WILEY GONE AFTER BEST CARNIVAL ON EARTH

Fair Secretary Steals Away to Chicago on Business With Big Guns of the Amusement Game.

R. W. Wiley, secretary of the state fair commission, has gone to Chicago on a stiff hunt for the biggest carnival company on earth. Unless he lands the biggest he will turn down all other applications. That was the general tenor of the instructions the fair secretary carried away with him and he will see the biggest men in the national amusement game in his pursuit of the best there is for the next New Mexico state fair. Mr. Wiley left Albuquerque very quietly Saturday night and his departure did not become known until visitors at the fair office this morning found President R. E. Putney buried deep in a mass of the secretary's enormous correspondence.

The fair commission has given careful thought to the carnival company question, and has determined that a carnival is wanted if one sufficiently high in class can be secured. Nothing second grade will be considered and nothing that carries about it a taint of suggestiveness or the faintest odor of hamburger. Mr. Wiley will see the very foremost men in the open air amusement game and when he returns it is probable that he will have some surprising and gratifying news to give out. It became known today that the fair commission has secured an option on the famous Kilties band of Toronto, Canada, probably the best known concert and marching band in the western hemisphere.

Mr. Wiley will return to New Mexico the latter part of this week, stopping at Las Vegas, where he will join the Albuquerque contingent at the cowboys' reunion.

PUTNEY WILL HEAD DELEGATION TO LAS VEGAS

Fair President to Put in Three Days at Cowboy Reunion; Bunch of Boosters Will Accompany.

Mayor Bostwright this afternoon assured President R. E. Putney of the state fair commission, that he would head the Albuquerque delegation which will go to Las Vegas to attend the cowboys' reunion July 1, 2 and 3. Several other recruits were added to the party this afternoon.

The party leaves Albuquerque Wednesday, June 30, at 2:40 in the afternoon, so as to be there on time.

President R. E. Putney of the state fair commission and a party of a dozen prominent Albuquerque men, will leave Albuquerque Thursday night for Las Vegas, where they will spend the last three days of the week attending the cowboys' reunion. The Las Vegas event has loomed up as one of the big amusement and get-together gatherings of the year in New Mexico and it is considered important that Albuquerque have adequate representation there. A first-class amusement program has been arranged and the one and one-third round trip railroad fare will prove an inducement to many to spend three days in the delightful Las Vegas climate, even aside from the amusements offered.

F. C. McGuire, who has been advertising the Las Vegas show here for several days, will leave for home tonight. He will take with him half a hundred individual assurances from Albuquerque people who are going to visit the Meadow City. The delegation which accompanies Mr. Putney will go especially as representatives of the state fair.

BREWERY RECOVERS 25 BOTTLES OF ITS BEER

Higinio Sena, Suspected of Having Had Them, Pays $20 Because Alibi Doesn't Work; Fooled Cop.

Higino Sena, suspected of having in his possession 25 bottles of beer stolen from the brewery, where he is employed, was fined $20 by Judge Craig in the city court this morning. He was fined as a vagrant.

Policeman Martin Byrnes met a man whom he recognized as a brewery employe at Fifth street and Tijeras avenue early yesterday morning with a sack containing 25 bottles of beer. The man acted suspiciously and Byrnes placed him under arrest. The prisoner lay down on the sidewalk, and Byrnes found himself helpless. He finally agreed to let the prisoner go if he would promise to appear in court this morning. The prisoner said he would. He told the confiding Byrnes that he was Jose Vigil.

Vigil works at the brewery. He was much astonished when he learned that he was expected to appear in court and explain where he got 25 bottles of beer.

Byrnes was sure that he had bitted the right man, but when he finally became convinced that Vigil couldn't have been in the case he identified Sena as the man with the sack. Sena tried to establish an alibi, but what might have served him in a larceny case didn't go in a matter of vagrancy.

The beer went back to the brewery. Byrnes held on to the 25 bottles when he let the fake Vigil go.

MRS. GRUNSFIELD SUES DIVORCED HUSBAND IN BEHALF OF HER SON

Mrs. Carrie Grunsfeld has entered suits in the district court against her divorced husband James Grunsfeld, to recover something over $4,000. About $3,00 of the sum is claimed as reimbursement due for monies alleged to have been expended in behalf of the defendant. In a separate suit Mrs. Grunsfeld asks judgment for $1,000 and 5% interest by her minor son, the claim being based on allegations that in 1905 Mr. Grunsfeld had in his possession $1,000 belonging to his son, which he applied to his own debts.

Mrs. Grunsfeld seeks a writ of garnishee against the executors of the estate of the late Albert and Hildegarde Grunsfeld and Grunsfeld Bros., from all of whom James Grunsfeld is said to have money coming.

Alex Schey, manager of the shoe department of Rosenwald Bros., is at his post again after having been called to Los Angeles several weeks ago by the serious illness of his mother, Mrs. Flora Schey. Mr. Schey was called to Los Angeles last January when his mother was ill. She recovered then, but the recent illness proved fatal. Her five children were at her beside when the end came. Interment was at Los Angeles.

