READY-TO-WEAR SECTION
Second Floor

There is a Suit and an Overcoat

—Here in this great stock that is especially intended for you.

—Sounds rather trite, doesn't it? But it's a fact, nevertheless. We doubt if there is a young man or a man of mature years in this town, who cannot be splendidly fitted and perfectly satisfied if he will just take a few minutes to look at these individually tailored suits and overcoats.

—Thousands of men in these United States have learned that $15 to $25 is a safe price to pay for a suit or an overcoat. The men of this town are quite certain that they receive values in our Men's Store, that are above the usual by a good percentage, and $15 or $20 in our clothes buys everything that might be expected in a tailored suit or an overcoat that cost at least $40.

—It is a tribute to these clothes that men who can quite well afford to pay $60, prefer our clothes at $25. "There is an apparent reason." Come in and see

These add greatly to the attractive appearance of the bedroom, and the variety is sufficient to produce just the design and color to fit in with your decorations. You should see these new effects as shown in our Home Furnishings Section—located on our Third Floor.

Chicago Board of Trade.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Scarcity of offerings carried the wheat market reday to the highest prices yet this season. The September delivery was especially difficult to buy, and shorts in that option were evidently forced opening prices which caused freak bids to be higher, with December at $1.54⅞ to $1.57⅞ and May at $1.55 to $1.57⅞, more followed by sharp further gains and then something of a reaction. Late in the session a decided outbreak in values took place as a result of heavy short taking by longs. The close was weak, 2c to 1c net lower.

Corn now followed wheat. After opening a shade to ¼c higher the market hardened a little further but then tended to sag. Subsequently corn prices eased off when wheat turned weak. The close was steady, 2c off to ½c up as measured with yesterday's finish.

In oats, the strength of other grain was the governing factor.

Provisions averaged a little lower with hogs. Trade was light.

BOYS AND GIRLS OF CAMP SOUTHARD BIG FEATURE OF PARADE

Good Results of Club Work in Evidence as Procession Files Through City Streets, as Well as at Fair Grounds.

The most extensive feature of the parade, the division which represented the most to the state was that section taken up by the boys and girls of the Industrial camp, known this year as Camp Southard. In that parade were the state winners of the six projects being worked out by the state leader in club work. With the winners marched 216 county winners with their chaperons.

The parade in itself was undoubtedly the most interesting section of a parade which was full of interesting divisions. Not only was it interesting from a spectacular standpoint, but it was no less interesting from an educational standpoint. Last year when the first encampment was held there was sent out from Albuquerque 397 missionaries who spread the club spirit throughout the eighteen counties who were represented at that encampment, and this year there was an enrollment of over 2400 boys and girls in the various clubs of the state. Six projects were chosen for this year's work, namely: poultry, pig, garden and canning, sewing, cooking and field crops, and later on, by request there was added the pet stock project, and this year the winners in the club encampment had to be boys and girls who had won out in local contests in their respective counties. From these county winners the state winners were chosen, for each of the youngsters were required to bring with them the animal or produce on which they won their local contest.

After the state winners were selected all the boys and girls in camp joined in doing honors to the victors, and the section of the parade devoted to boys' and girls' club work was was given over to this purpose. In that parade there were seven floats, and the state winners were placed in esplenty and triumphantly carried through the streets.

CALOMEL DYNAMITES A SLUGGISH LIVER

Crashes into sour bile, making you sick and you lose a day's work.

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with your bile it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, don't go to your druggist and get a 35-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and it is doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tone you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition and ready for work or play. It's harmless, pleasant and safe to give to children; they like it.
