Gun-Shot Wounds.

Major E. A. Garlington was shot through the arm at the battle of "Wounded Knee," December 29, 1890, the last fight between the Indians and our troops. It is not often that a regular army officer certifies to the value of a proprietary remedy, but this is what Major Garlington says about SALVACURA:

"WASHINGTON, D. C.,
April 21, 1895.

"I have used SALVACURA for soreness or rheumatic pains in the muscles of my arm, which is disabled from a gun-shot wound involving the elbow joint; relief was quick and complete.

E. A. GARLINGTON,
Major and Inspector General,
U. S. A."

Not many people suffer from gun-shot wounds, to be sure, but lots of us do suffer from piles, local skin irritations, chafings, colds and nasal catarrh, and SALVACURA is just as efficacious in all of these as in gun-shot wounds.

"I wish to announce in THE CITIZEN," said E. A. Propper this morning, "that the patent Dixon drill at the Belvidere mine, out in Bell canyon, works like a charm, and from all indications, will prove a permanent success." Mr. Propper was at the Belvidere mine last Sunday, returning yesterday morning. Being an old miner, his remarks can be relied upon, and he also stated that the other mines of the district show great improvement, demonstrating to him that something great will, sooner or later, be recorded about the district in the nature of a boom.

Evan J. Adams, of Monte Vista, Colo., and Miss Nellie Freelove were joined in marriage at the Lead Avenue Methodist church parsonage, yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, by Rev. Welch. MCINTIRE SCANDAL!

All the Facts in The Citizen's Big Scoop Are Out.

The Bad Doings of Ex-Gov. McIntire's Cowboy Son.

The Nasty Facts Gleaned While at the Capital Yesterday.

THE PARTICULARS IN DENVER NEWS.

From Monday's Daily.

In order to cinch the alleged "Fake News" that caused so much unjournalistic bitterness on Gold avenue, west of Second street, THE CITIZEN representative took the train for Santa Fe last Saturday night, where the marriage of ex-Gov. McIntire's son took place, and on yesterday made a thorough investigation. The facts of the investigation, which were made with the aid of the able correspondent of the Denver News, substantiated in every detail THE CITIZEN's articles on the strange affair, except that they are more "nasty" in Santa Fe than here.

MRS. MCINTIRE SEES.

"Miss Carrie Rasmussen," as she registered, and "Mrs. J. P. McIntire," as it should have been after her marriage by Rev. Craig, of Santa Fe, was seen this morning, but the lady, on account of humiliation no doubt and the wrong done her by a faithless lover, who became her husband, refused to answer a number of questions and would not give a truthful account of the unpleasant marriage affair, so far as to set her right before the public. To one question, however, she answered. "They can straighten it up at the other end," meaning the McIntires in Colorado. From her conversation there is no doubt that she feels keenly the way that she was treated by her husband—ex-Gov. McIntire's son, and that she should have given vent to tears, when she told her sad story to a friend, is no wonder at all.

THE CITIZEN here reproduces in full the article in the Denver News:

FACTS OF THE MARRIAGE.

Santa Fe, N. M., Jan. 19.—Concerning the marriage of Joseph P. McIntire, son of the ex-governor of Colorado, and Miss M. C. Rasmussen of Antonito, Colo., which took place at Santa Fe on Monday last, some facts of a sensational and very ugly character were unearthed here to-day.

Despite all denials coming from the McIntire family, there is no possible question but that the marriage occurred as reported, for the fact is set forth in the records of the county clerk's office, as well as recorded in the register of the First Presbyterian church, the pastor of which, the Rev. R. M. Craig, said to our correspondent to-day.

PASTOR INTERVIEWED.

