

Saint Mary's Beacon.

COUNTY NEWS.

To Correspondents.

We have received several favors which we are compelled for want of space to defer until our next issue.

Religious.

There will be preaching at Marvyn M. E. Church South (Mechanicville), Sun. day, April 11th, at 10:30 a. m., by Rev. C. W. Moore.

Vandalism.

Saturday night, April 3, 1897, unknown persons went to Papal Hill churchyard, took the gate off the hinges and carried it across the road, and entering the graveyard overturned two tombstones, one at the grave of Mrs. Costin, and the other at the grave of Lloyd Owens, a nephew of Hon. George Colton. It is probable that the vandals were drunk, for we are loath to believe that any one in St. Mary's would be guilty of such an act while in their sober senses. There is a special statute against this crime and, if the culprits be discovered, they will find that Sec. 135, of Art. 27, of the Code of Public General Laws provides for them an adequate punishment.

Localwise and Otherwise.
Miss Thomas, of Norfolk, is visiting the family of Mr. James T. King, Hillville.
Miss Etta Forrest, of Patuxent, is visiting Mrs. Claude B. Lloyd, of Baltimore.
Miss Ruby Yates, of Washington, has been on a brief visit to her father's family, this town.

We are having real Spring weather and gardeners are rejoiced at the fine prospect of bountiful crops of "sass."
Monday's Baltimore Sun reports that the Eastern Shore farmers are about to turn their attention to the cultivation of tobacco.

We are indebted to Dr. William Lee for a copy of the Eleventh Report of the Lunacy Commission. The report speaks well for our Almshouse and Jail.
The Governor has designated Wednesday next, April 14th, as Arbor Day. It is expected that the day will be suitably observed in the public schools.

Mr. John S. Guyther, Sr., of Valley Lee district, is very ill with the pneumonia. This is Mr. G.'s second attack this winter. We wish him a speedy recovery.
Ellen Leigh, the youngest daughter of Jo. F. Morgan, Esq., of Leonardtown, is dangerously sick. We trust that the fears entertained for her recovery may prove groundless.

Mrs. Laura A. Jones has just received and is opening at her store a full line of Spring Millinery—including the "sweet" Easter bonnet—all of which will be sold at reasonable prices.
St. Mary's families and hotels who expect to take summer boarders should avail themselves of the kind offer of the Weems' Line steamers to advertise for them free of cost. See notice.

Last week, a three year old daughter of Alfred Carberry, colored, of this district, was badly burned. The child was in a field where broom sedge was being burned when the accident occurred.
Miss Mabel Jones, of Leonardtown, has secured a good position in Baltimore and left Wednesday to take charge of it. She is deservedly popular here and a wide circle of friends regret her departure.

We want one hundred new subscribers. Will not our friends in the county interest themselves in seeing that we get them. The Beacon is only $1 a year. $1 cents a month is a small price to pay for the news of the county.
Tuesday evening last Mr. P. O. Budd, of Leonardtown, received news of the serious sickness of his sister at Old Point Comfort, and he left on Wednesday for Washington to catch the Norfolk steamer on her down trip.

Last week while Hamlet Mason, colored, was engaged in clearing up and burning grass of a field, Adele, his four year old daughter, caught fire and was so badly burned that death ensued. Mason lives on "Vanhook," this district.
To enable him to sell at lowest figure Mr. William A. Loker, the Leonardtown merchant, has purchased a ton of binder twine and will retail it to St. Mary's farmers at prices below the Baltimore market. Don't miss this opportunity.

Mr. C. J. Foxwell, the courteous salesman of A. A. Lawrence, took the Peto-mac Wednesday for Baltimore to select the Spring and Summer stock. As Charles is all at the business, his friends would do well to wait before purchasing.
We invite attention to the advertisement of C. M. Bohanan & Co., published in this issue. Mr. Bohanan is too well known in St. Mary's to need commendation at our hands. His established reputation for fair dealing speaks for itself.

Everybody knows Bob Loker and we do not know of any one who does not like him. Bob is traveling for Allen, Greenfield & Co., of Baltimore, Fruiters and Confectioners, and the way to show how much you like him is to give him an order.
The St. Jerome's Creek case of Powell vs. Wilson and Haney has been determined by the Court of Appeals in favor of Powell, who was represented by Messrs. R. C. Combs and B. Harris Cammiller. Daniel C. Hammett, Esq., represented Haney. In all his long service as an attorney Mr. Combs has never lost a case that he has taken to the Court of Appeals.

