MUSICAL IN MISS PERRY'S HONOR.

A very enjoyable affair was given Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. B. S. Rodey when Mrs. E. L. Bradford was a joint hostess with her in honor of Miss Perry, who leaves Sunday for the Girls' Collegiate. A musical program was given which was greatly appreciated and enjoyed by all present. The program was fittingly opened by Miss Naomi Leaden, followed by vocal selections by Miss Hortense Switzer, Miss Evangeline Perry, Miss Bessie Strong, Miss Hazel Kicke, Miss Evelyn Trotter, Miss Beatrice Selsor and Mrs. Ray Bailey.

On Wednesday afternoon the Misses Lotta and Annie Newhall entertained informally in honor of their cousin, Miss Belle Newhall of Monroe, Louisiana. Those present were: Miss Ruth Williams, Miss Jennie Bett, Miss Maybelle Williams, Miss Alice Boyd, Miss Irene Saint, Miss Hazel Maloy, Miss Margaret Jenks, Miss Ruby Rhea, Mrs. Hugo Meyers, Mrs. Ray D. Stromo, Mrs. Bert Skinner and Mrs. Geo. S. Vulliant.

METHODIST LADIES ENTERTAIN.

One Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. J. T. Rodgers made a most delightful hostess to the ladies of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, and their friends at her pretty home west of town, the occasion being the regular quarterly tea given by that society. A short business session was held, and three new names were added to the already large membership, after which a most enjoyable afternoon was spent in social conversation, and delicious refreshments were served by the hostess who was assisted by Mrs. Sullivan, Mrs. Neil Ferguson and Mrs. C. L. Herndston.

PRESBYTERIAN SOCIAL.

A delightful "home coming" party was given in the parlors of the Presbyterian church on Monday evening, having been postponed from the previous Friday on account of the rainstorm on that evening. The parlors were most artistically decorated with sunflowers and golden glow in great profusion. Miss Sophia Vaughn, who had charge of the program, deserved credit for the enjoyable evening and the "stunts" which were so well gotten up. "Birthday Charades" afforded a great deal of fun, the guests being grouped according to the months in which their birthdays fell. The charades were impromptu and very amusing, as were also the shadow pictures or pantomimes which portrayed different professions. Cake and ice cream was served at the close of the evening.

—o—

CHOIR PARTY.

At the hospitable home of Mrs. B. S. Rodey on last Saturday afternoon, the members of the Sunday school choir of St. John's church were entertained most delightfully with games and charades that children love. Mrs. Rodey, who is the Sunday school organist, was assisted by Mrs. E. L. Bradford, the choir directress. Mrs. Rodey is noted for her hospitality and her home is frequently the setting for a party for the youngsters. Ice cream and cake was served during the afternoon.

THE WOMAN'S CLUB.

Prof. D. A. Worcester of the University gave a very interesting and instructive lecture, illustrated by lantern slides, at the High School auditorium, Thursday evening, his subject being, "What the United States Has Done for the Filipino." This number was originally planned to be given at the Woman's Club, under the travel department, but owing to the educational feature they decided to make it open to the public, and invited the high school students to be present as the special guests of the club. The lecture was followed by a short address by Mr. R. E. Putney, especially to the women, in regard to what the women of the town can do to help make the state fair a success.

In the evening a meeting was held for the girls. Mrs. Bowie is returning from the city conference of the Y. W. C. A. at Estes Park, Colorado, and was brimful of suggestions and help for association workers, her talks at all three meetings were enthusiastic in behalf of the work done by the association and especially of her home city. The Albuquerque officers and members who heard Mrs. Bowie all feel the need of a bigger work here and hope to start in the winter with more help from members to accomplish this.

The opening meeting will be an open one and its chief feature will be the report of the club's delegates to the annual convention of the National Federation of Musical clubs, held early in the summer in Los Angeles. The report will be presented by Mrs. E. L. Bradford, who was elected auditor of the national federation at the Los Angeles meeting. Mrs. S. B. Miller, Mrs. George Wheeler and Mrs. R. R. From a modest beginning two years ago when it was organized through the efforts of Mrs. Mabel Stevens Himoe and a few others of the musical leaders of Albuquerque, the Fortnightly Music club has grown into one of the most important and influential of the cultural influences of this city. Its membership is large and growing, its organization permanent, effective and well officered, and its working program for the coming year, as shown by the 1915-1916 year book, just issued, calls for eighteen meetings, including a wide range of serious musical endeavor. The programs not only are admirably arranged for effective study, but indicate a constantly advancing grade of music and an expectation of educational development in the membership of the organization. The entire list of eighteen programs is complete. While a majority of the meetings will be held at the homes of the members, several of them will be open meetings and two will be held in the First Presbyterian church.

