IMMENSE ARMY OF TROOPS ENCAMPED IN LONDON

60,000 Regular and Provincial Soldiers Tenting in City's Parks and Open Spaces; Hundreds of Nobility.

(By Evening Herald A. P. Leased Wire)

London, June 20.—London's parks and open spaces have already taken on the appearance of armed camps in preparation for the accommodation of the 60,000 troops who are to line the streets during the royal processions on June 22 and 23. In Hyde park, Wormwood Scrubs, Regent's park, Battersea park, Kensington gardens, canvas cities consisting of long straight lines of white tents have been erected by advance parties of soldiers from the various regiments. At Hampton Court the Indian contingents are to take up their quarters, for they have to be kept separate from the British regiments and their food prepared by their own cooks owing to religious reasons which forbid the touching of their rations by any but those of the same faith.

Six regiments of cavalry have their headquarters at Wormwood Scrubs, besides a number of batteries of horse and field artillery. At Regent's park there are to be six infantry brigades each of three battalions. In Kensington Gardens, there will be an infantry brigade and a large number of units belonging to the artillery, engineers, army service corps, army medical corps, veterinary corps, ordnance corps, pay corps, and the north and south Irish horse corps, with the channel islands militia. In Battersea park, two regular infantry brigades are to encamp in Hyde park three reserve infantry brigades; at the park of York's military school the colonial contingents are to be housed; at Chelsea barracks the cadets and Canadian mounted police; at the old general post office in the city, there will be a large number of units of the horse, field and garrison artillery and of engineers; at the recruiting barracks in old Scotland yard and at the St. George's barracks there are to be squads of military cadets from the academy at Woolwich and the college at Sandhurst, while the members of the veteran reserve will be quartered in the elementary school buildings belonging to the London county council.

Some idea of the enormous amounts of food required for the rations of this large body of troops may be gathered from the quantities of the various articles of diet order it for the two days. These comprise 68 tons of potatoes, 20 tons of cooked meats, sausages, corned beef, etc., 10 tons of butter, 20 tons of onions, six tons of jam, three tons of dried vegetables, ten tons of tea. These comestibles are divided into convenient small packages and carried out to the regimental messes and canteens, where they are transportated to the occupants of the tents, which each contain 10 men.

The day's rations for each man consists of: Breakfast: pint of tea, four ounces of butter, one-quarter pound of cold meat, and one-half pound bread. Dinner: three-quarters pound new potatoes, one pound fresh meat, one-half pound bread, dry vegetables, onions, flour, salt, pepper, mustard, and one pint of beer or ginger beer. Tea: half pound bread, one ounce butter, pint of tea, quarter-pound jam or canned meat of sardines.

No fewer than 1,200 men are specially engaged to cater for the soldiers and to serve in their canteens, where the troops will be able to purchase everything they may desire at cheap rates.

The duty of carrying the King's regalia during the coronation in Westminster Abbey has been entrusted to peers and bishops specially appointed by his majesty, the various functions being carried out as follows:

Bearers of the King's regalia: The Bible, Bishop of Ripon; the chalice, Bishop of Winchester; the patera, Bishop of London; St. Edward's crown, Duke of Northumberland; the orb, Duke of Somerset; sceptre with the dove, Duke of Richmond, earl of state; Earl of Beauchamp, Curtana (sword of mercy), Duke of Beaufort; second sword, Earl Roberts; third sword, Viscount Kitchener; golden spurs, Earl of Loudoun and Lord Grey of Rotlaigh; sceptre with the cross, Duke of Argyll; St. Edward's staff, Duke of Roxburghe.

Bearers of the queen's regalia: Her majesty's crown, Duke of Devonshire; the ring with the rod, Marquis of Waterford; the ivory rod with the dove, Earl of Durham.

