POLITICAL NOTES.

The Politicians and the Dear People. The Inner Workings.

Candidate Ferguson has lots of enthusiasm in his own party and election day will prove this.

The democratic territorial committee has decided to open up a campaign of lies and lies.

Judge A. B. Fall had lots to do with the nomination of Mr. Ferguson. Fall knew that represented by Fall in the affairs of the territory.

Col. Fall is making a strenuous effort to keep the republicans of Doña Ana from enlisting Pat Garrett for sheriff at the coming election. What's the matter with Garrett, Judge.

Luna, national republican committeeman from New Mexico, says his county is good for a large republican major. Luna's less than 1,200. What's the matter with Valencia, she's all right.

The republicans of Lincoln county are again aggressive right and will come up with a good account of themselves at election day. On county ticket and territorial ticket they will do mighty well.

In southern New Mexico they would be unwilling to vote for Candidate Ferguson but for county tickets and legislative tickets for democratic candidates. The republicans are not in that sort of combination.

Mosier and Cunningham and Martinez will take great pleasure in turning over to ex-chairman of the democratic territorial committee, Governor Ferguson's nomination, but first may be first, which comes.

The Republican territorial committee will send Messrs. L. S. Stover and F. A. Hubbell to the county to make speeches in their campaign. These two gentlemen are effective speakers and it they will do good work.

Down below, Judge Albright, will run ahead of Bryan's election, as Candidate Ferguson has entered into an agreement with two Democrats to support him for reappointment as governor in case Ferguson and Bryan succeed.

It is said that the democratic nominees for council and house of the thirty-first legislative assembly are pledged to the formation of a new county, to be made up of parts of Grant and Sierra counties, county seat at Deming, if elected.

A responsible Santa Fe man offered to bet last Tuesday, the day of the democratic territorial convention, $500 on Mills and $500 on Catron. The democratic crowd though was better at chin than betting and the offers were not taken.

At the meeting of the democratic central committee in Santa Fe recently, it was proposed to use as many democratic judges of county commissioners as possible for the purpose of returning democratic majorities at the coming election. The suggestion met with howling applause and will be carried out when and where practicable.

The democratic bosses in Santa Fe county, under the very eagle eye of Mr. Catron, Laughlin and the falcon glance of his excellency, W. L. Thornton, propose to vote all the illegal votes they possibly can at Madrid precinct in that county. The board of county commissioners of Santa Fe county should look after the matter closely and sharply.

Senor Felix Martinez is willing and able and self-sacrificing enough to continue to carry the counties of San Miguel and Guadalupe for Candidate Ferguson for thirty-five hundred pesos. Modestum pays in the case of the honorable senator from San Miguel county. He is nobody's fool, you bet, and knows on which side his bread is buttered on.

At the democratic convention in Santa Fe last week they endorsed the official acts and acts of all the democratic officials, territorial officials and pie biters, except those of W. H. Childers of this city, former United States attorney. That is because they came to the conclusion they could not use Childers and because federal officials in Santa Fe county fear prosecution from Mr. Childers for violations of federal statutes.

A hacking cough is not only annoying to others, but is dangerous to the person who has it. One Minute Cough Cure will quickly put an end to it. W. V. Walton.

Largely Attended Funeral.

The funeral of Hon. Jose de la Luz Sanchez, whose death was mentioned in the CITIZEN of yesterday, took place at the Cathedral in old town, at 10 o'clock this morning, and was largely attended, testifying the esteem in which the deceased was held by the people. The remains were buried in the Santa Barbara cemetery.

If your children are subject to croup, look for the first symptom of the disease, hoarseness. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, it will prevent the attack. Even after the croupy cough has appeared the attack can always be prevented by using this remedy. It is also invaluable for colds and whooping cough. For sale by W. A. Maxwell Drug Co.

Board of Pharmacy.

The territorial board of pharmacy is in session in this city today, with W. C. Reynolds, Silver City; B. Rappe, Albuquerque; A. J. Fisher, Santa Fe, and E. L. Kupke, Las Vegas, in attendance. Considerable routine business is being transacted and a number of applicants are to be examined tomorrow, among whom are Dr. Cassel, of Deming, and Geo. Kirby, of Santa Fe. The records show that some practicing pharmacists in the territory have not had their certificates renewed and are therefore liable to the penalty imposed by law.—Optic.

Stands at the Head.