On our first page, under the headline, "The Times That Were," we reprint an interesting letter to the Nelson Record from Mr. J. Edwin Coad, of this county. Mr. Coad is the best informed antiquarian in Southern Maryland and his reminiscences of "ye olden time" are always interesting. He is the best equipped writer in the Union to write a history of St. Mary's county and its people.
We are indebted to Examiner George W. Joy for a copy of the Thirtieth Annual Report of the State Board of Education. The report is a comprehensive one and shows the schools of the State to be in good condition. In St. Mary's there are 43 white school districts and 25 colored. The enrollment and average attendance of pupils in our county during the present year has been larger than in any former year.

Men's suits from $3.00 up to $15.00. Sizes 34 to 44 at F. O. Morgan, Leonardtown, Md.

The Emigration to Kentucky.

In conjunction with the historical reminiscences contained in Mr. J. Edwin Coad's article reprinted on our first page, it will not be amiss to quote for the benefit of our readers from Hon. Ben. J. Webb's book entitled "The Centenary of Catholicity in Kentucky." Mr. Webb states that the settlement on Pottinger's Creek was begun in 1785, followed a year later by that of Hardin's Creek. The settlement near Bardstown and that near Cartwright Creek was begun in 1788. All these settlements were in Nelson County.

William Coomes settled near Bardstown in 1786 and owned a farm containing 1000 acres three miles northeast of that place. Mr. Webb says Mr. Coomes was originally from Charles County.
Joseph Edelin left Maryland in 1795. The Fenwicks were surnamed respectively Thomas, Cornelius and Henry and settled on Cartwright's Creek.
Ignatius Medley settled on Hardin's Creek and Thos. Medley settled on Rolling Fork.

In 1829 a Thomas Price was living in Bardstown.
In the same year Ambrose Aud was among the Elders of the Cathedral congregation.
In 1820, Dennis Morgan was of the Parish of St. Pius, in Scott County.
John B. Gough, Jr., settled in Scott County and died in 1828, aged 53 years.
Robt. Abell settled in Rolling Fork about 1788. Of him Webb says: "His father, Samuel Abell, a Protestant had been high sheriff of St. Mary's county at a time when a Catholic could not hold office without first taking the test oath, as it was called, which was equivalent to a renunciation of his faith." His son Philip would not swear in as deputy because his mother had raised him a Catholic. The same authority states that Robert Abell before he left Maryland married Margaret Mills.

Rev. J. H. Taylor was a priest at St. Thomas Seminary at Bardstown.
Bennet and Henry S. Greenwell settled in Scott county, Ky., it is supposed about 1786. In the same settlement with them were, James Leak, Thomas C. Jenkins, James, Ignatius, and John B. Gough, Robert and James Combs, Jeremiah and George Tarleton, Thomas and Bernard Worland, and Mrs. Ann James. John B. Gough died in 1869, aged 102 years.

The other names enumerated in Mr. Coad's article were among the Pottinger Creek settlers and are mentioned below.
Philip Lee, who left Maryland in the migration of 1785 was in the habit of keeping a record of passing events. The entries in his record extend to 1755 and continue after his removal to Kentucky. Among the names most frequently mentioned in his diary are Lancaster, Coomes, Brown, Thompson, Smith, Rapier, Cash, Bullock, Hayden and Howard.

Speaking of Hayden, Mr. Webb says: "Of Basil Hayden, the leader in the scheme of Catholic emigration to Kentucky little is now known beyond the fact that his acknowledged influence over his associates was at all times exerted with a view to their interests for time and eternity." Mr. Webb gives the following as the names, with few omissions, of the Pottinger Creek settlers up to the year 1800:

"Basil Hayden, Philip Lee, William Bald, Bernard Cissell, Charles Payne, William Brewer, Leonard Johnson, Henry McAtee, Joseph Clark, Stephen Elliott, James Mollihorne, Henry Norris, Ignatius Cissell, Ignatius Byrne, Randal Hagan, Ignatius Hagan, Jeremiah Brown, Robert Cissell, Ignatius Bowles, Ezekiel Luckett, Stanislaus Melton, Thomas Bowlin, John Baptist Dant, Philip Miles, Harry Hill, John Hutchins, Isaac Thawles, John Spalding, William Mahony, Henry Lucas, William Bowles, John Bowles, James Queen, Bernard Nally, James Stevens, Ignatius French, Washington Boone, Francis Bryan, Jeremiah Wathen, Thomas Mudd, Raphael R. Mudd, Walter Burch, Philip Mattingly, Joseph Spalding, James Dant, Joseph Dant, Urban Speaks, Joseph Edelin, Joseph Howe, Joseph Mills, Harry Mills, Monica Hagan, Rodolphus Norris, Francis Peak.

