Indian Lecture Recital.

May 4 will be long remembered in music circles in Albuquerque, as on that date in the Presbyterian church Charles Wakefield Cadman, the great composer of Indian lyrics will recite in poetic harmonies and vocally the story of his exile among the Indians as a student of the tribal melodies, and reveal the spiritual, mystic phases of the red man's character which he has endeavored to immortalize in music.

The lecture accompanied by piano stories will be practically the same as delivered in Paris and London a long ago, when the enthusiasm aroused was a rare tribute to the young composer. In Paris the lecture recital was given in the palatial home of Mrs. Berg, whose husband has financed the Wright brothers in their air ship science. Assisting Mr. Cadman at this recital was Mme. Tracey, the noted opera singer, and prominent music composers of France attended to hear the wonderful Indian lyrics, played on the flute and piano, and the instructive address on Indian life.

The recital on May 4 will be for the benefit of the Presbyterian sanatorium and resident consumptives of this city will also be heard in rendition of Cadman's songs. Early in April Mr. Cadman will leave for the Osage reservation in Oklahoma to study folk lore of the Osage tribe and also to do more work for the government in translating the tribal melodies. For this purpose phonograph records are an important factor in transcription. Mr. Cadman will interview the young Cherokee woman possessed of remarkable vocal talent, who was the protege of Madame Schumann-Heinck. This young woman may sing in the Indian opera "Daoma" which is being composed by Mr. Cadman and will be produced by the Boston opera or the Metropolitan company early next year. The author of the book "Daoma" is Francis LaFlesh, the Indian ethnologist of the Omahas, and Cadman and meet him also while in Oklahoma.

The story of "Daoma" is founded on true events that occurred three hundred years ago on the Missouri river in Nebraska and are preserved by the legions of the Omahas. Thrilling with the primitive emotions common to all primitive races, mystic in the spiritual ambitions of nature's sons, the musical construction of the opera conforms to the modern, eclectic school of composition. A most dramatic scene of the opera will be a duet between the red skin braves preceded by a pitiful prayer to the sun-god by the heroine. The aria that precedes the battle was written last week in Albuquerque, and completes the second act of the opera. The title role of this opera will be played by Alice Nielson, and the warriors in the middle scenes will be native redmen. Blazing a new trail for composers, Cadman's work is destined to have incalculable influence on the music of the future. As a direct antithesis to the decadent operas or songs and other contemporaries who strive to appeal to man's lower nature, Cadman's endeavor is to idealize and edify human nature by expressing the emotions of the soul.

The brief season spent in Albuquerque by this genius will be long remembered by those who have heard him. After the trip to Oklahoma in the interests of the government Cadman will return to give the lecture recital May 4.

Reception for Mrs. Roosevelt.

Memorable and altogether delightful was the reception in the parlors of the Alvarado hotel Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt graciously greeted the three hundred Albuquerque ladies who assembled to welcome her with her daughter, Miss Ethel Roosevelt, and Miss Landon to the "Duke city." Decorations of lavishly in the artistic arrangement of carnations, roses and violets, characteristic of the Alvarado style, the rooms presented a scene of beauty as the handsomely gowned ladies passed down the receiving line, and mingled with the bevy of young girls who dispensed fruit punch in the adjoining rooms.

Charming and decidedly distinguished in her violet gown, black picture hat and carrying a fragrant bouquet of fresh violets, Mrs. Roosevelt stood at the head of the line in which also stood Mrs. Elder, who introduced the ladies, Mrs. Lano and Miss Abbott.

Several children present were greeted with exceptional cordiality by the guest of honor who presented each with a floral souvenir from her bouquet. Presiding at the punch bowl was Miss Ern. Ferguson assisted by Misses Mildred Fox, Hortense Nusbaum, Marie Rankin, Lotta Huning, Grace Borradaile. Mingling informally with the Albuquerque young ladies were Miss Ethel Roosevelt and her friend, Miss Landon.

St. Patrick Social.

Mrs. F. O. Leary was at home Thursday afternoon to the members of the "Good Cheer" club and dispensed "good cheer" most graciously to the ten ladies present. During a brief business session that preceded the informal pleasures of the day, the annual election of officers was held resulting in the following officers for 1912: President, Mrs. Rethi; treasurer, Mrs. Gatchel; secretary, Mrs. Hooper.

Adjourning for gayer occupation the company enjoyed a happy afternoon in a social way, and in plying the needles for the benefit of the orphans in the Odd Fellows' home at Roswell. The rooms were prettily decorated in the emerald color of the day, and in the appointments of the tables where the guests partook of "good cheer" early guests of the afternoon carried the green of the shamrock.

