Santa Fe, N. M., Jan. 14, 1897.

[illegible]

Pursuant to adjournment all members responded to their names.

A quorum being present the chaplain offered prayer.

The minutes of January 23d were read in English.

Mr. Ward of Lincoln county then arose to a question of privilege and asked unanimous consent that the committee upon enrolled and engrossed bills be allowed to report concurrent joint resolution No. [illegible] providing for a joint session on the purpose of electing a public printer to take place on Monday, January 25th, instead of Monday, January 28th, and that said committee be allowed to wait upon the house of representatives and request their concurrence in said correction. There being no objection it was so ordered, and the correction made.

The journal of January 23d was then read in Spanish, and the same being no error, the same was approved as read.

The president announced the signing by him of council joint memorial No. 1, to the congress of the United States, the same being properly attested by the chief clerk, requesting the repeal or modification of the Alien Land Act.

Mr. Duncan of San Miguel county, chairman of the committee on railroads, made the following report, upon council bill No. [illegible]:

Mr. President:

Your committee on railroads, to whom was referred council bill No. [illegible], have had the same under consideration and I am directed to report the said bill to the council with the recommendation that it be passed without amendment.

J. S. DUNCAN, Chairman.

Upon motion of Mr. Chavez, of Valencia county, the report of the committee was accepted and laid upon the table to await action in regular order.

Mr. Duncan, of San Miguel county, as chairman of the committee on enrolled and engrossed bills, made report upon council joint resolution No. 1, as follows:

Mr. President: Your committee on enrolled and engrossed bills, to whom was referred council resolution No. 1, have had the same under consideration, and I am directed to report the resolution to the council with the amendments correcting typographical errors as correctly enrolled and engrossed. J. S. DUNCAN,

Chairman.

Upon motion of Mr. Chaves, of Valencia county, the report of the committee was adopted.

Under the order of introduction of bills Mr. Chaves of Valencia county, introduced council bill No. 22, "An act to provide for the payment of certain muster rolls and discharges pertaining to the volunteer and militia service of the territory."

The bill was read the first time by title.

On motion of Mr. Sandoval, of San Miguel county, the rules were suspended and the bill read the second time in full.

On motion of Mr. Chaves, of Valencia county, the bill was then ordered to be translated, printed and referred to the committee on militia.

Mr. Archuleta, of Rio Arriba county, introduced council bill No. 23, "An act to amend "An act establishing schools in the territory of New Mexico, and creating the office of superintendent of public instructions." Approved Feb. 12, 1891.

The bill was read the first time by title.

Upon motion of Mr. Duncan, of San Miguel county, the rules were suspended and the bill read the second time in full.

Upon motion of Mr. Duncan, of San Miguel county, the bill was then ordered translated, printed and referred to the committee on education.

The President announced that he had signed council joint resolution No. 1, the same being properly attested by the chief clerk.

Bills on their third reading being in order the report of the committee on railroads upon council bill No. 3, recommending the passage of said bill without amendment was read, council bill No. 3 being read in full for information.

Upon motion of Mr. Chaves, of Valencia county, the bill was then read the third time by title preparatory to its passage.

Mr. Duncan, of San Miguel county, moved that the bill do now pass, and the ayes and noes being called for, the vote resulted as followed: Eleven ayes and one no.

The vote being in the affirmative, council bill No. 3 duly passed.

Mr. Hughes, of Bernalillo county, moved that the council take a recess until 3 p. m.

Mr. Spiess, of Santa Fe county, requested the gentleman from Bernalillo county to withdraw said motion, in order that he might substitute a motion to adjourn until Monday morning at 10 o'clock, which Mr. Hughes declined to do.

Mr. Fall, of Doña Ana county, thereupon moved, as an amendment to the motion of the gentleman from Bernalillo that the council adjourn until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Hughes accepted the amendment, whereupon council adjourned until Monday morning, Jan. 25, 1897, at 10 o'clock.

HOUSE—SATURDAY MORNING.

The house was called to order by the speaker and all the members responded to roll call.

Father Gallerton opened the session with prayer.

The journal was read and approved.

House bill No. 7, fixing the time for holding court in the fourth judicial district, was passed.

The following bills were introduced:

By Mr. Smith: An act allowing licens'd physicians in the territory of New Mexico who carry on drug stores the same privileges that are extended to licensed pharmacists. Ordered translated, printed and referred to the committee on judiciary.

By the speaker: An act requiring corporations to publish a certified copy of their articles of incorporation.

Be it enacted, by the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of New Mexico:

Section 1. Every corporation hereafter organized under the laws of the territory of New Mexico, or doing business pursuant to the laws of this territory, shall publish for six consecutive days in some daily newspaper published in the county in which the principal place of business of said corporation is located, or works established or operations conducted, four consecutive publications in some weekly newspaper published in the county in which the principal place of business of said corporation is located, or works established or operations conducted, if there be such newspaper published, and if there shall be no newspaper published in said county, then such publication shall be in some newspaper having a general circulation in such county and published in the territory of New Mexico.

Section 2. Every corporation hereafter organized or doing business pursuant to the laws of this territory may at once commence business in this territory upon the filing of its articles of incorporation with the secretary of the territory and in the office of the probate clerk of the county wherein is located the principal place of business of such corporation; provided, that within sixty days from the filing of its articles of incorporation with the secretary of the territory, it shall cause to be filed with the secretary of the territory and probate clerk of the county wherein is located the principal place of business of the corporation a certificate properly executed by the president and secretary of the corporation or other officer or agent showing that such publication specified in section one of this act has been made.

Ordered translated, printed and referred to the committee on printing.

