MRS. WILSON'S FUNERAL TO BE HELD ON MONDAY

Simple Service in White House in Afternoon Which will be Strictly Private; Meeting President's Wish.

BURIAL AT MYRTLE HILL CEMETERY IN ROME, GA.

Necessary Official Duties Whole Country Joins in Sympathy.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Tentative plans for Mrs. Wilson's funeral provide for private services at the White House Monday afternoon, with burial Tuesday in Myrtle Hill cemetery, Rome, Ga., the burial place of her parents. These plans were made late today but are subsequent to change following the arrival of Professor Stockton Axson, Mrs. Wilson's brother, who is due here Sunday night or Monday morning.

Mrs. Wilson's body was kept today in the room where she died, in the southwestern corner of the White House, on the second floor. The president went into the room at midnight last night and again several times today and sat alone. He was left undisturbed. Every effort was made by his friends to divert the president's mind from his grief.

The scene at the deathbed was recalled today by one of those present. As the last hour drew near the president sat on the bedside clasping Mrs. Wilson's hand, while Mrs. McAdoo, Mrs. Sayre and Miss Wilson knelt on the floor, their eyes on their mother's face. Dr. Grayson and a nurse came and went silently and the president looked beseechingly to the doctor for a sign of encouragement. No words were spoken. Mrs. Wilson's breathing grew fainter and fainter and Dr. Grayson realized that the end was only a matter of minutes. His thoughts seemed to be communicated to the family and they moved nearer.

At 5 o'clock exactly the soft chimes of a clock could be heard from the executive offices. As Dr. Grayson leaned over his patient he realized that the end had come and he murmured a word to the president. Mr. Wilson's head fell forward in silent grief, while the daughters sobbed.

The Rev. Sylvester Beach of Princeton, N. J., an old friend of the Wilson family, who performed the marriages of Mrs. McAdoo and Mrs. Sayre, probably will officiate at the funeral.

WHOLE NATION SHARES IN THE PRESIDENT'S SORROW

Washington, Aug. 7.—Messages from every part of the United States and from abroad poured into the White House today bearing the sympathetic expressions of thousands for President Wilson and his daughters on the death of Mrs. Wilson.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed early today, but it was certain that the burial would be either at Rome, Ga., the girlhood home of the president's wife or at Princeton, N. J. It was regarded as probable that the funeral services would be private and that only the family and close friends and relatives would be invited.

Bearing up well under the grief, the president went to his desk to sign a few important papers, but returned immediately to the White House where the flag fluttered at half mast and the shades at the windows were drawn. Gates to the grounds were closed, only the most pressing business was transacted at the executive offices, and attaches and servants, all of whom Mrs. Wilson knew personally, showed their deep grief.

A procession of carriages bringing cards and callers from official and diplomatic circles, circled around the White House offices.

On every hand throughout the capital, expressions of tenderest sympathy for the president were heard. Under the heavy strain of domestic legislation, the situation at home resulting from the European crisis, the long hard vigil through the Mexican crisis he worked unceasingly. His knowledge for the last three weeks that his wife was ill to death had added immeasurably to that burden and yesterday evening at 5 o'clock when the last faint flicker of life was extinguished those who knelt at the bedside saw him give way to his grief, probably for the first time.

Cabinet Meeting Cancelled.

Informal cabinet meeting was cancelled today. Definite arrangements for the funeral for Mrs. Wilson, the exact date of which will not be until after the arrival of Prof. Stockton Axson, Mrs. Wilson's brother, who now is on his way to Washington from Oregon.

Special telegraph operators were brought to the White House to receive the flood of messages which came from persons in every walk of life in every state. According to present arrangements, the regular business of the government departments will not be interrupted except at the time of the funeral.

The president sent direct word to the leaders of the senate and the house and the heads of government departments that it was his wish that the regular business continue and that the lowering of the flags to half mast must be the only public recognition of Mrs. Wilson's death. He was desirous that congress continue in session without interruption.

The president had also expressed the direct desire that the funeral services be as simple as possible.

Formal announcement was made at the White House that the funeral service in the White House would be strictly private. It was also announced that the time and place of the burial had not been decidede.

UPWARD TURN IN TRADE TODAY

New York Faces Practically Normal Conditions for First Time Since War Broke Out. London Finances Grow Steady.

New York, Aug. 7.—Timely measures taken since the closing of the stock exchange a week ago today have to some extent cleared the financial atmosphere.

The export situation was relieved today by the arrangements made for the purchases of documentary bills on London covering shipment of grain, thus renewing trade. There also have been established by J. P. Morgan and Company cable transfer relations to facilitate money transactions, not only for tourists but for the resumption of commercial intercourse between this country and France.

Exporters were relieved by Great Britain's announcement that foodstuff, forage and grain, and eleven other classes of articles will not be considered contraband except when intended for the use of a power with which England is at war. There has been a betterment reported, too, in the financial situation in Paris and London, which must find its reflection here.

More gold today was transferred to Canada and banks of the dominion continued to draw on their reserve. It is this fact more than anything else which has caused a maintenance of the 8 per cent call money rate.

The sugar market has become active and strong because the wars in Europe threaten to demolish the sugar beet industry in France, Germany, Austria and Russia in the American market.

