Bound Over to Grand Jury.

On Monday afternoon of this week Tom Caraway was arraigned in open court before Judge Cunningham on the charge of brandishing a gun in a threatening manner on Mr Farrell, R O Beckett, and Mr. Butcher in the pasture on the Farrell place near the Texas line on the south. According to testimony of the the witnesses, Farrell and his men they were rolling up some fence which Caraway had built on Farrell's land, and Caraway came riding up and speaking in an abrupt manner, said, "What are you — fellows doing?" When told that they were rolling up the fence, he asked them if they intended taking it off the ground they replied that they were rolling it up Caraway said, that it was all right, but you don't take it off the ground, or words to that effect, according to the testimoney, he then began to abuse them and lift his gun, a carbine, which was in front of him across the saddle, up and down with thumb on the hammer and fingers in the guard a part of the time. About this time the three undoubtedly thinking he was going to work himself into a rage, spring for the gun and took it away from him, and, as his horse started to leave, R. O. Beckett threw a stick at him. Other testimony went to show that Caraway only intended asking them to leave the wire rolled up on the ground, as it was his property and that he wanted his rights. The lifting of the gun according to this testimony was caused by his handling the reins, as his horse was nervous. Carraway was bound over in the sum of $500.