Guy J. Engel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. E. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it, it never fails, and is a sure cure for consumption, coughs and colds. I cannot say enough for its merits." Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century and to-day stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at W. V. Walton's drug store.

GALLUP GLEANINGS.

Our Regular Correspondent Comes to the Front With Some Items.

GALLUP, N. M., Oct. 3.—The brass band recently organized in this city, with a membership of seventeen gave its first open air concert on Main street on the evening of the 2nd, playing the "Action Quickstep" and the "Play Star School Teacher" in good time and style, after which they adjourned to the opera house. The hall was nicely fitted up, and three members of the band, W. S. Campbell, D. C. Russell and Bell Chandler furnished the music for the dancing, which was kept up until 4 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hart assisted in the music for the grand march, which was led by Wallace Freeman and Miss Gould. Miss Bertha Rupert kindly presided at the piano for a time, as "All work and no play" makes a dull boy," whether his name is Jack or Dave. The evening was very pleasantly spent, although the attendance was not as good as it should have been, in order to encourage the "boys" who are so faithfully working to give us one of the attractions of a live city, a good and well conducted band. The fine instruments are all paid for, I believe, but there are many other necessary expenses, such as music, instruction, etc.

In this, of course, as in every other progressive move, there is an adverse element, but the individuals composing it are so largely in the minority, that one scarcely realizes the existence of such a clique. Jot gallopites, as a rule, are dusters, and the climate of New Mexico not being good for such vegetation, the "moss" is rubbed off sooner or later.

The church edifice being erected by the Congregationalists of the city is nearing completion, and is situated diagonally across from the Episcopal church, on the corner of Aztec avenue. One block west is the Methodist Episcopal church, and on the next street back is the Catholic church, all good and substantial buildings.

The ladies of the Congregational Auxiliary have been doing a lot of quilting for their patrons, at the residence of Mrs. F. Kettner.

There has been more sickness in the coal burg this fall than for years past.

There is to be a change in the location of our postoffice, I hear.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Page have both been suffering from rheumatism, but are better at present.

D. C. Russell is again able to be on duty behind the counter of the Russell & Elsie dry goods store, after a siege of malarial fever.

The city schools are in running order and doing good work. We have a splendid corps of teachers and a large attendance of pupils.

"New England Dinner" on Thanksgiving day.

"Business dull on account of political uncertainty?" Well, may be, but to an outlooker it seems that Gallup is doing a good share of trade, right along with politics.

Gallup has organized a much needed fire brigade, and is now prepared to more successfully resist her worst enemy in the next encounter. May that time be far distant, however.

Major Kettner, a distinguished lawyer from Junction City, Kansas, is expected to shortly pay a visit to his sons residing here, and will probably remain through the winter.

Of course the boys make lots of noise with their "tooting," but only by practice can one attain perfection, even in a band, so please invest in a bat of cotton and "grin and bear it" just a little longer, as they are fast falling into line. The youngest member is Willie McSparron, just knee high, but smart as our native chili, and bright as a dollar whether of silver or gold; the largest, Major Green who beats the big drum.

We have a Silver club, a McKinley club, and a lot of unorganized political opinions, and are quite up with the procession on all issues of the present campaign.

We can talk and talk, but that casts no vote in New Mexico.

Speed and safety are the watchwords of the age. One Minute Cough Cure acts speedily, safely and never fails. Asthma, bronchitis, coughs and colds are cured by it. W. V. Walton.

A VERY BAD JOB!

An Attempt to Hold Up a Passenger Train Results in Death.

THE BANDITS PROVE THEMSELVES NOVICES AT THE PERILOUS UNDERTAKING.

One of the Robbers, Known as Cole Young, Killed by United States Marshal Loomis.

His Body, in Charge of Undertaker Strong, Viewed by a Large Crowd During the Entire Day.

THE ATTEMPT MADE AT RIO PUERCO.

From Daily Oct. 3.

The city was thrown into a fever of excitement last night at about 8 o'clock, when the news became circulated that the incoming Atlantic & Pacific No. 2 passenger train was in the hands of hold ups at or near the Rio Puerco station.

J. W. Walker, chief clerk for the above company, had received the exciting tidings a few minutes before 8 o'clock, and he held a hurried consultation at the depot with Sheriff Hubbell and Marshal Fornoff as to the best move to make.

