PRACTICE AND SCIENCE

In this age of broadening ideas we learn reminders the farmers should be considering how the changing conditions affect for future. He should not miss point in the address that anything the American farmer.

The scientist may forget to take the effective of demonstration in the results of conducting the farm's fertility that he can be doing engage in the one not another the other. The farmer and tiller of the soil is the only one who can carry into practical operation demonstrated methods of state of conservation. It is refuted to be aimed in science as applied to agricultural improvements the discoveries of science are of no practical value to the world. The agricultural scientist is to the farmer what the bacteriologist is to the physician. The discoveries of the one are as important as the discoveries of the other. Neither can be ignored.

The farmer would hesitate to call to his sick bed the physician who denies the science of bacteriology, and the world will frown upon the farmer who denounces agricultural science. And this is in keeping with the age of progress.

Agricultural science teaches farmers a wonderful story of soil possibilities, of plant variation, of plant development and their needs to enable them to fill their destiny. It has separated the tramp soil bacteria from the unfriendly and shown how to utilize the one and discard the other. It has pointed out the way to conservation of soil moisture and soil fertility and in a hundred ways has to make two blades grow where but one grew before.

There is a need of an awakening on the farm—of the farmer—an awakening to a full realization of his possibilities and responsibilities. There is a need of developed brain as well as a developed muscle—a brain that can grasp and comprehend the incomparable opportunities of the farmer as a professional man. He feeds the world and he should pride himself in doing what he does well.

IT SOUNDS CHEERFUL.

Blue Monday loses its blueness and takes on a roseate hue when the newspaper in New Mexico find for their morning "copy" reports of good rains all over the territory, record-breaking lambing crops and news from the ranges that grass is excellent and the water holes filled to overflowing.

New Mexico is going to have a prosperous year; day by day her assets in stock growing and agriculture are being increased many fold and there is nothing to rejuvenate the entire people like reports that those who produce are going to reap a bountiful harvest.

Our big year for New Mexico right at this time will mean more than temporary prosperity. The fact that even the city farmers secure a good harvest will tend to bring here thousands upon thousands of more farmers. The lambs and calves, the fat cattle and well fitted horses, to say nothing of chickens, hogs and lesser stock, will put a great many dollars into circulation now which all will benefit.

So long as this kind of news keeps filling the papers of New Mexico they will not afford to let the "sensations" of crime, sin and sorrow go in the more metropolitan press.

THE CITY BEAUTIFUL.

Little Pride is finding an outlet in various ways these days and citizens are not content with mere comforts of administration in city government. The propaganda for the "city beautiful" is finding advocates in thousands of cities and small towns throughout the land. In Washington the outdoor playground idea is at present being discussed in the convention of the Playground Associations of America. And now from all parts of New Mexico the cities press dispatches telling that our many thriving towns are busily planning and creating public parks, which delight the eye and refresh the mind with flowers and trees and shrubery.

Following is a "civic alphabet" which very aptly points the way to a more beautiful residence community:

A—Aim to make Arbor day annual "clean up" day.
B—Banish the ash district from your city.
C—Clean up the streets and alleys.
D—Destroy rubbish by burning.
E—Educate ourselves to demand clean markets.
F—Fine every club member who does not work.
G—Give free lectures upon civic improvement.
H—Have campaign against unsightly billboards.
I—Join all forces for the city beautiful crusade.
K—Kill sidewalk animals and fill up.
L—Let our slogan be "Home, sweet home."
M—Make requests of preachers for "clean up" sermons.
N—Show no coldness in cleanness.
O—Organize the children into leagues.
P—Plant trees, and then plant more and plant more trees.
Q—Question authorities about civic conditions.
R—Remember to plan parks and playgrounds.
S—Study city ordinances and work for their enforcement.
T—Try to make the school buildings social centers.
U—Use every effort to arouse civic sense.
V—Vanquish the opposition with good nature.
W—Work unceasing war upon all the weeds, flies and mosquitoes.
X—Xact obedience to city sanitary laws.
Y—Your city is YOU—never forget that.
Z—Zeal, courage and patience will "clean up" your town, county and state.

One hundred and thirty people from the land of the sacred Codfish spent three hours in the city today. They had not fully recovered from their surprise at finding no custom house at the northern boundary of New Mexico. Hence their fears had been somewhat allayed except no insurrecto army. It is too bad New Mexico had no ready-made thrillers for them, for of such are the ones who expose statehood.

The physician throng will feel more than ever convinced that J. Pierpont Morgan wants to make a vulgar display of wealth when he pays $42,000 for a set of books. He could get a set of books, handsomely bound in full morocco, gilt trimmed, finely engraved, etc., etc., for ten cents a week with a magazine thrown in.