By Mr. Martinez: An act to provide for the payment of certain muster rolls and discharges pertaining to the volunteer and militia service of the territory. Referred to the committee on judiciary.

House joint resolution No. 2, by Mr. Reed, providing for the printing of the governor's message in Spanish and English, was passed.

Whereupon the house adjourned until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Paterson in Luck.

A Leg Injured.

The Atlantic & Pacific passenger train, No. 862, from the west, ran over the left leg of an Indian squaw last night, and it is possible that the leg, between the knee and ankle, will have to be amputated. The squaw, with several others, was on the train selling their wares as soon as it came to a halt at the Isleta junction. Conductor Berry gave the signal to the engineer to move out, and the squaws scattered in every direction in their eagerness to get off the cars. One squaw, however, while the train was moving at the rate of about ten miles an hour, swung from the platform of the day coach, and as she fell to the ground her left leg went under the wheels and was run over just above the ankle. The agent at the junction discovered the injured squaw between the station and the north switch, and the matter was reported to Conductor Berry on the arrival of his train here last night.

NAPOLEON BONAPARTE.

Lieutenant Sargent at the Armory—An Address on the Great Soldier.

The lecture on the great commander delivered at the Armory on Tuesday by Lieutenant Herbert H. Sargent, was listened to by a large and appreciative assembly, who were thrilled by the works and achievements of the "Little Corporal" so ably set forth by the speaker.

Captain Sutton introduced the lieutenant, who immediately proceeded with his discourse. In his introductory remarks he said:

"In a certain book with which we are all familiar, we are told that wars shall be no more; but that time is far distant. When the laws of mankind change wars may cease, but not until then. All around us is strife. The weak are ever falling before the strong. The grass takes its strength from the soil, and each blade struggles for food and light with its neighbor. The beast consumes the grass, and man destroys the beast. We struggle on contending with one another and with the world, encountering defeat and finally death, when we meet a stronger power than ourselves.

"No country has become great without wars. In the history of every great people there is a record of battles fought and battles won. At Lexington, Bunker Hill and at Gettysburg men died that the Nation might live.

"To the soldiers present I desire to emphasize the fact that though peace is the dream of the wise, war is the history of man. We do not know who or what we shall be called upon to fight for our country, but we deserve no less the gratitude of our countrymen if we remain always ready. Wars have been necessary in the past and will be necessary in the future."

The speaker then by means of a large map, illustrated the movements of the battle of Arcola, which was fought in November, 1796, on the banks of the Adige river, in northern Italy, where Napoleon, with a much inferior force in numbers, defeated the Austrian army.

Closing, the speaker said:

"Napoleon received his military education at the school of Brienne, and early manifested the deepest interest in everything pertaining to the art of war, having a predilection for mathematics, history and geography. He studied the duties of the soldier with intense earnestness. He studied the campaigns of great commanders—of Alexander the Great, Caesar, Frederick the Great, and especially of Hannibal, whom he greatly admired. The campaigns of all great commanders were familiar to him. He read and re-read histories of these great soldiers. He studied their maneuvers, their plan of battles, their victories and their defeats. Everything that pertained to his profession interested him. No details were too trivial, no facts too insignificant to be carefully stored in his mind.

"When Napoleon took command of the army of Italy he seemed a mere boy. He was only 27 years of age. At first his soldiers had misgivings as to whether he could lead them successfully, but when the army of Italy descended from the Apennines to the fertile valley of the Po his soldiers understood Bonaparte. They began to have faith in him. They could see in the face of the boy the genius of the soldier, and as victory followed victory their admiration increased. When he showed himself brave and victorious at Lodi and Arcola their admiration knew no bounds. On the fields of Austria or amidst the snows of Russia, his soldiers never wavered in loyalty to him."

One interesting characteristic of Napoleon as a soldier, said the speaker, was the fact that he was never compelled to surrender when his own forces were superior to or equal to those of the enemy.

GOVERNMENT INDIAN SCHOOL.

Interesting Facts About this Institution Gathered Yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon a representative of THE CITIZEN made a visit to the Government Industrial Indian School, situated north of the city. The superintendent, S. M. McCowan, was not feeling well and was not in his office, but through the courtesy of Major Hale, one of the assistants at the school, Leonard Leoanicia, the assistant disciplinarian, was introduced to the reporter, and showed him through the industrial departments, which are the carpenter, blacksmith, tailor, shoe and harness shops. There are two shifts working in each department, four hours in the morning and four in the afternoon, the remainder of the day the boys go to school. The ages of the boys thus employed are from 12 to 20 years. The boys are also taught farming by practical means.

The girls are employed in the laundry which is fitted up with modern machinery, the sewing room, in the kitchen and dormitories. The girls, like the boys, work half a day, and go to school the other half. The boys in the tailor shop and the girls in the sewing room were busy yesterday working on the new uniforms for the school, which are made of a light gray material and trimmed in black braid. One of the most interesting departments is the shoe factory which is in charge of a young Indian, who learned his trade there. Three hundred pupils wear out a great many shoes, and it keeps the little fellows in this department hustling.

The culinary department and bakery were likewise visited, and much credit is due the superintendent and his assistants for the neatness and apple-pie order of everything in the different departments. Mr. Fergusson, who is in charge of the machinery, stated that at an early date the well at the laundry would be driven deeper, thus giving them a greater water supply. The teachers and assistants all speak in the highest terms of praise of Superintendent McCowan, and all expressed a regret at the idea of his leaving to accept the position of supervisor of Indian schools, offered him by the government.

Strangers in the city and others who have never visited this institution would find it well worth their while to spend an afternoon there, the superintendent and assistants are always glad to show any one through the school, who are interested enough to come out.