It was finally decided to send out a posse, with horses to Rio Puerco, and after loading four horses into a car and attaching a caboose, the special train left for the west at 10:25. Sheriff Hubbell, City Marshal Fornoff, Deputy Sheriff Murphy, and Deputy Sheriff Gonzales, the latter from Valencia county, composed the posse.

Dr. J. F. Kaster, chief surgeon at the hospital, and Mr. Walker were also on the special. Conductor Tingley, Brakeman Diamond, Engineer Carroll and Fireman Beckett, were in charge of the special.

The special met the incoming No. 2 at Isleta junction, but proceeded on to Rio Puerco, where the officers and horses were left, and where they found Deputy United States Marshal Loomis in charge of the dead bandit.

After taking on board the dead bandit and Mr. Loomis, the special train returned to the city with Dr. Kaster and Mr. Walker, arriving here about 1:30 this morning.

AS TO DETAILS.

On the body being removed to Undertaker Strong's, Dr. Kaster, assisted by Dr. Pearce, held an autopsy on the remains. They found four buck shot wounds in the body, two in the left breast, one in the right breast and one on the left side of the face, knocking out two teeth. One of the shots in the left breast cut the subclavian artery and the man bled to death internally.

The facts of the hold up are told in the following interviews had with the principal actors in the thrilling affair.

THE CONDUCTOR'S STORY.

Conductor S. D. Ready, who had charge of the hold up train, was met at the undertaker's, where he had called to see the dead robber, this morning, and this is his interview regarding the exciting event.

"We arrived at Rio Puerco at 7:50 o'clock p. m., and stopped to cool off a hot pin on the engine. I got off the train and went up to the engine and talked with Engineer Ross for about five minutes. I saw no one around the station except the operator and section men, and there was nothing unusual, until we started to pull out. When about the length of two cars from the station, I heard several shots. I stepped on the south side of the train just in time to see a man raise the lantern in the hand of Louis Stevens, brakeman. A regular fusillade of shots then followed. I immediately placed my lantern inside of a coach, and then got down on the ground to determine what the shooting was. It took me but a moment to realize that we were in the hands of hold-ups, for I heard one of the men ask for the express car.

"While we were standing at the station, evidently the men got on the tank of the engine, for when Engineer Ross pulled out they three men came down off the tank with drawn revolvers and ordered the engineer to stop at once.

"One of the men, who remained on the ground, pointed to the cars and said: 'This is the mail, this is the express, and that the baggage.' The train had stopped and the four robbers talked among themselves for a few seconds, when the man who had pointed to the cars, said: 'I know what I am talking about—that is the express car.' They took Ross off the engine and brought him back to uncouple the express car from the baggage. Shooting commenced again, when the two men, in charge of Ross, left him, after which Ross had orders to reach. The robbers then returned to the engine and told the fireman, Abe Reed, to pull out. He pulled the train across the bridge, and the train was stopped again. They then ordered Reed off the engine to uncouple the express car from the train. Reed told them that he was no brakeman and did not know how to uncouple, but they compelled him to try. Seeing that they had gained nothing by this move, they made Reed get back on the engine, with one of their number as guard, and said they would pull up to where they had dynamite hid. They could not find any dynamite, although two men were sent to hunt for it. Reed was again taken off the engine, and marched off about 300 yards. The robbers kept calling for Cole, when the latter yelled out 'I am shot.' They called again and again, and finally the wounded robber, who had run off some distance after the first firing, answered: 'I can't come. I am done for,' meaning that he was shot and dangerously wounded. Reed was still with the other robbers, and he asked them what they wanted with him, and appealed to them to let him return to the train. They took what tobacco he had about his clothes, and after a pleasant chat let him go. When Reed returned to the engine, the train was backed to the station and the hold-up was then officially reported by me. We were detained two hours, arriving at Albuquerque at 10:50. I know that I saw four men on one side of the train and the three on the engine, led me to believe there were seven men in the party. The body of the dead robber had not been found when we left Rio Puerco, but on reaching the Isleta junction I learned that the body was found and that Deputy United States Marshal Loomis had identified him as Cole Young, who was wanted for other like crimes."

ENGINEER ROSS TALKS.

