evening.

No. 2 is the Dahomey village, and when THE CITIZEN representative called W. S. Burke and G. F. Albright made a delightful picture behind the curtain. They were on the extra list. Mrs. G. F. Albright and Mrs. Draper are the concessionaires, and they have collected together pure unadulterated negroes from the west coast of Africa.

No. 3 is the Moorish palace, in charge of Mrs. W. H. Whiteman, Mrs. W. J. Johnson, Mrs. John Butler, Mrs. K. W. Spencer, Mrs. Mary Scott, while booth No. 4, the dime museum, had as concessionaires Mrs. C. H. Young, Mrs. Frank Sutton, Mrs. J. H. Wroth, Mrs. W. K. Walsh and Mrs. J. C. Muir. These two booths were interesting and received excellent support.

No. 5, Hagenback's trained animals, performed many daring feats under the management of Dan Slice.

No. 6, Streets in Cairo, with Mrs. W. V. Walton and Mrs. G. W. Pittock as concessionaires, received a liberal patronage, and many of our citizens had their fortunes told by Juliana Jerulsha, a sweet and pretty snake charmer. Mrs. G. M. Cundiff and son, Master Willie, interested the callers at this booth by their club swinging.

No. 7, Old Vienna, where coffee and lunch are served, was presided over by Mrs. W. W. McClellan and Mrs. W. P. Fox.

No. 8, Pawpkorman exhibit, beautiful white ware, very light and soft, and sold in quantities and at prices to suit the purchaser.

No. 9, Ferris wheel, was the last of the numbered booths, according to the official guide.

Mrs. J. G. Albright had charge of the flower department, being assisted by a bevy of sweet-faced young girls, who partly disguised their handsome and lovely features, but their bewitching and sparkling eyes told who were behind the masks.

Four Columbian guards, under direction of Capt. Saltmarsh, paced up and down the Midway and kept the best of order.

The entertainment will be repeated this evening.

Mrs. Stewart, relative of Charles Crary, who is here visiting from Columbus, Ohio, is the promoter of the Midway entertainment in this city.

A County Fair.

The Times strongly advocates the holding of a county fair at some suitable point. The great desirability of this movement being inaugurated is impressed on the citizens. It bears with it the soundest and best arguments—notoriety for our productions, advertisement for the superb qualities of our fruit, and a friendly and wholesome competition for the farmer and fruit grower.

The fair, well managed, is of invaluable assistance to the sale of the staple growths of the soil. With the fair come strangers into the country who inquire, observe and buy. Hence, too, the prominent question of immigration.

Our fair should be held early in September, so that the choicest exhibits can be sent on to Albuquerque, where the territorial fair and irrigation congress will be held simultaneously, and where, again, our products can be displayed to the best advantage.

This year will see a grand yield of fruits. Let us unite in placing the riches of this district before the eyes of the public by calling attention to the unsurpassed opportunities possessed by this county in the efficient form of an ably conducted, amply supplied and well attended county fair.—San Juan Times.

Painful Accident.

Alvin Pohle, who apparently is out of luck, met with an accident down in the Atlantic & Pacific shop yards yesterday afternoon. At 3 o'clock he was working on the water tank, when a piece of iron, which was being handled, mysteriously flew up and struck him across the left side of his head, cutting a gash about six inches long and laying bare the flesh to the skull. The injured man, with blood flowing freely from the ghastly cut, walked over to the Atlantic & Pacific hospital, where the wound was dressed and sewed up by the assistant surgeon, Dr. Haynes. Alvin called at THE CITIZEN office late yesterday afternoon, and stated that the accident came very near sending him to that country from which no traveler returns. The accident has also affected his hearing.

BLAND BUZZINGS.

Our Correspondent Has Something to Say of Interest.

A FEW WORDS TO CROAKERS.

Bland, N. M., May 7.—In my last letter I referred to those who, from inability or indifference, allowed their valuable properties in the camp to lie idle, thus not only prejudicing their own interests but those of all who are dependent on the welfare and growth of the camp. I now want to devote a few words to that ubiquitous nuisance, the croaker, of which class we have an abundance in Bland. It seems strange that any man with ordinary common sense should attempt to destroy the credit and standing of the community in which he lives, and out of which he expects to make a living, if nothing more; and yet we have such people here, people who can not see that every idle word of depreciation which they speak is a seed of thistle blown into a field of grain, not only doing themselves no good but stifling and choking the efforts put forth by others for the mutual welfare of the whole community. While the writer is not by any means in favor of undue exaggeration and the booming system so common in western life, believing anything that has truth in it will always come to the front in due time, it is undoubtedly true in a mining camp that one word of disparagement will do more to retard its development among the unthinking than whole columns of advertising will do towards fostering confidence.

Last week occurred the most important mining sale that has taken place for some time, that of a one-fourth interest in the Crown Point mine, of which mention has already been made. The new owner is to be congratulated on having acquired so valuable a property, and we hope to be able to record before long other sales of a similar character. A little new blood in our mining element will do much towards arousing the lethargy into which it seems to have fallen.

