

Saint Mary's Beacon.

LEONARDTOWN, MD.

THURSDAY Morning August 22.

Democratic Ticket.

For Governor of Maryland:
JOHN E. HURST,
of Baltimore City.

For Comptroller:
MARION DEK. SMITH,
of Kent county.

For Attorney General:
CHARLES C. CROTHERS,
of Cecil county.

To the Democratic Voters of St. Mary's County.

In pursuance of the plan of organization adopted by the Democratic County Convention, held on the 25th day of September, 1895, the Democratic voters of St. Mary's county are requested to meet at the usual places of voting in their several election districts on SATURDAY, the 7th day of September, 1896, and vote by ballot for such persons as they may desire to be candidates of the party at the ensuing election, for the following county ticket, composed of:

Two candidates for the House of Delegates:
One candidate for State's Attorney;
One candidate for Sheriff;

Three candidates for Judges of the Orphans' Court;

One candidate for County Commissioner, to be selected from the 15th, 16th and 17th wards of the city of Leonardtown, and one candidate for County Surveyor.

The voters of the several election districts at the opening of the polls will appoint three Judges and two Clerks to hold said election, and the Judges shall convene at the County Court House at Leonardtown, on the 7th day of September, 1896, at 10 o'clock, a. m., to receive the ballots and to count the same, and to certify the result of the election to the County Commissioners.

Persons desiring to be candidates at the primary election shall, in writing, notify the Central Committee at Leonardtown of such desire on or before the 31st day of August, 1896, and remit one dollar with such notice, to insure the printing of their names on the tickets to be voted at said Primary Election.

In case the parties desiring to be candidates as aforesaid, do not comply with the foregoing provisions, their names will not be on said tickets. The polls will open at 9 o'clock, p. m., and close at 6 o'clock, p. m., on the 7th day of September, 1896.

J. THOMAS BROWN,
J. DOUGLAS CARPENTER,
H. HARRIS CAMALIER,
Central Committee for St. Mary's county.

We want every reader of the BEACON to carefully peruse Mr. Hurst's strong and manly letter of acceptance of the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Mr. Hurst is personally known to nearly every merchant and business man in our county. Do not to any of them and ask if the nominee is not a man who says what he means and means what he says? Also, read what Col. J. Marshall Dent says of him.

Tuesday's Pow-Wow.

Democrats from nearly every hundred of the county were in Leonardtown Tuesday last and there was a general interchange of views. The immediate cause of the gathering was to advise with the Central Committee as to the most opportune time for holding the primary for nominating a county ticket. The Central Committee of opinion favored an early call, and the 7th of September next was the day fixed upon. The call appeared in to-day's BEACON.

Of course, on such an occasion general politics was discussed, and many times the question was asked how about the State Ticket? No man of Democratic affiliations, who we heard speak or heard speaking, but professed his intention of voting for Hurst and the ticket. Many thought the position of the Baltimore Sun would weaken Mr. Hurst, but when asked if they knew or had heard of a single Democrat who, because of the Sun's course would refuse to support Hurst or the ticket, invariably answered that they "neither knew nor heard of one."

The county ticket was talked of, and the necessity was urged of mutual concessions for the sake of harmony and party success. It was concluded that a ticket representative of the opposing factions of the party should be named and all should join together and elect it. The proposed basis of agreement was a division of the ticket between the heretofore contending elements. There was little said and nothing urged by anyone against the nomination of the present incumbents on the Orphans' Court bench and for the State's Attorneyship—those positions apparently not entering into the calculations. Indeed, there was no attempt made to name a ticket, that duty being left where it properly belongs—with the people. It was simply agreed that the losing side in recent primaries be urged to centre upon a strong, able man as candidate for the House of Delegates and to name a good and popular nominee for County Commissioner. Nothing was said about the Sheriffship—appointments being already in the field for that nomination.

Lowndes Their Leader.

The Republican State Convention met at Cambridge last Thursday and nominated the following ticket: Governor—Lloyd Lowndes, of Allegany county.

Attorney-General—Harry M. Clabaugh, of Carroll county and Baltimore city.

