CASEMENT HEARING DEVELOPS FEW NEW FACTS SECOND DAY

Trial of Peer Accused of High Treason Proceeds With Only Witnesses Called Those Who Testified at Preliminary.

[By Evening Herald Leased Wire]

London, June 27.—The second day of the trial of Sir Roger Casement for high treason opened with no change in the apathetic attitude with which the general public regards the case.

The principal reason offered for this lack of interest is that the attention of the country is focused upon the continent.

The atmosphere of the court room is not that of a trial for life and the chief justice was compelled yesterday to insist that there must be no laughter in court. The laughter was evoked by the reparties of the Irish soldier witnesses. The attitude of Casement himself is far from being one of gravity. He appears neither crushed nor subdued by the seriousness of his position and takes the proceedings in a most casual manner.

The prisoner appeared to be in a cheerful frame of mind as he entered the dock today.

The prosecution resumed the introduction of testimony today. The witnesses were the same as those called at the preliminary hearings and few new points were brought out in the early proceedings. Witnesses gave accounts of the movements of Sir Roger and his companions, Captain Robert Monteith and Daniel J. Bailey, from the time of their landing on the morning of Good Friday in a boat from the German submarine near Traice until the arrest of Sir Roger.

John McCarthy, an Irish farmer, described finding the boat in which the three men were said to have landed and told of finding buried on the beach two handbags containing revolvers and ammunition.

Mary Gorman, a servant girl, identified Sir Roger as one of the three men she met hurrying away from the beach early Friday morning. She was followed by Thomas Hern, a sergeant in the Irish constabulary, who told of tracing Sir Roger to the ruined fort in the vicinity of which he arrested him. Hearn identified revolvers, maps of Ireland and a flag of the revolutionists which were found in a hand bag. There was a stir in the court room as the big green emblem of the rebels was spread out in the center of the room, and all eyes turned toward the prisoner. He shifted uneasily in his seat and then leaned back with folded arms, smiling nervously as he gazed at the flag.

Alexander Sullivan, chief counsel for the defense, volunteered the information to the court that the emblem of the flag was that of the city of Limerick.

The police witness was cross-examined at length in regard to the general unrest in Ireland and brought out the fact that the people of the south were arming themselves against those of the north and against conscription and that after the Curragh incident, when the military refused to move against Ulster, the southerners felt they could not trust the soldiers to protect them against Ulster volunteers.

During the testimony of Constable Riley, who assisted in the arrest of Sir Roger Casement on trial for high treason, the prosecution introduced a page, on which was written a code, which Sir Roger is said to have thrown away. This paper was picked up and given to Riley. The prosecution has laid great stress on the importance of this code, which it contends was intended for communication with Germany.

Opposite a series of numbers were sentences such as "Send cannon and ammunition" and "Send more explosives." The prosecution attempted to establish that some of the penciled figures were German characters. A large number of witnesses appeared for the prosecution. Much of the testimony was incomprehensible and dealt with events pertaining to Sir Roger after his arrest.

The prosecution rested its case suddenly. The attorney general announced that it had no statement to make.

Sir Sullivan immediately began an address in an attempt to have the indictment quashed. He argued that the alleged treasonable acts were committed outside British realm and could not be tried in Great Britain.

The prosecution had laid emphasis on maps found in the hand bags on the beach. Counsel contended, a map expert, said they were foreign reproductions of British admiralty maps.

As Mr. Sullivan proceeded with the address it became increasingly evident that the defense attached the greatest importance to the attempt to show the indictment was badly drawn as it charged Sir Roger committed treason "by adhering to the king's enemies elsewhere than in the king's realms."

For more than two hours Mr. Sullivan argued the matter.

When court adjourned Mr. Sullivan had not completed his argument which will be continued tomorrow.

In the probate court today the First Savings Bank and Trust company was made executor of the estate of Elizabeth Kennedy under $10,000 bond.

ARMED FILIBUSTERS STOPPED NEAR LINE BY ARMY OFFICERS

Party of Men Who Planned to Cross Into Mexico to Recover Automobile Seized by Mexican Authorities Broken Up.

[By Evening Herald Leased Wire]

Nogales, Ariz., June 27.—A heavily armed filibustering expedition, organized to cross the line at Sasabe and bring back an automobile seized in the Mexican authorities, was broken up here last night by the military authorities. Eighteen men, all carrying revolvers, of automatic pistols, and most of them rifles and shotguns, were quietly leaving town in six automobiles when a squad of infantry barred the road.

Colonel W. H. Sage, commanding officer here, warned the men that a raid into Mexico would be the signal for reinforcements along the entire Arizona border. He said he would have them arrested as United States cavalry at Ascarate if they approached Sasabe armed, and would then prosecute for violation of neutrality.

The automobile seized by the Mexicans belongs to A. C. Clay, who arrived here the Sunday following after an exciting three-days trip from Hermosillo. Sasabe is about 40 miles west of Nogales.

HOPE TO OBTAIN FREE DENTISTRY AS AN AID TO GETTING RECRUITS

Buffalo, N. Y., June 27.—The Preparedness League of American Dentists, with headquarters in this city, has opened a registration bureau in the hope of enrolling 20,000 dentists who will each one agree to prepare, free of charge, the mouth of at least one applicant to meet the requirements for enlistment in the army, navy or marine corps, and subject to such rules as shall protect them against imposition.

The standard of enlistment for the United States marine corps requires the applicant to have at least twenty sound teeth, with four opposed molars and four opposed incisors. Properly filled teeth are counted as sound, and many men now rejected for defective teeth will be saved to the "first line of defense" by the patriotic members of the Dentists' Preparedness league, is the belief of league officials.

Dr. J. W. Beach of Buffalo is chairman of the registration committee.
