LENTZ HONOR GUEST AT LUNCHEON AT THE ALBUQUERQUE SAN

John J. Lentz, member of the national board of governors of the Loyal Order of Moose, was guest of honor at a noon day luncheon given at the Albuquerque sanatorium today. Mr. Lentz is in Albuquerque as one of the principal speakers at the meeting of the New Mexico Educational association, being deeply interested in all educational subjects. While not a member of the national Moose committee having in charge the selection of a site for the proposed Moose sanatorium for tuberculosis, he will have great influence in the selection of the site and has carefully considered all places brought to the attention of the committee. The advantages of Albuquerque were placed before him at the luncheon today and at the conclusion of the meal he was taken for an automobile drive through the valley, where he will be shown the highly developed farms and the possibilities of the undeveloped land. Those present at the luncheon were, Mr. Lentz, M. L. Fox, J. B. Herndon, Dr. L. S. Peters, Felix Martinez, G. S. Vallant, Dr. J. A. Reidy, Dr. Van Natta, Dr. A. G. Shortle, Clark M. Carr, Dr. J. H. JAMES GOES FOR A LOOK AT VALENCIA

Tax Association Director Accompanies County Superintendent Baca on Automobile Trip to County Seat.

After addressing the county superintendents' section of the State Teachers' association this morning on administration of the county unit school tax law and its administration, A. E. James, director of the State Taxpayers' association, left shortly after noon for Los Lunas, Valencia county, to look over the school district tax accounts of the county. Valencia county had what the state tax commission considered too great a balance in its school funds and requests for specific excess levies were refused. Superintendent Baca wanted Mr. James to get first hand information about the funds.

The tax association director's address was heard this morning with closest attention. The interpretation of the county unit law has puzzled all of the taxing authorities, and the expert's outline of the ways in which it can be used to increase efficiency in the county schools was heard with evident interest. As a result of his address Mr. James has been asked by a number of the county superintendents to make special inquiries in their counties into the methods of administration of school funds, to suggest improvement in the methods.

HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLAR SUIT IS ADJUSTED

Hubbells Join With Mayberry in Incorporating Datil Cattle Company to Take Over Ranch Holdings.

Well authenticated reports were current today that the $100,000 damage suit instituted by Frank A. Hubbell and August Kiehne against H. T. Mayberry in the district court a week ago has been settled. The suit was based on Mayberry's alleged refusal to carry out an agreement with Hubbell and Kiehne for the sale of his entire ranch property. The deal was one of the biggest cattle transactions of recent times, the number of cattle being estimated at 40,000.

Shortly after Marron & Wood, attorneys for Hubbell and Kiehne, filed suit, it is said, a rapprochement between the plaintiffs and Mayberry took place, and a basis of adjustment was reached. What the basis was, if the settlement has been reached as reported, could not be learned today, Mr. Hubbell having gone to Magdalena.

First public intimation that the big suit had been adjusted came with the incorporation this week of the Datil Cattle company. Frank Hubbell, James L. Hubbell and H. T. Mayberry are the incorporators. The capital is given as $150,000, with $6,000 paid in. The company is to take over the Mayberry holdings. The capital is divided into 1,500 shares of a par value of $100 each, and each of the incorporators hold twenty shares. Kiehne's name does not figure in the organization.

MRS. FLOURNOY IS BOTH LOSER AND WINNER

Defeated in Effort to Supplant Stepdaughter in Administration, She Scores in Matter of Allowance From Estate.

Mrs. Jeanette W. Flournoy, widow of M. W. Flournoy, who tried to prevent issuance of testamentary authority to her stepdaughter under the will and to have herself made administratrix, lost and won in the probate court today. Judge John Raton Hurg passed on the several questions raised at the two hearings last week.

Mrs. Flournoy was defeated in her effort to displace her stepdaughter, Mrs. Nell E. F. Andros, in the administration of the estate. The court ruled that Mrs. Andros had become a bona fide resident of Albuquerque, and was qualified as executrix under the will. Issuance of letters testamentary was ordered at once. Mrs. Flournoy's objection to Mrs. Andros on the ground that she was a resident of Illinois was overruled and her petition to be appointed administratrix was denied. Through counsel, Mrs. Flournoy excepted to the rulings.

In her effort to secure an allowance of $1,200 from the estate for her support for six months, the widow won. The stepdaughter's objections on the grounds that first, it proper, the allowance was excessive, and second, that it wasn't proper because of a bequest of $20,000 left the widow in lieu of all other claims against the estate, were overruled. The allowance was granted, and counsel for the special administrator who objected on Mrs. Andros' behalf, filed exception to the ruling.

JURY SAYS NO ONE TO BLAME FOR OWEN DORRIS' DEATH

Chauffeur of Engine That Killed Boy Says He Had Been Driving Only Five or Six Months.

KNOWS LITTLE ABOUT ENGINE'S MECHANISM

Had Had Few Drinks of Straight Whiskey During the Morning; Dr. Hope Says Apparatus Did Not Skid.

Following is the essential text of the verdict returned this afternoon by the coroner's jury in the inquest into the death of six-year-old Owen Dorris:

"We..... find deceased came to his death by reason of being struck by a fire motor truck or some portion of the fence struck by such truck. It is our opinion, obtained from the evidence given, that there is no blame to attach to anyone"

With W. J. Reed, driver of the truck in the role of stellar witness, the taking of testimony in the inquest into the death of little Owen Dorris, who was killed by the highland fire engine last week, was begun before Justice George R. Craig and jury this morning. Reed was star witness by virtue of the part he played in the accident, and in the opinion of the auditors who filled the justice's office, he gave testimony in keeping with his stellar role.