Comptroller—Robert P. Graham, of Wicomico county.

Mr. Lowndes, the candidate for Governor, was nominated by acclamation. Mr. Wm. T. Malster, his only formidable opponent withdrawing in his favor. The convention went wild with enthusiasm and much excitement prevailed.

The platform adopted speaks in favor of reassessment and urges the speedy adoption of an amendment to the State constitution which shall be an effectual limitation upon the debt-incurring capacity of the cities and counties of Maryland. It demands purer elections and declares for annual registration in Baltimore city and quadrennial, with annual revision, in the counties. It pledges the party to free school books and to the enactment of such legislation as shall permit the people of the several counties and municipalities of this State to decide for themselves by popular vote, whether appointments to the police, fire and all other departments of public services shall be in accordance with the principles of the merit system.

It closes by condemning the partisan management of the oyster police force and opposing the selling or leasing of the oyster beds.

St. Mary's accredited six representatives to the Convention and but two are mentioned in the Sun's report of the Committee. E. B. Abell, Esqr., was on the Committee on Resolutions; on Credentials, Washington Wilkinson represented the county; as Vice-president, Washington Wilkinson was the St. Mary's representative, on the committee to notify candidates was Washington Wilkinson.

HURST'S LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE.

"I have received your letter of the 8th inst., formally notifying me of your nomination for Governor of the State by the recent democratic convention, and transmitting to me a copy of the platform which it adopted.

"I thank you very sincerely for the terms of kindly compliment in which you are so good as to make known to me the action of the convention, but you do me no more than justice when you say that the nomination has come to me 'without solicitation or effort on my part to secure it.'

"Indeed, for many and cogent reasons I should prefer to continue to labor as a private citizen for the success of the party, as I have steadily done in the past, but having been selected without agency of mine as its candidate for the highest office in the gift of the people of my native State, I feel that I should not now be entirely controlled by my personal convenience and inclinations, and, therefore, I accept with grateful sensibility the gratifying distinction with which the convention has seen fit to honor me.

I realize that the acceptance of this nomination carries with it a large measure of responsibility, but my knowledge of the people of Maryland teaches me that they are always just and tolerant in their judgment of the conduct of men in public station when that conduct is regulated by candor, independence and an earnest and conscientious sense of duty, and I shall endeavor so to meet that responsibility and so to act during the coming campaign and in the office of Governor should I be elected, as to give me a just claim to their confidences, respect and approval.

"In coming before them for their votes they are entitled to have a definite and explicit expression from me of my views and purposes in relation to the issues involved in the canvass, and accordingly avail myself of the opportunity which this letter affords to make known clearly and without reserve my sentiments upon these issues, and, what may be expected of me in the event of my election.

"I have carefully read the platform adopted by the convention and unhesitatingly approve it, and in expressing this approval it is proper to add that I am not one of those who look upon party platforms as mere devices to catch votes and after the election to be disregarded and ignored, but I consider them as declarations of principle to be adhered to and carried into effect, and, if I may be pardoned for the comparison, to be treated as a bill of exchange when once accepted—to be faithfully honored.

"The platform speaks my sentiments upon the national questions of the tariff and the currency. As to the tariff law now in force, I am free to express my regret that it does not go as far in the direction of free raw materials as the people hoped for and expected—but I am not unmindful of the great difficulties that stood in the way of the enactment of any law whatever upon the subject.

"Certainly, the law is a great relief from the burdens and injustice of the McKinley act, and in view of the universal revival of activity and prosperity in every department of business to which it has so largely contributed, we may well congratulate ourselves upon this important achievement of our party.

"We have reason to be proud of the bold and wise stand taken by President Cleveland and his administration upon the silver question, and I subscribe very cordially to what our State platform declares upon this subject.

"The question, however, which in this State canvass comes more closely home to our people and which engages their attention more than any other is that of reassessment.

"Upon this subject I am heartily in favor of the declaration of the platform and the reproduction of that declaration in your letter.

"A complete and thorough reassessment is now imperatively demanded, and should be provided for, without fail, by our next Legislature.

