Farmington Enterprise Tells How Long Standing Controversy is Finally Ended. Means Much to that Section.

(Farmington Enterprise.)

Territorial Engineer Miller has been actively instrumental in settling the water difficulties of San Juan county. By the settling of water appropriations between the people of Santa Fe and Aztec, representatives of the Aztec Irrigation company, Hayes & Farmer, Parker & Hudson and the Orchard Irrigation district met in the offices of the territorial engineer in Durango and after a long and very earnest conference the Aztec Irrigation company agreed to give up its water for the benefit of the Orchard Irrigation district and the Hayes & Farmer ditch, and the Parker & Hudson ditch, and the Orchard Irrigation district agreed to give up its water for the benefit of the Aztec Irrigation company.

This settlement means much to this section of the country. The Aztec Irrigation company has been in the courts for years with the Orchard Irrigation district and the Hayes & Farmer ditch, and the Parker & Hudson ditch, and the Orchard Irrigation district has been in the courts with the Aztec Irrigation company. Hayes & Farmer, Parker & Hudson and the Orchard Irrigation district have been in the courts of the territorial district with the defendant and [illegible] water for the benefit of [illegible] and [illegible] water for the benefit of [illegible] and [illegible] water for the benefit of [illegible]
