Fatal Accident. James Vaughan, eldest son of Rev. Maurice Vaughan, of Valley Lee, Md., was killed in Washington Monday last.

The Concert at the Hall. Seldom since the Town Hall has been in existence have our people enjoyed such a musical treat as was given them within its walls on the evening of Tuesday, 18th instant.

While our local talent played no insignificant parts in the performance, the additions furnished by Washington city, was so far superior to what our unassisted efforts could produce...

There was considerable disappointment on account of Miss Wilson not singing, as many came with expectation of hearing her, but, nevertheless, with our loyalty to our home people, with Miss Biscoe, whose singing is always well received here...

Mr. Fisher sang two solos not on the program, which is given below: I AM SOLO. Rippling of the Alabama.

QUARTET. Star of Descending Night. Emerson. Misses Biscoe and Jones; Messrs. Foxwell and Hayden.

A. The Sweetest Flower. B. 'Twas April. Nenia. Miss Bertie Thompson.

DUET. I Would That My Love. Mendelssohn. Misses Biscoe and Jones.

BASS SOLO. For All Eternity. Herbert. Mr. J. J. Fisher.

TENOR. Old Black Joe. Flatter. Misses Jones and Biscoe; Mr. Hayden.

TENOR SOLO. Star of My Soul. Bischoff. Mr. Charles Foxwell.

SOLO—ECHO SONG. Margery. Bischoff. Miss Thompson.

BASS SOLO. Armorer's Song. De Koven. Mr. J. J. Fisher.

THE FLOWER GIRL. Bismant. Miss Ida May Biscoe.

QUARTET. Good Night. Florest. Misses Biscoe and Jones; Messrs. Foxwell and Hayden.

While in Chicago, Mr. Charles L. Kahler, a prominent shoe merchant of Des Moines, Iowa, had quite a serious time of it.

He took such a severe cold that he could hardly talk or navigate, but the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured him of his cold so quickly that others at the hotel who had had colds followed his example and half a dozen persons ordered it from the nearest drug store.

They were profuse in their thanks to Mr. Kahler for telling them how to cure a bad cold so quickly. For sale by Wm. F. Greenwell & Son, Leonardtown, Md.

PARK HALL, Sept. 11, 1894. Messrs. Editors.—As I seldom see a notice in your paper from this part of the county, I think I will write you a few lines. The farmers here are tolerably prosperous and our roads are good, though the work on them was begun too late in the season.

Politics, I believe, is also flourishing. The people tried, this fall, to throw off their unworthy Senator but, I believe, with indifferent success; the grip was too tight. I do not know how the election was carried in the other districts, but in this district Mr. Smith told the people, in my presence, that he was not running a Gorman ticket, and thereby got for his ticket quite a number of votes. He afterwards voted to the Leonardtown Convention and went against resolutions censuring the course of Senator Gorman.

It is hard to tell how long this will last, but it has been said that it is hard to fool all the people all the time. I think there was a mistake in the report concerning the votes cast in Convention. The paper states that there were seventy-seven votes cast against the resolutions censoring Mr. Gorman, whereas I know at least one delegate in the first and several in the sixth who did not vote; besides, there were elected five from the 2nd and ten from the eighth, all of whom were in favor of the resolutions of censure. Hoping I have not too far trespassed on your space, I remain, Yours truly,

SANTIAGO.

CHAPTICO, Sept. 11, 1894. Again the doors of the hall in Chaptico were opened to a large number of the dancing fraternity Friday evening, the 14th instant. On this delightful occasion all were guests of the "Adelaide Proctor" Literary Society of Charles county. To say that all were royally and delightfully entertained would be but to give the one common expression.

From the general turnout, lovers of the dance, too, have already begun to look with favor upon the accommodation and pleasure to be had in this new enterprise. To enumerate the names of "maidenhood and fair" who graced the occasion with winsome presence, and gallants proud to do homage to such a shrine, would require too much of your space, Messrs. Editors, therefore be it sufficient to state that the invitation was extensively accepted from Chaptico, Milestone, Leonardtown, Oakville, Charlotte Hall, Mechanicsville, Bryantown, Allens Fresh, Laplata and the Southern neck of Charles.