"The history of our State legislation shows that a longer interval has elapsed since our last general assessment, under the act of 1876, than has been allowed to pass for more than half a century.

"We had a general assessment in 1841, again in 1852, again in 1860 and again in 1876.

"During the nineteen years since this last assessment such great changes in the condition and valuation of property, real and personal, have taken place that justice to the people, to the State, to the city of Baltimore and to the counties absolutely requires a full revaluation of all the property of all our people, carefully provided for, as a business, not as a political measure.

"In the disturbed and depressed condition of business and property for the last two or three years a reassessment was not judicious, for its results, so far from remedying the evils complained of would have led to fresh mischiefs, more even than those that confessedly existed.

"For this reason I not only did not favor but actively opposed the passage of a reassessment bill at the session of 1894, and interested myself with many of my fellow-citizens of both political parties to induce Governor Brown to withhold his signature from the bill passed by the Senate and House of Delegates at the session of 1892.

"The controlling reasons that then existed for a postponement of such legislation have largely, if not entirely, passed away, and there is no longer any good for denying to the people this necessary measure of relief.

"The primary responsibility for such an act rests upon the Legislature and the intervention of the Governor cannot properly go further, in the first instance, than consultation and recommendation and the public expression of his opinion. Indeed, he should be careful, in the due exercise of the functions of the Executive, to avoid everything like interference with the independent action of the legislative department of the government, but publicly declaring now my deliberate belief that the passage of a law for a general and thorough assessment of the entire taxable property of all the people of the State should not any longer be postponed, I wish to be understood as distinctly announcing that, should I be elected Governor, I shall promptly sign such a bill and actively interest myself as far as may be proper in securing its passage by the Legislature.

"In order that the party pledges upon this important matter may be fully kept, it is most desirable that great care shall be exercised in selecting capable and efficient members of the Legislature—gentlemen who will not only consider themselves bound by the platform, but thoroughly competent to deal with a subject so vital to the people.

"The agricultural interests of the State appear to me to be especially worthy of attention and encouragement, and I shall feel it to be both a privilege and a duty to aid in all proper ways to attract within our borders thrifty and intelligent immigrants.

There is one topic to which I wish to refer, and here also, in view of certain comments that have appeared in the press since my nomination, I desire to speak with a distinctness and emphasis that cannot be misunderstood.

"I consented reluctantly that my name should be used for the nomination for Governor, upon the assurance from a number of independent and most respectable sources, including many of my closest commercial friends, that my selection would tend to restore a much desired harmony in the ranks of the democratic party.

"Beyond giving this consent I did not go one step, and when the nomination was made it came as absolutely free from any pledge, promise or understanding, express or implied, on my part as ever nomination came to any man.

"I did not seek it in any manner whatsoever, nor can I consent to have myself spoken of or considered as the candidate of any man or set of men, or as the representative of any clique, wing, faction or division of the party.

"Those who know me need no assurance that nothing on earth could induce me to barter away, surrender or abridge to any extent whatsoever my absolute independence, and I trust that the character which I enjoy in this community will be sufficient to satisfy those who do not know me that should the nomination of my party be ratified at the polls in November, I shall enter upon the discharge of the duties of Governor under no commitments or obligations to any individuals whatever and wholly free to do what my conscience and my judgment shall dictate as best for the public interest.

"If I had imagined that any of the gentlemen who urged me to allow my name to be presented as a candidate, or any of the friends who actively interested themselves to bring about my nomination, supposed that I thereby laying myself under political obligations by the exercise of my independent judgment, in the event of my election, would, in the slightest degree, be affected, or that I was thereby subjecting myself to unworthy dictation, I should have unhesitatingly have declined the use of my name and rejected the proposal as both disparaging and offensive.

"With this unreserved statement of my position, I submit with cheerful confidence my case and that of the party whose representatives have chosen me as its candidate for Governor to the just and intelligent decision of the people, respectfully claiming the full and cordial support of the party and faithfully pledging to my fellow-citizens, in the event of my election, the constant exercise of my best energies and abilities to a vigilant, laborious, independent and upright discharge of every public duty.