Last year the Fortnightly club made its first effort in public entertainment with a concert in the High School auditorium at which one of the best known singers in the country was featured. It is the purpose of the club to go further this year in presenting first class musical attractions to Albuquerque people, and its usefulness in this regard is likely to be one of the features of the year's activity.

The officers and committees for 1915-1916, as given by the year book, and the membership roll are as follows: President, Mrs. E. L. Bradford, 613 West Silver avenue; Vice president, Mrs. E. C. POLES LOSE NO TIME IN MAKING START ON NATIONAL UNIVERSITY

(Associated Press Correspondence.)

Warsaw, Poland, Aug. 28.—Less than a month after the occupation of Warsaw by the Germans, plans have been all but completed for the creation of a Polish university, designed to attract the young poles who heretofore have always sought foreign institutions of learning because they could not attend the old Russian university here.

The German authorities have readily agreed to the proposal of the citizens' committee which now is conducting the city's affairs, allowing the return to Warsaw of Poles, who now are in force in countries. This includes scholars of all ages. Meanwhile it is arranged for all educational institutions up to the university to open on schedule time.

Paris, Sept. 25.—With the recent death of Senator Rene Berenger there is now left only one life member of the senate.

When that body was created by the national assembly at the time of the adoption of the constitution of February 25, 1875, provision was made for 75 life senators and 225 to be elected. In the revision of 1884 the suppression of life senators by extinction, and the transformation of their seats into elective seats, was decided upon. The last survivor of the life senators is Monsieur Mascero, who was elected by the senate February 28, 1884, only a few months before the measure for suppression of life senators went into effect.

Russian Railway Built Along Route Traveled by Noah

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—In view of the unrest all along the Russo-Persian border, which, according to press dispatches, has grown more intense with each passing month of the war, a sketch of Russia's new route, a railway route, into Persia, takes on considerable timely interest. This new line, planned and constructed just previous to the war, when Russia's interest reached out beyond southern Transcaucasia into the northern parts of the weakening and wildly-governed territories of the Shah, is described in a bulletin just issued by the National Geographic society. As roads in Transcaucasia are built upon the Spanish principle of keeping people off of them, this line of track has a most important bearing upon the maintenance of order at the boundary. The bulletin reads:

"There are two routes from Europe to Teheran. One through Russia to Baku, the oil city on the Caspian, thence by steamer to Resht, and, finally, by road to the Persian capital, a road built and kept up by Russia. This route is the older route. The second way, made possible by railway construction through southern Transcaucasia, which, today, has considerable strategic value, is the product of recent Russian labors. The traveler by this route sets out from Tiflis, the capital of the Caucasus, takes a train south over Alexandropol and Erivan, thence to Nakhitchevan, the first city founded by Noah after abandoning the ark upon neighboring Ararat, and, passing down the valley of the Araxes, where the Armenians place Eden, he passes the international boundary at Djulfa. From here, the traveler goes by another Russian road to Tabriz.

"Conditions of travel upon the Nakhitchevan railway are very discouraging to people inexperienced in Russian branch lines. The trains seldom arrive or leave anywhere according to schedule, and their progress is deliberate in the extreme. The way lies through a country intensely hot during a great part of the year, and the care used on the line are constructed after the most advantageous manner for catching and retaining all possible heat. Moreover, the fares are cheap and the way is patronized heavily by swarms of Asiatics, malodorous and neighborly.

"The trains, in pre-war days, had a way of leaving important stations between three and six o'clock in the morning. The wayside stations were miserable shanties, where wildest confusion reigned. Buying tickets at the small hovels, which housed the ticket offices, meant the business of a free for all fight in the midst of a jostling crew of excited Orientals. Moreover, one must go with the crowd on this line to the Persian border, because no first-class carriages are operated thereon. Among other drawbacks, one soon has the knowledge forced upon him that his fellow-passengers are verminous.