Chas. Ross, who was piloting the No. 2 passenger train from the west and who underwent the thrilling experience of looking down the barrels of loaded revolvers, gives the following account of the affair:

"I stopped at Rio Puerco on account of a hot pin, and when I got back on the engine and started to pull out I noticed three men on the tank. They came down to the cab, leveled their cocked revolvers at my head and told me to stop as quick as possible. They ordered me and my fireman, Abe Reed, off the engine. We had no more than reached the ground, when they ordered us back on the engine. The, however, changed their mind, and kept me on the ground, telling the fireman to get back on the engine, which he did, and he was guarded by the three men. The robber on the ground walked me to the express car to uncouple same from the train. When I started to uncouple the car, shooting commenced in general at the head end, and the man left me, going up to the head end to see about the shooting. On seeing myself free, I hid in one of the coaches and could hear them hunting for me. After one of their number had been shot, I think he must have been the leader—the others scampered off, and I could hear them yelling for Cole. I believe the dead robber was the man who commanded me to uncouple the coupling."

EXPRESS MESSENGER HUTCHISON.

L. J. Kohler, the express messenger in the car wanted by the robbers, gives his version as follows:

"The train pulled into Rio Puerco and stopped in front of the pump house. Just then Brakeman Stevens came out on the left side of the train, followed by Conductor Ready. The conductor stopped in front of my car and kept being while open, and the brakeman went between the mail and express cars. Almost immediately there was a shot fired, followed in quick succession by several more shots. I then remarked to the conductor, 'What is the matter, sam? I don't know,' he replied when two more shots were fired, and then I heard a strange voice remark: 'We are after the express car.' Realizing that something unusual was going on, I then put out the lights in my car, and as I was doing so glanced out of the window and saw a man stagger and partially fall to the ground. I knew that he was shot, and I then got down to the safe, where the guns and ammunition are kept, and waited for further developments. In about five minutes, after this exciting period, the train pulled up about a quarter of a mile. The shooting had ceased, I then listened and came to the conclusion that it was all over, and stepped to the door on the right side, opened it and looked out, and heard loud talking at the engine. I then closed the door of my car softly and waited. Inside of three minutes the robbers marched up to the door of my car, and as they passed the door I heard one remark, 'Wonder if he will open up if we ask him.' 'No, he is with him, we will fix him yet,' was the reply. They tried to uncouple for at least fifteen minutes, and finally came to the conclusion that they would waste no further time at our coupling, and remarked 'that they would get after the dynamite, would give it to them anyway.' They then started off and in about two minutes Cole Selvy, special officer for the Atlantic & Pacific, who was on the train, was heard on the outside talking to some one at the engine. I opened my door again, and helped Selvy inside, when we both left the car to look after the robbers. We hoped to meet them on their return after the dynamite, but one of the gang said that the passengers had scattered over the country after them and that the game was declared off. They did not return and afterwards the train came on to Albuquerque. There must have been at least thirty shots fired, and I informed State Marshal Loomis, with his shot gun, got the dead robber on the first firing."

EXPRESS MESSENGER HUTCHISON.

E. G. Hutchison, who had charge of the combination and express car, gives the following story of the affair:

"First intimation I had that the train was being held up was some one rapping at my door. I supposed that it was some one with a letter and naturally opened the door, as I did so a man with a revolver fired up in the air in front of my face. I knew then that it was a hold-up, and closed and fastened the door as rapidly as possible. I then went back to my desk, got my revolver and filled my pockets with cartridges. I lit a cigar, sat down in a chair and waited for results. Shooting was going on on the outside. A lull in the shooting was noticed, when I heard them trying to uncouple the head express car from the car I was in. I then felt a little uneasy. They worked ten or fifteen minutes trying to uncouple, and finally gave it up. I waited several minutes, when some one came to the door of my car and called for me. I asked who they were, and they replied, 'All right, open the door.' I told them I must have their names. I then recognized the voice of L. J. Bay, traveling auditor of the express company, who said, 'All right, open up.' On the door being opened I recognized Mr. Bay, L. J. Kohler, the messenger in the head express car, and Cole Selvy, special officer on the Atlantic & Pacific. They told me to come out and make a fight. I put on my coat, got my gun, and we walked up and down the train for some time, but the robbers had their disappeared. Between twenty-five to thirty shots were fired altogether, none of the shots were fired into my car.

L. J. BAY'S VERSION.

L. J. Bay, who was returning with his wife and baby from their vacation in southern California, was on the train. He is the route agent for the Wells Fargo Express company and states as follows: "The train reached Rio Puerco on time and stopped for several minutes. When the first shot was fired I was in the hind Pullman coach, and on hearing the shot I started for the head of the train. By the time I got through the coaches a general firing was going on. I went on the platform of the day coach and stood for a few moments, and as I was unarmed I dropped down between that coach and the express car for protection. Several shots were fired after I reached that position, when suddenly everything was quiet. I could hear voices, at a distance from the train, calling out for Cole, and the man wanted I have since learned was one of the robbers shot and killed.