One night when Mr. Isaac Reese was stopping with me, says M. F. Hatch, a prominent merchant of Quartertown, Washington, I heard him groaning. On going to his room I found him suffering from cramp colic. He was in such agony I feared he would die. I hastily gave him a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He was soon relieved, and the first words he uttered were, "what was that stuff you gave me?" I informed him. A few days ago we were talking about his attack and he said he was never without that remedy now. I have used it in my family for several years. I know its worth and do not hesitate to recommend it to my friends and customers. For sale by Wm. F. Greenwell & Son, Leonardtown; Jos. S. Matthews, Valley Lee, and all country stores.

In Memoriam of Mrs. Tippett.

The subject of this tribute was born of James and Susan Bean September 23, 1837, at York, Pa. She died February 24, 1895, at Leonardtown, Md. The life of this estimable lady has been a beautiful one—happy the one who takes it for an example to follow. Earnestness and reality were some of her characteristics. She always regarded life as having in it a real purpose. Therefore, all along its pathway, she has sought out where she might do good and comfort as well as bless those about her.

Her parents were conscientious members of the Catholic Church, with which church she early in life associated herself. She received her baptism at St. Ignace's, May 31, 1852, by Rev. Thomas Lilly, and lived a life thoroughly in accord with the teachings of said church. After her marriage to Mr. Tippett, who was an Episcopalian, she associated herself with his church and worshipped at All Faith Church, E. church for more than a quarter of a century as one of its most devoted and highly esteemed members. She had five children, three of whom are now living. Her eldest daughter, Mrs. J. W. Latham, whose life was a beautiful one, died some four years ago at the early age of 32, the first death in this happy family, and their grief was great.

Her grandchildren have been a burden of love with her. Oh, how anxious she was about their welfare, how careful she watched over them, how earnestly she desired to see them grow up to be useful men and women, how she sought their comfort, their pleasure and happiness, and with what eagerness she pointed out to them the pathway of a pure, happy and Christian life. How gladly would she have lingered with them, until their early lives had been guided past the dangers of childhood and youth and brought safely into the sphere of honored usefulness and womanhood. But she was needed in heaven, and the voice of Him who spoke a world from nought whispered it is enough, come higher.

On January 19th last her son, Mr. John W. Tippett, was run over by a train and killed at York Haven, Pa. The shock to her nervous system was too great, and although she was a woman of very strong mental as well as nerve power, she never fully recovered from the blow. The burden of grief was too heavy. She sought in vain to throw it off, but could not. It pierced and stung her until it brought on a complication of diseases, when the fell destroyer death claimed her as his own, on Wednesday, August 14th, she was laid by her grief-stricken husband in the arms of her son, with imposing ceremonies in the cemetery at All Faith Church. Her pall-bearers were her sons, Dr. Louis M. Tippett and J. Bean Tippett; sons-in-law Woodley Latham and Joseph A. Smoot, with Joseph H. Jones and Henry C. Adams. Oh, how it pains our hearts to turn from this spot and leave her there! How will her place on earth be filled? Who will her children confide in when they need a mother's love. How sadly she will be missed as a companion for him who has known so perfectly the blessedness of a happy home. It was her great pleasure to make that home happy. She had so many kind words if there was sorrow, so many consoling thoughts if there was sadness. Grief was greatly intensified by the kind greeting and happy smiles, business was promoted by her good judgment and wise counsel. 'Tis hard to give her up, but this we know, that He who called her our friend, and He is too wise to err and too good to forsake, will send her angels before she ceases to breathe she assured those about her bedside she was well. The blood had cleansed her. Then to him who was her loving companion let me say, take courage, be faithful. The separation will not be long. While there is a sad vacancy at home another link has been added to the chain which binds to heaven. To her children, follow her example, remember her lessons. To her grandchildren, don't forget her and her desires for your good. And to a sorrowing community I would say, follow her as she followed God, and we in a little while with her will wear a crown of everlasting rejoicing at G-d's right hand.