"About 4 o'clock on Monday last, the 14th inst., a young couple whom I had noticed at church services the night previous, called at the manse and requested me to marry them. From the young man I obtained the information that his name was J. P. McIntire, of Antonito, Colo., a grocer by calling. His father's name is A. W. McIntire, his mother's name is Florence Johnson McIntire, and they reside about twenty miles from Antonito. He gave his age as 22. The young woman's story was to the effect that her name was C. M. Rasmussen. She belonged to no church. Her parents were mormons, her father's name being Peter Rasmussen, her mother's name Annie Rasmussen. She gave her age as 21 years and stated that her

HOME WAS IN ALBUQUERQUE.

"After receiving the above information," continued Mr. Craig, "I united the parties named in marriage. The marriage was performed in the presence of witnesses and was duly recorded in my register of marriages. I hope," said he, "that the press reports are sensational or at least capable of explanation."

A call was then made at the Exchange hotel, which, ever since the building of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad, has been a sort of a for eloping couples from southern Colorado, and there a consultation of the hotel register and a talk with J. T. Forsha seemed to develop a spicy and sensational feature of the case that has not hitherto come to light.

According to the landlord's story Miss Rasmussen reached Santa Fe on Thursday, the 7th inst., late in the afternoon, coming from Antonito on the Denver & Rio Grande train. En route she made the chance acquaintance of a lady whose husband is connected with the Salt Lake Herald, and her name, as it appears on the register, in the handwriting of the gentleman, is "Maria Rasmussen." During the brief stay at the hotel the Salt Lake lady appeared in the young woman, having learned of her anticipated marriage. On Friday afternoon, the 8th inst., young McIntire arrived from Antonito, and without registering went directly to the hotel parlor, where he met Miss Rasmussen. They dined together and shortly after 9 o'clock they left the hotel as everybody concerned supposed for the purpose of having the nuptial knot properly tied. At about 9 o'clock the couple returned, McIntire registered as "J. D. King and wife, Durango, Colo.," and asked to be ASSIGNED TO A ROOM.

TO TAKE MUCH INTEREST

Half an hour later Charles Webb, of Antonito, who is here as a witness in the district court, formerly an employe on Gov. McIntire's ranch, the husband of Miss Rasmussen's sister, appeared at the hotel office, noted McIntire's handwriting under the assumed name of King, and calling at McIntire's bedroom he insisted that the young man should get up and go and register his true name at once. McIntire, with whom Webb appears to be on good terms, complied at once.

ASSUMED NAME ERASED.

He carefully erased the name of "J. D. King and wife, Durango, Colo.," and registered J. P. McIntire and wife, Antonito, Colo. Returning after a few pleasant words with Webb to his lady love's bed chamber, Saturday and Sunday the young couple went about town sight seeing, attended church Sunday night and on Monday afternoon called upon Rev. Mr. Craig and were married as above stated. On Monday night Mrs. McIntire boarded the south bound Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe train for Albuquerque. Her husband accompanied her to the depot and upon her departure came up town and stopped over night with Webb at the Bon Ton lodging house.

LEAVING NEXT DAY

for the McIntire home near Alamosa, where, it is learned here to-day, he has since vehemently denied all rumors of his marriage.

Both Landlord Forsha and Webb were asked to-night to state the exact date of the marriage and they each declared that it occurred on Friday night, the 8th inst., between the supper hour and 9 o'clock, and had been performed, as they thought, by Rev. Mr. Craig. This, they said, was the statement made to them by McIntire the night he registered under an assumed name. Both of these parties seemed when told that Rev. Craig's church register showed the marriage to have taken place on Monday, the 11th, three days after the young couple had registered as husband and wife and had occupied the same bedchamber at the hotel. Webb was further questioned, but his responses were guarded. He appeared to be kindly disposed toward the young people and pleased over their marriage, but acted as though a sad mistake had been made at some stage in the proceedings. He could not explain why McIntire had of but a few hours to go alone to Albuquerque and seek employment as a kitchen domestic but was inclined to defend young McIntire to a certain extent by saying that, to his knowledge, he had given the woman forty dollars, nearly all the money he had. He also said he had advised McIntire to take his bride and go home, and permit those who did not like their marriage to do the best they could about it, but this advice, he said, they had seen fit to ignore. When pressed to explain the apparent lapse of three days from the time they registered as husband and wife and the hour the minister says he performed the marriage service,