THE DEAD BANDIT.

The body of the dead bandit, who with his companions, made a signal failure in securing any money from their attempt to hold up the No. 2 passenger train, has been viewed to-day by a large crowd, and while it is thought by some that he was in this city a few weeks ago, it is declared by others that the man is not known hereabouts.

It is learned that Mr. Loomis, who came in with the body but left an hour later for Socorro, stated that the dead man was wanted for similar crimes elsewhere and that there are rewards aggregating $2,500 for his capture, dead or alive. He identified the remains as that of Cole Young.

The hat worn by the dead man shows that it was purchased from Solo Kress, of Wilcox, A. T. He is a sparsely built man, about five feet six inches in height, weighs about 145 pounds, and cannot be more than 25 years of age.

There was nothing on the person of the dead bandit to indicate that his real name is "Cole Young." A plain gold ring was on one finger of the left hand, and Mr. Walker is under the impression that the robber must have been left-handed, for when the body was found the revolver was tightly gripped by the left hand and three empty shells indicated that he had fired three times before he received the deadly bullets. He had $1.45 in money in his pockets.

ON THE TRAIL.

The posse under Sheriff Hubbell and Marshal Fornoff left the Rio Puerco station at 6 this morning, taking the trail by fresh horse prints going in the direction of the Datil mountains.

George Wilson, who was sent out last night to scour the country south, has returned, but found no trace of the bandits.

Messrs. Loomis and Selvy came in with the body, and left this morning for Socorro and Magdalena, in the hope of intercepting the fleeing bandits. It is the expressed opinion of Mr. Loomis that the men are the same gang that has been for weeks terrorizing southern New Mexico, and that the dead robber, if he be clearly identified as Cole Young, is the same person who shot and killed the line man between Benson and Nogales.

A gentleman will arrive this evening from Deming for the purpose of identifying the body as that of Cole Young, and if the identification be correct, Mr. Loomis will receive several rewards, among them being a $[illegible] standing reward from the Wells-Fargo Express company.

The body will remain at Undertaker Strong's for several days, until Monday at any rate.

A MYSTERY.

How the human system ever recovers from the bad effects of the nauseous medicines often literally poured into it for the suppositive relief of dyspepsia, liver complaint, constipation, rheumatism and other ailments is a mystery. The mischief done by bad medicines is scarcely less than that caused by disease. If they who are weak, bilious, dyspeptic, constipated, or rheumatic would offener be guided by the experience of invalids who have thoroughly tested Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, they would in every instance obtain the speediest and derivable from rational medication. This medicine is a searching and at the same time a thoroughly safe remedy derived from vegetable sources, and possessing in consequence of its basis of pure spirits, properties as a mechanical stimulant not to be found in the forty local bitters and stimulants often resorted to by the debilitated, dyspeptic and languid.

Death of Mrs. Haynes.

The wife of Dr. J. E. Haynes, assistant surgeon at the Atlantic & Pacific hospital and city physician, died this afternoon about 2 o'clock from consumption. She was the daughter of Ben Barker, a well known old timer of this city, who died several months ago. THE CITIZEN is doubtful before going to press to obtain any particulars as to the death, or when it will take place. The doctor has a warm circle of friends who join with THE CITIZEN in offering sympathy.

Born.

September 29, at Point Creek, Okla., to Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hands, a daughter. Mr. Hands was formerly an employee of the Atlantic & Pacific at this place.

George Ostrander is now working the Northland assays from which have run above $[illegible] to the ton.

The Santa Rosa has resumed work and is now sinking the old shaft at a depth of thirty-five feet on a four foot vein of quartz assaying $[illegible] to the ton.

The operators on the Great Hope are pushing the lower tunnel of that mine at a rapid rate, and expect to disclose something interesting next week.

Theodore Lockman is constantly at work on the Florence, upon which he intends to let a contract for a 50 foot shaft. He recently made an encouraging strike which may lead to the prosecution of extensive work on the Florence.

