NIGHT IN A SHEEP CAMP.

A Special Correspondent of the Citizen Visits E. A. Hubbell's Ranch.

"This is the time to take a look at my ranch," remarked Probate Judge Evaristo A. Hubbell to the writer, and continuing the ex-legislator added, "but you will have to sleep under sheep skins." Nothing daunted, we jumped into Mr. Hubbell's big buggy, where there was room for three in a seat with a little to spare.

The ex-county assessor whipped up his fine span of horses and soon we were across the Rio Grande, which in the language of the old song, "Was high and the current was steady and strong." Down the road close to the river side we sped and soon we were passing through Ranchos de Atrisco, with its quaint old church and church yard, and next the home of Deputy United States Marshal Pablo Anaya, who is at present confined to his home with sickness.

On we went and in a few minutes reached the sheep corrals, two miles north of Mr. Hubbell's home in pretty Tajiridera.

Mighting, our party was made comfortable in the two room adobe and thereafter were shown the various pens which were erected last March for the accommodation of the fleecy ewes brought over from the western end of the county for the lambing season, an experiment made in order to bring larger results.

Ordinarily the loss of lambs during the season of lambing on the range will average from 25 to 40 per cent. To avoid this in a measure, Mr. Hubbell planned to bring a portion in, where the ewes and lambs could be sheltered, waterfed and fed to better advantage. The pens are so arranged that the lambs can be segregated during the night, only those advanced in age being driven out and herded through the day, at the same time being afforded plenty of water and grazing.

Such a concord of sheep's bahs never before greeted the ears of the writer and the bleating continued through the night, even being heard in one's dreams.

So far the experiment has worked wonders, the loss falling below five per cent. The greatest care is taken in handling the mothers and their infants, the loss, in a measure, being due to weakness of aged ewes who being unable to care for their offspring would leave the young to care for themselves. Like other animals a stray lamb was disregarded by other mothers and left to perish, though shelter in a warm place and milk provided would sometimes nourish the infant until it gained strength to care for itself.

When the season is over the corrals will be utilized as pig pens, Mr. Hubbell having determined to try his luck in raising swine more industriously than heretofore. He has a goodly number of cattle, which are housed in the old barn, the woodwork of which was destroyed by fire some years ago.

The ranch is the largest one near the city, and the present year promises excellent financial results to the owner from the above-mentioned sources and the vast quantity of alfalfa and hay raised. Mr. Hubbell is now shipping hay to Magdalena.

A Little Boy's Fall.

Late yesterday afternoon, the little son of R. W. Hopkins, while gambolling from branch to branch in a tree at the residence of his parents, lost his hold and fell through the limbs to the ground. The fall was materially checked by the chief striking the limbs, and in consequence he sustained no broken bones, but was pretty severely shaken up and bruised. Mr. Hopkins, who was at home and noticed her son in the tree, witnessed him fall, and after picking him up from the ground, sent a telephone message to Dr. [illegible] who responded immediately. The doctor reports the little fellow in a pretty fair way to an early recovery, but states that he had a narrow escape from a much more serious accident.

A Good Man.

Hon. J. E. Sheridan, editor of the Silver City Enterprise, is an applicant for the position of territorial mine inspector. The New Mexican heartily endorses Mr. Sheridan's candidacy, and takes pleasure in calling attention to the eminent qualifications of this gentleman for the position which he seeks. His appointment would give almost universal satisfaction among the people of this territory generally, where he is highly esteemed for a combination of those qualities which go to make the model citizen.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

FOR MOUNTAIN CLIMBING.

Two Mammoth Engines Turned Out of the Santa Fe Shops.

The two mammoth consolidated engines which have been in the course of construction at the Santa Fe shops in Topeka, Kas., for the past four months were turned out of the paint shops the other day and one went on a trial trip to Argentine. As soon as thoroughly tested the engines will be sent to Raton, this territory, for service on the mountain division of the Santa Fe.

The engines were built especially for mountain service, and are two of the largest locomotives ever constructed in the west. They are of the consolidated type, adapted for mountain climbing, and were built after the original plans prepared by Superintendent of Machinery John Player and other members of the Santa Fe mechanical department. Their construction was in a sense an experiment, and if they prove satisfactory on heavy mountain service, a number of similar engines will be built.