WEBB CONFESSED THAT

the problem was beyond his comprehension. It was suggested that, perhaps, McIntire and the young woman had gone to a justice of the peace or some other authorized person and been secretly married on Friday night, during their absence from the hotel, and had afterward decided to have the ceremony performed by the Presbyterian pastor. Webb thought this was possible, but not probable, and, while fearing the worst, evidently he was yet willing to have the reporter believe that this might account for the discrepancy in dates. But inquiry of the two city magistrates, of the district judge and among members of the clergy sheds no light upon this possible explanation of the affair, and as the facts stand here to night it appears that the peculiar conduct, to say the least, of Gov. McIntire's son has involved him and the woman he pretends to love in a very nasty scandal.

JOHN MILLER DEAD.

An Old Veteran Well Known to Our Citizens, Dies at Casa Salazar.

Yesterday morning, at 6:30, John Miller, of Casa Salazar, died at his residence in that place of consumption and pneumonia. Mr. Miller came to New Mexico in 1864, clerked for Aaron Zeckendorf in the old town of Albuquerque until 1869, when he started a general merchandise store in Algodones. From there he came back to Albuquerque in 1871 and clerked for F. Huning and Mr. Springer. He afterwards went to Casa Salazar, where he engaged in stock raising and merchandizing, and at his death owned the larger part of that town. About two years ago he bought property in old Albuquerque, built a house on the southwest corner of the plaza, started a meat market and general merchandise store, which, after a six year's trial, he finally gave up keeping, and removed to Casa Salazar about six months ago.

Mr. Miller lost his first wife. Mr. Miller married about a year ago and married in November last. He had been in ill health for the past three years, but became expected his death at this date.

Mr. Miller was well known in Albuquerque, where his many friends will join with us in offering condolence to his sorrowing relatives.

A wired was sent out to Casa Salazar to-day for news of Mr. Miller's death, and the funeral will take place there to-morrow afternoon.

DISTINGUISHED DIVINES.

Missions at the Catholic Church to Be Given by Fanegan and Sherman.

Fathers Finnegan and Sherman, who will conduct the mission at the church of the Immaculate Conception, from the first until 8th Feb., are now occupying the pulpit of St. Ignatius church, Pueblo, Colorado.

The following extracts from the Chieftain of that city, about their work and success, will not be without interest for our readers:

"St. Ignatius church was crowded last night, to hear Father Sherman deliver his lecture entitled 'Pains of Hell.'

"The second week of St. Ignatius mission is full of interest. The church was filled by men last night who came to hear Father Finnegan's lecture on the subject, 'Can Priests Forgive Sins?' It was an able address and one which had a telling effect on the audience. His propositions were filled with food for thought, and the intense interest shown in the lecture was evidence that it was appreciated. The mission this week is intended for men, and the hours for mass and instructions are so arranged that all men in the parish may take part.

"'Obstacles to True Christian Manhood,' was the subject of an eloquent and entertaining address by Father Sherman last evening. These meetings are continually growing in interest, and every service is well attended."

These two zealous priests and renowned missioners will soon be heard in this city. The mission which they will conduct in our midst will undoubtedly be one of those rare religious treats which leave behind indelible traces of reform. It is to be hoped that all will attend it, in order that each person may derive from it those religious advantages of which he stands most in need. A Catholic mission is always an irresistible means of reform and improvement for the individual, and through him, of cities and nations. But the mission to be soon preached here by the distinguished Fathers Finnegan and Sherman, is all that can be desired in the line of spirituality and oratorical power. All are welcome at all services.

Notaries Appointed.

