army officers today to assert that the Mexicans engaged probably were members of the band guilty of the train wrecking.

Sergeant Arthur Estridge of the Fourth infantry reported to Fort Brown that five Mexicans were seen crossing the railroad tracks near where the infantry was stationed. A moment later both sides opened fire. Then the real strength of the Mexicans appeared, probably sixteen of them engaging in the fighting. Surprised in their maneuvers the Mexicans fought for about five minutes and then made off just in time to escape two companies of infantry and two troops of cavalry rushed from Fort Brown in commandeered automobiles.

Civil officers here today said they believed some members of the bands were Mexicans from Brownsville. All roads entering Brownsville were guarded during the night by civil and military details in the belief that some of the bandits would try to hide in this city.

Today's reports showed no indication that any of the bandits tried to cross the Rio Grande into Mexico. Some, however, seem to have gone North eleven miles into the Fresnos district. So far as known no bandits were killed or wounded.

Private Herman E. Moore, who was wounded in the abdomen and the arm, was not expected today to live. No other soldiers were hit.

The soldiers were on the alert for attack last night, having become suspicious about 4 in the afternoon when their negro cook reported that he heard whistling in the brush nearby. The soldiers had built three trenches to afford protection and during the night they used them for cover.

The attacking band opened fire from brush about 75 yards away from the trenches. The soldiers could see nothing except rifle flashes which seemed to cover a front several hundred feet wide.

Another band of Mexicans from cover of a railroad embankment in another direction appears to have taken a small part in the fight. The bullet which struck Private Moore came from that direction. The wound in his abdomen was made by a soft-nosed bullet.

The Mexican consul here, B. Z. Garza, today told General Eulalio Lopez, commander in Matamoros, of charges on the American side that he was not sincere in his efforts to cooperate with Americans in curbing activities of bandits. General Lopez assured Garza he was doing all in his power to catch Mexicans if they came to the Mexican side.

He said that he investigated reports that Luis de la Rosa was making headquarters near Reynosa, Mexico, and found them untrue.

Washington, Oct. 25.—State department advices today, regarding that the forces of the de facto government in Mexico have evacuated Nacozari that the town has been occupied by a Villa force of 800 men, said practically all traffic service in northern Sonora was suspended and that while Cananea was quiet, mining operations there might have to be suspended if railway communication was not reopened in the near future.

Reports from the Sonora border indicate Villa troops are operating the Cananea district. General Maass, the Villa commander in the district in which the Tigre mine is located, is reported protecting the lives of Americans at the mine, but permitting his forces to seize provisions, horses and mules.

GUESSING CONTEST OVER DATE OF DEDICATION

Y. M. C. A. Will Give a Gold Fob to the One Who Names The First Day of the Exercises.

If you can guess the date on which the dedication of the Y. M. C. A. building will begin you may get a gold watch fob. A guessing contest over the date has been announced by Secretary W. H. Day.

The exercises will last a week. There is room for a wide range of conjecture over the opening, because the building may be completed at any time between January and March. If everything works out smoothly and there are no weather or other interruptions the finish will be in January. If bad weather or other possible factors that must be taken into consideration bear on the work it may be March before the association goes into its home.

The contest opens today. The closing date will be announced later. It will be some time before the directors make arrangements for the dedicatory program. Guesses should be mailed to the Y. M. C. A.'s temporary office, First street and Central avenue, or left there in sealed envelopes. The fact that the letter is for the contest department should be marked on the outside of the envelope, as the guesses are to remain sealed until a committee is appointed to award the fob. Mr. Day said the fob would be presented the first night of dedication week. Boys and young men eligible to membership must make the guesses.

Those who hold membership cards in the association will have their privileges extended a month from the time the building is dedicated. The cards ordinarily would have expired January 1. When they were issued it was expected the building would be finishing before that. The delay consequent on the Santa Fe engineers' condemnation of the foundation work as unsafe upset calculations.

'DUSTY RECORDS' OF NEW HAVEN ARE DUSTED

Mellen Resumes Busy Activity With His Mental Broom When He Returns to Witness Stand Today.

[By Evening Herald Leased Wire]

New York, Oct. 25.—More of what have been described as the "Dusty Records" of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad were awaiting Charles S. Mellen's mental broom today when he took the stand for his fourth day of testimony at the trial of the twenty defendants of the road charged with conspiring to monopolize the railroad and bus lines of New England.

Before Mr. Mellen resumed the stand Arthur P. Russell, assistant counsel of the New Haven was recalled to identify further documentary evidence. The document had to do with New Haven affairs during the time Mr. Todd was second vice president from 1901 to 1907, some of them being letters signed by him. Mr. Russell was succeeded by another identification witness, John D. Johnson, negro porter in the president's office at New Haven. He identified letter press copybooks of Charles P. Clark, president of the New Haven during the nine'ies.