Native East Indian princes and princesses with enormous retinues, brilliantly uniformed and flashing with jewels, have arrived in London by every mail steamer from India and by the overland route during the past few weeks and their number is being constantly increased. Among those expected to be present at Westminster Abbey either officially or unofficially on the day of the coronation on June 22, are H. H. Maharajah Sir Madho Rao Scindhia Bahadur of Gwalior, H. H. Maharajah Sir Pratap Singh Bahadur of Jeypore, H. H. Maharajah Sir Zulfqadar Narayan Bhup Bahadur of Kooch Behar, H. H. Maharajah Sahcha of Kooch Behar, H. H. Maharajah Dhiraja Singh Bahadur of Patiala, H. H. Thakur Saheb Sir Bhagwat Singhji Sagramji of Gondal, H. H. the Rana Saheba of Gondal, H. H. Maharawal Shri Chatrashalji Gamalji Sinhji of Rajpipla, H. H. Raja Marutsinhji Bhawsinhji Tondiman Bahadur of Pudukota, H. H. Sir Sultan Muhammad Shah Aga Khan, H. H. Maharajah Sir Ganga Singh Bahadur of Bikaner, H. H. Maharajah Sir Sayaji Rao Gaekwar Bahadur of Baroda, Maharani Saheba of Baroda, H. H. Maharajah Dhiraja Sawai Tukoji Rao Holkar Bahadur of Indore, H. H. Maharani Saheba of Indore, H. H. Nawab Sultan Jahan Begum of Bhopal, H. H. Maharajah Samanda Singh of Jodhpur and Sir Nahar Singh Rajah Dhiraj of Shahpura.

These native princes and princesses are all entitled to royal salutes in their own territories, which are protected, under so vassal states of the empire of India. The Gaekwar of Baroda is granted with 21 guns, the Begum of Bhopal, the Maharajah of Indore and the Maharajah of Gwalior with 19 guns each, the Maharajahs of Bikaner and Patiala, with 17 guns each, the Maharajah of Jaipur with 15 guns, the Maharajah of Kooch Behar with 13 guns, and the Thakur Saheb of Gondal, the Rajah of Rajpipla and the Rajah of Pudukotai with 11 guns each.

The prodigious value of the jewelry worn at the ceremonials in the numerous state functions connected with the coronation has created a considerable demand for policies for insurance covering the period of the festivities. One of the Indian princes took out a policy for the sum of $15,000,000 and in another instance a visitor from East India paid premiums on jewelry valued at between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000.

The risk covered in most cases commences transit to and from India and insurance against theft while in England, and some of the companies make it a condition of accepting the risk that the valuables should be deposited in approved strong rooms when not in actual use. The premiums demanded were invariably high.

Excellent arrangements for dealing with accidents and injuries occurring in the enormous crowds of spectators along the routes of the coronation processions, have been made under the auspices of the ambulance department of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem. This society has placed 2,000 trained members of the London ambulance corps at the disposal of the police, besides a large number of units from the provinces and the colonies, who came to London especially to assist.

In the event of an urgent call, the society has no fewer than 20,000 members within quick telegraphic communication, all of whom are trained ambulance men or nursing sisters.

Special arrangements for the expedition of press dispatches from the tribunal of Westminster Abbey during the progress of the coronation ceremony, have been made by the postmaster general. Pneumatic tubes are erected from the gallery to a temporary telegraph office outside, where the messages are to be taken to the telegraph rooms of the house of commons opposite, at that point a large staff of skilled telegraph operators, capable of dealing with dispatches in various languages, is to be stationed, ready to forward the telegrams to all parts of the world.

ANARCHISTS HAUNT JURYMAN TO DEATH

Frank Stewart Osborne Was in Daily Fear of Assassination Because He Helped Convict Members.

(By Evening Herald A. P. Leased Wire)

Chicago, Ill., June 20.—With the death at Arverne, N. Y., recently of Frank Stewart Osborne, foreman of the jury that convicted eight anarchists of murder after the Haymarket riot here in 1886, a story of his persecution by friends of the anarchists, from that time until his death, has been revealed by his widow.

Several attempts to assassinate him and innumerable letters containing threats against his life have, according to the widow, made up the persecution which started within a few hours after he had read the verdict.

That this persecution caused the illness which resulted in his death was the declaration of Mrs. Osborne.

LUNG EXPERTS MEET IN CONVENTION

Authorities on Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis Gather in Denver to Discuss Great Plague.

(By Evening Herald A. P. Leased Wire)

Denver, Colo., June 20.—With delegates present from every section of the country, including the greatest authorities on the great white plague, the seventh annual meeting of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis met here today for a two days' session.

The child and the school were discussed at the meeting of the sociological section. More systematic medical supervision was urged by Mrs. Helen R. Wixson, state superintendent of education of Colorado, who attributed much school room dullness and minor ailments of children to lack of air and medical attendance.