Acting Governor Miller has appointed W. G. Kiegler of Las Vegas, Charles W. Holman, of Holman, Alberto Garcia, of Santa Fe, Joseph Boone, of Deming, Jas. T. Cullen, of Cook's Peak, Theodore B. Mills, of Las Vegas, W. G. Haydon, of East Las Vegas, J. H. Mink, of Anton Chico, as notaries public.

Espanola Residence Burned.

The large dwelling house of Oscar Mallinckrodt, one mile east of Espanola, took fire in the roof from a defective flue, Monday morning, and the whole upper story was destroyed, with its contents, and there was great damage caused by removing furniture from the lower story. A fine piano was practically ruined. The loss will probably foot up over $1,000. Mrs. Mallinckrodt, the mother of Mr. Mallinckrodt, had her home with him and is not yet convalescent from a severe attack of incipient pneumonia. She was wrapped in bed clothes and carried to the house of a neighbor. They are members of the St. Louis Chemical Co. of Mallinckrodt's, and have been living at Espanola for several years for the health of Oscar Mallinckrodt, who has lung trouble.

JOHN J. VALENTINE.

The Courier Journal, of Louisville, Ky., publishes in issue of Dec. 27, 1896, quite a lengthy and interesting sketch of the life of John J. Valentine, the well known president of Wells-Fargo & Co's Express.

The past thirty-five years of Mr. Valentine's life have been connected in many important ways with the development of the western country. For that length of time Mr. Valentine has been associated with Wells Fargo & Co., and has seen it grow from a mere stage line to one of the greatest institutions on earth, now employing about 6000 men, and each one taking that interest in the business that insures future reward.

We believe that a few remarks with reference to Mr. Valentine's life will be of interest to our readers as he is unquestionably one of the best known men west of the Missouri river.

He was born in Bowling Green, Ky., 56 years ago, and up to the time he left there to accept service with Wells-Fargo & Co., was drug clerk with a firm that had the agency for the Adams Express Co. At this place he obtained his first knowledge of the express business, and which led to the important position he now holds.

Mr. Valentine has served as clerk, cashier, agent, route agent, superintendent, general superintendent, general manager and vice president, to the presidency, and has well earned and merited every promotion received. We make no mistake in saying that he is not only highly respected, but is loved by each and every employe of Wells-Fargo & Co. Mr. Valentine and President Cleveland are close friends.

Persons who are troubled with indigestion will be interested in the experience of Wm. H. Penn, chief clerk in the railway mail service at Des Moines, Iowa, who writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For two years I have suffered from indigestion, and am subject to frequent severe attacks of pain in the stomach and bowels. One or two doses of this remedy never fails to give perfect relief. COMING BACK TO TOPEKA

Some of the Santa Fe Employes Who Were Laid Aside.

A meeting of all passenger traffic men of the Santa Fe system, including traveling passenger agents and general agents, has been called by Third Vice President Paul Morton in Chicago on Jan. 28.

The traffic matters will be talked over and a general rearrangement will be made to conform to the removal of the general passenger agent's office from Chicago to Topeka.

It has been decided that a majority of the employes now in the office of the general passenger agent in Chicago will be transferred to Topeka.

W. H. Simpson, advertising manager, will remain for office in Chicago. Those who are to be transferred are greatly pleased. Nearly all the Topeka people who have been removed to Chicago, want to come back.

Miss Rita Murbargar, stenographer to chief clerk Shakeshaft in the passenger office in Topeka, will resign her position this week. S. S. Zimmerman, formerly employed in the passenger office here, now in the employ of the Santa Fe, Prescott & Phoenix railway, at Phoenix, Arizona, will return to Topeka and resume work in the passenger department as stenographer.—Topeka State Journal.

"A LIVING MIRACLE."

Healers in Abundance—One Now at Corrillos.