The party broke up at the day's end to meet with Miss Pelton next week. Those present were: Mesdames Vann, Doolittle, Gatchel, Harris, Washburn, Isherwood, Rethi and Grey.

Sacred Concert.

In harmony with the spiritual atmosphere of Christendom during the week before Easter the Albuquerque Choral club will render a sacred program on Good Friday. Stainer's "Crucifixion" will be the oratorio sung by the 35 fine voices that compose the chorus of this club. The initial rehearsal will be held Monday evening in the studio of Mrs. Hinkle. Mr. Lyons, director of the club, will have charge. The place for the rehearsals has not yet been decided.

Stag Dinner.

A "Rooster Blowout" is scheduled to take place Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock when the gentlemen of the Barara class of the Gold and Broadway church gather around the festive board at J. E. Horton's dining parlors on West Central avenue. According to the invitations "Hoppy Hooligan" will be present to act as toastmaster or act in any way the company suggests. If the flavor of the dinner and the after dinner speeches are to be judged by the invitations the whole affair will be unique and clever.

Organ Recital.

The meeting of the Woman's club will be held next Friday afternoon in the Presbyterian church in order that the musical program may be rendered on the pipe organ. Mr. Stanley Seder will preside at the organ and his versatile skill will be demonstrated by varied selections from the wide range of classics included in his repertoire.

Mrs. Bradford of Boston will lend her talent in the rendition of soprano solos and Mr. Charles Andrews rich tenor will also be a feature of the program arranged by the musicians of the music department of the club.

Miss Robins to Lecture.

Sunday evening in the Presbyterian church Miss Anna Robins will address the congregation on the problems confronting the ranks of "white ribboners" in America. During her week's sojourn Miss Robins has also led and addressed the High School students, the Harwood school students and the students of the Mechanical industrial school.

Civic Society to Meet.

The meeting of the Civic Improvement society that was called for Wednesday of this week was deferred till a more opportune day on account of the celebration incident to the visit of Colonel Roosevelt. The president, Dr. Taylor-Goodman, will issue a call for meeting in a few days, and expects enthusiastic response in point of numbers as the annual election of officers will be held at the meeting this month and plans for the year's campaign will be outlined. Work for the society is waiting and opportunities and concerns in the city are numerous in civic improvement, around your own home with the children ones who have pledged the movement. Already material for the orders and other improvements on the school grounds of the high and school is at hand and many schemes for bettering the city's general condition and urging and assisting the willing hands to clean up town. All members of the society and their friends are requested to watch for the announcement of meeting next week.

Luncheon for Miss Robins.

After addressing the students of the Methodist preparatory school on phases of the prohibition question, Miss Anna Robins and Mrs. Mary Harper were tendered an enjoyable luncheon Tuesday by the teachers and students of the institution.

Piano Recital.

Miss Marion Moriarty was hostess this afternoon at her home on South High street, when the minds of her classes and their parents assembled to hear the rendition of a classic program of piano numbers. With an ideal technique and the command of a skilled pianist, Miss Moriarty interpreted with exquisite expression the following masterpieces from the old world masters:

"Symphony" Opus 2 ... Schumann
"Gloom of Prelude" ... Chopin
"C Minor Fantasia" ... Mozart
"Etude" ... Arensky
"C Minor Polonaise" ... Chopin

Assisting Miss Moriarty in the recital were Mrs. J. W. Gilbert and Miss Helen Goode, two advanced pupils whose renditions added materially to the merit of the program and the entertainment of the company.

Mrs. Cooley Honoree.

The inevitable home of Mrs. Robert Smith was the scene of a pleasant informal tea Thursday afternoon when Mrs. Alfred Cooley of Silver City was the guest of honor. In company with a dozen other guests Mrs. Cooley enjoyed a delightfully informal afternoon.

Mrs. Rose Hostess.

Complimentary to Miss Maud Robins of St. Louis, Mrs. Bert Rose entertained at luncheon on Wednesday. Delicate and appetizing to the eye was served to the following guests: Miss Robins, Mrs. S. C. Miller, Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Vaughn, Miss Chase, Dr. Geiger.

Celebration at St. Vincent's.

The following excellent program was rendered at St. Vincent's academy yesterday in honor of St. Patrick's day:

Selection, piano, Estelle Kelly.
Chorus, "Wearing of the Green."

University Musicale

The last of the series of lectures and entertainments provided for the people by the university faculty and students will be a good musical program in the Presbyterian church next Monday evening. The talent of the faculty and student body will be represented in the literary and musical numbers of the evening. The University Chorus class will render several splendid choruses. Dr. Gray will be heard in impersonations. Miss Ross will contribute entertaining readings and the pipe organ solos of Mr. Stanley Seder will display to advantage that gifted performer's skill. Many others will also be heard on this evening. The event promises to eclipse even the splendid programs that have gone before.