The Little Molly, a mine which will certainly lead a number of what are now the best mines in camp, when properly and fully developed, comes in for a good share of work daily. In the new tunnel, which has cut a seven foot vein of high grade gold quartz, which pulp pans well in the yellow metal. The lessees are drifting in both directions on the vein and taking out considerable of the rich ore.

The new shaft of the Ellen L., under the industry of Charles Faxton, one of the owners, is sinking on a high grade vein of gold quartz. The value of this claim is too dismalle at present.

The force at the Washington mine is steadily at work producing a considerable amount of that mine's best ore. The Washington resumed its shipments on Tuesday, the road up Union gulch being repaired after the washouts caused by the recent rains.

Conductor Nottgrass Injured.

Word reached this city this afternoon that Conductor John D. Nottgrass had been caught between two cars and badly injured, and that a train would arrive with him in this city at about 5:30 p. m. The particulars of the accident were not obtainable more than that he was engaged in picking up the freight wreck down near Waldo and in coupling two cars with a chain, the draw bars having been destroyed, he was caught and badly pinched. It is sincerely hoped that it is not so bad as to prove fatal.

The above clipping is taken from the optic. John A. Ross, traveling engineer on the Santa Fe railway reached the city late yesterday afternoon. He stated that conductor Nottgrass was chaining up some cars and had given the order to "move up and couple," he being underneath. He thought that everything was all right when he raised himself and was caught between the couplings, pinching his body just above the hips. The accident occurred at Rosario siding near Wallace, and when Conductor Nottgrass' freight train reached Cerrillos Mr. Ross rode with the wounded man from there to Lamy junction. The conductor was taken to Las Vegas, and a message received last night stated that he had died from the injuries. Railroad employes say that Conductor Nottgrass was one of the most popular on the Rio Grande division, and that he was an exceptionally nice gentleman.

The first annual fair of northern New Mexico is to be held at Raton, Friday and Saturday, October 9 and 10. There are to be horse races, bicycle races, foot races, five-mile cowboy race, ladies riding contest, shooting match, base ball game and sports of all kinds.

POSSE RETURNED!

They Found the Trail, but No Train Robbers.

Country Traversed Thoroughly Scoured by the Posse.

The Body Identified by a Deming Man as "Cole Estes."

OTHER FACTS ABOUT THE BANDIT.

Sheriff Hubbell, City Marshal Fornoff, Deputy Sheriff Murphy, of this county, and Deputy Sheriff Gonzales, of Valencia county, forming the posse which left the city last Friday night for Rio Puerco after the train robbers, returned to the city yesterday afternoon, the first three on the freight train from Belen, and Deputy Sheriff Gonzales on horseback, he bringing in the horses ridden by the others and a captured horse, which was found on the trail and which has since been discovered as the horse ridden by the dead bandit.

ON THE TRAIL.

This morning, THE CITIZEN representative met City Marshal Fornoff and gleaned from him the following interview about the trip:

"We got out at Rio Puerco some time during last Friday night, and it being dark did not start out until the next morning. At 7 o'clock we found the trail of fresh horse prints, and they led down the river for about five miles and across to a gap in the mountains on the west side of the river. We followed the trail to a box canyon, nearly to the head of it, where we found the remains of a camp fire and half of a sheep. The men evidently camped there the night before. The trail then led back out of the canyon toward the south east. After leaving the canyon we came across a horse which showed signs of hard usage and which has since been identified by Albert V. Read as belonging to that section of the country, or on the border. We took along the horse and then followed the trail for about forty miles, without water, until it was almost obliterated, when we started to the river for water, reaching the Rio Grande a few miles below Salinas. We then came up a wagon road to Belen, where we remained Saturday night, and returned to the city on the freight train in the afternoon. We saw no signs of the robbers in the country traversed by us, but we did our duty and scoured the country well."

Mr. Fornoff states that the robbers, in their flight, scattered their flour, meal and other provisions along their trail for some distance. He also states that a posse of determined men, under Sheriff Garcia, left Socorro last Saturday morning, going southeast, and that another posse, under Messrs. Loomis and Selvy, left Magdalena to intercept them on the San Augustine plains.

The sheriff's posse rode all told about 70 miles, and when they got into Belen they were tired and sore enough to retire for the night.

WHO IS ESTES?