Your correspondent is not a member of this Society, but for the occasion he wishes that he had been, since then, he might have shared with it the justly merited expressions of praise won for it from a delighted public.

This is embryo summer with Chaptico Hall, but it has won a prestige that will always insure a crowd and give it place as a delightful adjunct to our society.

Such things help to make a neighborhood more attractive home for youth. May the stockholders soon put it in better appearance generally, for they now see that they have not labored in vain.

While writing from Chaptico, Messrs. Editors, let me pay a modest but honest compliment to the engineering ability in road work of Mr. George W. Goddard. With primitive tools and slow methods he has to undertake his work, but when he is done "it is done." There has been more honest road building done in this section of the county in the past two years than in the rest of my recollection all together.

Another improvement to our neighborhood is the addition to the dwelling of Mr. Samuel Hayden at "Mills' Point."

Circuit Court.

The September Term of the St. Mary's Circuit Court convened Monday, the 17th instant, Associate Judge J. Parran Crane on the bench. J. Edwin Condit, of Valley Lee district, was selected as foreman of the Grand Jury and the jury was impaneled and charged. In his remarks the Judge dwelt especially upon the duties and oath of the Grand Jury and explained the cases which it would be likely called upon to investigate.

In reference to violations of the liquor law, His Honor said that in the lower part of the county there had been a marked improvement and that a gentleman who often travelled the roads from below to Leonardtown had informed him that it was now a rarity to see a crowd gathered about a store on a Sunday. In the upper section however, the Judge stated that there had been too many leading men that there were stores upon which the shadow of a church fell where Sunday was shamefully desecrated by the sale of intoxicants. It was the Jury's duty to put a stop to such things and so long as he sat upon the bench and there was need of his calling attention to the matter and a jury to listen to him, he would continue to ask that the charges be investigated and the violators of the law indicted. On the matter of the public roads the Judge said that the improvement made upon them was worth thousands of dollars to the county; that the men who had charge of them knew what should be done, how and when to do it and had built miles of permanent and excellent roads. Everyone connected with the road work was complimented.

Seven jurors were absent and excused and a venire to complete the panel issued for J. Oscar Jones, James E. Jackson, Rich. H. J. Magill, Charles F. Bowling, Daniel Hammett, Bennett M. Abell and Thomas H. Bond.

The Appearance, Appeal and Trial Dockets were called and judgments entered in uncounted cases. At 12 o'clock, the Recognizance Docket was called to its conclusion, and the Criminal Appeal Docket was next disposed of. At 4 p. m., the Court adjourned for the day.

Tuesday, September 18. The Court met, their Honors Chief Judge Briscoe and Associate Judge Crane on the bench. The peremptory call of the trial docket was then begun. In No. 9 Trials, Priscilla Briscoe vs. W. Wallace Gray & wife, Messrs. Holmes and Ching, counsel for plaintiff, asked for a writ of resurvey and writ granted and clerk instructed to issue writ to County Surveyor.

After disposing of all cases on the Trial Docket, the Appeal Docket was called and cases thereon disposed of.

No. 7 Criminal Appeals was then called as follows: Joseph E. Dean vs. State; appeal from Justice Cammiller. Jury trial claimed. Jury impaneled and sworn. Jury returned a verdict of guilty. Judgment on the verdict of one dollar without costs. Holmes and Ching for Dean; Cammiller for State. Court at 3 o'clock adjourned for the day.

Wednesday, September 19. Court met, Judges present as yesterday. The first case called was No. 1, criminal appearance; State vs. W. P. Dent. Indicted for altering a check drawn by Henry Wingate. Tried before the Court. Plea of guilty and prisoner sentenced to the Maryland Penitentiary for five years. Holmes and Ching for prisoner; Cammiller for State.

Lowertown Locals.

(From our Regular Correspondent.) We use our intellect to describe what is taking place around us, but the secret power which causes the intellect to labor on external objects is concealed too deep for our limited researches—for our philosophical prying. We take the pleasure through this medium to give to the readers of the BEACON what we saw and heard at the meeting of the W. and B. Club, 15th instant. The presiding officer of the Club was the last member to make his appearance. His arrival was greeted with manifestations of delight. Such handshaking! Really so flattering was the recognition that we concluded that he was entitled to the praise bestowed and that the admiration was something more than emotional and would not perish with the day which gave it birth. We learned ere we took our seat—a back one—that no changes would be made.