In the clinical section Dr. A. M. Forster of Colorado Springs spoke on "The Present Attitude Toward Climate." Plenty of fresh air was the keynote, not altitude or climate, was his contention.

posed for Arizona. It is an established policy that the whole tendency or modifications in the established forms of republican government advocated as accomplishing a greater popular participation in the government, is to confer power on a small minority of the people to control not only the making of laws, but the constitution.

"Under a scheme of government such as proposed in the Arizona constitution, a small minority of the qualified electors organized to accomplish any particular purpose can mould the laws or even the constitution to accomplish their purpose before the great majority of the electors are aware of what is going on.

"The proposition submitted to the electors under the scheme of initiative and referendum are fixed and put before the voters without the advantage of the constitution, discussion and debate which has been, throughout the whole history of the English-speaking peoples, the crucible in which legislative projects have been tried out before enactment into law."

Accidents will happen, but the best-regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

FOURTH SURVEY IN NEW MEXICO IS ORDERED

Judge E. R. Wright Orders Hydrographic Report Made on Fresnal Stream in Otero County; Other Official News

Santa Fe, N. M., June 20.—The fourth hydrographic survey in the territory has been ordered by Judge E. R. Wright of the Fifth judicial district, directing the territorial engineer to make and furnish a hydrographic survey of the Fresnal or Leña stream system in Otero county. Territorial Engineer Charles D. Miller, in accordance with the above order, has today started the survey. In the construction of weirs and establishment of gauging stations on the river and ditches, H. L. Cooper, hydrographer in the department of the territorial engineer, has been detailed for the hydrographic part of the work. The plane table portion of the survey, which shows a complete and accurate survey of the irrigated lands, ditches, etc., will be done by George M. Neal of the city. The territorial engineer intends to make this survey one of the finest ever conducted in his office. Several rain gauges will be placed throughout the drainage area, a new feature which has never been undertaken before in the previous surveys, the question of rainfall having a considerable bearing on the duty of water. Automatic gauges will also be a new feature, whereby the most accurate records of stream flow possible will be obtained. Automatic gauges will be shipped to Alamogordo within a few days.

The survey is the result of an injunction proceeding against various ditch owners in this section for increasing the acreage of land under their ditches, and by so doing it is claimed have diminished the supply available for subsequent appropriators under the 1907 law. The court issued an injunction and in order to adjudicate finally the respective rights to this stream system, the court ordered the hydrographic survey which is now in progress. The questions involved in this survey are extremely interesting from an engineering standpoint and the results of the survey when completed will have a great deal of valuable data as to irrigation conditions in the territory. The points to be determined by the engineer's office are as follows:

1. A comprehensive plan with all necessary maps and estimates of cost for the development of all permanent waters which are not now used.

2. Any and all changes in the points of appropriation or diversion of all waters now being used or ditches or stream beds carrying the same by which the service of the water supply of the Fresnal stream system can be increased.

3. The best and most feasible system for conserving and distributing to all parties now using the same the waters of such stream system and of increasing for the territory of New Mexico the amount of unappropriated waters, if any thereon.

4. The amount of water necessary for the cultivation of all lands upon which such water is now used in accordance with the climatic and all other conditions affecting the same.

5. The amount of water which under any system recommended by said territorial engineer which, after the necessities of defendants using the same above are supplied, would be available for use at the mouth of said Fresnal canyon.

Governor Mills has appointed Ramon Octavio Archuleta of Albuquerque, Bernalillo county, a notary public.

For the Treasury.

Territorial Treasurer W. A. Otero has received the following sums for the treasury: Oscar Lohman, treasurer of Doña Ana county $9,565.34; Solomon Luna, treasurer of Valencia county $4,719.41, and Traveling Auditor C. V. Safford, bank examination fees, $50.

Mounted Police Notes.

Captain Fred Fornoff of the New Mexico mounted police, will probably remain another week or ten days at Tierra Amarilla attending court.

Mounted Policeman Rafael Gomez has been called to Chamita to look into a horse deal which has caused some trouble there.

Santa Fe-Trinidad Road.

The territorial engineer will make a inspection of the Santa Fe-Trinidad road upon which considerable repair work will be done in Sandoval county, for the convenience of tourists, natural citizens of Santa Fe have contributed money for the purpose, and the road commission will assist slightly in the work.

Protest Against Pajarita Project.