BUSINESS MEN ARE BOOSTING FOR BLUEWATER

Return from Excursion Immensely Impressed With Valley's Possibilities and Hospitality; E. W. Fee Describes Trip.

Impressed with the prospects of the territory, the richness of the soil and the energy, pluck and hospitality of the valley residents, the business men who made the trade trip to Bluewater valley returned last night enthusiastic boosters for Bluewater and the dam project.

The score of prominent Albuquerqueans who made the trip were royally entertained by the valley folk and they saw things that made an ineffaceable impression.

E. W. Fee was one of those most keenly interested in what he saw and the vision of prosperity to come to the valley people. His impressions of the trip were expressed vividly to a Herald reporter today.

"We awakened Sunday morning in our sleeper at Toltec at the lower end of Bluewater valley," said Mr. Fee. "A beautiful sight. The magnificent level valley was covered with growing crops, surrounded by the San Mateo and Zuni mountains.

"We were invited to the farm of G. L. Kile for breakfast. It was the same kind of a breakfast they serve back east in Illinois, Indiana and Iowa—fresh eggs, fried chicken, milk, butter, coffee and good bread. Think of the best breakfast you ever had in your life and that will come somewhere near it.

"On the Kile place the house, barns, cattle sheds, feed lots, fences and everything are of the substantial kind, showing care, thought and hard work.

"Mr. Kile took us through the growing crops of alfalfa, wheat, oats, barley, corn and beans. A man never walked over a soil that could be better—a rich red loam with enough sand to work easy and break up fine to hold moisture. They had had no rain for over seven weeks but the corn was upright, dark green in color, not a yellowish blade on the whole field.

"After careful inspection of soil and crops, a long string of vehicles started with us for the dam site at the head of the valley. We were taken off the regular road through fields of growing crops, all showing the marvelous effect of the soil and climate, and careful farming.

"On the way up we passed through droves of cattle, horses and sheep. The foot hills surrounding the valley are covered with beautiful grazing.

"Nature made a good job of the site. On each side are limestone hills that all the water in the United States could not wash away, with a narrow canyon 184 feet wide at the base, 285 feet at the top and 92 feet high. Bed rock is at nine feet, leading into the Bluewater valley. The last dam was one of earth improperly put in. A substantial dam could be put in there that the crops grown in the valley below would pay for several times each year. A part of the old dam was built of stone and cement and is permanent.

"By the way, the fishing, big game and duck hunting around this lake which will be sure to be built will make a hunter's heart glad. The water backs up into the yellow pines of the Zuni mountain range within sight of the dam. It also backs up for fourteen miles.

"After going over the site and a long talk with men of the valley in regard to ways and means of the building of the dam, we were given a great dinner of all the good things that well stocked farms produce. Short speeches were made by G. L. Kile, T. J. McNeil, Clark M. Carr, John Lee Clarke, Mike Mandell.

"The farmers of this valley are of the substantial kind. They are doing big things now, but with the water they are to have they will do things to which present results will be no comparison.

"The Santa Fe Railroad company treated us royally and are showing an active interest in Bluewater development.

"The valley will yield in agricultural products alone over $1,110,000 annually. This does not include the horses, cattle, sheep and goats that are feeding in the foot hills—thousands of them.

"If you have an opportunity to go out and see this valley and its possibilities you will be a booster for that dam till it is built. It is sure to come.

"Mike Mandell had the thanks of everybody," said Mr. Fee in conclusion, "for his efforts in making the trip a perfect success."

Those who took the trip besides those named in the foregoing include A. Vohs, W. R. Walton A. Fleischer, George Neher, Jr., H. S. Pickard, F. S. Donnell, E. F. Landolfi, E. Woolf, Odie Dyer, F. J. Altmex, T. M. Cartwright, S. Kahn, J. B. Espinosa, Wallace M. Berry.

F. S. Donnell is chairman of a committee which will draft a report on the trip to be laid before the commercial club.

ARTHUR PRAEGER IS PROMOTED TO BIG LIGHT PLANT

Auditor of Federal Company's Local Company Transferred to Springfield, Mo., Advancement Noteworthy One

Arthur Praeger, auditor of the Albuquerque Gas, Electric Light and Power company, has been transferred by the Federal Light and Power company, the parent concern, to Springfield, Mo. The Springfield plant is the largest of those operated by the Federal company, and Mr. Praeger's transfer is a noteworthy promotion. It means, of course, an increased salary as well as increased responsibility and higher ranking.

A. F. Van Deinse, former manager of the light and power company here, was made manager of the Springfield plant several months ago, so that Mr. Praeger will work under his old chief at Springfield.

Mr. Praeger was notified of his promotion and transfer yesterday. He is expected to leave here for Springfield about July 15.

Mr. Praeger is one of the best known of the young business men of Albuquerque. He is popular with a wide circle of friends, active in civic affairs, and a leader of the younger society set, and, as in the case of Mr. Van Deinse, while many will be delighted to hear of his advancement, there will be general regret over his departure.
