C. C. Carroll, a brick layer, arrived from Pecos Wednesday to take charge of the brick work on the high school building.

Fred Butler and John Cantrell returned Wednesday night from a seven day hunt sixty miles east where they killed one deer.

John Stewart and Dolph Shattuck were in last Friday from the Guadalupes leaving with a load of supplies for their ranches Saturday.

C. W. Merchant and sons brought in 300 cows Tuesday and shipped out Wednesday, selling to Johnson, the cow buyer, who is here from Kansas City.

Ron Holt, Will Donnelly and a bunch of hands drove in to the Lakeview pens, last Friday, 446 head of mixed fat stuff, including one load of bulls, sold to Mr. Johnson, of Kansas City. They were shipped out Saturday.

Deputy Sheriff Will Lucas went out to Monument Sunday for a witness, Jim Kleet, to testify for the defense in the case of the territory against Oscar Harbert at Roswell, who was convicted of assault upon Mr. Neillson Monday.

D. B. Sutherland, who represents the Orchard Supply Co., of Huntsville, Alabama, is busy taking orders for fruit trees of all kinds, and will also supply rooted grape vines grown in California. Parties desiring any thing in the fruit line will do well to drop him a card.

Frank Grygla, of Santa Fe, and two cattle buyers were taken out to the Guadalupes Monday, Grygla to investigate land entries and fences for the government, and the buyers to look at mountain cattle. Geo. M. Pendleton drove the hack and acts as guide, scout and beef rustler.

John and Thomas Green, brothers of Will Green, were down from the Sacramento mountains Saturday, and purchased the cattle owned by Will, which were driven up to the mountains, Will and three sons accompanying them. Will was divorced from his wife during the last term of court, Mrs. Green taking the three little girls and half the cattle.

The home of Wm. H. Mullane, on Main street, caught fire last Friday afternoon from a defective flue, burning the roof about half off. The fire department responded promptly and completely extinguished the flames within five minutes after arriving. The little chemical had about extinguished the blazes when the big stream, with about 100 pounds pressure, completely drowned out the whole house. The loss to paper, roof, etc., is about $200, fully insured, but the furniture, carpets, etc., were damaged by water with no insurance. The protection afforded by the extra good pressure from the new booster pump and the excellent service of the volunteer firemen, makes a destructive fire in Carlsbad almost an impossibility now.

Arrested for Bribery.

Albuquerque Democrat

J. Porter Jones, secretary of the Bernalillo county republican committee and Thomas Di Blassi, both well known in the city and county, were arrested Tuesday evening by the authorities, charged with bribery, preferred by the democratic election officials.

Jones is said to have paid out $500 to voters in the twenty-sixth precinct and Di Blassi is accused of the same crime.

Both men were arraigned before Justice of the Peace George R. Craig and bound over to the grand jury on large bonds.

Other arrests are expected today which will cause the people to sit up and take notice, as some of the best known men in the city and county are accused of having bought votes.

A line of two hundred men stood in line at the republican headquarters yesterday and were presented with endorsed checks for amounts of $5, $10 and as high as $20 to vote the republican ticket.

The facts and information are in the hands of the democratic committee and the authorities.

The arrests here are for bribery and buying of votes said to have occurred in other counties as well as here in Bernalillo.

"The most lavish use of money ever heard of in New Mexico, occurred right here in Albuquerque," said a well known citizen this morning. "Over 800 men received moneys from $5 to as high as $20 and over to vote the republican ticket.

"A man dressed in brown stood in front of the booth in precinct 12 and handed out $5 bills with republican ballots, telling all who accepted the bill to vote the straight republican ticket.

"Jones and Di Blassi were not the only ones who gave out money. Many other prominent men of the city and county were seen giving out bills and checks to voters."

The New High School Building

The foundation for the new high school building is now all in and the joists laid for the floor and the brick laying commenced yesterday. The building is 71 x 81 feet. The foundation is of concrete fifty-four inches high, fifteen inches wide on top, and twenty inches wide twelve inches below the top the shelf or projection on which rests the floor joists, which are two by twelves. The building will have five rooms below and two above and will have also a twenty foot hall leading in from the main front which faces south. The brick used in the walls are the best pressed brick.

The sills and lintels are of concrete reinforced with half inch steel. Contractor George Bruce is sparing nothing to execute a perfectly substantial job, and is using only the best materials, put together by experienced and expert workmen and is paying the top wages, his brick layers receiving six dollars per day of eight hours. The carpenter work is being done by Fred Rohmer, Mr. Pond and Joe Anthony. The sand for the plaster is hauling in being hauled from the bed of the Pecos and is sieved and prepared well before entering the work.

J. F. Boyd has charge of the concrete work, and a force of Mexicans perform the labor and Mr. Bruce pays them $1.75 and $2.00 per day. Altogether the pay roll at present is about $100 per week.

The District Court has been taken up with a number of cases since last Friday. Saturday night a jury found Oscar Harbert guilty of assaulting A. L. W. Nillson and another jury found E. F. Eisenheimer guilty of selling liquor to minors. Eisenheimer had been a bartender for W. R. Cummins and the testimony showed that the liquor was given to the boy on a written order but that the order was a forgery. Roswell Register-Tribune.

A Daring Escape.

The annals of Sing Sing are full of daring escapes. A typical case was that of Palmer and Roulf, two convicted murderers. By frequent appeals they had beaten off the day of their execution and at length succeeded in escaping at the last moment from the jaws of death. Like all night [illegible] for a chance of life and as the time for the execution drew near they decided to make a desperate effort to escape. The day before the execution they locked the officer in the cell and, after securing the keys, released the condemned prisoner, which they locked in another cell and descended the second tier of cells. This done they offered no resistance to other convicts, which when they had made friends. They declined the proffered assistance, however, whereupon the two condemned men the strength to scale the boundary wall and dropped on posts by the Sound Boston, which they crossed in a small boat.—New York Tribune.

Up Two Stumps.

Little Johnny was in the habit of walking home through an open pasture that he could not. His pony decided to break him of the habit. One day as Johnny neared a fence across several men his pony was seen minus his pony and, dismay, if I give you this one, I have to get away to do it. Johnny pondered and then he walked and trudged all the way home on the six mile trip. It was late when he reached home. He would be scared and warm and dirty and exhausted at the page. Finally laying down his book, he said:

"Papa, is it a sin and an offense would you rather be just a fool than be lost?"