Shamrock Social

Shamrock everywhere. Shamrocks of huge dimensions on the walls; shamrocks of natural size adorning the tables and the rich green, dear to all Celtic hearts draped by the hands of a master decorator embellished and enhanced the Hannaville home on South Third street yesterday afternoon when the Ladies' Aid society of the Lead Avenue Methodist church entertained their friends at tea and a musicale. The dining tables were also dressed in clusters of white carnations that blended prettily with the green and white colors that prevailed throughout. At the table of home cooking presided over by Mesdames W. W. McDonald and R. Y. Sloan, the delicties were grouped between the floral and green decorations. Misses Watson, Calkins, Watson, Tompkins and Templeton served the visitors. The following program was rendered:

Vocal Solo ... Mrs. Miller
Piano Duet, Misses Rose and Tompkins
Vocal Duet, Mesdames Sterling and Templeton
Piano Selections ... Miss Carrollard

Miss Howell Entertains

Miss Alma Howell assisted by her mother, Mrs. Howell, and Miss Adele Howell charmingly entertained the young ladies of the Philathea class of the Highland Methodist church this afternoon at her home on North Seventh street. Honor to the patron saint of Ireland was expressed in the unique decorations of green, augmented by shamrocks. Music and games and a two course luncheon provided the entertainment of a delightful afternoon enjoyed by a score of Philathean lassies.

Social for New Members

In spite of the March winds last evening a goodly number of the Highland Methodist congregation assembled in the church to extend the hand of social fellowship to the new members who recently united with the church. The honorees were labeled with green rosettes to enable the older members to distinguish them from the other young people present.

After devotional exercises, addresses of welcome were made by Rev. Allison in behalf of the congregation, and Mrs. Minnis in behalf of the women's societies and the young people. A vocal selection by Miss Alma Howell was well rendered and received. At the close of a happy social hour delicious refreshments were served.

King's Daughters Meet

The King's Daughters of the Gold and Broadway church met this afternoon at the church, and under the direction of the class teacher, Mrs. Wear, effected a permanent organization that promises to be a potent factor in the social life of the church, as the young ladies have the reputation of being royal entertainers.

State Band Ball

The ball given at the Elks' opera house last night was one of the most enjoyable ever given in this city. The program was a pretty affair in keeping with the date of the occasion—St. Patrick's day—and a large crowd enjoyed every minute till the early morning hours. The music was furnished by the band and could not have been better.

Royal Neighbors Meet

After a practice session given in execution of the drill work of the order, the Ladies of the Royal Neighbors were pleasantly surprised yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Robert Louden, who remested the members to be her guests at a "royal" treat of ice cream and cake.

Personal Mention

Mrs. Vaughn is entertaining Miss Anna Robbins, the national organizer of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, who is spending the week in Albuquerque.

Miss Pollard, state deputy for the Royal Neighbors, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Fergusson.

The "Coyote" scouts shouldered their knapsacks early this morning and under the leadership of the scoutmaster, H. P. Williams, left for a ten-mile hike down the Rio Grande.

To Entertain Sewing Circle

Miss Elsie Meyers will entertain the members of the Young Ladies' Social Sewing circle next Thursday afternoon.

Mesdames Quickel Entertain

Combining in their invitations the Young Women's Sewing club and Elder Women's Sewing club, Mesdames E. B. Quickel and her daughter, Mrs. Cortez Quickel, were at home yesterday afternoon to the ladies of these clubs. Green and white colors and flowers were used in artistic decoration in honor of St. Patrick's day. A needlework contest in button hole making resulted in first honors to Mrs. Boquet.

Five hundred provided the chief pastime of the afternoon that continued till the day's end, when the guests were treated to a dainty two course luncheon in the dining room, where the table was beautifully dressed in green carnations and smilax. As trophies of proficiency in card craft prizes were carried home by Mrs. Kunz who won first place, and Mrs. Meyers the second. The guests were Mesdames Tessier, Quickel, Kunz, Myers, Englee, Braun, Boquet, King, Rogers, Martin, Quickel and Elsie Myers.

Y. W. C. A. Social

In spite of the March zephyrs last evening more than fifty young women of the various ecclesiastical denominations assembled in the Presbyterian church for the purpose of organizing a Social Purity league. The meeting was presided over by Miss Sayre, who is responsible for this forward movement in establishing a broad sisterhood among the