The New York Times persists in publishing a poem entitled "When the Mint Is in the Rye," and there isn't a decent mint bed in the state of New York, sub.

A man died the other day in Atlanta, Ga., at the age of 97 years, and he said he attributed his long life to having never smoked. He always chewed a pound of tobacco a week.

The insurrecto army in Mexico is much like the Democratic party in the United States, in that when it has a chance to win it begins quarreling in its own ranks.

Now that Mothers day is past, dear old April will doubtless be pleased with the announcement that the button makers strike has been called off.

Because the limb that recently sold for $50,000 is to be brought to Los Angeles, that city is easing with a brace halt for a crown.

This is the week when we are likely to have some illuminating debate in the house on how not to delay statehood.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE CITY COUNCIL.
May 10, 1911.

Special meeting of the council called for the purpose of taking action in matter of contract with C. Fisher & Co. for building the culvert in the Barelas acequia.

All councilmen duly notified as required by ordinance.

Meeting called to order by Mayor Elder.

Present: Aldermen Reidy, Wroth, Apgar, Inkerwood and Clarke.

C. Fisher & Co. presented bond in the sum of $473.21, with the F. & G. fidelity and guaranty Co. as surety, the amount of said bond being 25 per cent of contract price for building said culvert.

The bond was approved by the city attorney as to form.

The following communication from C. Fisher & Co. was read:

"We wish to ask your honorable body, if it be your pleasure, to make a change in section 4 of our contract for the construction of concrete culvert, whereby the city will pay the contractors an estimate of 75 per cent on work completed and material on the ground, on the first and fifteenth of each month."

Moved by Alderman Wroth, seconded by Alderman Inkerwood, that contract and bond be accepted, and that contract be amended to permit payment of 75 per cent of work completed on the first and fifteenth of each month, on estimate of engineer to the city council, other parts of contract to remain unaltered, provided the bonding company will approve of change.

Carried. Aldermen Reidy, Wroth, Apgar, Inkerwood and Clarke voting "Yes."

Upon motion the meeting adjourned.

J. W. ELDER,
Mayor.

JOHN B. McMANUS, Clerk.

LIBRARIANS FLOCK INTO CITY ON A SPECIAL

Running as Second Number Three, Santa Fe Takes People Who Supply Public With Reading to Coast.

A special (train) of delegates to the annual convention of the American Library association, which will be held in Pasadena, Cal., from May 15 to 22, passed through Albuquerque this morning, stopping over for some hours to give the members of the party an opportunity to see some things in our fair city.

The train consisted of nine cars, including mail and baggage, and carried about 150 delegates. As the train rolled into the station, running as the second section of the California Special, the librarians began pouring off the cars, and soon discovered that small groups had set forth on various parts of the city. Albuquerque, the librarians found, was free of all the evil effects which some in the Alvarado ad in this city enjoyed the many attractions offered by that always interesting piece of sightseeing.

The party is on the personal escort of M. F. Brewer, of Boston, who with his assistant, Thomas Vason, was looking after the comfort and pleasure of the members. It is made up of some of the most eminent librarians of the country, most of them from eastern cities. While the passengers of this train are only a small part of the entire membership of the convention, then, it was stated that this is the only special train of delegates that will go on to Pasadena.

The travel committee of the American Library Association consists of Frederick W. Faxon of Boston, chairman; Charles H. Brown of the Brooklyn public library, and John F. Phelan of the Chicago public library. The eastern wing of the party left Boston and New York last Friday, the 12th, reaching Chicago on Saturday, the 13th, where they were joined by a large delegation from Detroit. In Chicago the special train was made up, which will take them through to Pasadena. The first stop on the march was made in Albuquerque to-day, so that the librarians could see something of the interesting country of which this city is the center.

At 2 o'clock the special pulled out, the delegates having already ended their three hours rest from the rolling of railroad, and being unanimous in their expressions of praise for the beauty and progressiveness of Albuquerque. A short stop will be made this afternoon at Laguna to enable the librarians to inspect the pueblo at that place, and a stop of a day and night will be made at the Grand Canyon of Arizona, where the party will be the guests of the El Tovar hotel. During the stay there a moonlight ride down into the canyon by way of the Bright Angel trail and a sunset trip to Hopi Point are on the program.

The party will arrive at Pasadena in the afternoon of May 18, which is the first day of the convention. An elaborate program of entertainment and sightseeing has been planned for the nine days of the convention, including a drive to the Mission de San Gabriel Arcangel, a visit to the observatory, excursions to Mt. Lowe and Mt. Wilson, a trip to Avalon and trips to Los Angeles, Long Beach and San Pedro.

Returning the librarians will go up the Pacific coast to San Francisco, making short stops to enjoy the scenic attractions by the way, and after leaving San Francisco will go by way of the Yosemite, Reno, Salt Lake City and Denver on their way back to their eastern homes.