Albert A. Read, of Deming, the gentleman alluded to in THE CITIZEN of last Saturday as the party who knew the dead bandit, arrived in the city last night, and at once called at Undertaker Strong's, where he identified the remains as belonging to Cole Estes, a Texan. "For several years," remarked Mr. Read, "Cole worked for different cattle companies on the ranges around Deming and down on the border and I worked with him. I was well acquainted with the deceased, but I cannot remember that he was known as Cole Young, although the name was supposed to have [illegible] in the way time man between Benson and Nogales after the Nogales custom house robbery. I am of the opinion, however, that Estes took the name of Young when he left the vicinity of Deming several months ago, and he had two companions with him calling themselves 'Tom and Jim.' They passed through Head A. Hurst's cattle ranges on Aug. 5 last, and the cowboys of that outfit heard of them later on, on the Atlantic & Pacific. A short time after Hurst's three horses were found missing from the Mamo Cattle company outfit and they were no doubt stolen by Estes and his gang. The horse brought in by the sheriff's posse belongs to the Head & Hurst outfit."

Mr. Read, after having a consultation with United States Marshal Hall, will return to Deming to-morrow morning.

THE CATTLE BOSS.

The animal at the stable of W. L. Trimble & Co. is bay in color, with both hind feet white. It is branded "LH" in capitals on left hip, and its legs are pretty badly cut and bruised from coming in contact with briars, stubbles, etc. The animal is very lame to-day, and has a big scar in the forehead which apparently looks like a bullet wound.

THE REMAINS.

The body of the dead bandit is still at Undertaker Strong's, and was photographed by L. J. Bay, route agent for the Wells Fargo Express company, last Saturday afternoon.

The correct amount of the rewards for Cole Estes, or as some say, Cole Young, is not known by THE CITIZEN, but will amount to several thousand dollars.

The Darlington, Wis., Journal says editorially of a popular patent medicine: "We know from experience that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is all that is claimed for it as on two occasions it stopped excruciating pains and possibly saved us from an untimely grave. We would not rest easy over night without it in the house." This remedy undoubtedly saves more pain and suffering than any other medicine in the world. Every family should keep it in the house, for it is sure to be needed sooner or later. For sale by W. A. Maxwell Drug Co.

McKINLEY CLUB.

Prescott, Arizona, Republicans Organize a Strong Club.

Prescott, Ariz., Sept. 30.—In the heart of the richest mining district in the southwest, Prescott, Arizona, a McKinley-Hobart club, 150 strong, was organized last night.

Rousing speeches were made by Hon. F. N. Murphy, Hon. Robt. E. Morrison, Judge R. F. Sloan and Hon. T. W. Johnston. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed and when the audience was requested to come forward and sign the roll, they crowded and thronged to the front, to pledge themselves to the support of the republican candidates.

The roll of membership is composed of the most representative citizens of the county, including miners, capitalists and in fact all occupations existing here. This item is sent in order to demonstrate to the republicans of New Mexico that the grand old party has, in this great territory, as sturdy, loyal, patriotic and true members as in any section of this our country. J. E. MOHNESS.

Need Rounding Up.

The Navajo Indians are, as usual, slaughtering large numbers of deer and antelope this season. They invade the plains and mountains each summer and fall and slaughter these animals without mercy. Parties just returned from a trip out on the edge of the plains saw a band of Navajos who claimed they had killed fifty antelopes. Another band of these Indians, with some thirty ponies, are reported hunting in the Black Range near Reed's ranch. What's the matter with enforcing the game law? Wyoming style, if necessary.—Chloride Black Range.

If Troubled with Rheumatism, Read This.

Annapolis, Md., April 16, 1901.—I have used Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism and found it to be all that is claimed for it. I believe it to be the best preparation for rheumatism, and deep seated muscular pains, on the market and cheerfully recommend it to the public. Jno. G. Brooks, dealer in boots, shoes, etc., No. 18 Main street.

FACTS FOR ELECTORS.

Boards of Registration. How Appointed Duties and Meetings.

Chapter 116 of the general laws of New Mexico of 1899 provides that sixty days before any general election in this territory it shall be the duty of the boards of county commissioners of the respective counties to appoint boards of registration in the several precincts, such boards of registration to be composed of representatives of the opposing parties.

Such boards of registration shall meet at least thirty days before the election at the places designated by the county commissioners and shall proceed to register the qualified voters in their respective precincts, the probate clerk having previously furnished them with the lists of voters cast in such precincts at the previous general election, which said lists shall be corrected by the registers so far as they possess knowledge in the premises.

