

Saint Mary's Beacon.

LEONARDTOWN, MD

THURSDAY Morning, July 9.

Gen. Bradley T. Johnson has accepted a challenge to fight a duel with a Spanish Captain who was affronted by some of the General's newspaper comments.

Silver sentiment is strong in St. Mary's and it is steadily growing. It infects Democrats and Republicans alike but we don't think any Republican has it in a sufficiently violent form to prevent him from voting for a gold candidate. If any are "took that bad" we haven't heard from them.

The National Convention is in session at Chicago and no doubt before another issue of the BEACON the platform will have been adopted and the ticket be named. At this writing no one can name the nominees but it is generally conceded that whoever they be, the platform they will stand upon will contain a fine, bright, sparkling, clean-cut silver plank.

We were not at the scene and are not perhaps competent to express an opinion but it looks to us that it would have been much better had the Court have granted Lawyer Graason two weeks time in which to prepare for the cooking trial. Perhaps it would have saved Charles county from the disgrace of his lynching.

NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.—The national democratic convention met on Tuesday last at Chicago. The national democratic committee decided on Monday to present the name of Senator David B. Hill, of New York, for temporary chairman. The silver men will propose Senator John W. Daniel, of Virginia, as a substitute, and the first test of strength will come at the very threshold of the convention.

The Maryland delegation ignored the silver men in the selection of members for the convention committees. The unit rule was abandoned. Mr. Gorman was re-elected national committeeman.

The delegation from the district of Columbia declared for silver, and James L. Norris, the national committeeman for the District, announced that he would vote with the silver men.

The Illinois and Kansas delegations declared in favor of ex-Congressman Richard P. Bland for President, and it is believed he is in the lead.

Ex-Congressman Joseph C. Sibley, of Pennsylvania, declared himself a candidate for the presidency. Ohio decided to support John R. McLean for the presidency.

Five members of the Maryland delegation are said to be silverites. The Virginia delegation will probably support Bland for the presidency.

A DANIEL COME TO JUDGMENT. The silver men won in the fight for temporary chairman, Senator Daniels, of Virginia, receiving 556 votes, to 349 votes for Senator David B. Hill. Maryland cast 4 votes for Daniel and 12 for Hill.

Maryland Notes. On Saturday the corner-stone of a town hall was laid in Salisbury. The trustees of St. John's College elected the faculty for next year.

The Law and Order Society of Hagerstown will appoint a profanity committee.

There is no opposition to the re-nomination of Mr. Miles in Dorchester.

Prof. Charles A. Leloup, of Mt. St. Mary's, Emmitsburg, died yesterday.

A fête will be held by the Key Monument Association during the encampment in Frederick.

In Lonaconing a town license tax of $50 has been put on houses where liquor is sold.

An agent of the P. W. and R. Railroad estimates the peninsular peach crop at 6,000,000 baskets.

Governor Lowndes will hear charges against School Commissioner White, of Cecil county, on July 18.

The wheat crop of Washington county is estimated at less than half an average, while the Talbot crop is fine.

There is considerable activity in the Maryland and West Virginia coal regions and shipments on the canal are large.

Dr. Simmons, the health officer of Washington, is taking strong measures against offensive hog-pens in Hagerstown.

The first lot of the new crop of Howard county wheat was delivered at Gambrill's mill and brought 58 and 59 cents.

Senator Dryden conferred with Governor Lowndes in regard to securing the release of the Maryland crabs now in prison in Virginia.

The court decided that Dr. A. R. F. Carr is eligible to the office of member of the Cumberland water board and ordered the council to admit him.

Another Lynching.

Sidney Randolph Hung by a Montgomery Mob.

Saturday last Sidney Randolph, colored, was taken from the Rockville jail and lynched. Randolph's alleged crime was a murderous assault upon the Buxton family.

STORY OF THE LYNCHING. Sidney Randolph, who lives at the jail, gave the Sun reporter the following account of the lynching:

"I was awakened about 2 o'clock by some one calling me to open the door, as there was a prisoner to be placed in jail. I got up and went down stairs. When I opened the door of the jail three or four men covered me with revolvers and said they wanted the jail keys. One of the men was blackened so as to represent a colored man. I demurred about surrendering the keys, but the men demanded them, and said, while they had no desire to hurt me, yet they intended to have the keys. Then I surrendered them. The leader took the keys and opened the outer door leading into the jail corridor. When this was done they proceeded to the cell occupied by Randolph."

