Social Events

Of The Past Week

The Tale of the Tally Card—

When ladies gather 'round and cut a deck
They have to gossip—just a little speck'
And when they do—it pains me much to say
Someone is bound to get it in the neck'

They tell a tale about a recent fest
To which there came a certain guilty guest
Who always won much booty, for she was
A far more lucky player than the rest'

Of Battenberg she had an awful store
"Hand-painted" plates, and jardineres galore,
And other junk she'd won at prices, yet
Wherever she went she always won some more'

At this especial party, just before
The cards were turned in for the final score
She was observed to leave the room a space
Then smilingly again came through the door.

She got the pelt, but someone got a hunch
And it was whispered wade there was at lunch
That she had fixed her tally card herself
By dallying deftly with the stolen "punch"

It would have been alright, of course, you know
She won the prize, and who dared say, "No, no?"
But she had made a trifling, shall mistake
One point too many on her card, to show'

Her luck may be a fickle and fickle jade
And strange indeed may be the tricks she's played,
But never could there be such luck, I ween,
A player who more game than once had been played'

Orchestra Concert—

The second of the series of concerts given by the High School Orchestra was repeated on Tuesday night of this week, as the inclement weather and other attractions resulted in a small attendance last week.

The program as usual was high class in every respect and greatly enjoyed by those who were so fortunate as to hear it.

Girls' Club—

The maidens who constitute this jolly club were most delightfully entertained on Saturday afternoon at the home of Dr. and Mrs. O. E. Brown with Miss Dillon as hostess. Mrs. Lockes followed with another good paper on "Easter Customs Among the Old World Nations." Then a very amusing and enlightening general discussion on the pertinent question, "Should Women Vote?" was indulged in by all present. Of course it goes without saying that the affirmative side won as is perfectly right.

Presbyterian Aid Entertained—

The ladies of this organization who were so fortunate as to be numbered among those who were so delightfully entertained at the hospitable home of Mrs. E. F. Saxon in the suburbs did not regret braving the elements to reach their goal. Cornell in the suburbs. The gentle art of embroidery palling on a number of the votaries of bridge, a few games were indulged in and a most pleasant afternoon was the result.

The afternoon was brought to a most agreeable conclusion with the serving of an elegant and tempting salad course by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Reeder. The members in attendance on the occasion were Mesdames Parsons, Reeder, Hardie Rogers, H. B. Jones, Beeth, Sneddon, Sherwood, Anderson, Mottinger, George and the guest of honor, Mrs. S. S. Mrs. Hinds the lady who had the fill and interest the account of the meeting of the Women's Club State Federation. Mrs. Hinds being a member of the executive board was in a position to become well informed. The officers will hold their offices another year and Albuquerque is the next city to be honored with the Annual Meeting.

The program of the afternoon was then resumed, Mrs. Campbell giving a comprehensive paper on the Civil War Period in New Mexico. Mrs. Dougherty then followed with a sketch of Bent Jacobs and very interestingly reviewed the interesting novel "La Grande Quinzaine." DONE A GOOD JOB
WIFE PAYS HIM $10.00

Seattle, Wash., April 6.—Wanted, a man of brawn, a wife-beater. Ten dollars reward. Easy work. Mrs. B. B. Gillies, 116 Nob Hill avenue.

This advertisement appeared here yesterday and eight men applied for the job. The first applicant was a little fellow, and Mrs. Gillies sent him away. The second, a husky youth, said it would be a pleasure to do the work for $10. Mrs. Gillies engaged him and gave him instructions. Her husband must not be permanently disfigured or disabled, but must be soaked, slapped, kicked and rolled on the floor.

When Robert Burr Gillies, aged 70, superior a waterfront broker, returned home late in the afternoon Mrs. Gillies and the youth were waiting for him. Mrs. Gillies, telling the story today, said her young man's work was so excellent that she compelled him to take the full ten dollars. Gillies could not be seen today.

WOUNDED GENERAL BLANQUET HONORED

Wounded Soldiers In Blood Stained Garments Reach Mexico City—Soldiers in Mutiny

The body of general Gonzalez Salas, ex-minister of war and commander-in-chief of the federal troops in the north, who committed suicide after the defeat of his command at Cerralvo, was returned to Mexico City on a special train last night. The train pulled into the Colonia station at just five minutes after midnight, says the Mexican Herald of Thursday.

Many of the wounded were attired in blood stained garments which they had worn through the fight. These were covered with the dust of the desert, in which the unwilling feet had of [illegible] course. The features of many were blackened with the stain of powder and drawn with pain and suffering.

Seven ambulances and twenty-five automobiles fitted out especially for the purpose were used to transfer the wounded to the military hospital.

Private soldiers were given the attention of officers and men of high rank in the army rushed forward and bore off the cots of private soldiers. Among those were Lieut. Col. del Rio and Major Montalvorio, both of whom were aides to President Diaz.

Demonstration for Blanquet

General Aureliano Blanquet was made the object of a special demonstration as he was borne from the train to a waiting automobile in which he was conveyed to his home in Sa Calle de Aquitania No. 150.

General Angel Garcia Pena, minister of war, received the general on behalf of the cabinet in the absence of the president, who congratulated General Blanquet on his gallantry during the fighting at Cerralvo.

Regiment Mutinies

The majority of the wounded soldiers belonged to the Twenty-first battalion, those being the troops which were made the object of the attack by the soldiers of Mr. Prendell's battalion, which they assaulted while the battle was in progress, and began fighting their own comrades. To this act, the federals attribute their defeat. These included Captains Gilberto de la Huerta, Augustin Aguilar, Louis G. Hernandez and Joaquin Torres. Among the other wounded officers were Lieut. Col. Javier de Mora and Lieut. Zurita of the School of Aeronautics and Lieut. Humberto Bel[illegible] of the artillery.

THE EMPORIUM

Madame Sherry—the musical comedy sensation of New York, which, after six months of unprecedented success and honors attracted the same sensation and attention at the Auditorium Theatre as it comes here next Monday night at the Elks Opera House for an engagement of one night only.

Curiosity concerning what is meant by the magnitude of "Madame Sherry" is to be satisfied, when the Elks Opera House has naturally stirred up much interest to an unusual degree, and every indication is for a phenomenal successful engagement. Managers Woods, Frazee and Lederer have secured a [illegible] company of "Madame Sherry," including such musical comedy favorites as Hugh Chilton, Maude Fealy, Was Cameron, Flo Irwin, Florence Fortune, Lydia Dickson, Virginia Foltz and others, who will be seen in the [illegible] Chas. Dillingham's Knickerbocker Theatre production, and in every detail the performance is a duplicate of the long New York, New Amsterdam Theatre production, and it is coming here with the full unabridged orchestra. Seats are placed on sale at Hix Drug Store.
