THE STATE FAIR.

THE New Mexico State fair is now one week from today. The fair belongs to the New Mexico and every citizen of the state should feel that it is his duty to do anything he can to make it an unqualified success. Many thousands of dollars have been spent in promoting the fair, many thousands additional will be expended in prizes and premiums and expenses. A fair is costly but it is worth while. A state fair is the best possible method of demonstrating the people of New Mexico with the resources of their own state. Thousands of men, citizens, interested in resources and opportunities here will go to people of the older states—people who need to be told that the greatest development may be possible.

Many Albuquerque people will be away next week with summer camping outfits and other affairs. But don't let this thing to go to the dogs. Go out to the grounds every day if you can—just to show the proper spirit. And if you can't go every day, go at least for one day. Get a party together. Make it a day to remember. Make your neighbor, who is not quite up to the mark, feel that he is a booster and not a knocker. Make it a week of good fellowship and good work.

TUBERCULOSIS CONFERENCE.

THE fact that a sectional conference of the National Tuberculosis Congress is to be held in Albuquerque next month is indicative of the assurance that this city has earned in America as a place for the treatment and cure of consumption. The southwestern conference of the congress comes to Albuquerque certain that here will be found the climatic atmosphere for moderate and even negative discussion of the social problems which confront those who are devoting their lives to the study of the prevention and cure of the dread disease which each year claims such a vast number of victims. As soon as the state fair is over, the commercial clubs and other enterprises should not only and arrange a special every courtesy and accommodation to the delegates to the tuberculosis conference, and to offer any necessary assistance to those who are doing the local preparation work.

THE FEDERAL JUDGESHIP.

IT is right and just that those who have borne the heat and burden of the day should receive the honors which honors are to be bestowed. It may well be necessary for the president to name a successor to Judge W. H. Pope, of the federal district court in New Mexico. Business in the federal court has accumulated during Judge Pope's illness and the appointment of a man to the bench is a practical necessity.

Serious consideration can be given to only one man for the appointment to the high office. Summers Burkhart of Alamogordo, United States District Attorney for several years past, is the logical candidate for the judgeship. Mr. Burkhart is eminently qualified in every particular. He has been a resident of New Mexico since boyhood; he has spent a lifetime in the service of the Democratic party, working for its success in this city and in the state when Democrats were as few and far between as polar bears are at present.

Because of his education, experience and natural mental endowments and temperament, Mr. Burkhart will make an ideal judge. It seemed to the news that Summers Burkhart is the logical candidate for the honor.

JOIN THE WILSON CLUB.

AT the request of Col. D. K. Sheldon, the Evening Herald today is distributing the Woodrow Wilson Universal Club membership card. Admirers of President Wilson who wish to join the club are invited to sign the facsimile of the card and mail it to Colonel Sheldon. The membership of the club is becoming larger each day and there is every indication that 2,500 names will be on it before many days.

With his characteristic energy Colonel Sheldon is now busy promoting a Wilson parade to be held at Santa Fe on Wednesday of fair week.

Keep your eye on the Colonel and get ready to watch that parade.

TAX EXPERTS COMING TO ANNUAL MEETING IN LARGE NUMBERS

Much Interest Being Taken in the Meeting to Be Held Here During Fair Week; Important Subjects Are to Be Discussed.

Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 18.—Letters and requests for information coming to Governor A. B. Jones of the Taxpayers' association of New Mexico indicate that there will be a large attendance at the annual meeting of the association in Albuquerque September 25 and 26. Thursday and Friday of state fair week. The meeting is to be held in the high school auditorium and the sessions will be in the morning and afternoon, leaving the afternoons for members to meet and consult with the officials of the association or to attend the state fair attractions as they may desire.

The program will include the annual report of Governor Jones, a summary of which will be printed in the forthcoming number of the Tax Review, out September 25. The director will not only make a detailed report, following the outline of the report by an auditing committee but will present his budget for the 1916-1917 year for which memberships renewals are made.

One of the most gratifying features of the association's work is the promptness with which renewals of memberships and payment of dues for the second year have come in, indicating satisfaction with the work of the organization. A very considerable number of new memberships are being received from day to day, and the meeting at Albuquerque will find the association very close to the goal of 1,000 members.

At the annual meeting plans will be laid for a membership of 1,500 during 1916-1917.

The meeting program will consist chiefly of discussion of roads, road construction and cost of maintenance and a discussion of school operating costs. Both are subjects of deep interest to all taxpayers, all of whom are invited to attend the meetings whether members of the association or not. Mr. Jones will be given assistance in making arrangements by Old Bell.

NICE WARM WAGON USED TO HAUL CHILDREN TO CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL

Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 18.—State School Superintendent Alvan N. White today received news of the completion of the consolidated school at Cliff, on the Upper Gila, Grant county. With this news came the announcement of the purchase of a new style of wagon to carry the children to and from school. The wagon is heated with a stove and will carry sixteen children at one time, keeping them warm all winter. Prof. A. M. Roberts, in charge of the school, and in view of the agreeable method of transportation it is believed the attendance will be large at all seasons of the year.

FEDERAL JUDGE POPE IS LAID TO REST IN FAIRVIEW CEMETERY

Impressive Ceremonies Held in Santa Fe; Every Section of New Mexico Represented at Funeral of Distinguished Jurist.