With the exception of the engine now pulling the "plug" these are the first engines to be built at the Santa Fe shops in Topeka since the Player engines were built several years ago.

A POISONING CASE.

The Authorities Should Investigate It Fully.

James Lemons, a miner, aged about [illegible] years, was brought from Golden by Sheriff Kinsell a few days ago and admitted to St. Vincent's hospital, suffering with symptoms of poisoning. Yesterday he wandered from the hospital, and last evening about 8 o'clock was found unconscious in a yard in the rear of Conway's restaurant. The police, thinking he was under the influence of liquor, took him to jail. This morning Sheriff Kinsell discovered the mistake that had been made and had the sick man removed at once to the hospital, where he is now. He has been unconscious nearly twenty-four hours. Dr. Croson, who is attending him, believes him to be suffering from arsenical poisoning and is doing everything possible to arouse him from his comatose condition.—New Mexican.

WILLIAMS WAIFS.

Williams, Ariz., April 3.—Copious rains have visited this vicinity for the past few days and the range never looked better. Cattle and sheep men feel elated over the prospect of good feed for this season.

A. L. Moody, one of the most popular conductors on the Atlantic and Pacific, brought the train in from Needles this morning, and will remain during the day.

The road near this place has been put in excellent condition, new rails having been put in place of the old ones on this mountain.

J. M. Dennis is cutting lumber for his saw mill in this vicinity.

Bill Williams mountain is covered nearly to its base with a mantle of snow.

Mace Grey, a child of E. N. Grey, while playing on the bank of the stream with other children, fell face downward into the water and was drowned before assistance could reach her. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of the entire community.

A. Hoyle, a ranchman residing near here, was found dead at his home yesterday. Heart disease was the cause of his death.

M. Dantzman, who has one of the best appointed mercantile establishments in Arizona, reports business good in his line.

Mrs. W. B. Kunkle, wife of Harvey's manager here, is very sick, and Mr. Kunkle will go with her to Los Angeles in a few days, where it is hoped that she will speedily recover.

F. C. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., who has been sojourning at Needles, Cal., for several months, has secured a regular run on this road as messenger for Wells, Fargo & Co. He is a model young man, and deserves the fine position he has secured.

The Saginaw Lumber company have their new mill almost complete.

The large dam is full and overflowing and the town will have plenty of water the coming summer.

Chas. Matthews is inspecting the bridges as far east as Rio Puerco.

A. M. Beal, the obliging agent at this place, reports business rushing.

This town impresses your correspondent as a live lumber town, and we are quite sure that its future as a health resort, especially in the heated season, is unsurpassed.

ON THE LINE.

Pertinent Questions.

Editor Citizen:

I notice that in your issue of Tuesday you state that THE CITIZEN was mistaken as to amount received by O. N. Marron as special master in the Atlantic & Pacific foreclosure sale, that the amount was not $25,000, but $17,000. Is the special master the present district court clerk and law partner of Judge N. C. Collier?

STOCKBRIDGE.

Las Vegas, N. M., May 5.

Mr. Marron, the day after the sale, called at this office and stated that he did not quite pull the limit, meaning $25,000, but that his compensation had been fixed at $17,000. He is the district court clerk, and is regarded here as Judge Collier's law partner.

Mining in the Organ mountains is fairly active. Work is being actively prosecuted on the Stephenson-Bennett property that has been known as a heavy producer for years past.

She should the organs are distinguished free from ness and disease. By this means can a woman remain fresh-looking attractive.

Women may erase from their faces lines of suffering by using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Over 40,000 have testified in writing to its marvelous merits. It acts directly on the womanly organs. It makes them strong and healthy. It cures all weakness and disease. It allays inflammation, soothes pain, and promotes steadiness and invigorates the nerves. It prepares for motherhood and childhood. It does away with the dread of the expectant period. It insures good health and makes its advent easy and almost painless. All good druggists.