During the last day or two large sales of granulated have been made to the United Kingdom. Prices for raw sugar had today advanced to 4.26 basis. Centrifugal and fine granulated is practically on a 5-cent basis.

FINANCE IN LONDON AGAIN ALMOST NORMAL

London, Aug. 7, 12:30 p. m.—The financial district of London resumed almost its normal aspect today with the reopening of the banks. Interest centered around the Bank of England, where a gradually extending line of people gathered, anxious to exchange paper money for gold. There was no great rush till noon.

In strong contrast with the customary activity and bustle in the bullion department of the Bank of England, where a large staff is usually employed weighing bullion the whole day, not a person was to be seen there today.

At the other banks business was quite moderate. Checks in most cases were paid in notes.

Reports from the provinces indicate that the British public is not losing its head, as withdrawals have been small.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the American secretary of state and wife of Captain Reginald A. Owen of the Royal Engineers, today issued an appeal for the assistance of the American press in collecting contributions in aid of British subjects suffering privations through the war. Subscriptions, she says, will be applied without delay to organized relief.

New York, Aug. 7.—Marine insurance underwriters reported today that the European demand for American manufactured goods had already started, weeks ahead of the earliest moment expected by the various lines of export trade. SALARY LIMIT OF $2,500 SEEMS TO BE FAVORED Hearings Also Bring Out Suggestion that Campaign Contributions be Limited by Law. Conference with Governor.

Another hearing on the salary and taxation questions was held last night by the subcommittee of the Democratic county committee charged with learning what the views of the people are on the subjects. The meeting was held in A. Fleischer's office, and, like the first one, was informal in character. All the members of the subcommittee, Henry Lockhart, Mr. Fleischer and George C. Scheer, were present.

Taxpayers dropped in singly and in groups during the evening, and gave their views to the committee and discussed them with committeemen and among themselves.

As a result of the hearings several suggestions are said to be taking shape for incorporation in the party platform. It is probable, for one thing, that $2,500 a year will be favored as the salary limit for any county office.

It has been suggested that the appointment of an adequate number of deputies be favored. Also that a regulation be established forbidding officials to give directly or indirectly more than a certain per cent of their salaries to campaign funds.

It was announced today that the subcommittee will confer with Governor McDonald before formulating any conclusions for recommendation to the central body.

RIFLE FIRE DRIVES CATTLE THIEVES INTO FLIGHT

Gutierrez Saves Three Cows by Brisk Marksmanship Near Ranchos de Albuquerque Two Warrants Sworn Out.

Rifle shots drove two cattle thieves into flight just as they were about to make away with three cows belonging to Ofinaiano Gutierres, of Ranchos de Albuquerque Wednesday night. As a result of his encounter with the thieves, Gutierres yesterday swore out warrants against two suspects, Fidel Romero and a man named Armijo, both of whom live in Ranchos de Albuquerque. He says they are the pair who tried to run his cattle off.

Gutierres, with his son, drove out Wednesday night to look over his herd. They came upon two men, mounted on horses, in the act of driving off three of the Gutierres cows. Gutierres threw down on the pair at once and opened fire.

The pair abandoned the cows and galloped away at full speed. It was out of the question for Gutierres to pursue in a wagon, so he let them go. He confidently shot to speed them, whether he hit them in the dim light or not.

He reported the case to the county authorities, and said that he recognized the two rustlers as Romero and Armijo. Warrants were accordingly issued.

MONTANA GOVERNOR SAYS STATE TROUBLES CAUSED FROM OUTSIDE

Butte, Mont., Aug. 7.—Local labor disturbances cannot be taken as an indication that there is general dissatisfaction among organized workingmen of the state, according to the testimony of Governor Stewart before the federal industrial relations commission today.

"Disturbances here were caused solely by outside influences," he declared. "There is no state in the Union where organized labor is as well satisfied as in Montana."

The attitude of employers toward employes he described as very friendly and also declared that the rapidly growing agricultural interests were on the best of terms with union labor.

Discussing the state militia the governor said in case of labor troubles he would call out troops only as a last resort, and then only to protect life and property. He added that he thought federal troops, if called, would quell rioters quicker than local troops because of the natural desire of men to combat a state militia.

A national board of arbitration with power to settle differences between capital and labor would be a good thing, the executive declared.

SANTIAGO SCORES A VICTORY; PAID FOR HIS BURRO

Santiago Garcia, whose burro was killed on the railroad crossing near Alameda, is to recover, after all. It will be remembered that when Santiago, through his attorney, Claude Hutto, applied for recompense to the railroad the claim agent said the law allowed the Santa Fe to kill burros on its public crossings.

Santiago didn't believe there was any such law, and Mr. Hutto, who is chief clerk of the law firm of Vigil & Jamison, agreed with him, and they prepared to press action. Then came a decision of the supreme court on a cow that was killed on a crossing, in which case the Santa Fe also blandly informed the owner that the road could kill stock on a public crossing without any sort of liability. That decision looked a hole in the Santa Fe's notion big enough to drive a whole herd of sheep through. And yesterday the claim agent settled with Santiago Garcia.

Which proves what Santiago has claimed all along: It was a mighty valuable burro.