Santa Fe, Sept. 18.—Every section of New Mexico was represented among those who Sunday afternoon paid their last tribute to Federal Judge William H. Pope. Flowers rare and sweet covered in almost unmeasurable profusion attested how near to the hearts of many the sweetest jurist had come. In harmony with the simplicity of his life and conduct there was no ostentation in the last civil ceremonies.

At the home, where intimate friends and associates came to gaze for the last time upon those beloved features, singularly free from all traces of suffering, so calm and peaceful, even youthful and beautiful, strong men were unashamed of tears and women wept silently as they turned away.

From the residence in East Palace avenue, a house the deceased had recently built and where he treasured the many flowers of his own planting, with such solitude the remains were taken to the church where had been a second home to him. There the pastor, Rev. H. K. Dickinson, expressing his emotion with difficulty, read a passage from the Judge's favorite Bible.

"Now, who as he turned his back, has made not better forward.
Never doubted clouds would break,
Never dreamed, though right were worsted, wrong would triumph,
Held we fall to rise, are baffled to fight better,
Sleep to wake."

It was toward evening that the cortege wended its slow way to Fairview cemetery. Crowds had been gathering in the streets during the afternoon and the setting sun came through them triumphantly with a message of hope and peace. The procession at the grave was brief. Earnestly turned in sincere tribute the conversation in the home circle with some associates whom he had known well in life and who traveled long to see, beyond, for the last time, William H. Pope. William C. Thornton, across the way Abram Welsh, and in every direction one heard the names of men and women who walked side with him gave way and are now silently assuming the responsibilities. To the east and north lower the majestic mountains. The blood of Christ encamping about Santa Fe, as he lies in the Hereafter. Tradition says it was said, when I had a drink of the ice cold waters on the other side of the Lake peaks. That would quench my thirst. To the south stretch the lower desiccated plains. It is a place of rare beauty and of marvelous relief and it was Judge Pope's unalterable belief that when day he would about view upon the beloved state for the last to the Northern that he entertained the value of the shadows he had left behind.

"I was the way as birds flying the home way.
I shall arrive at the appointed time, when my end first.
I am not unless God sends me hard
My strength fine-tuned, also of suffering sore.
In some time, his good time, I shall arrive.
He guides me and the bird. In His good time."

To witness devout Catholic and zealous Protestant joined together in the rites to say their prayers, to watch political antagonists hand in hand in the presence of death, to see an entire community join in tribute to one man, indeed inspiring and an incentive to live up to the high ideals that always animated Judge Pope.

Honorary Pallbearers.

The honorary pallbearers were the members of the state supreme court, Chief Justice Clarence J. Roberts, Associate Justices Frank W. Parker and Richard H. Hanna, Judge Pope's associates on the territorial bench, among whom were supreme Court Justices Roberts and Parker, also Judge John R. McFie, District Judge M. C. Herkins, Judge Edward D. Wright, Judge [illegible] A. Abbott being unable to be present, and Chief Justice William J. Mills and Judge E. A. Mann having attended him to the grave, and the present district judges, Judge Grayson N. Richardson, Judge David J. Leahy, Judge Colin Neblett, Judge E. C. Abbott, Judge Herbert F. Baumann, Judge C. R. Leib, Judge John T. McClure, Judge E. L. Medler, Gen. W. C. de Baca, former Gov. M. A. Otero and Jose D. Sena. The active pallbearers were the elders of the First Presbyterian church.

Floral tributes came from the state fair association, a pillow of carnations from the association, "Mother" in roses from the Santa Fe [illegible] of orchids from [illegible] and gladioli from the fellowship class of Judge Pope's [illegible] floral offering, from the bar of Colfax county, a wreath of the association bar from Taos county, from the various Masonic orders the Masonic emblems of the [illegible] in Chicago and from other lodges and orders wreaths and other floral offerings.

WILSON CLUBS BEING ORGANIZED BY CURRY COUNTY DEMOCRATS

Three Have Been Formed, One Each at Clovis, Melrose and Texico; Ladies to Have Important Part in Campaign Work.

Clovis, N. M., Sept. 18.—That the Democrats of Curry county are going to leave nothing undone to roll up a record-breaking majority for Wilson and Marshall this fall is a fortunate condition, judging from the manner in which they are going ahead with the organization of Woodrow Wilson clubs.

The first club organized was the one of Clovis. The meeting was held in the court room and there was a big crowd present to help launch the proposition. Hon. Sam R. Gulick, an attorney of this city and one of the most prominent Democrats in Eddy county, New Mexico, was elected president. Mr. Gulick is one of the most ardent supporters of this movement in this state and the news is given in a special dispatch to the Herald. W. C. Pepper was elected secretary and A. C. Weaver treasurer.

Following the form of organization these gentlemen chronicled the formation of a number of precinct Democratic clubs to Melrose Wednesday, Texico and Texico Thursday evening and organized a club in each place.

The next meeting of the Clovis club will be held on September 22, at which time the ladies will be invited to attend and a ladies auxiliary to the club will be organized.

Wilson, of the state corporation commission, have returned from Magdalena where they attended a joint meeting Saturday with district superintendent C. R. Priddy of the A. T. & S. F. officials over the train schedule for Lower Magdalena and Mogollon. As a result of the conference the railway will place a train from Socorro at 6.30 in the morning, starting on Sundays at 8 a. m., so as to have it get into the Magdalena at 10 o'clock. This will give Magdalena a train from Socorro at 10