"I am going to write and tell you how I have recovered from taking your medicine," writes Mrs. B. Clough, Box 23, Lisbon, Co., N. Hampshire. "I am the mother of a baby four and a half months old. He is a fine child and weighs about eighteen pounds. I remember I wrote you about a year ago, when I was in poor health. I cannot give too much praise to Favorite Prescription, as it saved me a great deal of suffering. I got along remarkably well, this being my first baby."

"Knowledge is power." In a treatise on knowledge of the human body—the power that will at last stamp out weakness of the body and mediocrity of its offspring—Dr. Pierce has taken a long look into the future through his "Common Sense Medical Adviser." It is full of just such knowledge as will do the family the most good. This book of over 1000 pages and 300 illustrations has had an unprecedented sale. About 900,000 copies have been sold at $1.50 per volume. Now it can be had by the poor for 21 cents in one cent stamps to cover cost of mailing, or in fine French cloth for ten cents in stamps. MILITARY INSTITUTE.

Closing Exercises of Our Institute Young Soldiers.

COL. GOSS' MILITARY SCHOLARS.

The closing exercises of the Goss Military Institute were held this morning at 10 o'clock. Quite a number of the patrons and teachers were collected on the veranda to do honor to the occasion, and all felt amply rewarded by the display.

Promptly at 10 o'clock the company marched forth from the right of the building and forming in front of the house began, in perfect time to the inspiring music that issued from within, their club exercise. The execution of the exercise was most creditable, and the general effect was beautiful.

The captain of the company, Robert Marmon, then informed the spectators that the next feature of the program would be a sabre drill, and in a few minutes the larger boys of the institute came again in martial array and the exhibition that followed was indeed splendid and most thoroughly enjoyed by all.

A little touch of pathos was added to the bright scene, however, when the gallant young captain, at the close of the display, saluting Col. Goss, said:

"At the close of my official career, after four years' connection with our institution, which brings me to the entrance of the practical world, I wish to thank you for your kindness and to officially hand over my sword as captain of your company."

The colonel replied in a few well chosen words, expressing his regret that he would not be with him in the following year, and gave some well-timed advice as to what he might find in the world he is entering with so much eagerness.

Colonel Goss then presented the sword to Sergeant Clarence A. Barnhart for general excellence in drill and school work, complimenting him very highly on his year's work.

Then walking to the far end of the company to the smallest of the little boys, Sergeant Charles A. Rommel presented to him a medal for scholarship with such praise as one rarely hears of so young a student. For three years this youthful cadet has held the highest average in all his classes, and his advancement has been so rapid that he has been both the wonder and delight of his teachers.

The exercises were most happy in their propitious as a whole, and it was the unanimous opinion that Colonel Goss is to be congratulated on his year's work.

After the exercises, a sumptuous banquet was served to the cadets, teachers and patrons. Toasts suitable to the occasion were responded to by the cadets and it was a most joyous crowd that finally separated, with the Goss Military Institute college yell to re-assemble on the 9th of August, 1897.

The Meade-Ray Marriage.

The Highland home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Ray presented a beautiful appearance last night upon the occasion of the marriage of their daughter, Margaret to Martin S. Meade, prescription clerk in Huntze's drug store.

The parlors, where the guests gathered were tastily decorated with festoons of vines, palms and marguerites. Soon after 8 o'clock those who were the cynosures of attraction, in beautiful attire stepped upon the scene. The bride was lovely as a "Ray" of light in her lovely cream silk gown.

The ceremony as solemnized by Rev. Bennett of the Episcopal church was exceedingly impressive, and all present seemed to feel that the sacred marriage vows were not lightly taken. When the last words were pronounced Mr. and Mrs. Meade with happy faces received the joyous congratulations of their friends, after which a bounteous and elegant repast was served that received justice from the guests, the hospitality of the Rays being fully appreciated.

The presents received were many, beautiful and appropriate, attesting in some measure the esteem in which the young people are held.

Mr. and Mrs. Meade will for the present occupy rooms at the Ray home, but later will take a summer trip to the Meade's Michigan home.

THE CITIZEN wishes this happy young couple a bright future, with much joy from "the cup of mortal life."