DESPERATE FIGHT FOR LIFE. The negro had heard the commotion on the outside, and when he heard their footsteps coming in the direction of his cell, he seemed to realize what was going to take place. Randolph began to scream murder and to cry for help. This only increased the speed of the lynchers, who began quickly to undo the locks of the cell door. When the door was pushed back the negro could be seen pressed close up in the far corner of his cell. The men rushed into the cell but Randolph was not to be taken without resisting. The negro made a hot battle with those who were trying to get hold of him. He fought like a wild man, and it was not until a heavy blow was dealt him that he finally subsided, and in doing this it was because his physical strength had given out. When struck he fell with a groan to the cell floor, and in an instant a rope was placed around his neck and the crowd started for the jail-yard.

Seeming to realize that death was near, Randolph once more made a supreme effort to resist the lynching party. As he was being dragged from the cell the man grabbed the iron grating, and how firmly can be best judged from the condition of the man's hands, which were utterly peeled of their flesh. The effort of the negro incensed the crowd, who with a combined effort dragged him loose and darted out of the jail hauling Randolph after them like a log. When the yard was reached the men got Randolph on his feet and a covered wagon was driven up into which the struggling negro was thrust.

TO THE PLACE OF EXECUTION. The wagon with its driver and escort was hurried away from the jail, while two of the lynching party remained at the jail in order to prevent any alarm being given. When those at the jail felt assured that Randolph was out of reach, they, too, followed in carriages which had been left in the rear of the courthouse.

As soon as Jailer Payton was unguarded he ran across to Kelechner's Hotel, where he gave the alarm, but it was then too late to follow the lynching party. The deputy telegraphed the news to Sheriff Collier and then began a search for the remains. The track of the wagon was followed until it stopped at a bar-gate which leads from the Frederick pike to the chestnut grove on the Anderson farm, which is about one and a half miles from the jail. There Messrs. Minos Anderson and Samuel Riggs, two of the searching party, found the corpse dangling from a limb of a chestnut tree which stands near the roadside.

STRANGLER TO DEATH. What took place when Randolph was taken from the wagon can only be told by those who saw it, but the small undergrowth gave silent evidence of a superhuman effort which must have been made by Randolph, trusting that he could free himself from his captors. The bushes were trampled down. From small limbs hung pieces of the shirt and other clothing, which were identified as those worn by Randolph.

The fight was unequal and the negro was strung up. As he hung from the tree his face presented a sight never to be forgotten. His eyes had started from their sockets, while his tongue protruded from his mouth, and in every line of his countenance you could read agony. His death was due to strangulation, and it is thought that no attempt was made to give him a fall, but that he was strung up from the ground.

The sentiment of the best people at Rockville bitterly condemn the lynching. A prominent citizen said it was nothing but cold-blooded murder.

DIED. In Washington, D. C. on Thursday, July 2, 1896, at 5 o'clock, P. M., WILLIAM ALEXANDER, aged 1 year and 23 days, son of William A. and Anna S. Hammond.

OBITUARY. Died, at her residence in the 2nd district, June 4th, 1896, Mrs. MARTHA ARMSWORTHY, aged 73 years and 10 months.

A Christian lady has passed away from earth's battles and trials to meet her God and loved ones gone before. It was a blessed privilege to me to see her so recently before her death and to know that she was so prepared to meet her earthly end. Time, with his blade of death, found in her full ripened grain that had fully matured amid all the storms of life. Her beautiful example and upright bearing will be a beacon light to guard her friends and acquaintances from the pitfalls of earth. Long will the sweet recollections of her life cling in my heart and memory, always tending to brave me to emulate and profit by her noble example. Old age had enfeebled her body, so that it had become painful to her. Hence life to her had lost many of its charms. She had been long suffering for rest. Her many loved ones that had gone before her were anxiously awaiting the time to bid her welcome home. In the month of June wild roses are blooming amid summer breezes of earth she has joined her friends far away.

Bright be the place of thy soul! Light be the turf of thy tomb! May thy venture like emerald be: There should not be the shadow of gloom In aught that reminds us of thee. Death of those in Christ believing, Calls for gladness, not for grieving. On the other shore they live, and shine and reign. Death is but the narrow portal That leads to life immortal. Endless life that knows not parting, pangs nor pain. M. M. C.