"The cars are dirty. They are old, uncomfortable, and ill-ventilated. The seats are narrow and covered with white canvas, the covering usually turned brown and yellow with accumulations of evidence from the hands and clothing of the railway's patrons. The third-class cars resemble the American box car, only they are much smaller. Both the second and the third-class cars are generally packed as tightly as space will permit.

"Much of the scenery along the way is very beautiful. The way through the Araxes valley, wide at first and, farther on, narrowing between ridging mountains, lies, in the beginning, through an inviting country of vineyard and orchard. Farther toward the Persian border the country becomes desolate. Stations are few, and, for the most part, are mere wooden sheds or disused freight cars. Gaping Tartar and Persian throngs lounge before them to see the occasional trains pass. At all stations, one sees the frontier-guarding Cossacks and the blue-clothed Russian police. At each station, the train of peace-time, stopped, at least, a half an hour, and, often longer. From Ulukhanlu, the interior end of this last lap of the border railway, to Djulfa is a distance of about 145 miles. In case of difficulties in her districts along the Persian boundary, Russia could throw protecting forces into this region in short order over her recent railway."

THE ONLY OFFICIAL CIRCUS BUGLER IN WORLD IS MISS JACKSON

It took three years to do it—three years of the most gruelling, painstaking practice—three years to win an ambition—that of official bugler of a great circus.

The results were worth the effort, however, for to be the only woman official circus bugler in all the world carries considerable honor, and, besides, it's real fun, so the fair trumpeter says.

Miss May Jackson holds that position with the Al. G. Barnes wild animal circus. The place was assigned to her early this spring, after a try-out of two weeks. Miss Jackson had for three years been mastering the intricacies of the army bugle under the tutelage of a famous regular army bugler.

This circus bugler girl is a busy person. At all hours of the day she must be at the call of the show's superintendent. There's the parade call at ten in the morning. In the parade Miss Jackson leads the fanfare of buglers at the head of the pageant. At one o'clock the assembly call is sounded—all employees to their different stations; all performers to their different dressing rooms. Ten minutes later the circus call "Heads up" is blown, meaning that the doors are open. The grand entry of animals and people is similarly announced. Various acts are also so introduced. Should an accident occur and the show's doctor be needed—an ambulance, the police or the manager of any department wanted hurriedly, the bugle girl blows the summons on her golden trumpet.

Before taking up her present work Miss Jackson was a noted exponent of classic dancing, and during the past winter was engaged by many of the most exclusive clubs of California—her home state— to give exhibitions of that art.

An entirely new program, and an exhibition of the greatest array of educated wild and domestic animals ever shown at one time, are the promises made by the Barnes show this season. Over 600 trained animals are performed in sixty-five acts and features, the big thrilling sensational acts being given with ferocious wild animals.

The Barnes show has been an Albuquerque visitor many times, and has always pleased local audiences. Performances will be given here at 2 and 8 p. m., Monday, October 4. There'll be a parade, of course, the hour, 10:30. Doors open at 1 and 7.

All Babies Destined to Great Achievement

To be born is to be great. For there are possibilities in every tiny human infant. And for this reason every one should remember that whatever is done to aid the mother, to relieve her of distresses during her trying months, will surely be of marked benefit to the child.

Among the sterling aids is a splendid external remedy known as "Mother's Friend." It is what is called an embrocation. It is applied to the abdominal muscles, gently rubbed in by your own hand guided by your own mind. It makes the muscles pliant, they expand quite naturally and the effect upon the nerves is such that they adjust themselves to the process of expansion so that pain from this source is almost eliminated. Women who use "Mother's Friend" refer to the absence of morning sickness, they are relieved of a great many minor distresses, all apprehension disappears and those peculiar nervous "fidgets" no longer disturb the nights. It is well named "Mother's Friend." Get a bottle today of any druggist. Then at once write for a most entertaining and instructive book for all prospective mothers. Address Bradfield Regulator Co., 783 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

This book explains the physical action of "Mother's Friend," tells why it enforces strength to the muscles and relieves undue strain. It also contains letters of experience from many happy mothers. It is just such a handy little book as every woman will at once recognize as just what she had always wished to read—plain facts about herself. The book is mailed free to any address.