Evidence in writing of the purpose of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad to harpoon its chief rival in the early nineties, the New York and New England railroad, was placed before the jury today.

The evidence consisted of a memorandum purporting to have been written by William E. Barnett, executive secretary of the New Haven in 1892, suggesting ways in which the service of one of the New England road's connections with New York might be curtailed. Although the memorandum was unsigned, it was identified by Charles S. Mellen, who continued his testimony as the case took today, as being in Barnett's handwriting. Barnett is named as a co-conspirator of the defendants.

[By Evening Herald Leased Wire]

Peking, Oct. 25.—President Yuan Shi Kai today announced the appointment of Dr. Wellington Koo, minister to Mexico, Peru and Cuba, to be Chinese minister to the United States in succession to Kai Fu Shah, who is recalled to Peking.

Washington, Oct. 25.—Dr. Wellington Koo came to Washington [illegible] to get information on the Mexican situation prior to departing for Mexico City, to which place he had been accredited as the Chinese minister. A report was current at the time that Dr. Koo would be named Chinese minister to the United States and Kai Fu Shah recalled, because of his alleged failure to report complaints made on the score of American goods imported during the Japanese-Chinese negotiations. He speaks English perfectly and is a graduate of Columbia university, where he received his doctorate.

PARTCH TAKES JAPS TO PRISON AT EL PASO

Tom Tominaga's Escape Cut Short at Isleta; Sneaked Off After He Was Allowed to Settle Up Business.

Immigration Inspector V. F. Partch left this morning for El Paso with Joe and Tom Tominaga, Japanese slated by the immigration bureau for deportation because they conducted an alleged house of prostitution on Indian school road. Tom escaped from custody Saturday afternoon but was recaptured at Isleta yesterday morning by Special Agent A. J. McKew of the Santa Fe police force.

As told, Tom and Joe, who conducted the White Star saloon, were arrested last week. They recognized that the jig was up, and asked permission to get out of jail long enough to settle up the business. They were taken to the White Star under guard Saturday afternoon, and completed the sale of the hotel. They were allowed to sit down to dinner with other Japanese in the hotel and Tom slipped out of the room, ostensibly to draw a pitcher of beer. He didn't come back. It was said by the authorities at the time that it was certain to prove a futile attempt at escape, and they were not surprised at the quick recapture.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC REPORTS HEAVY REVENUE LOSS

Drop of $2,746,153, or 6.12 per Cent in Net Revenue and 3-23 in Net Income Shown in Annual Statement.

[By Evening Herald Leased Wire]

New York, Oct. 25.—The annual report of the Southern Pacific company and its numerous subsidiaries for the year ending June 30 last issued today shows a decrease of $2,746,153 or 6.12 per cent in net revenue from railway operations and a decrease of $657,594 or 2.73 per cent in net income.

This reference is made to the company's interests in Mexico.

"It is evidenced that from the beginning of the Madero revolution in 1910 to June 30, 1915, the cost of properties therefrom will approximate 3,178,000 pesos, equivalent to $1,589,000. On account of these losses the company filed claims with the Mexican government amounting to 12,182,000 pesos, all of which were approved and have not yet been paid. No further claims for property losses have been filed, owing to the lack of a responsible government in Mexico to which they could be presented. In addition to the above the company has [illegible] for passenger service [illegible] formed, for rental of rolling stock [illegible] and for material furnished to or purchased by the various [illegible] railways, amounting to [illegible] pesos. Bills for this [illegible] will be filed with the proper authorities [illegible] when conditions permit."

ANOTHER 'TERROR' TO COPS TURNS UP IN TOWN

But, Unlike Owen, Klein Has No Luck; Gets Broken Head as Well as a Jail Sentence.

Another cop-killer was disclosed in town yesterday, and, unlike N. J. Owen, who escaped a licking and got off with a jail sentence last week, this one got the usual dose—both licking and jail sentence. Anthony Klein is the latest addition to the reckless crew who seek to become a terror to cops. He broke out first yesterday at A. Berta's hotel on South First street, where he tried to force his way in against Berta's permission. Klein announced that he was a prize-fighter, shed his coat with a flourish and started to on Berta.

The hotel man ducked a pugilistic swing and countered with a wrestling grip that put Klein on the sidewalk. The two were rolling around when Policeman N. M. Miller arrived on the scene.

Miller started to the station house with Klein. The latter went peaceably for a short distance, and then succumbed to the temptation to become famous. He announced that he could lick anybody in New Mexico and would start in on Miller.

He swung his fist at the policeman. Miller ducked. Then he swung his club and the fight ended right there.

Klein appeared in court this morning with a gory bandage around his broken and aching head and shed his pugilistic mantle. He modestly disclosed himself as a milkwagon driver.

"Fifteen dollars or twenty days in jail," said the judge. Klein said nothing about paying the fifteen, and was taken back to his cell.