At the top of the bell the Secretary guided by the roll and to our surprise the usual thirteen (13) were present. After the minutes of the previous meeting were read, the President arose and in a clear, round voice announced that Widower "Romero" would address the Club relative to the subject selected to be remarked upon—"Are brutes endowed with reason?" A painful silence reigned for a few moments, then a stir. How relieved we all felt. The old widower arose and in a very dignified manner said: "To enumerate the names of 'maidenhood and fair' who graced the occasion with winsome presence, and gallants proud to do homage to such a shrine, would require too much of your space, Messrs. Editors, therefore be it sufficient to state that the invitation was extensively accepted from Chaptico, Milestone, Leonardtown, Oakville, Charlotte Hall, Mechanicsville, Bryantown, Allens Fresh, Laplata and the Southern neck of Charles.

The moon, the beautiful moon. There she is, not very far away so astronomers tell us, only two hundred and forty thousand miles from our sin-cursed world.

We have flowers yet. Sunflowers, margolds, etc. See! "On the hill the golden rod, and the aster and the yellow sunflower by the brook" beautiful, but not very aromatic.

Farmers are enjoying the fruition of their hopes, for their fodder and tops are housed or properly stacked. See what ears of corn and what big pumpkins! What nice pies and "Johnnie" cakes loom up before us. Where! how our mouth waters. The sight takes up our heart with a mighty feeling and sweeps it right along to the table laden with the good things. What delight! Alas! what deceptory anticipations. A poor creature eating pies and buttered cakes! We comfort ourselves with the fact that such delights are transient and maybe the coil of the hidden serpent is in the dish! So there is a crumb of relief—comfort—even in the thought that such delights as mentioned quickly pass away and that the eating of some may create an unpleasant sensation at least.

Politicians are at their wit's end. Shall it be Rogers and Wells or Coffin? There is a coffin, perhaps, too to be occupied and Salt River is navigable. Men who seem to rival Daniel in predictions are at a standstill. The ball is moving but whether politicians cannot tell. Patience has its perfect work. We'll wait till the ball is over, and then if our feelings are in harmony with the result, why, we'll hallelujah, a little—sing Te Deum, and listen to Poesi from the other side.

The not knowing what to do with one's self certainly is an unpleasant feeling. We yawn, shrug our shoulders, add a few pages to the "Reminiscence of an Ex-Confederate," and by an extraordinary exercise of the imagination make the angel of Death to call forth the soul of Abel from the ensanguined dust and behold the bright celestial messenger as he clothes it with a body ethereal and as luminous as the Sun in his midday splendor. Avant Eunu! not so, for we continue in our prey and it surpasses the power of words to describe our feelings.

We resolve to take a walk, so with our weather beaten cap properly adjusted and our cane under our arm we start to go—somewhere. To the woods near by we slowly wend our way. How refreshing are the gentle winds from the South as we pause a few moments to admire the beauties of nature. The continuity of shade is a treat this hot weather. During our quiet rest surrounded with an undergrowth of gums, oaks and dogwood the foliage of each with its own particular shade of color—producing the finest effect imaginable—we ask from whom do the laws of nature emanate? A voice sweeter than music on the water rippled: "From Him who teaches the stars to run their course—Him in whom we live, move, and have our being." We start to retrace our steps when instantaneously, quick as a flash of lightning takes its flight, vanishes like the mist of dawn before the solar ray. We are ourselves again, and soon we are seated in our easy chair reading our favorite volume. Intellectual science. Reading did we say? Ah! But not so some perhaps, read and forget. We do not indulge in surface reading. No, we read so as to reap a golden harvest of "golden opinions."