The American Library Association is one of the most important national organizations in the United States and has been growing in influence and numbers for a number of years. The great growth of the library movement during the last decade has caused a tremendous interest to be taken in the annual conventions of this body, when the trained library workers from all parts of the country meet to interchange ideas for mutual advancement and improvement in library work generally.

The present "A. L. A. Special" is being conducted by Raymond & Whitcomb company of Boston, who have made a specialty of personally conducted trips of this sort. The delegates on this train who follow the program as outlined by the travel committee of the association will return to New York and Boston on June 12th, just one month from the time of their departure, after having enjoyed a vacation which they will no doubt remember for a long time.

The names and addresses of the delegates on the train which passed through this morning are as follows:

WHEAT MARKET IS WEAK AGAIN

Big World Shipments and Rains in Bearing Districts Have Effect on Prices; Corn Eases Off Also.

(By Evening Herald A. P. Leased Wire)

Chicago, May 15.—Big world shipments and rains in the northwest weakened the wheat market today. The opening here was 5-8@1c lower.

Fine weather, bearish cables and the influence of wheat caused July opening to be 2-8c down.

Local selling carried oats backward, July starting 1@1c to 3-8c off.

After a little recovery wheat again grew weak, owing to the smallness of the decrease in the visible supply. The close, however, was firm.

An advance in corn resulted from country sales being light, but prices again receded in sympathy with wheat. The close was easy 1@1c net lower.

WANTED---500 WASHER-WOMEN

We are still selling the charcoal furnace, the washerwoman's friend. It is positively the greatest little device on the market, especially for housing humpy iron. It is smokeless and free from gas, requires less fuel and makes more heat than any other. There is no use to sweiter indoors when you can prevent it by using one of these charcoal furnaces outdoors in the shade. They give sufficient heat anywhere.

Therefore 500 Washerwomen Wanted to buy these furnaces. On sale at 403 West Central avenue, corner of Fourth and 322 West Gold. Phone 592.

SAMUEL N. BRYANT.

J. SAM WANTS TO KNOW

When is an Onion Not a Vegetable, is Question Proposed By Enterprising Booster of Albuquerque.

The morning paper has a write up from J. Sam headed "When Is a Union Not a Union." It goes on to show what blunders some people can make when they try to run a trade union. J. Sam has been and is now in sympathy with all organized labor trades and has proven himself at every point. If any of them have differences among themselves, let them sweat it out among themselves. First of all, should J. Sam stand in front of a Chinese restaurant and take the names of those full fleshed union men who show their sworn obligation is not to eat in the China restaurant? Should he print their names? Would their brothers say "that is not kind?" Now, should J. Sam be compelled to pay full union scale wages to all his help, he would have to charge union admission fee at the gate and he might have to harpoon at some other point, Mr. Union Man. You might create enough rent for him and then bit cigars, but serious, they would hear you yell way load. Any yellow stuff you throw at me will rebound with such force that you will be compelled to wear goggles to keep it off your pimple. I have been met by over ten prominent Albuquerque trades union men this a.m. who hastened to tell me they were not connected with the hold write up and at the next meeting this kind of rot would be dealt with as the unions of Albuquerque wanted to be kept clean and free from slush. I will as agent for the Citizens have placed in the bank $100.00 to be paid to any person if we do not pay more money to our help than any amusement in New Mexico and I will leave it to the people, rich, poor, white or black, if we do not give more for the money than any business institution in the west. All I have to say is be a union man, don't be a stake holder. You can't succeed under such a flag. Be a booster not a sore head.

SENATE DEADLOCKS ON PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

Continuation of Fight for Important Office Prevails Today. Neither Side Being Able to Secure Majority.

(By Evening Herald A. P. Leased Wire)

Washington, May 15.—Continuation of the deadlock in the attempt to elect a president protempore of the senate was apparent today when the first ballot resulted in no choice.

Senator Gallinger, the Republican caucus candidate, polled 32 votes, his Democratic opponent, Senator Bacon, the same number, while six Progressive Republicans voted for Senator Clapp.

A second ballot was similar to the first, and despairing of breaking this deadlock, the senate took up for consideration the joint resolution providing for the election of United States senators by direct vote.

BIGGEST LAMBING IN MANY YEARS

(Special Telegram to Evening Herald)

Magdalena, N. M., May 13.—Sheep growers in this section of New Mexico report to date the biggest crop of lambs in many years. Several of the largest sheep ranches in the southwest are located in western Socorro county and if they are an index to the territory generally, the lamb crop this year will be a record breaker.

Plenty of rain has fallen and it has been ten years since there were such excellent ranges. The outlook in the sheep business was never better. Magdalena is prosperous and the trading is lively. Merchants report that business is better now than for several years past and the outlook is a promising one.