Governor Kohn, of Mentoya, Quay county, has filed a protest against the location of a reservoir site on the Pajarita irrigation company, which is composed of Tucumcari men. Mr. Kohn claims prior right to the site as the first promoter of the project, which he intended going to irrigate considerable tracts of land near Mentoya.

New Company Formed.

Articles of incorporation were filed in the territorial secretary's office by the Canadian Valley Ditch and Land company which has its main place of business at Logan, Quay county, and names E. L. Merritt as its agent. The company is incorporated at $300,000.

The territorial engineer has made a personal examination of the conditions of the La Pajarita project and reported the necessary results to Chairman I. Sparks of the county commissioners, and Mr. Alcorn, road supervisor, has received directions from the engineer's office as to the method of repair and improvements and has gone to La Bajada hill to make the necessary repairs. It will be remembered that La Bajada hill was constructed about a year and a half ago, since which time there has not been one dollar spent in the way of repair. The road when visited by Mr. Miller was in good shape, very little repair needed, but such repairs are quite essential to prevent future accidents to the road."

Insurance Matters.

The Colorado National Life Assurance company of Denver, Colorado, has been amalgamated with the Columbian National Life Insurance company of Boston, Mass., which was recently admitted to transact business in New Mexico.

The president of the Colorado National Life in a letter to the policy holders of the company states that the directors of the company have acted for what is undoubtedly for their best interests and therefore in place of having merely the guarantee of the "Colorado" with its capital of $100,000 their policies are now protected by the guarantee of the "Columbian" with its capital of $1,000,000 and surplus of almost half as much. The Colorado National Life Assurance company was organized in 1907, and has almost $14,000,000 of business in force.

Appeals Mandamus Case.

The territory has appealed from the decision of Judge John R. McFie to the territorial supreme court in the case of the Children's Home society, incorporated, vs. W. G. Sargent, territorial auditor. Mr. Lukens, superintendent of the society, had asked for a writ of mandamus to compel the auditor of the territory to honor a requisition for $3,000, the sum appropriated by the last legislative assembly for the purposes of the home. The appropriation act reads as follows:

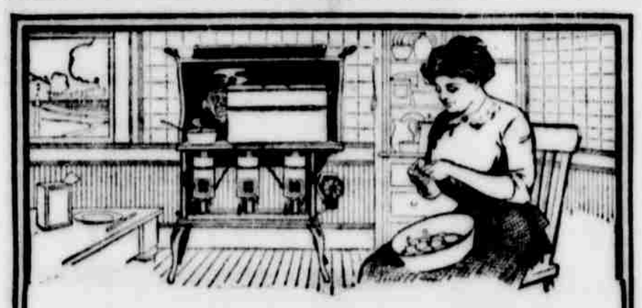
That it is hereby understood that the above appropriation made is for the purpose of providing a receiving home when shall be constructed, or obtained through the supervision of said society and shall not be considered an appropriation for maintenance. And it is hereby specially understood that the said society shall at no time in the future call upon the territory for any further appropriations of any kind or character."

Mr. Lukens maintains that the appropriation is a continuing one like other appropriations until the next legislature and was sustained in that contention by Judge McFie.

Internal Revenue Collector Henry P. Bardshar has been informed that the payment of all special taxes is due before July 1 as required by section 3232 of the revised statutes which reads as follows: "No person shall be engaged in or carrying on any trade or business hereinafter mentioned until he has paid a special tax therefor in the manner hereinafter provided. All special tax stamps expire June 30, and persons commencing or continuing in business on July 1 should procure a special tax stamp for the coming year before the expiration of the month of June in order that they may avoid violation of the provisions of section 3229 revised statutes which require that special tax stamps indicating the payment of said special tax shall be kept conspicuously in establishment or place of business. Any person who shall through neglect fail to so place and keep said stamp shall be liable to a penalty equal to the special tax for which his business renders him liable and the costs of the prosecution, but in no case shall the penalty be less than $10. And where the failure to comply with this provision of law shall be through willful neglect or refusal then the penalty shall be double the amount specified."

All corporation taxes must be paid by July 1, but Mr. Bardshar says the returns so far have been few. There are severe penalties in store for corporations who fail to make these returns within the prescribed date.

Mrs. Homer Collins and two children departed for California this morning. They went by the southern route and will visit at Tucson. Mrs. Collins, who is the niece of Mrs. R. W. D. Bryan, has been visiting at the Bryan residence the past week.



The Modern Wash-day