Yesterday a shipment of fifteen tons of ore from the Washington mine was started on its way to Albuquerque, where it is to be experimented on by some process in operation there. It is reported that if this experiment is successful, a mill of the same pattern will be built on the Rio Grande river for the treatment of Bland ores. The 50-foot contract on the Washington is nearly completed. It is hoped that work will be continued on the mine; it is said to show improvement with every foot of depth that is gained, and if so, it is certainly a wonderful piece of property. The Iron King shaft has reached a depth of 60 feet and is being pushed vigorously. At the rate this company is working they should have plenty of shipping ore by the time they are ready to begin shipments.

We understand that the plans for the Beckman mill have reached Albuquerque and that work will be commenced immediately. It is believed that a very satisfactory process has been arrived at for the treatment of these ores, and if this is the case we shall be able to report a number of mines working before long that are now lying idle. It is reported that a good offer was refused last week for a group of undeveloped prospects.

Mr. Thos. Lowthian arrived in camp from Denver, recently.

The Lone Star is increasing its force of men and shipments are being made regularly to the smelters. It is among the possibilities that a mill will be erected this summer to work in connection with this property.

The fishing season has begun, and the wily, speckled trout occasionally finds its way into Bland.

It is with deep regret that we have to record the death of one of our young fellow citizens, Sidney Dougine, who was suddenly taken away on the 1st of this month. It is always sad for the young to be taken suddenly from this earth in the prime of their youth and strength, and doubly so when they are so far away from their friends and homes. His father, Col. Dougine, who has been making a short visit here, has the sympathy of all Bland in his deep affliction.

We notice that articles of incorporation have been filed by Santa Fe parties for the construction of a railway to the Cochiti mines. Although it may be some time before this is anything more than a paper railroad, yet it behooves the citizens of Albuquerque to see to it that the future trade of this district, which may be something of more considerable magnitude than they anticipate, is not diverted by those more enterprising than themselves to other towns. Albuquerque should be the supply town and headquarters for this whole district, and when it is remembered what the mines have done towards building up such towns as Denver, Col., Albuquerque people should not be backward in taking advantage of every means to secure the whole business of the district. One of the most apparent needs of the district is a wagon road to Jemez springs, which could be built at very little cost, by the county. Such a road as this would benefit Albuquerque almost as much as Bland.

A new business house is being erected on Main street by Mr. Tinan, of Allerton. We understand it is to be occupied as a store.

Mr. Philpot's residence on Natch hill, is approaching completion. It will be a credit to its owner when finished.

Sayre Bros.' saw mill has been running steadily for some time getting out timbers for the new stamp mill.

In my next letter I hope to give an account of some of our mines which are as yet not much more than prospects, but will probably give a good account of themselves the coming season. BIZ.

Big Cattle Purchase.

H. J. Ramer left yesterday for upper Salt River valley and points north in Gila county, to inspect beef cattle gathered for him, and for which he contracted to the number of 10,000 head, to be delivered at Holbrook, Arizona, between May 20 and June 1.

Mr. Ramer is very well satisfied with the cattle gathered for him in this vicinity, having had to cut out but very few head, and is confident that he will find cattle throughout the county in equally good condition.

This is the largest purchase of cattle ever made by one buyer in Gila county. They will be shipped in Burton care of a capacity of twenty-eight head of 3 and 4-year olds and thirty-six head of 2-year-olds. Their destination is Dickinson, North Dakota.—Globe (Arizona) Silver Belt.

BASE BALL TOPICS.

A Few Pointers About the Great National Sport.

The Santa Fe ball team will play the Cerrillos Browns on Sunday at Santa Fe.

The El Paso base ball team are talking of playing the Tucson and Phoenix clubs in June.

Roy McDonald, catcher, is rapidly improving from his sickness. He now eats ice cream as a preventive of all ills in the future.

The Gallup and Winslow clubs will play a game at Gallup Sunday afternoon, and it is learned that a number of Albuquerqueans will attend.

The government Indian school team of Albuquerque will be here Saturday to play the Indian school boys of this city, so says the New Mexican.

Treasurer McCue, of the local club, has stirred up a big interest in base ball in south Albuquerque, and there will be a game Sunday afternoon on the south end grounds between the Browns and a picked nine.

Captain Apodaca, of the Barelas club, states that he will not have his club ready to play the first series of the city games until Sunday, May 19. He therefore requested a postponement from the coming Sunday until that date.

At this present time, the local manager is negotiating for the Browns to accompany the excursionists to Fort Wingate on Decoration day. If terms are not agreeable, other arrangements will be made for a game on Decoration day.

THE CITIZEN understands that arrangements are being perfected to make a tour with the Albuquerque Browns. The first trip will be along the Atlantic & Pacific as far as Los Angeles, playing in all the important cities and towns, and on the return to go north as far as Denver. No doubt the boys would favor such a movement.