The first names given are those borne by the twenty-five families of the "Maryland League" that emigrated in 1785.

The James Combs of whom Mr. Coad writes is a son of the late Henry R. Combs and is a cousin of Robt. C. Combs Esq., of Leonardtown. Mr. J. Combs is a veteran of the Mexican war and left St. Mary's for Kentucky in the 50's.

Farmers' Club.
March 30, 1897. The Britton's Neck Farmers' Club met at the residence of Mr. H. M. H. Yates with a quorum present. The proceedings of the last meeting were read and approved. The examining committee made the following report:

We have examined the farm of Mr. Yates and find the stock in good condition, the sheep in particular looking fine, for if there ever was sheep entitled to a medal they are Mr. Yates' sheep and neatly handled; wheat looking well, with the exception of some spots that were attacked by the fly; poultry numerous and looking as if they were not neglected, but we think the poultry house is in need of attention. We find the fencing in good shape; house and surroundings neat and comfortable.

The subject for debate was postponed until the next meeting. The next meeting will be at Mr. G. F. Tension's, with Messrs. J. F. Abell, J. P. Abell and R. F. Woodburn the examining committee.
After partaking of refreshments a vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Yates and his little daughter Violet for the kindness received, the club adjourned, to meet the third Saturday in April.
W. S. DAVIS, Sec. pro tem.

F. O. Morgan has just returned from Baltimore, with stacks of new goods, and they are cheaper than ever before. Call and see him and be convinced.

Confederate Veterans.

Franklin Buchanan Camp, Baltimore, United Confederate Veterans, met and adopted an amendment to its constitution in order to admit of the membership of grandsons of Confederate veterans, the sons of veterans having previously been declared eligible.
The Camp then elected as members Dr. I. Ridgely Trimble, Jr., grandson of Major-General E. Ridgely Trimble, a brigadier-general and major-general in the Army of Northern Virginia, and Felix Robertson Sullivan, Jr., and Kennedy Riddle Owen, grandsons of Admiral Franklin Buchanan, who was a commodore and admiral in the Confederate States Navy and before the war a captain in the United States Navy.

A concurrent resolution was adopted, in conformity with general orders, to change the name of the organization from United Confederate Veterans to Confederate Survivors' Association, and the regulation badge of the U. C. V. was adopted as the emblem instead of the Confederate battle flag. This badge is surrounded by a border of red, upon which there appears the inscription, "U. C. V., 1861-1865," and inclosed within a margin of white in the center appears the battle flag.
Under an amendment to the constitution the color guard for the camp will be selected from the Sons of Veterans, and action was taken changing the age of eligibility of members of the latter organization from 21 to 18 years.

In the absence of Paymaster, James L. Kernan, Adjutant Winfield Peters stated that Capt. Kernan had authorized him to inform the Camp that he was prepared to give at his Auditorium Music Hall, an artistic entertainment for the benefit of the Battle Abbey of the South, or the monument to Admiral Franklin Buchanan. The proposal was referred to the special committee appointed at a previous meeting to arrange a theatrical entertainment for the purposes indicated.

Brigadier General John G. Miller, who is also 1st Lieutenant Commander of the Franklin Buchanan Camp, was present and spoke strongly in advocacy of the monument to Admiral Buchanan.
Major-General George H. Steuart, commanding the Maryland Division, U. C. V., was present and stated that a Camp had been formed at Easton, Md., to embrace the entire Maryland and Delaware peninsula and that the prospects were good for a large and effective Camp. Lieutenant Colonel Winfield Peters of General Steuart's staff, stated that he had been assured by a prominent Confederate in Western Maryland that a Camp could be formed there. Colonel Peters has been charged with the duty of seeing that such a Camp is formed.

Sergeant Major John McWilliams, secretary, stated that a number of members of the Franklin Buchanan Camp have expressed their intention of attending the Annual Reunion of the U. C. V. at Nashville, Tennessee, June 22nd, 23rd and 24th and visiting the Exposition.
It was stated at the meeting and generally understood, that two new U. C. V. Camps would soon be formed in Baltimore. There are now seven Camps in all, in Maryland.

Colonel H. Ashton Ramsay, commander, presided at the meeting. Colonel Ramsay was chief engineer of the Confederate Ram "Merrimac" during her entire career.