The little boys have driven home the cows several hours ago, Lawrence and Ned have 'capped' the last can, and the whistle at the factory has notified the employes that work for the day has been completed. Look! it is 11 o'clock, and we are so sleepy. We reluctantly close the volume, yawn, kneel, and beg Him who was born in the stable at Bethlehem on Christmas-day for a heart that is ready to be taught of Heaven as a little child. We arise, rub our eyes and—yes, we retire and notwithstanding the musical voice of a neighbor's Tom Cat and the wild lark notes of Screech owls in the old grave yard near by, we are soon wandering through flower bedecked fields of dream land.

You will not take our word—bare say—then. Well, we have solid and substantial information from a reliable man that Dr. Jas. H. Miles has sweet potatoes so large that the cook has to quarter them before putting them into the pan to bake. Truckers tell us—its no tale of our manufacture—that cabbage worms no doubt exceed the number of brilliant suns which compose the "milky way" up yonder, far away. They brush, wash and kill for hours, and within a short while they are as numerous as ever. These pests, worms, however troublesome and numerically strong may eventually be destroyed. There is a never sleeping worm which frequently assails the citadel of the heart. It assailed Adam after he was overcome by the Evil one. His children are often assailed by it—a restless, remorseless conscience.

Fish scarce. A few grunts are being caught and they are small. Sharks make their way into the creeks, scarce the fish and cause them to absent themselves for an indefinite time. We didn't know it until old fishermen assured us of the fact. We have frequently heard of "land sharks," and persons who have to contend with them tell us that they never indulge in vague dreams, keep wide awake for the night, full of cunning, and always emerge through the big end of the horn. Terrible creatures, indeed. They must be evil like in their dispositions. Now, we wouldn't be surprised if the animals last mentioned are not men after all—Those who are proud, aspiring, ambitious and rapacious, who succeed to most of this world's possessions. Well, we wouldn't wonder.

Schools are open for the reception of pupils. There they go—pupils, we mean—with buckets and satchels. Take our advice, boys and girls, obey your teachers. Learn first of all to calanly and quietly do what is right. Learn obedience in youth. There is no quality of mind more indispensable. Let it have its perfect work in the school room. It will pay in the end. It will make your school life a happy one. It's real cowardice to be disobedient. Yes, obey your teachers. You will never regret doing so in your after life. Webster, Jefferson, Calhoun, Cromwell, the noble Robert E. Lee, Napoleon, Wellington, all were school going children. They learned to obey their teachers, some of whom walked in the humble paths of life. Yes, obey your teachers.

Cool nights prevail and some of our old and far-sighted neighbors predict a cold winter. One of their signs is plenty of berries are seen. When these berries are plentiful it is a notable fact that snow and ice and bitter cold winds are in store for December, January, February and March. Despite the coldness mentioned katyids and crickets are with us, and they break the stillness of night with their merry notes. Although short lived, they perform the tasks assigned them. True, they are not so useful as the cælar insect which creates continents—no exaggeration—yet, they are useful in their way. They were not made in vain, neither do we believe that the great God ordained the bug and the earthquake for destruction.

George W. Welch, Esq., lost his buggy a few days ago. The horse was apparently well the last time Mr. W. saw him in the pasture with his other horses. He went into the pasture the following day and to his sore surprise the animal that he so greatly prized was dead.

Mr. Bland, who owns a steam saw and grist mill, lost considerable lumber together with his tools recently in consequence of an accidental fire.

See those vehicles, horseback riders and pedestrians. Where could they have been? Stop a moment. Think. Yes, now we have it. Why, there was Mass at St. Michael's Church, and preaching at St. Mary's. While man, weak man, can only help the Holy Maker's name, angels exult in it seraphic strains. Thanks, there is one day in the week that men may meet and fraternize—talk about something edifying to their immortal parts, eschewing the "god of their world" for a few hours at least.