Since Francis Schlatter made his famous march through the southwest country, healing the sick and making the poor feel richer, healers of all kinds have sprung up in all parts of the country like the growth of mushrooms on the Manzanos. There is a healer now at Corrillos, and the Luster has this to say about her:

Jessie C. Z. Green Donahue, the little Kansas healer, is in our city and will give an exhibition of her powers Monday night. She brings recommendations of the strongest character, signed by thirty-two citizens of Las Vegas, including the mayor, physicians, lawyers and leading business men. She will remain with us one week, and while here she has kindly offered to treat those who are poor and really needy free of charge.

The little healer was born in Emporia, Kansas, a daughter of a well known stockman, now dead, F. Schmelling. She comes of a good family, and has letters from the best known people throughout North America and Old Mexico, and written in the language of the Spanish, Senta, Turks, Italians, French and German. Her wonderful occult powers of healing, lifting, locating mines, reading characters, etc., are still seeking an explanation, and cannot, it seems, be solved.

The lady is tall, dark eyes and hair, pale, sad face, yet with a pleasant, sunny smile for everyone she meets, and one feels better for having met and clasped her hand and heard her laugh, a free natural laugh and unaffected. We welcome her in our midst.

NEED OF UNIFORMITY.

A movement is on foot to bring about uniformity in laws relating to marriage, divorce, insolvency, and other kindred matters. The dissimilarity of the laws in the various states on these matters leads not only to confusion, but multiplies litigation and inures to the disadvantage of all concerned. Aside from the ethical aspect of the matter there are legal complications that are bringing about great disorder and baleful results. The disparity of the laws as to the several states in the matter of insolvency has become powerful to incite dishonest methods, as in many cases there is the positive assurance of immunity from punishment.

Take the matter of marriages and divorces. There is probably greater dissimilarity in laws governing them than in any one other thing. Probably there is no one thing that is more inimical to the ethical status of the country than these divergencies. With the divorce law stringent and severe in one state and lax and even loose in another, there is always bound to be a state of uncertain morality. A writer in an eastern paper avers solemnly that the ease with which divorces are obtained in Montana, Idaho and the Dakotas has been responsible for the separation of many of the people of high social connections in New York, who would never have sought a breaking of the ties had not the allurements of great facility been open before them. With a uniformity of the laws on this point, coupled with greater exactitude, it can be readily perceived that there will be less temptation held out for their violation.

There exists to-day a varying idea of what constitutes honesty in commercial transactions in different states. These variances and differences of opinion are not based on any ethical ground, but upon the legal interpretation of the statutory requirements in the different states. It is natural for business men to take all the law allows and sometimes a little more. Some men confuse morality with legality, and so long as there are different constructions put upon contracts in different states so long will the business men take advantage of what is plainly a mischief-breeding plan.

These subjects have been for years the subject of discussions in all meetings of bar associations. The movement has now taken some concrete form, and it is to be hoped that it will meet with successful consummation.

Hon. W. B. Childers, United states prosecuting attorney accompanied by his family, returned this morning from Richmond, Va.

THE FIRE CHIEF.

Alderman Monfort, of the water committee, submitted the following:

To the mayor and member of the city council:

Your committee on water has been making every reasonable effort, during the past nine or ten months, to have a fire plug placed by the water company at the Railroad avenue crossing.

Your committee, for some reason unknown to them, have been steadily resisted by the water company and the fire plug has not been placed there up to this date.

At a late meeting of this council this committee was instructed to locate places for three other fire plugs, that all four, upon which the city is paying rent of $50 each per annum, might be ordered set at one time.

Your committee hereby reports that they are unable to locate the last three fire plugs. They have called upon firemen and others without obtaining satisfactory information on the subject.

We therefore respectfully request the council to assist us in making locations for the three last named fire plugs, and to make such positive arrangements as will insure the setting of the first mentioned fire plug at the railroad crossing on Railroad avenue.

THEIR ACTION.

The report was accepted and the fire plugs were ordered located as follows: One at corner of Third street and Housing alley, one at corner of Johns and Cromwell streets, one at corner of Fruit and Eighth streets, and one on Railroad avenue between passenger and freight depots.