The qualifications of a voter are citizenship of the United States, six months residence in the territory, three months in the county and thirty days in the precinct next preceding the election.

The boards of registration shall sit at least three days when they first meet, opening their sessions at 9 a. m. and closing at 5 p. m. each day, and thereafter on each and every Saturday until ten days before election and on the ten days preceding the election the boards shall meet for the purpose mentioned.

On the tenth day before the election the several boards shall close the registration books and thereafter no more names shall be added to the lists. The compiled laws, section 1212, provide that it shall be unlawful for any person to vote unless he has been registered as required by statute.

The compiled laws, section 121[illegible], also provide that it shall be the duty of the boards of registration to make three copies of the registration lists, one of which shall be furnished to the judges of election one hour before the time of election, and two shall be furnished to the clerk of the probate court, one to be filed in his office and the other to be transmitted to the territorial secretary.

The compiled laws also require that, ten days before a general election, lists of the voters registered shall be posted at conspicuous places in the several precincts.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, constipation, dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1 per bottle at W. A. Walton's drug store.

TIMELY INVITATION

The Fire Companies Will Participate in the Grand Carnival Parade.

Secretary Saint, of the Territorial Fair association, has sent the following invitation to the fire companies of the department, which explains itself and informs the fire laddies to get ready for the big parade:

The Territorial Fair association, in its efforts to prepare a grand spectacular parade in the streets of our city on carnival night, Friday, October 18, hereby cordially invite you to participate in the parade in the uniform of your company and earnestly hope that you will add to your presence in uniform in making this, the first Carnival wherein the Duke of Albuquerque will appear with a retinue of grandees, courtiers and court ladies in the costume of the Spanish Court of the seventeenth century, the grandest and most gorgeous pageant ever witnessed in our city.

The Fair committee are working hard to prepare entertainment for the great number of visitors who annually visit our Territorial Fair, and take this method to interest the citizens who always feel proud when our city grandly acquits herself in her efforts to entertain.

The committee in charge in introducing the new feature of the Duke of Albuquerque and the Queen of the Carnival in this grand parade feel that it successful it will inaugurate a grand Annual Carnival feature that will in future years be to Albuquerque what the Mardi Gras is to New Orleans or the Veiled Prophets to St. Louis.

An answer will be appreciated. Very truly yours, J. E. SAINT, Secretary.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

The City Fathers Held a Very Interesting Meeting Last Night.

The board of aldermen met in regular semi-monthly session last night.

Present: Mayor Baldridge, Aldermen Cummings, Grunsfeld, Long, Montfort, Stevens, Tierney and Clerk Foran.

Absent: Aldermen Horner and Romero.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Mrs. Lockhart was refused permission to erect a shed to be used as a carriage house, in the rear of the Armijo house, facing Third street, on motion of Alderman Stevens, seconded by Alderman Cummings. It seems that Mrs. Lockhart had already erected a building, and the clerk was instructed to notify the lady to remove the same forthwith.

After the reading of the following bills, they were referred to the proper committees:

J. C. Baldridge	$ [illegible]
W. B. Garbutt	[illegible]
Electric Light Co.	[illegible]
Albuquerque Gas Co.	[illegible]
S. Valdez	148 50
Edward A. Fearson	22 50

Alderman Horner offered a resolution to the effect that the Electric Light company place a lamp at the corner of Second street and Hunter avenue, and another at the corner of Sixth street and Copper avenue.

A motion prevailed that the resolution be tabled, and a vote was taken as follows:

Ayes—Cummings, Long and Montfort—3.

Noes—Grunsfeld, Stevens and Tierney—3.

It being a tie, Mayor Baldridge decided the question by voting aye.

Alderman Long announced that the fire companies of the department had been requested to take part in the parade one night during the "Carnival of sports," and would like to know if the city furnish them with horses to draw the carts and truck.

Alderman Long made a motion to that effect, and it was carried unanimously.

J. B. Harvey, city physician, made his report, which was accepted. The report shows [illegible] patients having been treated, [illegible] visits and thirty-two prescriptions written during the month of September.

E. B. Crosby, architect, was granted permission to construct a plank sidewalk at the corner of Gold avenue and Walter street.

E. A. Fearson, city engineer, made his report, which was read and accepted. The report informs the board of irregular street lines and no monuments established in the Highlands, and if not soon done the city will and itself in serious lawsuits. The city engineer was then instructed to establish monuments at the intersection of the center of Gold avenue and
