HUGHES' ELECTION CERTAIN TO PLUNGE U. S. INTO WAR WITH GERMANY, IS CLAIM

Staff Correspondent of the New York World Who Accompanies Ambassador Gerard Here Gives Out Interesting Interview.

TIRPITZ PARTY NOW HAS MAJORITY IN REICHSTAG

Wilson Is Not Popular in Fatherland and They Are Hoping His Opponent Will be Successful, Will Resume Sub Warfare.

[Special Dispatch to Evening Herald]

New York, Oct. 12.—The political campaign in Germany against President Wilson disclosed by a staff correspondent of the New York World who returned to America with Ambassador Gerard, the national editorials by the World today under the heading "War with Hughes or Peace with Wilson."

Should the American people repudiate President Wilson at the polls next month, says the World, they may take it for granted that the German government will repudiate its submarine pledge to the president.

A resumption of ruthless submarine warfare on the part of Germany means a severance of diplomatic relations, and a severance of these relations will in all probability result in war.

There is no escape from the logic of the situation. Do the American people want peace with Wilson, or war with Hughes? They must decide that question for themselves November 7th. The World's representative's views are confirmed by a cablegram from Amsterdam, which states that the advocates of the Tirpitz party now claim a majority of the Reichstag.

Germany is watching the presidential contest in the United States as a very sane and interested partisan. How keen and how interested that partisanship is may be estimated from these paragraphs from the World's correspondent's writing:

"The defeat of President Wilson on November 7th would be greeted in the German empire as a German victory and I was told by the cabinet officers and various men, soldiers and politicians that Zimmermann would be being sent to Washington in honor of the occasion.

"This message is intended first, upon the instant, to smash President Wilson for his alleged unpatriotic [illegible] Zimmermann and, it is said, upon the belief that Germany has much to expect from Hughes. There is no precedent at Germany for the fact that Mr. Hughes is the Republican candidate for the American presidency. And there is no precedent whatever for the belief, although the effort is made to exact it, that the Kaiser has made to gain as a consequence of a reprisal of the Republican candidate.

"A number of people that prominent American businessmen in Germany have raised money for preparedness, after of which Germany is now in their interest), for Hughes in America and the report is freely in circulation that St. John Gaffney, the multimillionaire German spokesman of Chicago, took with him money to use in supporting Hughes among the American Irish and Germans.

"If President Wilson is beaten, the Germans will have a right to regard it as a plausible German victory, and to smash their windows with huge. From their point of view, the President's defeat will apply the stick to persuade us for Teutonic policy on the American people with all the [illegible] impending stroke to the German mind. Moreover, it will have been done in Germany entirely in the publicity assumed purpose of destroying the president's prestige for offending Germany. Certainly Germany may not know what the election will do but it will know that the president has been defeated and by the German vote, that Mr. Hughes should be without power until March fourth, and that the government of the United States will be [illegible].

"To assume that the imperial government will not take the fullest advantage of an opportunity to assume that the contest was single has [illegible] since a week.

"It is for the American people to say whether they will destroy their administration and their foreign policy at least [illegible]. It is for them to say whether they will [illegible] upon the issue to war and upon the full consequences.

"If they do not stand behind their president they cannot expect that Germany will stand up on its platform. If they do, then they could expect Germany to change and a change by Germany is the first step towards war. It is just what the people of the United States want.

"The issue rests with them and with them alone."