Mercy! how we tremble! said a doctor the other day. "What gloomy splien my bosom swells," the bile in my liver is difficult to repress, just think that "Arizona" that drank who lives at the Blue Gull, has compared me to a coon—coon sagg!" Why, the man must be, well, the word is not exactly come at able. Poor fellow! he's in love, perhaps. We rise to explain, and here is what we have to say: Dear doctor, at what we know that the decant from Avenrus to the lower world is easy, but to regain the upper world, is a little difficult. To lose your friendship (?) even in consequence of a typographical error, is not to be slightly considered—to regain it, ah! that's the rub. Perhaps we made the mistake. It should have been "Coan Sage." All well read physicians are aware that the "Father of medicine"—reputed Father—Hippocrates, was known by the title named. "To err is human; to forgive, divine." Understand? Our path in this "vale of tears" is—

Localities and Otherwise. The rains recent were of great benefit to pasturage, turpids, &c. Miss Bernice Fenwick, of Hyattsville, is visiting relatives in Leonardtown. Next Friday afternoon is the date fixed for Hunting's Circus to exhibit at Mechanicsville. Judge Crane appointed J. Edwin Condit, of "Cherryfields," foreman of the Grand Jury.

Recently, a valuable horse belonging to Mr. William E. Abell, broke its leg and had to be killed. Mr. G. Douglas Carpenter has been appointed Supervisor of Elections vice B. R. Abell, resigned.

Mr. O. Clyde Raley, who has been on a visit to his Leonardtown home has returned to Alabama. Mrs. Nannie Polk and daughter, of Washington, are visiting the family of Hon. B. G. Harris, at "Ellenborough."

Misses Burroughs, Fenwick, Yates, Pembroke Spalding and Swann, leave St. Mary's this week for the State Normal School, Baltimore. There seems but little change in the condition of Mr. B. R. Abell, of this village. Mr. Abell has been confined to his room for about six weeks.

As far as reported Mr. William C. Norris of Scotch Neck, is ahead on tall tobacco having a plant which measured 7 feet and 2 inches in height. At Tuesday's meeting of the Trustees of St. Mary's Female Seminary, Mr. John A. B. Sherman was elected a member of the board vice Col. S. I. Wallis.

Mrs. Mamie Murphy, of Washington, Miss Catherine Crane, county, accompanied by two gallant St. Mary's gentlemen, paid our office a brief visit Monday last. Misses Marie and Hilda and Masters Fred and Arthur Spinosa have returned to Burlington College. During their sojourn in Leonardtown they made many friends who regret their departure.

The county public schools re-opened Monday last and we hope that the attendance was large. We have good schools and good teachers and the young should avail themselves of these advantages. Friday evening last, Raymond, the young son of Mr. Charles W. Foxwell, of this town, stepped from the porch of his father's dwelling and broke his arm. Dr. Charles Combs reduced the fracture and the little sufferer is doing as well as could be expected.

Mr. Burchard, congressional candidate of the Peoples party spoke at the Court House, Tuesday last, to quite a large audience. At the conclusion of Mr. B's remarks and in response to loud and continued calls Mr. J. C. Howard addressed the meeting. Messrs. John H. Chrispin, J. Walter Carpenter, J. T. West, Dr. Charles M. Hammett, William B. and T. Jackson Moore, Walter I. Dawkins Esq., W. H. Keyworth, Claude B. Lloyd, and Horace Durant Esq., are among the out of county gentlemen in attendance upon court.

Roger B. T. Combs Esq., of Leonardtown has received an appointment on the U. S. Engineer corps as superintendent of the Material Department, and Saturday morning last, left for the scene of his labors in northern Alabama. Roger is a superior young gentleman and the best wishes of a wide circle of friends go with him. Friday last, Officer Joseph M. Mattingly brought from Washington and lodged in the county jail W. F. Dent, colored, charged with altering a check of School Examiner Wingate. On Monday, Dent was presented, Tuesday indicted and Wednesday arraigned before the Court, adjudged guilty, and sentenced to the Penitentiary for five years.

The Ex-Confederate Association met at Moore's Hotel, Leonardtown and re-elected the following officers: President, Captain George Thomas; Vice-presidents, Charles E. Gough, J. T. Parsons; Treasurer, John W. Williams; Secretary, Vincent Cammiller; Assistant Secretary, John F. Duke. The Executive Committee follows: J. Marshall Dent, J. Thomas Parsons, William T. Bailey, J. B. Gardner, Daniel Hammett, T. Frank Yates, Herbert F. Moore. R. M. Freeman was elected an honorary member. A memorial tribute to John A. Hayden written by John F. Duke was read by Judge J. Parran Crane.