State Senator Isaac Barth represented the city at the hearing and Attorney Henry G. Coors, Jr., law partner of United States District Attorney Somers Burkhart, represented the family of the dead child. Reed underwent both direct and cross examination.

He stated that he was the regular driver of the highland engine, but that he didn't know anything of its mechanism; he didn't know what was the measure of transmission when the engine was driven on low gear, as on the night of the accident; and couldn't judge speed when driving unless he looked at the speedometer. He said he had never driven an automobile until five or six months ago.

He testified that he was in three saloons the morning of the day the accident took place. He recalled taking two drinks at one place, but no more than one in the others, although he was not prepared to swear that he absolutely limited himself to one drink in each of the two last-named places. He said he had a drink in a saloon after the accident. He said he drank straight whiskey.

Reed said the speed of the engine just before the accident was less than 10 miles. He said the engine had been missing fire, but that the steering gear was all right.

Opposite the fence where the boy and his grandmother and sister stood watching the approach of the apparatus one of the front wheels went into a wet spot, Reed said, and the truck began to skid. He twisted the wheel over, he said, but the truck kept skidding until it crashed into the fence. He tried to stop it when the skid began, he testified by applying the foot brake. He didn't use the emergency brake at that time.

Dr. W. G. Hope, who was one of the physicians called after the accident to see if a spark of life remained in the child's body, flatly contraverted Reed's testimony as to skidding. He and other men, he said, examined the wheel tracks and other signs for the purpose of establishing how the truck went into the fence, and Dr. Hope was positive that the truck didn't skid at all. It ran straight into the walk, he said. The signs indicated that one wheel ran diagonally across mud, but there was no sign to indicate any degree of skid.

Dr. Hope testified that the boy died of the effects of a blow over the heart. The supposition is that a part of the fence struck him.

H. B. Dennis and Walter Ryan, firemen attached to the highland company, were the other witnesses examined at the morning session. The session adjourned for lunch at noon, and was resumed at 2:30 o'clock.

THANKSGIVING DAY GAME DEMANDS BIG CROWD

High School Athletic Management Takes Chance With Sport Lovers of Albuquerque in Financing Contest.

The Albuquerque high school football management has taken the bull by the horns, financially speaking, and calculates to give local gridiron enthusiasts a real, sure-enough run for their money in the way of Thanksgiving entertainment. The cost of staging the Turkey-day contest between Roswell and Albuquerque high school elevens runs up into the hundreds of dollars, and the local high management is evidencing an unlimited amount of confidence in the football spirit of Albuquerque by bringing the big Roswell squad all the way from the Pecos valley city. A record-breaking high school game crowd is necessary to make it a break-even proposition financially.

However, the big Turkey-day game will not be an ordinary high school contest and it is expected that there will be nothing ordinary about the attendance. Last year's University of New Mexico Thanksgiving game was given remarkable support and it is calculated that just as large a crowd will be at Hopewell field this year.

It is a foregone conclusion that the game will be all that might be desired in the way of a hard fought contest. Also, there is no competing attraction in the city. Considering, in addition, the intense rivalry between the two schools and the number of backers of the visitors who will be in the city, there is ground for the view that the local management has made no mistake in believing that Albuquerque will support the most expensive of football, especially on Thanksgiving.

Give it when feverish, cross, bilious, for bad breath or sour stomach.

Look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When feverish, cross, fretful, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomachache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative," they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

SUPERINTENDENTS LIKE NEW WORK OF U. N. M.

Hearty Approval Voiced for Department of Latin-American Preparation at Luncheon at Alvarado Today.

Nearly every county school superintendent in New Mexico was present today at noon at a luncheon at the Alvarado hotel tendered by Dr. David R. Boyd, president of the State University, in order that the superintendents might meet Prof. Burton R. Hill, professor of history at the University and head of the new department of special training for service in the Latin-American republics. State Superintendent Alvan N. White and Assistant Superintendent Elizabeth Ross of the state department of education also were guests at the luncheon.

Dr. Boyd made a few brief introductory remarks, following the meal, in which he introduced Mr. Hill. He told of the new professor's long course of training in Latin-American history and social conditions, of his special training for the work in hand and of his conspicuous success in research work in Spain, in the Latin-American countries and at Columbia university.

Mr. Hill outlined briefly his plans for the new department, painting the work he proposes to do as an universally practicable work which will be of material and direct service in solving men and young women who care to undertake life in the republics of Central and South America.

Superintendent White, Assistant Superintendent Ross, J. V. Conway of Santa Fe county, Sumrano Baca of Valencia county, G. V. Gallegos of Guadalupe county and others of the county superintendents voiced hearty approval of the work proposed and gave assurance that it would have their cordial support and active cooperation.

"I regard this luncheon and the work done here as one of the most important events of this convention," said Superintendent White at the conclusion of the speeches. The session continued until the hour for the afternoon general session, the superintendents going carefully into details of the new University department.

Thursday, 24th, our store will not open. Thanksgiving day. E. W. FEE.
